It was perhaps two weeks or more later that late one afternoon Ellen stopped at Bill's house to inquire after the welfare of her small emergency patient. The youngster was, his mother assured her, as fit as a fiddle. "When I seen you, holding him, and that terrible tube—" She shuddered and was silent. It was, Ellen agreed, not a pleasant process to watch, but it had done the trick. "We can't never thank you enough," said Mrs. Maloney.

She then said "That's Bill!"

"What's the matter with him?"

"Nothing but cussedness," said Bill's mother. "He's been playing hookey. Starts off to school as gay as you please, butter wouldn't melt in his mouth, with his lunch in his pocket, and a good lunch, too, now that Maloney is working regular, praise be to the saints! But doesn't the truant office come around again, sticking his long nose in the door. "Didn't Maloney strap him good for it? But it's no use talking to him. I thought this wouldn't be lastin', him goin' and comin' so quiet and good, after Mr. Bartlett—a fine man if ever there was one—got after him. I wish he'd git him again," sighed Mrs. Maloney.

"Wait till I see Bill," Ellen threatened. She smiled at the baby. "No, I won't hold him, or come too near," she said, as Mrs. Maloney coaxed her to "feel the solid heft of the rascal." "I go in and out of all sorts of places, you know."

On the way to the door with her caller, Mrs. Maloney said suddenly, "Do you know who's moved in, the next house but one, and has the upstairs? The Fontanas, the young people, she that was an Esposito. You knew her, didn't you? There was talk, around," she went on, dropping her voice, "about her bein' kidnapped, you know, but she came back and was married, and lived with the old folks. Now they've moved in, but Fontana's lost his trucking business or whatever it was. I don't know.

"'Tis a hard world," Mrs. Maloney, said after a pause, and smiled cheerfully while the little boy in her arms laughed aloud, "but you've got to take it as it comes," she philosophically. "Come in again, do," she said to Ellen. "It does a marvel of good just to see you."

Going downstairs Ellen looked at her watch. She would stop and see Gilda, for a minute, ten minutes. If there was anything she could do for her.

The woman who owned the small house directed her upstairs, and sent her husky voice before, as warning. "Hey, Mis' Fontana, there's the nurse here to see you—"

Gilda was waiting for her, smiling. "It was good of you to come. I've been meaning to try to get to see you."

Ellen went with her into the little flat. Two rooms, spotless: two rooms very bright with color, very cheerful. A canary, in a cage. Gilda's sewing. The smell of good soup coming from the tiny kitchen. "It isn't much of a place," said Gilda. "I've tried to fix it up, though."

"It's sweet. Mrs. Maloney told me you were her. Gilda, how are things?"

"All right," said Gilda bravely. "Pasquale, well, he was unlucky, he hadn't much business, he lost the little he had, the truck, I mean."

"But—"

"Oh, it's al right, he's strong, he'll find work; he's out now, looking. But, we thought, we'd save and get another truck and a man to run it, and pretty soon, we'd have a—a fleet or something and be rich," said Gilda. "My brother Mike wanted to help—go shares, Pasquale wouldn't let him, not till he had something to show for it, he said."

"He's good to you?" asked Ellen gently.

Gilda's great eyes were clear and grave.

"Yes, he's good," she said simply, "he does his best. We both do."

She said, a little later, "If you hear of anything—of course he—he isn't trained. But he's strong. He worked on a farm as a boy. I've been teaching him English nights—and other things. He's changed, some, I think," said Gilda, a little proudly.

There was a step on the stair, a man's step. "Perhaps that's Pasquale," said Ellen. But it was not.

The speaker was in the room, a big, young man, dark, very good looking. It was Jim O'Connor.

"He's not here, he's looking for work, Mr. O'Connor," Gilda answered. Her tone was exceedingly hostile. Jim looked at Ellen. That he had been very much taken aback at seeing her on his entrance was apparent. He said awkwardly:

"Hello, didn't expect to see you here—Look here, Gilda, I'll go on, I'm late to an appointment. Tell Pasqua' that I think I have something in mind for him if he'll drop around to the office tonight. I'll be there, working," he said. He turned to Ellen, "I've got the car outside," he said. "Shall I take you somewhere?"

The words were casual; the tone insistent. Too insistent Ellen thought instantly. For some reason he was displeased to find her here; and anxious for her to go. She smiled at him. She said, "Thanks, I think I'll stay here with Gilda for a while."

"It's snowing," said Jim.

"I thought it would. But that doesn't matter, I'm through work but I have to go back to the office," she said, "on my way home."

He nodded, briefly saying to Gilda, "Don't forget to tell Pasqual'—" and left. There was a little silence. Then Gilda, her oval cheeks flaming, burst out, "If only he wouldn't come, if only he'd give Pasquale a chance!" She was twisting her slim olive-tinted hands together in her lap. Pasquale's old-fashioned ring, a broad gold band, stood out against the warm flesh.

"Isn't that what he's going to do?" asked Ellen, puzzled. "I mean Jim has influence down here, lots. In his work he runs into all sorts of people; he might easily find your husband a job."

She remembered asking Jim to have Fontana looked up at the time of the trouble about Gilda. He had kept track of them since. A little wave of warmth, of gratitude, stirred in her heart. That was pretty decent of him.

Gilda was staring at her.

"You don't understand," she said slowly, "I—have you known him long—O'Connor, I mean—?"

"All my life," said Ellen. But her tone was guarded. Something was wrong, terribly wrong. If she made the least false move Gilda would freeze up, would withdraw into herself. But Gilda was crying. Gilda was saying to Ellen, in the last few years had heard so many women say, "I have to tell you, I have to tell some one, it's killing me, I—"

Missionary Society Meeting At Norham

(Examiner Correspondence.)

NORHAM, April 15. — Mrs. Harry Wilson was hostess to the members of the W.M.S. on Tuesday afternoon, at their April meeting.

Mrs. Lorne Evans occupied the chair during the devotional exercises and business part of the meeting.

It was decided that the members of the W.M.S. serve a lunch after the mission band concert, which is staged for May 6.

Mrs. David Evans took charge of the program in the absence of the group leader, Mrs. Norman Gummer.

The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Curtis. Little Fern Wilson sang a solo "Jesus Wants me for a Sunbeam," in a very sweet voice. The second chapter of the Study Book on Korea was explained by Mrs. Wilton. Mrs. D. Evans gave a reading "Living Epistles." The meeting closed with singing "The Morning Light is Breaking," and the Mizpah benediction.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 15 (C.P.). — The Stock Market managed to register substantial gains for the second successive day for the first time in weeks to-day. Some profit-taking appeared in the late trading, and extreme advances were substantially reduced, but net gains of 1 to 2 points were held in such issues as Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Drug Inc., American Can, American Power and Light, Dupont and others. People's Gas again shot up several points, as did various utility preferred issues, notably those of Electric Power and Light. Auburn was a soft spot, off 4. The late tone was firm, nevertheless. Sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—Still in light trading volume, Toronto Stock Exchange market firmed fractionally in the afternoon today, though prices at the close showed a mixture of gains and losses.

Leaders finishing with small gains included Bell Telephone at 93¼, C.P.R. at 15, Nickel at 7, Service Stations at 3½, B. A. Oil above 9, Supertest at 14½. Imperial did better towards the close, though it did not recover fully an initial loss while International Pete showed a higher bid on end.

Walkers was strong throughout, the common rising ½ point, mostly on odd-lot trading, while the preferred remained steady at 9¼. Page Hersey Tubes recovered to 43, then eased to 42½ where it still carried a gain of 1¼ points. Smelters was up a point at 39 and Noranda more than a point higher at 16½. Ford, although firm at 10, still did not quite equal its previous closing.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 15 (C.P.)—Selling was confined to a few individual issues on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market today, general tone of the list showing material improvement under influence of an upward movement in interlisted stocks. Volume, brisk for the first hour, subsided around noon.

Noranda registered the best recovery, price closing up more than $1 on the day. International Nickel gained 50 and other base metals finished above last night. Eldorado opened weak on reports of Senator McRae's proposals of nationalization of radium production, but recovered most of the ground lost. Mining Corporation regained 4 cents.

Lake Shore met better demand and recovered a 55-cent advance, but Dome was off 25 to $9, and Granada and Teck-Hughes displayed smaller losses.

BRIGHTON CONCESSIONS

The sum of £3,770 was realised at Brighton, Eng., at the annual auction of beach trading stands—compared with £4,163 last year — the highest price obtained being £220 for an ice cream stand.

ISSUES FIRM TORONTO LIST THIS MORNING

Although Prices in Some Instances Are Slightly Below Last Night.

OILS IRREGULAR.

Nickel and Smelters Both Unchanged—Brazilian Eases to 9 3-4.

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange market was dull and steady this morning. Prices in some instances were slightly below last night but after the first few minutes trading there were no further recessions and trading dried up.

Oils were irregular with Imperial Oil and International Petroleum below their previous close.

Bell Telephone sold down from its previous close, then firmed again to 93 where it held only a small fraction under last night. Brazilian eased to 9¾, reflecting disappointment that the next dividend will be in stock rather than cash. C. P. R. came out unchanged and moved up a slight amount.

Nickel and Smelters were both unchanged at last night's closing level. Ford of Canada price stabilized at 10, where it was down ¼ point from the previous close.

MUSIC FESTIVAL OPENS ON MONDAY

L. J. Pettit, chairman of the Kiwanis Music Festival Committee, to-day reported that arrangements are practically concluded for the staging of one of the major events of the club, which is to open on Monday noon here.

The Festival has attracted entries from Gananoque on the east to Stratford on the West, and has aroused more than usual interest locally among musicians.

Contests will be conducted in the Conservatory of Music from Monday noon to Tuesday night, to be followed on Wednesday by a concert in Trinity United Church, to be given by the medallists.

Twelve Arrested For Kidnapping

PEORIA, Ill., April 15 (C.P.). — Twelve persons, among them two politicians and two women, were under arrest to-day on formal charges of kidnapping Dr. James W. Parker, wealthy physician, for ransom. A $50,000 bond has been set for each.

Dr. Parker was abducted last month and released 18 days later on April 1, unharmed and without paying a demanded $50,000. A day before this occurred, Attorney Joseph H. Pursifull and Contractor James W. Betson, both prominent in Peoria politics, were seized and the police said they admitted acting as ransome agents for the abductors.

SONNENBERG DISQUALIFIED IN GRAPPLE WITH MALCEWICZ

Forbes Halts Match When Ex-Champion Uses Fist in Toronto Bout.

SCORE ONE FALL EACH.

TORONTO, April 15.—Amid a scene of frenzied action, the Joe Malcewicz-Gus Sonnenberg bout at the Arena Gardens last evening came to an abrupt conclusion when Referee Jack Forbes halted proceedings and disqualified Sonnenberg for punching the Utica heavyweight with his closed fist. The action of the official ended a bout which had developed into a free-for-all battle, but it did not end it for long, Malecicz stepping in with a fierce attack after the decision had been rendered. The fans were milling around the ring, and general disorder threatened, not because the result proved unpopular, but more because few seemed to realize what had happened, and all were keyed up to a high state of excitement and wanted to crowd to a vantage point near the centre of the arena. The announcer could not make himself heard, but soon the word passed around as to just what had happened and why, and the crowd of 8,000 slowly dispersed, excitedly discussing a remarkable bout between two wrestlers of real ability.

Malcewicz and Sonnenberg have now met three times and still neither has shown any decided superiority although the former appared well on his way to victory last night. Sonnenberg had taken the first fall and Malcewicz the second, and eight minutes in the third round progressed before the disqualification was in favor of the Utica Panther. Previously Malcewicz had won their initial bout at Milwaukee and Sonnenberg had been victor in the return match in the same city when Malcewicz's seconds tossed in the towel, much to the wrestler's disgust.

Both Wrestlers Fined

The last couple of minutes proved costly to both wrestlers. The Ontario Athletic Commission fined Sonnenberg two hundred dollars for using his fist in defiance of the referee's warning and penalized Malcewicz to the extent of twenty-five dollars for continuing hostilities after the match had been officially ended.

IRREGULARITY IN MINE STOCKS

Noranda Registers Gain of 40 at $15.60 After Strong Opening.

GENERAL LIST STRONGER.

TORONTO, April 15. (CP)—Reflecting a tone on industrial boards price movements on the Standard stock and mining exchange market showed an irregularly higher tendency in the forenoon to-day. Volume was fairly brisk on the opening but subsided in the second hour.

Noranda displayed some buoyancy and when taken at mid-day showed a gain of 40 at $15.60. International Nickel recovered a quarter to $6.75. Senator McRae's proposals for nationalization of the Great Bear radium deposits resulted in some selling of Eldorado on the opening, but at noon the new low of $4.45 but other higher priced golds were steady, with Dome up 10 at $9.35. Siscoe and Bidgood sold fractionally higher. McLeod River fell a cent or so on announcement of capital reorganization plans. Big Missouri was off a fraction.

POLICE BEATEN

assembled during the parade and at its conclusion ran wild over Queen street. Armed with stones, which authorities said could only have been gathered in such numbers for some time before the outbreak, and fence paling wrenched from property near the city hall, the mob completely outnumbered the police forces, smashed all the shop windows they could reach, and made away with large quantities of property, smashing the street lights and battling for two hours. Not until the marines arrived to help the police and fire departments were the rioters subdued. More than 200 of them were arrested.

SEATS IN N. S. ASSEMBLY BEING REALLOCATED

HALIFAX, April 15.—(CP)—With the advice of Premier Harrington to create single-member constituencies wherever possible, a committee of five will take up the task of reallocating seats in the legislative assembly.

Debate on the premier's resolution to refer the matter of a committee ended yesterday afternoon, and the motion passed, 17-4.

Further increases in the preferential tariff on all apples produced within the British Empire are sought in a resolution, notice of which was given in the legislature by George C. Nowlan, Cons. Kings). The resolution calls on the federal government to stress this request at the forthcoming imperial conference.

KIWANIS HEAR BRICK HISTORY

WIDE RANGE OF DESIGNS.

The evolution of the development and manufacture of building bricks provided the basis of an interesting address by W. Glen of the Cooksville Brick Company, delivered to local Kiwanians at their noon luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Discovered in the valley of the Euphrates over 10,000 years ago through an accident of nature, brick manufacture has now reached a stage of scientific development in which bricks are made in artistic colorings and designs.

Since the year 1880, the speaker remarked, a real and rapid development in brick manufacture had taken place in the United States, and in this regard Canada had also kept in stride.

Giving as one of the reasons why building had slowed up at the present time, Mr. Glen thought that it was not so much a scarcity of money as the fact that money was tied up in bonds, yielding high rates of interest, which made that a better investment than real estate.

The speaker was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of Roy E. Wemp, seconded by President Harry E. Boyle.

President Boyle and Vice-President Dr. E. H. Wood were unanimously chosen as delegates to the International Kiwanis Convention in June. Alternatives are Vern. Morphet and Carl S. Browne.

The booster for the day was Walter Oke, whose merits were capably extolled by Harry C. Huffman.

Obituary

DR. CARMICHAEL BURIED

Remains of Dr. D. N. Carmichael, Peterborough's oldest and longest practising physician, were borne to their final resting place this afternoon at Little Lake Cemetery, following services conducted privately at the family residence and at George Street United Church. Officiating ministers were the Rev. R. Pogue, former pastor of George Street United Church, and by Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, pastor of George Street United Church, of which deceased was a member at the time of his death.

Under Masonic auspices, the service at the church was largely attended by friends of the late Dr. Carmichael, prominent among them being leading members of the medical profession of Peterborough and district.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 15 (C.P.). — The Stock Market managed to register substantial gains for the second successive day for the first time in weeks to-day. Some profit-taking appeared in the late trading, and extreme advances were substantially reduced, but net gains of 1 to 2 points were held in such issues as Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Drug Inc., American Can, American Power and Light, Dupont and others. People's Gas again shot up several points, as did various utility preferred issues, notably those of Electric Power and Light. Auburn was a soft spot, off 4. The late tone was firm, nevertheless. Sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—Still in light trading volume, Toronto Stock Exchange market firmed fractionally in the afternoon today, though prices at the close showed a mixture of gains and losses.

Leaders finishing with small gains included Bell Telephone at 93⅛, C.P.R. at 15, Nickel at 7, Service Stations at 3¼, B. A. Oil above 9, Supertest at 14½. Imperial did better towards the close, though it did not recover fully an initial loss while International Pete showed a higher bid on end.

Walkers was strong throughout, the common rising ½ point, mostly on odd-lot trading, while the preferred remained steady at 9½. Page Hersey Tubes recovered to 43, then eased to 42½ where it still carried a gain of 1¼ points. Smelters was up a point at 39 and Noranda more than a point higher at 16½. Ford, although firm at 10, still did not quite equal its previous closing.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 15 (C.P.)—Selling was confined to a few individual issues on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market today, general tone of the list showing material improvement under influence of an upward movement in interlisted stocks. Volume, brisk for the first hour, subsided around noon.

Noranda registered the best recovery, price closing up more than $1 on the day. International Nickel gained 50 and other base metals finished above last night. Eldorado opened weak on reports of Senator McRae's proposals of nationalization of radium production, but recovered most of the ground lost. Mining Corporation regained 4 cents.

Lake Shore met better demand and recovered a 55-cent advance, but Dome was off 25 to $9, and Granada and Teck-Hughes displayed smaller losses.

BRIGHTON CONCESSIONS

The sum of £3,170 was realised at Brighton, Eng., at the annual auction of beach trading stands—compared with £4,163 last year — the highest price obtained being £220 for an ice cream stand.

HOW BIG ARE ANTS?

Ant hills in Africa are frequently more than 25 feet high.

ISSUES FIRM TORONTO LIST THIS MORNING

Although Prices in Some Instances Are Slightly Below Last Night.

OILS IRREGULAR.

Nickel and Smelters Both Unchanged—Brazilian Eases to 9 3-4.

TORONTO, April 15.—(CP)—Toronto Stock Exchange market was dull and steady this morning. Prices in some instances were slightly below last night but after the first few minutes trading there were no further recessions and trading dried up.

Oils were irregular with Imperial Oil and International Petroleum below their previous close.

Bell Telephone sold down from its previous close, then firmed again to 93 where it held only a small fraction under last night. Brazilian eased to 9¾, reflecting disappointment that the next dividend will be in stock rather than cash. C. P. R. came out unchanged and moved up a slight amount.

Nickel and Smelters were both unchanged at last night's closing level. Ford of Canada price stabilised at 10, where it was down ¼ point from the previous close.

MUSIC FESTIVAL OPENS ON MONDAY

L. J. Pettit, chairman of the Kiwanis Music Festival Committee, to-day reported that arrangements are practically concluded for the staging of one of the major events of the club, which is to open on Monday noon here.

The Festival has attracted entries from Gananoque on the east to Stratford on the West, and has aroused more than usual interest locally among musicians.

Contests will be conducted in the Conservatory of Music from Monday noon to Tuesday night, to be followed on Wednesday by a concert in Trinity United Church, to be given by the medallists.

Twelve Arrested For Kidnapping

PEORIA, Ill., April 15 (C.P.). — Twelve persons, among them two politicians and two women, were under arrest to-day on formal charges of kidnapping Dr. James W. Parker, wealthy physician, for ransom. A $50,000 bond has been set for each.

Dr. Parker was abducted last month and released 18 days later on April 1, unharmed and without paying a demanded $50,000. A day before this occurred, Attorney Joseph H. Pursifull and Contractor James W. Betson, both prominent in Peoria politics, were seized and the police said they admitted acting as ransome agents for the abductors.

SONNENBERG DISQUALIFIED IN GRAPPLE WITH MALCEWICZ

SCORE ONE FALL EACH.

TORONTO, April 15.—Amid a scene of frenzied action, the Joe Malcewicz-Gus Sonnenberg bout at the Arena Gardens last evening came to an abrupt conclusion when Referee Jack Forbes halted proceedings and disqualified Sonnenberg for punching the Utica heavyweight with his closed fist. The action of the official ended a bout which had developed into a free-for-all battle, but it did not end it for long, Malecicz stepping in with a fierce attack after the decision had been rendered. The fans were milling around the ring, and general disorder threatened, not because the result proved unpopular, but more because few seemed to realize what had happened, and all were keyed up to a high state of excitement and wanted to crowd to a vantage point near the centre of the arena. The announcer could not make himself heard, but soon the word passed around as to just what had happened and why, and the crowd of 8,000 slowly dispersed, excitedly discussing a remarkable bout between two wrestlers of real ability.

Malcewicz and Sonnenberg have now met three times and still neither has shown any decided superiority although the former appared well on his way to victory last night. Sonnenberg had taken the first fall and Malcewicz the second, and eight minutes in the third round progressed before the disqualification was in favor of the Utica Panther. Previously Malcewicz had won their initial bout at Milwaukee and Sonnenberg had been victor in the return match in the same city when Malcewicz's seconds tossed in the towel, much to the wrestler's disgust.

Both Wrestlers Fined

The last couple of minutes proved costly to both wrestlers. The Ontario Athletic Commission fined Sonnenberg two hundred dollars for using his fist in defiance of the referee's warning and penalized Malcewicz to the extent of twenty-five dollars for continuing hostilities after the match had been officially ended.

IRREGULARITY IN MINE STOCKS

Noranda Registers Gain of 40 at $15.60 After Strong Opening.

GENERAL LIST STRONGER.

TORONTO, April 15. (CP)—Reflecting a tone on industrial boards price movements on the Standard stock and mining exchange market showed an irregularly higher tendency in the forenoon to-day. Volume was fairly brisk on the opening but subsided in the second hour.

Noranda displayed some buoyancy and when taken at mid-day showed a gain of 40 at $15.60. International Nickel recovered a quarter to $6.75. Senator McRae's proposals for nationalization of the Great Bear radium deposits resulted in some selling of Eldorado on the opening, but at noon the new low of $4.45 but other higher priced golds were steady, with Dome up 10 at $9.35. Siscoe and Bidgood sold fractionally higher. McLeod River fell a cent or so on announcement of capital reorganization plans. Big Missouri was off a fraction.

assembled during the parade and at its conclusion ran wild over Queen street. Armed with stones, which authorities said could only have been gathered in such numbers for some time before the outbreak, and fence paling wrenched from property near the city hall, the mob completely outnumbered the police forces, smashed all the shop windows they could reach, and made away with large quantities of property, smashing the street lights and battling for two hours. Not until the marines arrived to help the police and fire departments were the rioters subdued. More than 200 of them were arrested.

SEATS IN N. S. ASSEMBLY BEING REALLOCATED

HALIFAX, April 15.—(CP)—With the advice of Premier Harrington to create single-member constituencies wherever possible, a committee of five will take up the task of reallocating seats in the legislative assembly.

Debate on the premier's resolution to refer the matter of a committee ended yesterday afternoon, and the motion passed, 17-4.

Further increases in the preferential tariff on all apples produced within the British Empire are sought in a resolution, notice of which was given in the legislature by George C. Nowlan, Cons. Kings). The resolution calls on the federal government to stress this request at the forthcoming imperial conference.

KIWANIS HEAR BRICK HISTORY

WIDE RANGE OF DESIGNS.

The evolution of the development and manufacture of building bricks provided the basis of an interesting address by W. Glen of the Cooksville Brick Company, delivered to local Kiwanians at their noon luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Discovered in the valley of the Euphrates over 10,000 years ago through an accident of nature, brick manufacture has now reached a stage of scientific development in which bricks are made in artistic colorings and designs.

Since the year 1830, the speaker remarked, a real and rapid development in brick manufacture had taken place in the United States, and in this regard Canada had also kept in stride.

Giving as one of the reasons why building had slowed up at the present time, Mr. Glen thought that it was not so much a scarcity of money as the fact that money was tied up in bonds, yielding high rates of interest, which made that a better investment than real estate.

The speaker was tendered a vote of thanks on motion of Roy E. Wemp, seconded by President Harry E. Boyle.

President Boyle and Vice-President Dr. E. H. Wood were unanimously chosen as delegates to the International Kiwanis Convention in June. Alternatives are Vern. Morphet and Carl S. Browne.

The booster for the day was Walter Oke, whose merits were capably extolled by Harry C. Huffman.

Obituary

DR. CARMICHAEL BURIED

Remains of Dr. D. N. Carmichael, Peterborough's oldest and longest practising physician, were borne to their final resting place this afternoon at Little Lake Cemetery, following services conducted privately at the family residence and at George Street United Church. Officiating ministers were the Rev. R. Pogue, former pastor of George Street United Church, and by Rev. J. E. J. Millyard, pastor of George Street United Church, of which deceased was a member at the time of his death.

Under Masonic auspices, the service at the church was largely attended by friends of the late Dr. Carmichael, prominent among them being leading members of the medical profession of Peterborough and district.

PRINCES VISIT POOR SECTIONS

Make Merry Amidst Members of Boys', Men's Clubs on Bethnal Green.

STAY TWO HOURS.

(By Thomas T. Champion C.P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, Apr. 15.—The Prince of Wales and Prince George made a surprise visit late last night among the poorer inhabitants of the capital, spending two hours in the midst of the occupants of men's and boys' clubs in Bethnal Green. In many of these 80 per cent of the men are unemployed.

"I'm glad you have not asked me to sing," the Prince of Wales declared when he found a concert in progress at one place. And when he broke in on a game of darts he remarked, "Now that's a game I never could play." Nevertheless he took a turn with the feathered darts and found the target sufficiently well to beat the club manager and thereby win a package of cigarettes, of a brand that was familiar in the trenches.

Chatting at the club bar the Prince discovered the bartender had served on H.M.S. Hindustan at the time when the Prince was a midshipman.

The Prince has entered for the first time the parliamentary golf handicap open to peers, members of the House of Commons, officials of both houses of Parliament and parliamentary newspapermen.

Havelock

The regular meeting of Havelock Efficiency League was held in the basement of the United Church on Monday evening, when there was an attendance of thirty-three members. The president Miss Roberts presided for the business part of the meeting. This being Missionary night a very interesting program was given, with Mrs. (Rev.) Kemp in the chair. The opening number was a selection by the orchestra "Strangers." Mrs. Bonney took the topic 'The Christian.' Miss Minnie Williams, vocal solo, "Abide with me"; reading, "Living." Miss Robinson; instrumental solo, "Souvenirs," Barbara Fennell; orchestra selection; vocal solo "Light of the world" Mrs. Gordon Denike. Miss Robinson read the lesson from the study book, and the program closed with another selection by the orchestra. Afterwards a contest in which all groups competed, resulted in an all around tie, each group obtaining the same number of points.

A delightful afternoon tea, held in the council chamber under the auspices of the local Women's Institute, was very well attended, considering the inclement weather of Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Huble and Mrs. Lancaster received the guests, and Mrs. I. A. Gould, Miss E. Wright and Mrs. James Wilde waited on the tea tables. Mrs. R. Jones made the delicious tea which was served, with dainty sandwiches and small cakes. The tables looked very attractive, with beautifully embroidered tea covers and cut flowers.

In the evening a progressive card party was held, when seven tables were played. Three tables of euchre were played and the prizes were won by Mrs. Cummings, and Mr. R. McCutcheon and Bernard Bedford were tied, the latter winning the cut. At bridge four tables were played, the honors prizes going to Miss Dorothy Curtis, and Mr. T. P. Lancaster. Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the games.

Warsaw

The members of "The Colonel's Maid," were pleased with their reception at Westwood on Friday evening last, considering the condition of the roads. The prevalence of measles at Westwood also reduced the attendance. They plan to present the play in Warsaw again on April 23, and at Buckhorn on April 26.

The majority are taking in their sap buckets, after a desultory season with a good quality of syrup.

Land is rarely as wet as at present. Everywhere, even on well-drained fields, water lies. Culverts have been washed out more than usual. Several on the Dummer road needed repairs badly, among them the one on Watt's hill. Since these have been repaired the Dummer road is good but many of the other roads are badly torn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jewison of Toronto, accompanied by the Misses Valeta and Cora Drain, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Drain

Six little beginners came to Warsaw school last week.

Sunday school attendances on Sunday were good but the evening church services were not so well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Gardner (Lyall Miller) spent Wednesday with Mrs. Gardner's father and sister.

Prince And Princess Of Norway

A ROYAL CHRISTENING

Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha of Norway, are shown here with their young daughter after her baptism in the castle's chapel in Oslo on March 31. Present at the baptism were King Haakon and Queen Maud of Norway. On Crown Prince Olav's lap is little Princess Ragnhild, the older daughter.

TRAPPING SEASON TO CLOSE APRIL 30

T. P. Lancaster Secures Nine-Day Extension.

Because weather conditions have prevented active operations in regard to muskrat trapping in this district, the season of which was due to close on April 21st, T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A., has succeeded in persuading the Minister of Game and Fisheries, Hon. Charles McCrea, to have an Order-in-Council passed, extending the season until April 30th, or nine days longer than usual.

The trappers, however, will only be allowed five (5) days thereafter to dispose of their catch.

Miss Irene Northey won the ladies' first prize at the euchre party, which was held in Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wilson's home on Thursday evening, with the consolation award going to Jack Mathews. Mr. Walter Lean won the gentlemen's first prize, while Mr. Sam Wilson received the consolation award.

Three Auto Thieves Arrested In Toronto

TORONTO, Apr. 15 (C.P.)—The escapade of three alleged auto thieves, after roaming through two provinces unmolested for five days was ended here yesterday. The three gave their names as Eldon Middlemiss, 16, Toronto; Gordon Campbell, 23, of Woodstock; and Joseph Cuelett, 23, of Montreal.

They were spotted by officers in a Toronto police cruiser, who identified the license number as that of a car reported stolen from Woodstock. After a short chase the police caught them and made the arrests.

They will make the return trip to Woodstock to-day.

FAREWELL SERVICES ARE HELD IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH, TWEED

Rev. W. L. Wright Addresses Large Congregations on Sunday Last.

LEAVING FOR HAMILTON

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 15. — On Sunday, Rev. W. L. Wright, who is about to take up his new duties at Christ's Church Cathedral, Hamilton, preached his farewell sermon to large gatherings at both morning and evening services.

At the morning service he dealt with Rest and Quietness before his parishioners from the surrounding district, who filled the church. He stressed the need of leadership and unity amongst the members of the parish, in order to successfully carry on the work of the church. Only on taking over the responsibility of leadership in God's work, as well as the work in his own commercial sphere, will the individual attain rest of mind and peace for his soul.

At the conclusion of the morning service, he felt that on leaving this parish he had fulfilled his duty in carrying on the leadership and bringing about unity.

Evening Service.

At the evening service, the members of the United Church joined with the members of the Anglican Church, the minister, Rev. E. B. Cooke, having suspended evening services in the former church for the occasion. A special anthem was rendered by the choir.

In the evening, the topic of the morning service was broadened on. After peace and unity had been obtained in the mission of the Church's work, there still was the friendship and unity with the other denominations to maintain.

The friendship and unity of the other denominations, that had been obtained during Rev. Wright's parochial work in the mission, was most forcibly brought out by the large gathering of representatives from the other religious bodies, together with another fellow clergyman, who had gathered under the same roof with them to worship.

Not only is this shown but also that God's work is being carried on with the one end in view, and the same reward.

In concluding his final service he said that although he regretted leaving this vicinity to carry on his duties in a new field, he was also leaving with peace and rest, having carried on the leadership which disciplined him and gave him experience, secondly, having developed unity in church societies and work, and, thirdly, having maintained friendliness and fellowship in the outside denominations.

Never Fails to Heal

OLD SORES

Powerful healing and soothing Peterson's Ointment seldom fails to completely heal an old sore or ulcer. One application immediately stops itching, smarting and pain—the marvelous medication in Peterson's starts right in to heal the infection and soon that old sore is banished for good. If not—it won't cost you one cent.

Eczema, old sores and itching skin can't withstand the powerfully healing influence of Peterson's Ointment and one 50 cents box will prove it. All drug stores.

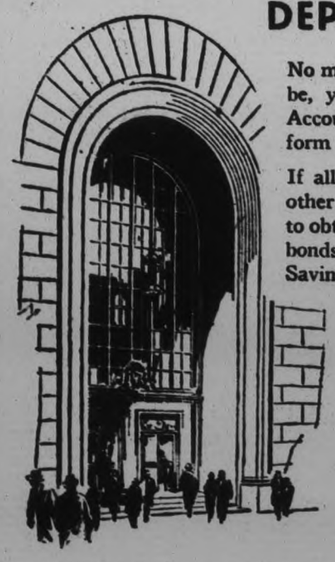
MONEY

IN A SAVINGS ACCOUNT NEVER DEPRECIATES



No matter what your other investments may be, you should keep an adequate Savings Account. It is the most liquid and dependable form of investment you can make.

If all your money is in stocks or bonds or other property, you may have to sell at a loss to obtain cash in an emergency, for even good bonds fluctuate in price. But money in a Savings Account is always ready for use, earns a steady 3% interest—and never depreciates in value.

In any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada your Savings Account will receive capable and courteous attention, whether the amount be large or small.

"Look at All THREE!

BUT DON'T BUY ANY LOW-PRICED CAR UNTIL YOU'VE DRIVEN THE NEW PLYMOUTH WITH FLOATING POWER"

"It is my opinion that any new car without Floating Power is obsolete."

THOUSANDS of people have been waiting expectantly before buying a new car. I hope that you are one of them.

Now that the new low-priced cars are here, I urge you carefully to compare values.

This is the time for you to "shop" and buy wisely. Don't make a deposit on any automobile until you've actually had a demonstration.

It is my opinion that the automobile industry as a whole has never offered such values to the public.

In the New Plymouth we have achieved more than I had ever dared to hope for. If you had told me two years ago that such a big, powerful, beautiful automobile could be sold at the prices we have announced . . . I'd have said it was absolutely impossible.

I have spent my life building fine cars. But no achievement in my career has given me the deep-down satisfaction that I derive from the value you get in this 1932 Plymouth. To me, its outstanding feature is Floating Power. We already know how the public feels about this. Last summer it was news, but today it is an established engineering achievement.

A STATEMENT BY WALTER P. CHRYSLER

It is my opinion, and I think that of leading engineering authorities, that any new car without Floating Power is obsolete. Drive a Plymouth with Floating Power, and note its utter lack of vibration . . . then drive a car with old-fashioned engine mountings and you will understand what I mean. There's absolutely no comparison.

We have made the Plymouth a much larger automobile. It is a BIG car. We have increased its power, lengthened the wheelbase and greatly improved its beauty.

In my opinion you will find the New Plymouth the easiest riding car you have ever driven.

Again let me urge you, go and see the New Plymouth with Floating Power. Be sure to look at all THREE low-priced cars and don't buy any until you do. That is the way to get the most for your money.

CAUSE OF DEPRESSION IS LAID AT DOOR OF HIGH FINANCES

world. The world was at the crossroads and depending upon the success or otherwise of the conference. The British nations faced two alternatives. The first was adoption of the economic laws as laid down in Holy Scripture or Bolschevism.

Anticipating success for the conference, he believed that a new system of currency would evolve for the Celto-Anglo-Saxon races; a standard of currency for trade within the Empire which would make it necessary for any country outside of the Empire to trade in that currency and on terms of the Empire's making.

To bring about such a result would, he believed, require all the statesmanship of the Empire's leaders. Attempts would be made to break up the conference. Present indications gave reason to believe that the attempt would emanate from DeValera, president of the Irish Free State.

At the outset Mr. Breffitt explained he was going to speak his mind regardless of whom he hurt, but he wished it to be understood that his remarks were entirely impersonal.

Political Ideas Old.

Touching upon the political situation, he stated: "I heard the same old guff from the political platform thirty years ago as we hear to-day. When are we going to quit talking politics and start talking common sense. Politics have bedamned and bedevilled everything from Halifax to Vancouver."

Pointing out that there are 305,000 families in the Dominion in dire need and distress, he remarked that it was a condition that would not even be allowed to exist among savage tribes. Every merchant has food or clothing to sell, he stated, yet there are many people who cannot buy necessities because they have no money.

"Such a condition is the outcome of a rotten economic system based on gold. Gold is a false standard, grossly unjust and against the laws of God. Any system by which any group of men in the world can corner wealth and bring honest, industrious workers to a state of want and woe is a system that is not in accordance with the laws of God," he exclaimed.

U. S. Millions Idle.

He went on to state that at the end of February this year the United States had 36 per cent. of all the gold in the world. France had 30 per cent. of the gold and England had 5 per cent. In the United States to-day there are eight and a half million men walking the streets with nothing to do.

"The Minister of Finance at Ottawa has said 'the present trouble in the world is due to a scarcity of gold.' It's a lie," Mr. Breffitt said.

Remarking that there was a movement afoot to replace Britain on the gold standard, the speaker stated: "If Britain is foolish enough to be placed back on the gold standard by a bunch of scoundrels, well enough."

To emphasize the strength of his statements, he remarked: "The financial system that governs the world to-day is the rottenest system that ever controlled the destiny of the human family. The financial corporations of America have got the people in a death grip. We are threatened with strangulation if we don't wake up."

People to-day were asking the why and wherefore of conditions, but they were not going to the right source for their information, he contended.

Displaying a Bible, he said in it were to be found all the laws for right living.

delicate mechanism of exchange cripped by arbitrary control, barter between Governments supplanting the effort of individual traders, foodstuffs being redundant because the consuming power of millions of people has either been frustrated or paralyzed."

NEWFOUNDLAND TO GO TO POLLS

Government Party Decides to Wind Up Business as Quickly as Possible.

HOUSE OPENS APRIL 19.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 15 (C.P.)—Newfoundland's tangled political skein will be thrown to the electorate to be unravelled.

Following a government party caucus Wednesday it was announced the business of the present legislature would be despatched as quickly as possible to make way for a general election.

Prime Minister Sir Richard Squires will lead the government forces, but he will be without the services of several of his present Ministers.

Sir William Coaker, minister without portfolio; W. W. Halfyard, Ministers of Posts, and Hon. Dr. Arthur Barnesn, Secretary of State, will retire from public life after dissolution of the House. It now appears that only three members who were with the Prime Minister at the inception of the government in 1928 will enter the coming campaign—Hon. Dr. Alexander Campbell, Hon. F. G. Bradley and Sir Tasker Cook, all ministers without portfolio.

Three Resigned

Hon. Peter Cashin, former Minister of Finance and Customs, and Hon. P. J. Lewis and Hon. H. M. Mosdel, ministers without portfolio, resigned recently after disagreement with the Prime Minister.

Hon. Peter Cashin charged the Prime Minister with falsifying minutes of executive council to convert public money to political account, and a parade of citizens who demanded "proper investigation" of this charge led to riots last week, when the colonial building was damaged, a session of the legislature broken up, and the Prime Minister forced to flee the city.

All is quiet in the city now, and H.M.S. Dragon, a light cruiser of the Royal Navy rushed to St. John's from Bermuda during the disorders, is lying in the harbor here.

The legislature will be reopened on Tuesday, April 19.

INTERFERENCE

Two Choices

The attitude of the average man so far as the Free State is concerned is rather that if all negotiations fail then Mr. de Valera should be given the choice of either frankly remaining in the British Commonwealth or getting out—and taking the consequences. Ireland is no longer the political shuttlecock it was in the days of Gladstone and "home rule." Britain is more concerned with lifting herself out of the world slump.

And in this she has already made an important advance. Next Tuesday's Budget will reveal her as one great nation not only with a surplus for the year just closed, but with such prospective surplus in the fiscal year just opened as will enable the Chancellor of the Exchequer to reduce taxation. The growth of unemployment, more severe in 1931 than in any year since records were kept, has been arrested. While the heavy industries and shipbuilding continue depressed, some of the lighter industries are comparatively prosperous.

Cotton Trade Reviving.

The cotton trade is reviving. The British Steel Association, the export selling agent for about 90 per cent. of United Kingdom production, is finding a market in Canada for heavy steel plate sections — until 1928 such Canadian requirements were met almost entirely by United States mills.

Yet while British industry slowly revives, it is repeatedly emphasized by business and financial men here there can be no effective recovery until the barriers in the way of international trade are lowered.

Lord Revelstoke a world authority on finance and economics, in a trade survey, dramatically pictures the world writhing in a purgatory of its own making. "International commerce is reduced to a trickle, losing its way in the bogs and the quicksands,' he says. "We see the delicate mechanism of exchange

MUSKRAT SEASON EXTENDED 9 DAYS

Unfavorable Weather Conditions Has Hampered the Trapping so Far.

LINDSAY, April 15.—(Examiner Correspondence).—W. W. Staples, M.P.P., South Victoria, gladdened the hearts of muskrat trappers in this district yesterday with the announcement that the season had been extended nine days and will close on April 30th. Trappers have been greatly discouraged during the opening because of unfavorable weather, and last night's frost nearly forced them to quit. The Dunsford Fur Farm on Emily Creek reported the capture of one hundred rats on the opening day.

Motorists will be glad to learn that work is being rushed on the detour on the Peterborough-Lindsay Highway south of the town, and which has been closed for the past couple of days. The Highways Department has a number of men with teams engaged hauling gravel from the Omemee Hill pit, and it is expected that with three or four days of good weather the stretch will be made passable.

The sudden death took place at Hamilton on Wednesday of Mrs. C. G. McIlhargey, a former well known resident of Lindsay. She is survived by one brother, George Moloney, town.

Mrs. George Martin of Fenelon Falls celebrated the eighty-third anniversary of her birth during the week end. She was srupprised by a number of her friends who gathered at her home and presented her with a silver service.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Buckley of Paris suffered the loss of their daughter, Mary, the only child, whose death took place in Toronto Wednesday. Mrs. Buckley was formerly Miss Mary O'Brien of Peterborough.

De Laval Night Is Held In the Y.M.C.A.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Roper the splendid new building and its equipment was placed at the disposal of DeLaval and a program for the evening mapped out. Over one hundred members of the DeLaval staff, wives and friends gathered there around the hour of eight o'clock and from then on up to about midnight merriment prevailed.

There was entertainment and fun for everybody, of various kinds and in various rooms. A match game of basketball was under way the first of the evening. Later some of the DeLaval men and their ladies took the floor of the gymnasium and indulged in group games with D. A. Loomis and the "Y" staff as instructor.

Down at the pool eight young men gave a swimming and diving exhibition. One of the features of the evening was a swimming exhibition put on by the following young ladies: Jean Macenomy, Zoe Gibbon, Kay Lawrence, Mary Kingsbury, Hazel Bradley, Margaret Pitchford, Phyllis Lawrence and Margaret Wyllie.

In the bowling alleys some twenty or twenyt-five men disported themselves. Owing to the thickness of the walls none of the balls went into the street and some even stayed in the proper alleys. Perhaps what drew the greatest amount of attention and gave the most enjoyment was the old fashioned square dancing. The music for this was furnished by William Conroy with his violin while his daughter Miss Marcella presided at the piano. The "calling" was done by "Happy" O'Toole and he did it in an exceptionally happy manner. Then there were the eats, they were good, numerous and abundant.

After refreshments F. Carney took the piano and community singing held sway until eleven thirty winding up with Auld Lang Syne. A hearty expression of thanks was tendered Mr. Roper and his assistants for the enjoyable evening made possibly by their courtesy. The party broke up after singing God Save the King. It was an evening long to be remembered.

Devotional Meeting St. John's Society

The April devotional and business meeting of St. John's W. A. was held in the Parish House on Tuesday, April 12. The devotions were taken by Dr. R. C. Blagrave and all reports of the different branches were given satisfactorily.

Discussion arose as to when the annual Indian school bale should be exhibited, and it was decided that it should be shown next Tuesday, April 19th, when afternoon tea would be served, together with a sale of home cooking.

Delegates were chosen for the annual convention to be held in Toronto in May, those chosen being the secretary, Mrs. Cooper, and Mrs. D. Eldred, and Mrs. Sherwood and Mrs. Cuffe allowing their names to stand as substitutes.

Correspondence and Board notes took up the rest of the afternoon session, following which a dainty tea was served by Mrs. Eldred and her refreshment committee.

Smith's Attack on Roosevelt Drives Wedge in Democratic Party.

CUTS GOVERNOR'S CHANCE

(By Ken Clark, C.P. Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, April 15.—President Hoover's chances of re-election in November have materially improved with the appearance to-day of a widening split in the Democratic party.

No matter what Democratic interpretation may be placed upon denunciation of the leading Democratic candidate, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, by Alfred E. Smith on Wednesday, and there are several schools of thought, it is clear from the comment of leaders and the press Roosevelt's chances are diminished.

Essentially what the redoubtable "Al," with some return of the personal fire and magnetism displayed in 1928, did was to accuse Roosevelt of being a demagogue, setting class against class. He said he would take off his "coat and vest" to defeat him.

Smith's Wedge

Positively he proposed a moratorium on war debts and a reduction on tariff. In short, he drove a wedge into the democrats by setting forth in round periods the program of Democratic big business and incidentally Republican big business. By pointing out Roosevelt's speech of several days ago was a general harangue and an appeal to the disgruntled vote, he took from the Governor considerable support in New York and the East.

On the other hand the arithmetical odds are still heavily with Roosevelt for the nomination. if he can hold the South and get the West, he can get the job. Smith's proposals for a twenty-year war debt moratorium laid him open to effective attack by Rooseveltians throughout the country.

The consensus in Washington today is a party divided on economic policy and into which now enters the religious issues, can not hope to defeat the vigorous solidity of the Republicans behind the man presently in the White House.

Marmora

Mrs. Hamilton Crawford is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Marvin of Trenton visited Mrs. C. Dunlay this week.

Harvey Jackson, who has been playing so well for the Maple Leafs this past season, is a grandson of Mr. Thomas Jackon of this village.

Owing to the heavy rains flooding the low lands adjacent to Crowe River, the spur line running into Marmora from the "Y" is also inundated to the extent that the C.N.R. freight train has been unable to make its calls this week. Freight billed for the village has had to be unloaded at Marmora C.N.R. station instead.

The rural mail carrier had to deliver the mail on foot Wednesday along the McArthur line owing to road conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lobb of Norwood was a recent visitor with Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson.

Miss Violet Chaplin has gone to Campbellford where she has accepted a position.

The following attended the quilting held at St. John's Church, under the auspices of the Parish Guild, Havelock, Thursday afternoon, were Mrs. H. Rofiche, Mrs. Covert, Mrs. Davies, Mrs. H. J. Bush, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. J. Leask, Mrs. Frank Watson, Mrs. T. P. Lancaster of Havelock; Mrs. James Cook and Miss B. French of Trent River. Mrs. Frank Watson was the hostess for the lunch.

Rehearsals are in full swing for the play, "The Littlest Bridesmaid," under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church Parish, Havelock, to be held Friday, April 29.

The trappers are not as successful as in former years; the price this week is 80 cents.

JAPANESE DO NOT BLAME REDS FOR TRAIN WRECK

TOKYO, April 15 (C.P.).—In official quarters here to-day it was intimated that the Japanese Government at present believes that Soviet Russia was in no way responsible for the train wreck at Harbin, Manchuria, this week, in which fourteen Japanese soldiers were killed and a number injured.

Although the cause of the wreck was still unknown, the belief prevailed that the perpetrators were probably "white" Russians who hoped to embroil Japan with the Soviets, or else Chinese followers of Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang.

Despatches to local newspapers from Harbin said Julius Rudy, Soviet general manager of the Chinese Eastern Railway, had proposed a joint investigation of the wreck by Soviet and Japanese authorities and that the Japanese agreed to this proposal.

NAVAL PICKETS CHARGE AS MOB RENEWS RIOTS

AUCKLAND, N.Z., April 15. — (AP)—Naval pickets and special police charged a mob when rioting was renewed in the shopping district here to-day.

A number of additional shop windows were smashed. Insurance premiums on plate glass rose 50 percent following yesterday's riots and fire insurance coverage was practically not obtainable owing to prohibitive rates demanded by companies who were asking a premium of 1,000 percent above normal.

MANKIND CAN BANISH WAR IS FAITH OF JANE ADAMS

Satisfied Over Disapproval Provoked by Actions of Japan.

GOING TO EUROPE.

CHICAGO, April 15 (Special to The Examiner).—An abiding faith in mankind's ability to banish all war was expressed by Miss Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, when she returned to Chicago after an absence of four months.

Miss Addams, recently recovered from serious illness in a Baltimore hospital, was honored jointly with Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University by the award of the Nobel Prize for the advancement of Peace.

Miss Addams told her old friends here that she was satisfied over the disapproval provoked by the actions of Japan.

"However," she said, "Japan should have its day in court, for the nations that have cried out the loudest against Japan have been equally guilty of aggression.

"What has happened in China and Manchuria, is of course, disappointing in relation to the League of Nations."

Miss Addams declared Japan probably hoped to do in Manchuria and Shanghai what the United States did in Mexico, Haiti and Nicaragua.

"In China, where there is a general in every province who wants to make himself master of the situation, it must be provoking for such people as the Japanese," she said.

Her health permitting, Miss Addams will attend several international gatherings in Europe this spring and summer. She is scheduled to speak in Oslo, Norway, along with Dr. Butler, in response to their receipt of the Nobel prize.

A lion cub, donated to an unemployed relief committee in England, has been returned to the donor the committee explaining it could find no use for the animal.

QUEEN MARY VISITS SHOPPING BAZAAR

Buys Two Bags at Fifty Cents Each — Studies Conditions.

By BETTY TWIST

LONDON, April 15.—(Special to The Examiner).—Social work, especially among women and children, is one of the Queen's interests. Her desire to obtain an insight into the shopping conditions of the poor, combined with her determination to encourage British buying among all classes, would explain her visit to one of the big bazaars in central London where the women of the working classes can purchase most of the necessary domestic articles for the modest sum of 12 cents. A fur-coated customer at the crowded counters, though not entirely unknown, always creates a sensation But the people around could not believe their eyes when they saw the Queen, accompanied by an equerry and a lady-in-waiting, walk into the bazaar. Moreover, she had not come solely to inspect. She had come to buy.

Mothers with perambulators, mothers clutching small children by the hand, shop girls and typists all gazed with amazement and gratification as the Queen passed from counter to counter, making one purchase after another in their very own shop.

She called her first halt in the leathercraft section where she pointed out a blue handbag with the comment, "That is my favorite blue," and straightway she ordered two of them, paying half-a-dollar for each. For 25 cents she acquired a willow pattern teapot and for the same price a jigsaw map of England. She purchased an Axminster rug which cost $1.10 and a substantial large print Bible for 50 cents. But her great bargain was a shagreen china sets of 21 pieces at $1.50.

MRS. J. A. LEGROS WINS STOVE AT EXAMINER COOKING SCHOOL HOUSE CROWDED ON LAST DAY

Draw for the Big Prizes Made on Last Day of School.

SCHOOL BIG SUCCESS.

Mrs. J. H. Forsyth Wins Cabinet of Silver Donated by Schneiders.

The combination of three times three, the mystic numeral, was a lucky one yesterday afternoon for Mrs. J. A. Legros, of 352 Mark street, winner of the grand prize, with ticket No. 3353, at the concluding session of the Peterborough School of Cooking and Home Economics, conducted during the past three days at the Grand Opera House.

About thirteen hundred and ninety-nine other women in the city heaved a tense sigh when the number was announced by Arthur Wells, representative of the Canadian General Electric Company, after the prize-winning slip had been drawn by James Matthews of the Sunshine Dairy, following a very thorough churning in an electric washer of the coupons collected through the three days of the demonstration.

After standing in line from 11.30 in the morning, ladies packed the big Opera House to capacity with fourteen hundred women yesterday afternoon, while several ladies sat in the wings, which proved to be fairly lucky for late-covers, as Mrs. R. Sheehy on one side and Mrs. P. Black on the other were named as winners of premium baskets, which were especially well filled for the concluding session.

The school, which was sponsored by The Examiner, saw a demonstration of electrical products of the Canadian General Electric Company in the automatic and non-automatic electric ranges, the electric refrigerators, the electric washer and the electric radio on view.

The winner of the grand prize, which was donated through the generosity of three local dealers in C.G.E. products—Grant & Thorpe, the Watson Tire and Radio Company and W. Gordon Hall—had the choice of an electric range, radio or washer. Mrs. Legros chose the range. After the announcement, she appeared on the stage, but was too overjoyed to do more than convey murmured thanks for the unexpected award.

Cabinet of Silver.

The cabinet of silver, valued at $35, which, through the generosity of Schneider Brothers, jewelers, formed the second major award, was won by Mrs. J. H. Forsyth, of 711 Bethune street, with another ticket including lucky numbers, 3732. Messrs. Schneider Brothers were especially generous for this demonstration, presenting, besides the cabinet of silver in Lady Hamilton pattern, three silver jelly spoons on each of the three days of the school, also decorating the stage with beautiful vases and the table with handsome china and silverware in the Deauville pattern

A case of Lux, given by Lever Brothers, Limited, went to Mrs. B Mahood of R. R. No. 4; a case of 24 packages of Rinso, from the same firm, was won by Miss Flynn of McDonnel street; a 98-pound bag of flour, given by the Quaker Oats Company, was won by Mrs. Stanger of 201 Murray street; a 20-pound pail of Rose Brand lard from the Canadian Packing Company, was won by Mrs. Thompson of 190 Charlotte street, and the kitchen cabinet with paper towel refills, from the E. B. Eddy Company, went to Mrs. Pearson of 508 Rubidge street.

The flowers given by D. Jordan were won yesterday by Mrs. W Devlin of Indian River; two cakes from Hooper's went to Mrs. D Munro of 261 Hunter street west, and Mrs. S. Perry of Mark street won the cleaning order from Lansfield's. The three silver jelly spoons from Schneider Brothers were won by Mrs. J. J. Duffus, Reid street; Miss Wilson, 592 George street, and Mrs. Williams of 698 Elgome Crescent.

Mrs. A. Dugan of Rutherford street won the choice of cooking yesterday, this being her second prize within the week. She won a premium bag on Tuesday afternoon.

Other double prize-winning ladies who took home two premium bags with lucky draw tickets during the three-day session were Mrs. Collins of 178 Douro street, Mrs. K. Gosselin of 269 Perry street and Mrs. H. Killingbeck of 278 Braidwood avenue.

The premium bags yesterday, numbering twenty-six, were won as follows:

Mrs. Cavanagh of 210 Prince street, Mrs. Cox of 188 Douro street, Mrs. J. C. Smith of 533 Chamberlain street, Mrs. R. Sheehy of George street, Mrs. O'Leary of Indian River, Mrs. Wilson of 38 Lafayette avenue, Mrs. Patterson of R. R. No. 5, Mrs. Madden of 294 Burnham street, Mrs. J. A. District Prize-Winners.

Ladies from the district, as well as the city, shared yesterday in the prizes, Mrs. B. Mahood of R. R. No 4 getting the case of Lux; Mrs. W. Devlin and Mrs. O'Leary of Indian River drawing premium bags, while two ladies from R. R. No. 5, Mrs Evans and Mrs. Patterson, also won the well-filled bags.

The prizes yesterday were drawn for by James H. Matthews of the Sunshine Dairy, and announced by R. M. Glover, who took occasion, in a brief speech, to thank all who by their co-operation and interest had made the three-day school such a decided success. Mr. Glover thanked the ladies for their attendance and rapt interest in the proceedings; the merchants and manufacturers who donated prizes; the teachers and students of the domestic science classes of the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute and Miss Alberta Frost and Miss Margaret Patoine, pupils of the Vocational School, who assisted Miss Thompson.

Mr. Glover extended special thanks to Miss Thompson, "the cultured and talented young lady who has conducted this school in such an able and practical manner Miss Thompson's appearance here is due entirely to the co-operation and generosity of the Canadian General Electric Company and the dealers in the company's products It is well-known that she is regarded very highly by the officials of the company, both in Canada and in the United States."

Mr. Glover said that The Examiner would continue to conduct these cooking schools, with such changes and alterations from time to time as may be deemed necessary, "as long as the public gives us support in an enterprise which is honestly and fairly conducted."

Miss Thompson spoke briefly thanking the ladies and all who had helped to make the school such a success, saying that the local effort was one of the very best in her experience, and expressing appreciation of the efforts of Mr. Glover and The Examiner.

Miss Thompson was introduced to her audience yesterday afternoon by J. R. Marshall, who spoke eloquently and to the point of the advantages to be derived from such efforts in home-making.

Special Menu.

The program included the making of chocolate ice-box cookies, open corn sandwiches, carrot and cabbage salad, date cream pie and frozen fruit salad, as well as a demonstration of meat cookery by electricity, tea and coffee making, and Philadelphia ice cream.

The open corn sandwiches were slices of hot toast covered with a mixture of piping hot corn, tomato juice, cornstarch and butter, flavored with onion.

For the date cream pie, which like the recipes of other days, will appear in The Examiner, the meringue had a touch of surprise for the audience, as Miss Thompson combined baking powder in its manufacture, using for the meringue 4 egg whites, 2 tablespoons of sugar, a few grains of salt and a level teaspoonful of baking powder The secret of a successful meringue said the demonstrator, was in absolutely stiffly beaten egg whites.

The frozen fruit salad was a particularly delicious-looking dessert that included cottage cheese, shredded pineapple, cooked salad dressing, whipped cream, maraschino cherries, green peppers and pecan nuts, all frozen for about two hours, then served on lettuce leaves.

A chicken was roasted yesterday afternoon, the resulting finely cooked bird being presented by Miss Thompson to Mr. Glover as a mark of appreciation of his services.

The demonstration of tea, from a special blend compounded by the Porter S. White Stores, was very interesting, showing the manner in which the brew, after standing for three minutes, was strained into another teapot, thus obviating any danger of tanning from the leaves.

W. J. Packham, field supervisor for the Canadian General Electric Company, was present yesterday afternoon and made a brief speech, speaking of the excellence of the school. The Examiner's co-operation and also holding out a promise of possible further prizes for those attending, with notification through the mails.

The fashion parade, conducted by the Canadian Department Stores, which has been a feature of the three-day school, was repeated yesterday afternoon, with a fifth mannequin, Miss Maisie Collins, added to the list of those already mentioned: the Misses Fanny Doris, Marcelle Garvey, Lillian Grierson and Minnie Ebbs.

Excellent service in the conduct of affairs was given by members of the Opera House stage staff: T. Stenton, M. Morgan and P. Adamson.

J. R. Marshall, speaking in introduction of Miss Thompson at yesterday's concluding session of the Cooking School, stressed the fact that the Chamber of Commerce is anxious to further activities of this and every other type that have to do with the community welfare of the city. He also said that the Chamber of Commerce appreciates the efforts that are being made in these ways and invites citizens to take advantage of its facilities at any time.

The rooms were bright with green ferns and the lighted grate fire, and the table was a picture of lovely color, its long expanse covered with cloths of antique filet lace, it had two large baskets of pierced silver that were filled with overflowing blossoms; pink roses, pink and mauve sweet peas, cream, pink and mauve stocks and the delicate fronds of pale pink clarkia. Sweet peas and clarkia were in the six silver specimens vases that adorned either side, while the centerpiece, a large silver tripod-shaped candelabrum, held lighted candles, the central one of rose pink flanked by mauve candles. Massive silver services and little green sweetmeat dishes completed a beautiful color effect. On the mantlepiece were lighted cream candles on either side of a bowl of flowers while tall green tapers in silver holders flanked the hue basket of flowers in the same delicate hues, that decorated the piano. The ladies were received by the president of the League, by Mrs R. H. Parsons, and Mrs. T. H. Glover, and were ushered to the tea room by Mrs. Agnes Smith. Tea was poured by Mrs. James Gillespie and Mrs. T. H. Adams. Assistants who helped in various ways to see that the service was carried out with despatch, were Mr. A. S. Couper, Mrs. T. N. D. "From labor to refreshment" was the watchword of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church choir last evening. Practice was in progress from eight to nine o'clock—the following hour was crowded with joy and mirth. The event was the annual "fish and chips" banquet, an informal affair attended by about eighty choristers and friends, members of the recent "Pirates of Penzance" presentation. The tasty viands having been proven to the satisfaction of "all hands," a short program of speeches (two minutes only was the allowance to each speaker) was "put across" by the following gentlemen, with a word or two and the proverbial "that reminds me of the story—": Messrs. John Hill, Hurrell Dodds, Harry Morgan, J. W. Anderson, C. M. Lawrence, and M. B. Chenhall, the esteemed choirmaster. Vocal solos by Misses Helen Veitch and Phyllis Rome, and "Pirates of Penzance" selections by Messrs. George Coleman, Jr., Stanley Willis, Harold Coulson, and Misses Mary Sedgewick and Jessie Pattison, and the Policemen under Sergt. George East, were hailed with pleasure, Mr. Martin B. Chenhall at the piano; and community songs brightened the atmosphere at the lunch table. To the social committee—Messrs. Adam Sands, George East ,and George Coleman, Jr., and Mesdames M. B. Chenhall, George East, and John Anderson—a vote of thanks was extended; and "Auld Lang Syne" concluded yet another night with "hailsome, farin'" by St. Paul's Church choir.

Recipes Used By Miss Frances Thompson At The Examiner's Homemakers' School

Chocolate Layer Cake.

½ cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1¼ cup milk, 1 teasp. vanilla, 2 cups flour, 3 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. soda.

Beat shortening and sugar to a cream. Stir in egg yolks, melted chocolate and vanilla. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda, and add to mixture alternately with milk. Cut in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in two layer pans at 350 degrees.

Refrigerator Frosting.

2½ cups sugar, ½ cup light corn syrup, 1 teasp. vanilla, ½ cup water, 2 egg whites.

Cook sugar, syrup and water until it forms a firm ball when tested in cold water. Pour slowly over beaten egg whites, beating constantly until it will hold its shape. Add flavoring. This frosing may be put into tightly covered jar and kept in refrigerator for several days.

Maple Mousse.

4 eggs, 1 cup maple syrup, 1 pint cream, ½ teasp. salt.

Separate eggs. Beat yolks till light, add salt and syrup. Cook till very thick, stirring often. Cool and chill. Whip cream till stiff and beat egg whites till very stiff. Fold egg whites into cream, then add first mixture. Freeze without stirring (can be left in super-freezer indefinitely without becoming icy). Serves 12.

Ginger Ale Fruit Salad.

2 tablesp. gelatin, ½ cup boiling water, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 tablesp. sugar, ¼ cup chopped nuts, 1 cup ginger ale, 1 cup grapes, 1 banana, 1 apple, 2 oranges.

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add lemon juice, sugar and ginger ale. Cut grapes in halves and remove seeds. Slice banana. Peel and chop apple. Separate oranges into sections. When ginger ale mixture begins to thicken, fold in fruit and nuts. Turn into moulds and chill. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with whiped cream.

Fish Salad.

2 cups cooked flaked fish, 2 cups cooked macaroni, ½ cup celery, ¾ cup chopped green peppers, ½ cup chopped pimentos. Mayonnaise. Salt and pepper to taste.

Put all ingredients together and add enough mayonnaise to hold. Serve on lettuce leaf and garnish with slices of egg and paprika.

Cheese Fancies.

Cut small squares or triangles of bread about ½ inch in thickness. Mix soft cream cheese to a paste by combining it with salad dressing and spread top and edges of bread with this mixture. Place small piece of uncooked bacon on top of each piece, then bake in hot oven long enough to brown cheese and crisp the bacon. Serve at once.

Rheumatism Goes

Swollen Joints Vanish

How To End Rheumatism In Less Than A Week

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflammed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now. All druggists sell it with guarantee.

RU-MA acts on the blood, stomach, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of crippling stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have, or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must completely end all rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

St. George's Society Holds April Meet

Mrs. J. L. Hughes entertained members of the Senior Branch of the W.A. of St. George's at the Rectory on Tuesday afternoon for their anniversary meeting. Despite the very inclement weather, there was a good attendance. Owing to the recent visit of Miss Hawkins of Japan, there was no out-of-town speaker, as one former occasions. The rector had kindly consented to give the address, and based his remarks on the words, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold, them also I must bring, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd" (St. John 10). The broad outlook of missionary work was emphasized, and the address was much enjoyed.

Mrs. James Howard contributed a vocal solo, "Can the world see Jesus in you," her sweet singing being much appreciated.

The treasurer's report showed a favorable financial balance in hand. Reference was made to the beautiful dossal curtain in church, the gift of the W.A. The junior superintendent reported eighteen sets of papers on the junior missionary study sent up for examination to Toronto, and one pupil had taken the oral test. She also referred to the Junior W.A. banner placed in church on Easter Day. The ladies decided to leave the working of the bale over until the fall, though a number of gifts for the bale were promised.

The next monthly meeting will be held on the third Tuesday in May instead of the second, owing to the annual meetings in Toronto during the second week. It was decided to extend an invitation to members of St. Mark's branch, Otonabee, to attend the May meeting. Reports of the annual meetings will be given and business pertaining to the forthcoming Deanery meeting in the fall will be discussed.

At the close of the meeting afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

POST OFFICE FOR WINDSOR.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox!

An important feature of home life is that known as hospitality or entertainment.

* * * * * * *

For the welfare of the family there should be interchange of ideas with those outside the home circle, social intercourse with congenial minds, and entertainment.

* * * * * * *

The woman who allows herself to be so engrossed with the routine of work that she has no energy nor time for pleasures and recreation grows narrow and discontented.

* * * * * * *

Human beings need the companionship of others who are not involved in the same problems as those of their own particular home life, however happy that is.

* * * * * * *

There is, however, a tendency which is growing to rather astounding proportions, and this is the over-emphasis of entertainment.

* * * * * * *

Whether cards have the grip on players which is like a disease, allowing them no avenues of pleasure apart from them or whether cards are but a means to an end, which is freedom from the real issues and art of living, it would be difficult to determine.

* * * * * * *

But the woman who finds herself thinking in terms of cards, going over old plays, regretting her errors, and usually being more regretful of (if not indeed annoyed by) the poor plays of partners, does well to take a short vacation from them.

* * * * * * *

See what lies outside this one form of entertainment. Refuse to be hide bound. Let the thoughts be free.

* * * * * * *

This is said without casting any aspersions on cards. Not to enjoy them in one type of game or another is a mistake.

* * * * * * *

It is only when card playing is carried to such extreme as it frequently is, when home duties are slighted and children are without enough careful tending, that one needs to bring herself to a thoughtful consideration of the matter.

* * * * * * *

Now in the spring of the year when nature calls one to enjoy its beauties, to enter into sports and games which are the especial perogative of youth and which tend to preserve good health, let the vision widen and forms of pleasure increase.

* * * * * * *

Those who are living in the Indian summertime of age, in those years between youth and advanced life, do well to make the most of their full ability to enter into these briskly active sports and games.

At the wedding of Lord Stanley and Lady Audrey Chetwynd-Talbot, in London recently, there were 12 bridesmaids, making a procession of 13, and the honeymoon is to last 13 weeks.

Refrigerator Frosting.

2½ cups sugar, ½ cup light corn syrup, 1 teasp. vanilla, ½ cup water, 2 egg whites.

Cook sugar, syrup and water until it forms a firm ball when tested in cold water. Pour slowly over beaten egg whites, beating constantly until it will hold its shape. Add flavoring. This frosing may be put into tightly covered jar and kept in refrigerator for several days.

Maple Mousse.

4 eggs, 1 cup maple syrup, 1 pint cream, ½ teasp. salt.

Separate eggs. Beat yolks till light, add salt and syrup. Cook till very thick, stirring often. Cool and chill. Whip cream till stiff and beat egg whites till very stiff. Fold egg whites into cream, then add first mixture. Freeze without stirring (can be left in super-freezer indefinitely without becoming icy). Serves 12.

Ginger Ale Fruit Salad.

2 tablesp. gelatin, ½ cup boiling water, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup lemon juice, 2 tablesp. sugar, ¼ cup chopped nuts, 1 cup ginger ale, 1 cup grapes, 1 banana, 1 apple, 2 oranges.

Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add lemon juice, sugar and ginger ale. Cut grapes in halves and remove seeds. Slice banana. Peel and chop apple. Separate oranges into sections. When ginger ale mixture begins to thicken, fold in fruit and nuts. Turn into moulds and chill. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with whiped cream.

Fish Salad.

2 cups cooked flaked fish, 2 cups cooked macaroni, ½ cup celery, ¼ cup chopped green peppers, ½ cup chopped pimentos. Mayonnaise. Salt and pepper to taste.

Put all ingredients together and add enough mayonnaise to hold. Serve on lettuce leaf and garnish with slices of egg and paprika.

Cheese Fancies.

Cut small squares or triangles of bread about ½ inch in thickness. Mix soft cream cheese to a paste by combining it with salad dressing and spread top and edges of bread with this mixture. Place small piece of uncooked bacon on top of each piece, then bake in hot oven long enough to brown cheese and crisp the bacon. Serve at once.

Rheumatism Goes

Swollen Joints Vanish

How To End Rheumatism In Less Than A Week

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff inflammed joints, it's because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that cause rheumatism and make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, and need it right now. All druggists sell it with guarantee.

RU-MA acts on the blood, stomach, kidneys and liver, and drives the dangerous rheumatic poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination—it eases pain the first day.

You must use an internal medicine to free the joints and muscles of crippling stiffness, soreness and torturing pain. That's why RU-MA succeeds while external remedies and pain deadening drugs give only temporary relief.

McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store says no matter what kind of rheumatism you have or how long you have suffered, try RU-MA—it must completely end all rheumatic agony or you get your money back.

St. George's Society Holds April Meet

Mrs. J. L. Hughes entertained members of the Senior Branch of the W.A. of St. George's at the Rectory on Tuesday afternoon for their anniversary meeting. Despite the very inclement weather, there was a good attendance. Owing to the recent visit of Miss Hawkins of Japan, there was no out-of-town speaker, as one former occasions. The rector had kindly consented to give the address, and based his remarks on the words, "Other sheep I have which are not of this fold, them also I must bring, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd" (St. John 10). The broad outlook of missionary work was emphasized, and the address was much enjoyed.

Mrs. James Howard contributed a vocal solo, "Can the world see Jesus in you," her sweet singing being much appreciated.

The treasurer's report showed a favorable financial balance in hand. Reference was made to the beautiful dossal curtain in church, the gift of the W.A. The junior superintendent reported eighteen sets of papers on the junior missionary study sent up for examination to Toronto, and one pupil had taken the oral test. She also referred to the Junior W.A. banner placed in church on Easter Day. The ladies decided to leave the working of the bale over until the fall, though a number of gifts for the bale were promised.

The next monthly meeting will be held on the third Tuesday in May instead of the second, owing to the annual meetings in Toronto during the second week. It was decided to extend an invitation to members of St. Mark's branch, Otonabee, to attend the May meeting. Reports of the annual meetings will be given and business pertaining to the forthcoming Deanery meeting in the fall will be disoussed.

At the close of the meeting afternoon tea was served by the hostess.

POST OFFICE FOR WINDSOR.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox!

An important feature of home life is that known as hospitality or entertainment.

• • • • • • •

For the welfare of the family there should be interchange of ideas with those outside the home circle, social intercourse with congenial minds, and entertainment.

• • • • • • •

The woman who allows herself to be so engrossed with the routine of work that she has no energy nor time for pleasures and recreation grows narrow and discontented.

• • • • • • •

Human beings need the companionship of others who are not involved in the same problems as those of their own particular home life, however happy that is.

• • • • • • •

There is, however, a tendency which is growing to rather astounding proportions, and this is the over-emphasis of entertainment.

• • • • • • •

Whether cards have the grip on players which is like a disease, allowing them no avenues of pleasure apart from them or whether cards are but a means to an end, which is freedom from the real issues and art of living, it would be difficult to determine.

• • • • • • •

But the woman who finds herself thinking in terms of cards, going over old plays, regretting her errors, and usually being more regretful of (if not indeed annoyed by) the poor plays of partners, does well to take a short vacation from them.

• • • • • • •

See what lies outside this one form of entertainment. Refuse to be hide bound. Let the thoughts be free.

• • • • • • •

This is said without casting any aspersions on cards. Not to enjoy them in one type of game or another is a mistake.

• • • • • • •

It is only when card playing is carried to such extreme as it frequently is, when home duties are slighted and children are without enough careful tending, that one needs to bring herself to a thoughtful consideration of the matter.

• • • • • • •

Now in the spring of the year when nature calls one to enjoy its beauties, to enter into sports and games which are the especial perogative of youth and which tend to preserve good health, let the vision widen and forms of pleasure increase.

• • • • • • •

Those who are living in the Indian summertime of age, in those years between youth and advanced life, do well to make the most of their full ability to enter into these briskly active sports and games.

At the wedding of Lord Stanley and Lady Audrey Chetwynd-Talbot, in London recently, there were 11 bridesmaids, making a procession of 13 and the honeymoon is to last 13 weeks.

Leafs Fall Under Newark Hitting Barrage 13-2

PITCHERS YIELD SEVENTEEN HITS IN NEWARK TILT

KEYS BLANK REYNOLDS 1-0

Buffalo Evens Series by Taking 4-0 Victory From the Birds.

NEWARK, April 15.—It wasn't necessary for the Newark Bears to make any belated rallies to beat the Toronto Maple Leafs here yesterday afternoon. They accomplished enough in the first inning to offset anything the Leafs were able to supply in the way of runs, and handed the Dalymen a heavy 13-to-2 beating.

The Bears made seventeen hits off Frank Barnes, southpaw, and Glenn Liebhardt, righthander. Liebhardt was tossed to the Bears in the third inning after the first two men up in that frame had clouted a hearty pair of doubles from Barnes's offerings. Liebhardt went the rest of the distance, and was pounded freely, but the runs made off him really didn't matter. The five that came when Barnes was tolling were more than enough to enable Harry Holsclaw, who once spent a season or two with Montreal, to breeze home with a victory in his first start since his return to the International League. The Leafs got eight hits off Holsclaw, but they were not very damaging.

Some Lusty Hitting

Weather conditions, while less uncomfortable than on opening day, were far from ideal for baseball, and only a handful of spectators attended. The Bears were in a hitting mood that broke out savagely in the first; and third innings, and continued to make itself prominent at odd intervals thereafter. Four doubles and two homers were included in their assortment of drives. Three of the two base blows were made off Barnes. Not until Liebhardt came to the mound did the Bears begin to say it with home runs. Their first circuit clout was a hard smack into the right field bleachers by Shortstop Stevens, and, like Cohen's smash of the previous day, it came with the bases loaded. There was nobody on base in the fifth when Joe Glenn, young catcher, poled the longest hit of the series to date, a drive that cleared the left field bleachers and landed in the next block. It would have easily cleared the left field barriers at Maple Leaf Stadium.

Orioles Even Series

Baltimore, Md., April 15.—Buffalo evened the series at one all by shutting the Orioles out, 4-0, here yesterday when Roy Bergeron held the flock to three hits. All of the Oriole hits were double, and Bergeron walked nine, but in the pinches he was invulnerable.

Ken Holloway kept pace for six innings, shutting the Bisons out with a single scratch hit marked up against him. He weakened in the seventh inning, however, and doubles by Smith, Detore, Carnegie and a home run by Winsett resulted in four runs and the game.

Keys Blank Reynolds 1-0

READING, April 15. — Carroll Yerkes, new Reading Key southpaw, turned back the Montreal Royal Sluggers with four hits yesterday afternoon, and the Keys won a hard-fought ball game here, 1 to 0.

Gowell Claset, who last season was very effective against Reading, was nicked for eight safeties. The Keys scored the winning tally in the first inning on Fred Bennett's two-bagger.

PRESS SCORES SENDING CRUISER TO ST. JOHN'S

LONDON, Apr. 15 (C.P. Cable)—The despatch of the British light cruiser Dragon to St. John's, Nfld., on the request of Governor Middleton, is regarded by the Manchester Guardian to-day as a serious matter. "Is our government actually claiming the right to interfere in the internal affairs of one of the sister nations of the British Commonwealth?" the Guardian asked.

In the House of Commons yesterday J. H. Thomas, Dominions' Secretary, explained the vessel had been sent in response to a message from the Governor who had expressed fears of grave disorders. The admiralty despatched the vessel in accordance with its duty to see that law and order are maintained, the Minister added.

Opening of many new apartments and houses in Belgrade, Zagbred and Novi Sad, Jugoslavia, has given the city official a problem in filling the many empty old-style municipal houses.

REDS CONTINUE IN WIN COLUMN BEAT CUBS 5-3

Worlds C'hampion Cardinals Lose to Pittsburgh by 5-4 Count.

BLANK WHITE SOX 3-0.

Gehringer's Homer Aids Tiger Cause as Indians Take 3-1 Setback.

By Herbert W. Barker.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

TORONTO, April 15. — Dan Howley, the sartorially correct manager of the Cincinnati Reds, already is playing in tough luck and the National League season is just three days old.

But whatever other misfortunes may beset his team, Dan won't worry if the Reds can continue to win at the rate of two games in every three.

Howley went into the trading market in a big way during the winter and spring to put together a winning combination and now finds the injury jinx camped on his trail.

The Reds' second game of the campaign cost them the services of Ernest Lombardi, the catcher with the rifle arm and the massive schnozzola, and of George Grantham, veteran second baseman, whose chief baseball virtue is his timely hitting.

Lombardi stopped a foul tip with his right index finger and the broken bone that ensued will keep him on the bench for at least ten days. Grantham twisted his ankle making a brilliant stop of a line drive and probably won't play for a week.

But even with these two cogs out for repairs, the Reds rushed out a 5-3 decision over the Chicago Cubs yesterday and made it two out of three in the series. They did it by the simple expedient of batting around in the first inning. Doubles by Wally Gilbert and Clyde Manion and triples by Babe Herman and Mickey Heath, plus a hit batsman and a walk gave the Reds five runs in that frame. They hit often thereafter but could not score. Behind that lead Red Lucas worked easily, holding the Cubs to eight hits.

In the only other National league struggle of the day, the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded Paul Derringer and trimmed the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 5-4. The Cardinals bunched hits off Bill Harris for three runs in the fourth inning but Larry French held them virtually helpless thereafter. The Pirates struggled along to tie the score in the eighth and win in the ninth.

Break Into Win Column

In the American league, the St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers broke into the winning column for the first time.

Sam Gray allowed only five hits as the Browns turned back the White Sox 3-0, the second shutout of the major league season. The Browns clinched the game in the fifth inning when Red Kress drove out a home run off Vic Frasier and scored behind Goose Goslin who had walked.

Whitlow Wyatt had the better of a pitching duel with Willis Hudlin and Detroit turned back Cleveland 3-1. Wyatt allowed only four hits and struck out seven. The Tigers bunched two singles with a walk and a sacrifice in the second inning for their winning margin.

Weather conditions held other American league clubs idle but at Philadelphia Connie Mack, Venerable manager of the champion Athletics, announced Roger Cramer would replace the veteran Bing Miller in the outfield. Cramer is just starting his second term with A's. Miller, at 37, has been in the majors steadily since 1921.

CUPS PRESENTED TO LAKEFIELD CURLERS AT ANNUAL GATHERING

Club to Take Measures Towards Encouraging Membership for Junior Section.

EXECUTIVE RE-ELECTED

LAKEFIELD, April 15.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Thirty-five members of the Lakefield Curling Club sat down to the well-laden tables at the Lakefield Inn on Tuesday evening, the occasion being the annual banquet. The first part of the evening's program was one in which each member took part and all did ample justice to the delicious meal provided.

The financial report showed a balance of $37.13, which showed a gratifying condition in the hard times and also thrifty management of the club funds. Last year's balance was $20.04.

The presentation of the cups and prizes was an important feature. There were no prizes presented to the runners up this year. The Fitzgerald Cup was presented by J. W. Ridpath to J. E. Galvin's rink viz.: Lionel Lawless, Harold Hamblin, George A. Charlton, and J. E. Galvin, skip. Deep regret was expressed at the absence of Mr. Galvin because of poor health for Mr. Galvin was one of the oldest and most popular members of the club and the fact that his activities in the "roarin' game" are probably over was regarded as a personal loss by all the members. On motion of C. S. Tanner and endorsed heartily by all present, Mr. Galvin was made an honorary member of the club.

The Casement Cup was presented by E. W. Bailey to B. Q. Dench's rink viz.: Roy Bulock, Harold Hamblin, G. A. Charlton, B. Q. Dench, skip.

The Tanner Cup (vice-skip's cup) was presented by C. S. Tanner to N. A. Moore's rink, viz.: R. Mulkins, Harry Hill, D. H. Webster and N. A. Moore.

The Dawson (Challenge) Cup was presented by W. G. Morrison to V. Lancaster, A. B. Burrows, N. A. Moore and D. H. Charlton, skip.

Junior Curling.

The matter of junior curling was introduced by the president as a means of stimulating interest in the sport and urged that some means be adopted to interest the high school in the game. J. W. Ridpath, who gaily announced that he was the oldest curler present, having curled for thirty years, and had such stalwarts as Messrs. Galvin and Dench under his tuition, volunteered as a coach for the junior curlers. He heartily endorsed the suggestion of enlisting the boys and recalled the success this had proved a few years ago when tried out, the boys were enthusiastic and showed both skill and sportsmanship.

J. R. Harvey spoke of the successful season which he, like every other member, had so thoroughly enjoyed and agreed in the idea to enlist the boys, the club would be improved by the introduction of the young blood.

This was echoed by T. W. Chaplin in his address which was brief but optimistic. The great success of the Good Friday bonspiel was commented by all the speakers and the idea was endorsed to make it an annual event. A hearty vote of thanks was given to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lawless for their hospitality and the excellence of the service and the viands. This was given on motion of J. W. Ridpath and A. E. Higgins and endorsed by every man present as shown by the hearty way in which "For they are jolly good fellows" was sung.

Executive Re-elected.

On motion the present executive was re-eelcted with E. W. Bailey to take the place of J. E. Galvin (retired) and it was decided to follow last year's custom of the executive electing its own officers.

Following the banquet the executive met with the following present: D. H. Charlton, W. G. Morrison, A. B. Burrows, E. W. Bailey, A. G. Lawless and C. C. Stenner and on motion Mr. Charlton was re-elected president, W. G. Morrison, vice-president, and A. B. Burrows secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Charlton was congratulated on the success of the past season, also the other officers who had spared no effort to keep the club up to its best traditions.

Economic improvement in French Indo-China shows increasing momentum.

Yesterday's Stars

Red. Kress, Browns — His homer with one on enabled Browns to beat White Sox 3-0.

Larry French, Pirates — Went in as relief pitcher, held Cards to three hits in five innings and on 5-4.

Officers Elected For Sports Club

BAILIEBORO, April 15.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The annual meeting and election of officers of the local Athletic Association was held in Fletchers Hall on Monday evening.

Arnold Brown was re-elected president for the ensuing year. Joe Barnard was elected vice-president and replaced A. Dawson who held the position on last year's executive. Archie Deyell was elected secretary instead of K. Barnard, last year's secretary. Alexander Watt was re-elected to the office of treasurer.

The present of the associaton financial business of the skating rink were elected as follows: J. C. Campbell, chairman; Joseph Lang, George Fletcher.

The resident of the association was in the chair and about twenty were in attendance.

The association commence their activities this spring with a deficit of approximately thirty dollars, but the members are not at all discouraged when they realize that during the past year they were able to pay off some heavy overhead expenses, as well as buy a plot of land centrally located for a skating rink and erect a splendid open air rink.

Plans have not as yet been made for this year's baseball activities, but rumours are afloat that the local club will endeavor to form a league which may link up Millbrook, Garden Hill, Bethany and Bailieboro.

Star Transferred

Bristol City have transferred Sidney Elliott, their centre forward, to Notts County, for a considerable fee. He is the fourth Bristol club player to be transferred within the last six weeks, the others being Williams, Wilman and Walsh.

Elliott went to Bristol at the start of last season from Chelsea, and he was previously with Fulham. A product of the Newcastle district, he played for Durham City when 16 years of age, and during the present season has scored 13 goals in 25 matches—four in cup ties.

ATHLETIC DAY AT LAKEFIELD ON JULY 1ST

MAY FORM MEN'S LEAGUE.

LAKEFIELD, April 15—(Examiner Correspondence).—The wintry atmosphere and the snow which lay in a thick blanket over the ground belied the calendar and apparently chilled the enthusiasm of the youth of the community for spring and summer sports for the attendance at the meeting on Wednesday night called by the Lakefield Amateur Athletic Association was very small. However those present made some definite progress and the decisions made will no doubt influence the season's activities. Mr. Tanner was in the chair and called the meeting to order.

A field day was discussed and on motion of Messrs. Hull and Briant it was decided to hold a field day on July 1. The question of combining a regatta with it was discussed and finally dismissed as not being a practical combination and as Mr. Tanner put it very aptly it was decided to hold a "dry field day," with a softball tournament in the afternoon and other sports in the morning and boxing at night. Messrs. Burrows and Briant were appointed to look after the boxing. The appointment of other committees was left over till the next meeting, which will be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock and it is hoped that the attendance will be larger. The convenor of the committee to look up prospects for a girls' softball committee presented a list of over forty girls who are willing to play and suggested Mr. Briant as manager and asked if the Association would be willing to put up a trophy to be played for, a small one would be quite satisfactory. This report was accepted and it was decided to purchase a cup for the girls' softball league. The question of men's softball was discussed at length and it was decided to call for teams who were willing to enter a village league. All teams to present their list of players (12 to a team) on Monday night. Teams which are possible entrants are the Oddfellows, Clerks, Cubs, Central Garage, Legion, Efficiency League, Fire Department and Lucky Strikes and there are probably others. It was decided to secure if possible the Lummons Cup, which was donated by the late W. O. Lummons of the Cavendish Lumber Co. for local competition. It is at present being held by the high school.

THE BIG SWING IS TO DOMINION TIRES

ART PRIMEAU WILL MANAGE SENIOR TEAM THIS SEASON

Veteran Plans to Begin Early Activities for Lining Up of Strong Team.

INDOOR TRAINING.

The manager of the Peterborough Senior Ball Club this year will be Art Primeau, last year manager of the C.G.E., East Peterborough League champions. This was decided last night by a committee who accepted Max Swanston's resignation and offered the position to Art who agreed to take it. He will commence at once to line up a strong senior team to compete against Kingston, Belleville and Cobourg in the C.O.B.I.

Primeau is well fitted for the task, having had unusual success in managing Intermediate "A" ball teams in the past ten years. He started his baseball activities playing City League here before going overseas, and also played in Cobourg afterward. In 1921, Art played for the C.G.E. when they went through the playoffs, losing out to Picton, which team went to the finals. The following year, Art played for the Electrics again when they won the Ontario championship.

Colorful Career

His managerial career began when he took over the C.G.E. team in 1923 and they repeated to win the Ontario title. The next summer they lost to Kingston in the semi-finals. Art quit baseball then until 1928 when he was induced to take charge of the Raybestos team in the E.P.L. He piloted them right through to the finals, losing a sudden-death game to Copper Cliff after winning twelve consecutive play-off contests. In '29, his Raybestos team won the Lakeshore League but lost out to Cogs in the playdowns.

Returning to the C.G.E. the next year, Primeau led them through the E.P.L and right into the finals where they lost to Ingersoll, just when they appeared to have another Ontario title. Last year, his Electrics waltzed through the East Peterborough League with ease but bowed in the provincial playdowns to the strong Orono team, made up of Oshawa players, now playing senior ball in Toronto.

A summary shows that in six years as manager, Art's team always won their league championship. They won the Ontario championship once, lost out in the finals twice and in the semi-finals once. Only twice was the team eliminated early in the provincial playdowns. This is a record for intermediate managers in Peterborough, if not Central Ontario. Art is popular with his players seldom crabbing but keeping them on their toes all the time, even in workouts. He has had much success in lining up players and prospects and handling temperamental athletes. The record of his teams in the past ten years points to his ability.

Indoor spring training for the Petes this year will be started shortly by Primeau who believes there is no time to be lost in getting the team organized. Once this preliminary work is over, he will have them working out on a dry diamond where every player will be given plenty of chances to show his ability. Art expects to have a number of young prospects out trying for places, and has expressed the belief that Peterborough should have a very strong senior outfit in the league this year. The executive, he stated, "are a bunch of hustlers, not afraid to try anything, and we should go places in the Central League race."

CASUAL COMMENT

Plans are going rapidly ahead for the new artificial ice arena here for next winter, although there hasn't been anything published lately. The men working for it have been checking up other ice plants in different towns and drawing plans, etc. The public will be given the low-down on everything shortly and then things should start moving.

• • • • • • •

Several local factories, such as C.G.E. and Johnson Motors, which have been canvassed in order to get the feeling of the workers on the subject, have shown ninety-eight per cent strongly in favor of an artificial rink for Peterborough. This is real encouraging, and it shouldn't be long now until work can be started toward the actual building. We may be skating here next October.

• • • • • • •

Speaking of ice, Herb Martin had a sheet on the Curling Rink yesterday and curlers did their stuff the latest of any year since 1908. True, the ice was somewhat bumpy but it was plenty solid. Herb predicts curling down there for another week, breaking all records.

• • • • • • •

Riley & Hickey's meet Primeau's Fashion-Craft at the "Y" to-morrow night in a sudden-death fixture for the championship of the Senior Y.M.C.A. Basketball League and the Cressman Cup. Both squads took one-half of the schedule and they look very evenly-matched right now, so we're not offering nor accepting any bets at all.

• • • • • • •

Congratulations to Art Primeau, erstwhile manager of the classy C.G.E. baseball team. He has accepted the managership of the Peterborough Senior Club for this year, succeeding Max Swanston who recently resigned. Art has piloted six teams into the Ontario play-downs, losing out in the finals twice and copping one provincial title. Before that, he played on a team that lost once in the finals and won it the following year. He knows his baseball.

• • • • • • •

Now that the important post of manager is filled, little time will be lost getting the Petes lined up. Primeau figures on starting right away and having prospects get in some preliminary spring training indoors before taking to the diamond. Max Swanston, who is still on the executive, has offered to help him in any way. As for the executive members, Art says they are a real bunch of hustlers, and it will be a pleasure to work with them.

• • • • • • •

All Saints' Club meets again to-night in their clubrooms to discuss and perhaps decide on having baseball and softball teams, or just one, this summer. Bill Kay, past president, was presented with a razor at the last meeting and given quite an ovation, or something. He should be well trimmed now for a while.

The middleweight finals in the Eastern Ontario tourney in Toronto on Wednesday night must have been a pip. Lou Marsh claims that in thirty-three years of refereeing and watching the pugs perform, both pro and amateur, he can't recall a tougher three rounds nor a gamer pair of battlers than Paul Amata and Curly Duncan, the former winning. This is the way it was:

• • • • • • •

In the first round Paul went down five times, the bell finally saving him. In the second round, Paul went down once and Curly three times, the bell saving Duncan. In the hectic last go, Paul went to the resin five times and Curly seven times, twice the two fighters going down together. Paul finished stronger, so got the duke, but both boys drew a great hand for their furious fighting spirit. Paul appeared here twice through the winter.

Gord Garwood will be third man in the ring at the Alpha Club show to-night in the Legion Hall. The judges are Len Post and Archie Hamilton. The card, an all-local one, sounds pretty fair, some of the more promising bouts being the Roy Hope-Jack Chamberlain top scrap, the Reg. Lesurf-Fred DeCarlo semi-final, the Hank Noakes-Jack Gardner tussle, and the Harrington-Hefferman all-Irish battle.

• • • • • • •

With summery weather returning, we hope to stay, amateur boxing cards here will be finishing up shortly and fight fans will have to take up some other line of sport or wait till next fall. The local boxers are at their best now and deserve some support. The show to-night should be good entertainment, we figure.

GOOD BOUTS ON BOXING PROGRAM

Stars From Three Local Stables to Take Part in To-night's Show.

LIVELY SESSION PROMISED

Seven good bouts have been lined up for the Alpha Club amateur boxing show at the Legion Hall at 8.30 this evening. The program is made up of all-local boxers from the Alpha Club, Foster stable and the Pioneer A.C. headliners are Roy Hope and Jack Chamberlain, both popular lightweights here. Chamberlain is more of a ring veteran, though young, while Hope, is a flashy scrapper who throws plenty of hard leather all the time.

Reg Lesurf, who has outgrown the lightweight ranks since he left the ring a year ago, meets Fred DeCarlo, tough welter, in his first comeback battle, and it should be interesting. Hank Noakes draws a tough assignment in Jack Gardner, and both boys will put on a fine fight. Earl Harrington meets Tommy Heffernan in what promises to be a lively session, while Danny Harrington is matched with Deb Whatman. Tip Anderson and Jack Watson, cleancut mittsers who stage a fast three rounds, follow the hard-hitting curtain-raisers, "Irish" Jordan III and Joe DeNoble.

Gord Garwood will referee the bouts, with Len Post and Archie Hamilton acting as judges. The show starts at 8.30, and with all the boxers in the pink, some fast, exciting bouts may be expected.

RANGERS FAVORED TO CAPTURE CUP

Oppose Kilmarnock for Third Time in Scottish Trophy Final.

GLASGOW, Scotland, April 15 (C.P. Cable)—Following last Saturday's international soccer match at Wembley, between England and Scotland, the interest of fans will be switched here this week-end where Rangers and Kilmarnock battle for the Scottish Football Association Cup. Hampden Park, where the final of the cup series will be played, is expected to be thronged with a crowd which may mount up to 100,000.

The match will be something in the nature of a rubber between the two clubs, as it will be the third time they have met in a cup final. Each have a victory to their credit, the Rangers winning in 1898 and Kilmarnock in 1929.

Rangers, who have had a long and brilliant career in cup football, they are playing in their sixteenth final to Kilmarnock's fourth and are naturally favorites to win. Their task is by no means an easy one and nobody knows better than the Rangers themselves how fickle cup fortune can be.

Kilmarnock are not intimidated by the size of their task and take comfort from the fact they are playing as well as ever while the Rangers are beginning to show the effects of the strain involved in trying to win both league championship and cup. Judging by their recent displays they are obviously going "stale." Rangers, however, have the better side and are anticipating a comfortable victory.

The game is expected to be a battle of defences as both teams possess the strongest half-back lines in Scottish football, but whereas the Rangers are exponents of the classic passing style of football, Kilmarnock play dashing, straight-for-the-goal cup football. The game may be a clash of styles.

Neither team has indulged in any really special training routine for the final. While no official announcement has been made of the sides to be fielded it is expected they will line up something like this:

Rangers—T. Hamilton; Grey and McAulay, Meiklejohn, Simpson and Brown; Archibald, Marshall, English, McPhail and Morton.

Kilmarnock.—Bell; Leslie and Nibloe; Morton, Smith and McEwan; Connell, Muir, Maxwell, Duncan and Aitken.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

PADDY AND MRS. PADDY PREPARE

In preparation naught is lost
No matter what may be the cost.
—Paddy the Beaver.

If there is any one in all the Great World who believes in being prepared that one is Paddy the Beaver. And in this Mrs. Paddy agrees with him. It isn't that they are pessimists. You know a pessimist is one who is always expecting the worst to happen. No, Paddy and Mrs. Paddy are not pessimists. They do not expect the worst to happen, but they mean to be prepared should the worst happen. When they lay in a big supply of food for the winter it doesn't necessarily mean that the winter is going to be long and hard, but it does mean that if such should be the case they will have plenty of food and nothing to worry about on this score.

Paddy had announced that he had discovered spring signs and among them was the fact that the Laughing Brook was rising.

"Is it rising fast?" asked Mrs. Paddy, a bit anxiously.

"No," replied Paddy. "No, it isn't rising fast at all. The water is a little deeper and running a little faster and, of course, it will keep on doing this for awhile. The snow around here has gone and so we may not have much of a flood this year. If we do not our dams are all right as they are."

"And if we do have a bad flood one of them may break," interrupted Mrs. Paddy. "It doesn't look like a bad flood this spring, but one never can tell. There may be a lot of snow up on the Great Mountain. There might be a heavy rain. It is easier to prevent a break than to mend one. The sooner we look those dams over and strengthen the weak places, if there are any, the better. A little work won't hurt either of us. Then let a flood come if it must. We'll have nothing to worry about."

"Right you are, my dear," replied Paddy. "We will start right away to look those dams over. Trouble comes to all, but those who have prepared for it always fare the best. Come on!"

Paddy led the way to the lower and oldest dam, the one that made the pond wherein was their house.

Paddy led the way to the lower and older dam

Mrs. Paddy swam with her nose almost touching the tip of Paddy's tail. When they reached the dam they climbed out on it and for a few minutes sat there looking about and making sure that there was no one about whom they need fear.

"This dam is the most important," said Paddy.

"Of course," replied Mrs. Paddy. "If this dam should break and let the water out of this pond we would be in trouble. Our house would no longer be safe. It would be dreadful, positively dreadful. I don't know what we would do."

Paddy grinned. "Neither do I know what we would do, but I know what we will do," said he. "We'll make sure that this dam will not break no matter what happens. A safe dam means a safe pond. A safe pond means a safe house. A safe house means a safe family. And we get all that just by making just one thing safe—the dam. Now you start at that end and I will start at this end and if we find any weak places we'll make them strong. Do you hear Winsome Bluebird whistling?"

"O course I hear him, and it is the sweetest sound I have heard for many a long month. I wish I could see him," replied Mrs. Paddy, as she started for the other end of the dam.

"Then why don't you look at him," said a soft voice, and there was Winsome himself sitting on a stub so near that even the near-sighted eyes of Mrs. Paddy could see him clearly. Before she could reply Winsome flew away. Mrs. Paddy sighed softly. Then she got right down to work and began going over her end of the dam, both on the lower side, the upper side and the top that was now out of water. Paddy was doing the same thing at the other end. One or the other would bring a stick or other material and work it in to strengthen a place that looked not quite as strong as the rest. They were preparing for what might happen while hoping that it wouldn't happen.

What To-Day Means To You

"ARIES"

If April 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 10:30 p.m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Astrological influences on April 15th will bring about a comfortable state of mind, which will enable you to forget for the moment the thousand or more "ifs" which stand between you and happiness and contentment. Mental efficiency should be expected, and problems solved during these moments of lucid understanding and vision.

The child born on this April 15th will have outwardly a quiet and placid nature, but nevertheless it will sweetly and unconcernedly push ahead along the paths it wants to go in spite of conflicting wills or opposition. It can be reached through its affections where it cannot be driven by other forces.

Born on April 15th, you have a nature which could be completely spoiled by a too upholstered life, but which, on the other hand, could be nobly heroic when a tough and hard row is given you to hoe. You quail before trivial assaults of Fate, but under bombs and shells you never show the white feather, and reveal to the world inexhaustible reserves of courage. Your whimsical humor is able to make a joke of the worst.

You are inclined to drift and to let your spirit become demoralized. You are "all there" when some adventure with a purpose is at hand, but you are not enough of a pioneer or enough of a leader to find these adventures yourself. You are inclined to take the good things of life for granted, and to be rather unfeeling about the rest of the world. You need to suffer before you will know what life really is, or before you will become an understanding person. You are often held back by false pride from doing those things which would bring a more bountiful harvest to your door, if you dared turn a deaf ear to friendly criticisms. You are conservative in most of your ideas, and could never become a real radical. You are inclined to pursue a middle course rather than take to either extreme.

Executive Meeting Of Sunday School

TRENT RIVER, April 15 (Examiner Correspondence) — A special meeting of teachers and officers of the United Church Sunday School was held Tuesday night at the church, with an attendance of ten.

Harold B. Wood read the secretary's report. There were several important matters for discussion brought up by the superintendent, Isaac Lawson, the first was regarding Decision Day for the Sunday School and it was decided to observe that day at a later date.

Rev. Mr. Kemp expressed his appreciation on the general run of the Sunday School also congratulated Mr. Wood for his excellent and efficient manner on his part in the treasureship of the school.

The change of hour for Sunday School was discussed but it was decided to continue at the same hour of opening.

The executive decided to grade the classes in the following order by age limit. From 1 to 3 years, Cradle Roll; 3 to 5 years, Beginners; 5 to 8 years, Primary; 8-11 years, Juniors; 11-14 years, intermediate; 14-17 years, Seniors; 17-23 years, Young People's. Mr. H. B. Wood was appointed grading officer.

For the observance of "Mother's Day" service in May it was decided to have some of the classes contribute to the program thus doing away with the usual order form of service and Mr. R. M. Umphrey kindly volunteered to give a short address on Mother's Day. The teachers were notified to govern the teaching of the classes on that day accordingly. The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. S. A. Kemp.

PLAYS PRESENTED IN OMEMEE HALL

Large Audience Greets Christ Church A.Y.P.A. Presentation —Parts Well Enacted.

OMEMEE, April 15. (Examiner Correspondence). — On Monday evening, April 11, despite the fact that decidedly bad weather prevailed the three short plays presented by Christ Church A.Y.P.A. formed a very pleasant evening for quite a large crowd.

The first presentation was entitled "Gassed" and was a humorous account of the worries of two college boys over a desirable young co-ed. The two aspirants to her hand were each in turn aided and advised by their respective chums as to the way of success. The two rivals find out that the other one is writing to the girl and a fight ensues. At the height of their quarrel the insignificant freshman calmly announces that he had married the girl in question.

The characters were as follows: Gas Collins., H. Hill; Dud Elliott, H. Bent; Bis Nelson, W. Stephenson; Puck Evans, H. Burgess; Lady Clayton, A. Adams.

"At the Junction" the second paly was the story of the accidental meeting of two cousins, the first of whom to be married was to receive one million dollars. Each tries to outdo the other but they finally get married at the same time by an eccentric old station master. News comes that two millions were left instead of one hence happiness prevails.

The cast of characters was: Mr. Spotts, N. Burgomaster; Jack Sharp, Geo. Stephenson; Percy Run, Cecil Reeds; Miss Cuto, Phyllis Morton; Miss Quick, Olive Reeds.

The final play was "Sarah's Young Man" which depicted the trials of a young lover while visiting his sweetheart. In hope that he will not be recognized Sarah tells everyone that a supposedly suspicioush looking individual wears a white hat while confusion prevails when Sam appears through misadventure, wearing a white hat. He is mistaken for a robber. A sheriff's officer a long lost son besides a stealer of hearts. Sarah's confession finally straightens out the tangle.

The cast of characters was: Sam Sloeleaf, H. Hill; Sarah Libbs Mrs. S. Nurse; Mr. Moggridge, J. A. Bent; Aranenta Mogg, Mabel Thorn; H. Fielding, Wendell McNevin.

MILLIONS HELPED TO HEALTH BY ALL-BRAN

Has "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

In ten years, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has gained an increasing number of friends. Today, it is used by millions with satisfactory results.

New tests show added reasons for the success of ALL-BRAN. Laboratory experiments prove it has "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

Another benefit of ALL-BRAN is that it has twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

The headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from constipation can be overcome by this pleasant cereal. How much better than using habit-forming pills and drugs.

ALL-BRAN action is gentle. Its "bulk" is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass. Gently it clears the intestines of wastes.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are sufficient to overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal, or use in cooking. Tempting recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

RAYMOND JACKS HOLD WEST TITLE

Will Meet Border Team in Final for Dominion Basketball Honors.

TORONTO, April 15 (C.P.)—Raymond Union Jacks, far Western champions and Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, Ontario titleholders, to-day stand a notch nearer the Canadian senior basketball crown. A pair of well-earned victories over University of Saskatchewan and Montreal Fusiliers, respectively, last night gives the pair of highly-touted aggregations commanding leads for the second games of the two-tilt series Saturday night.

Uncorking a brand of dazzling speed accompanied with uncanny sniping ability, the Alberta champions secured a 34-point tally for their second game in the Western semi-finals by trouncing Saskatchewan Varsity 55 to 21. On last night's play, Union Jacks are conceded every chance of capturing the round and advancing to the Western final against Winnipeg Toilers.

A formidable defence and smooth working attack were two of the main factors in Windsor's 30 to 18 victory at the expense of Montreal Fusiliers. The Quebec champions played minus the services of Warren Stevens, former M.A.A.A. football star, at guard, while Johnny Murray, sturdy guard of the Ontario titleholders was also an absentee, having been banned by the Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union as uneligible for amateur competition. The winner of the round meets Saint John Trojans in the Eastern final.

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Flora Hawkes and her three confederates, pursued by Luvini and his two hundred warriors, stumbled through the darkness of the jungle night, completely lost. Their one idea was to put as much distance as possible between themselves and the camp of the ivory raiders. Often behind them they heard sounds of pursuit and plunged on in their aimless flight of terror. Then, to their surprise, they saw the glow of a light ahead. What could it be?

At last they beheld ahead a camp surrounded by a thorn boma. About the fire were some fifty magnificent black warriors. And, wonder of wonders, standing among the blacks, clearly outlined by the light of the campfire, was a white woman. From their actions, they too had heard the noise of the recent battle and the sounds of pursuit rising louder and louder. "That white woman is our only hope. Perhaps she can protect us. I am going to find out," cried Flora Hawkes, and started for the boma.

The keen eyes of a Waziri discovered her. Instantly the boma wall was ringed with bristling spears. "Stop!" cried the warrior. "We are the Waziri of Tarzan. Who are you?" "I am an Englishwoman," called Flora in reply. "With my companions I am lost. We have been betrayed by our safari. Our head man is pursuing us now, with many warriors. We are but four. Give us protection, I beg you." The woman with the blacks made a signal to the Waziri. "Let them come," she said.

As the girl and the three men entered the boma, another pair of eyes watched them from the foliage of a great tree overhanging the camp; grey eyes to which a strange light came as they recognised the girl and her companions. As the newcomers approached, the two women simultaneously gasped in astonishment. "Flora! What in the world are YOU doing here?" exclaimed one. The girl came to an abrupt stop, trying to gather her wits, as she exclaimed, half terrified: "Lady Greystoke!"

Obituary

MRS. ISABELLA ARMSTRONG

The death occurred on Thursday of Mrs. Isabella Armstrong at 98 Hunter street, at the age of 54 years.

A native of Goulborne Township, Mrs. Armstrong was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Brown. She was predeceased by her husband. Surviving her are three sons, William and Percy of Peterborough and George of Toronto, also two daughters, Mrs. Robert Starr, 18 Maria street and Mrs. James Sutherland of Albert street, also three brothers, John Brown of this city, Robert Brown of Cornwall, and Thomas Brown of Parry Sound.

The funeral is to be held on Monday next at 2 p.m., from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Starr, 18 Maria street, to Little Lake cemetery. Services will be conducted by Archdeacon the Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, of which the deceased was a member.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

TWO ADDRESSES TO ENGINEERS

Members of Peterborough Branch of E. I. C. Display Local Talent.

SUNLIGHT AND SAWMILLS.

Sunlight and sawmills were the subjects of two addresses at last night's meeting of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

W. T. Fanjoy's talk, illustrated by screen pictures of his own photography, explained the machine layout, operations and incidental gadgets that are used in the larger sawmills.

W. T. Holgate's address was on the subject of "Spectroscopic Analysis of the Sun's Rays."

Imagine the earth uniformly expanded until its surface touched the moon, its resulting immensity as a globe would be only half the size of the sun, Mr. Holgate said. He presented other illustrative and contrasting concepts conveying ideas of solar magnitude and its effects of light and heat.

Both the speakers last night are members of the local branch of the Institute, and were congratulated upon the interesting presentation of their subjects. Mr. Fanjoy dealt with circular and band headsaws, their speeds of operation, edgers, trimmers and other parts of mill machinery.

Mills and factories in Shanghai, China, are trying to round up their employees who scattered afar after the evacuation of Chapei and northern Shanghai districts.

IN MEMORIAM

GLOVER—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert F. Glover, who died Oct. 15, 1930.
He has taken his last journey,
In God's beautiful ship called rest,
Away from this world of sorrow
To a home of Eternal Rest.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
This world's weary troubles and sorrows are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.
We loved him in life,
Let us not forget him in death.

FENELON FALLS REEVE RESIGNS

LINDSAY. — The municipal government of Fenelon Falls is in another tangle, according to reports received here to-day. Reeve Foster Kelly resigned as the result of objections raised by citizens after his tie vote had allowed the Council to issue debentures for the new Continuation School, to which many objected because of its proposed cost of $36,500.

BOYS WANTED ON FARMS

Some Have Been Placed at $5 a Month

While a few farm laborers have been placed on local farms through the Government Employment Agency here within the past week the demand is very slight, it was learned to-day.

Wages offered for farm hands average fifteen and twelve dollars per months with board, although in a single instance one farmer paid twenty dollars. Such offers for men are few and far between, and farmers who are requiring help are asking for boys to whom they are offering five dollars per month with board.

Barring of Last Trouser Support Gives Cops "That Nervous Feeling"

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 16 (C.P.). — A "no belt" order for the local police may promote unhindered muscular action and efficient pistol-drawing, but it creates a grave personal problem.

The reason is that suspenders galluses, braces, or check reins have been barred heretofore. Thus, with the order from the chief's office to-day for strict enforcement of the new rule, the force was in a quandary as to how to hold up its pants.

Henry Government Yields to Pressure For Wider Enquiry

MR. JUSTICE MIDDLETON H AS RESIGNED TOO ILL TO CONTINUE HYDRO ENQUIRY

R. O. Sweezey Has Stated He Understood $125,000 to Aird Was For F unds of Conservative P arty.

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.). — The Ontario Government to-day had announced an immediate probe by a Royal Commission into payment by the Beauharnois Corporation of $125,000 to John Aird, Jr., engineer of Toronto, allegedly for political purposes.

The announcement made last night by Hon. W. H. Price, Ontario Attorney-General, on behalf of Premier George S. Henry, said the inquiry would proceed immediately with Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, acting as a Royal Commission in place of Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton, whose previous investigation into two phases of Ontario Hydro Commission administration was halted by his illness.

Middeton Resigns

Mr. Justice Middleton, the announcement said, had resigned his commission, at the same time recommending widening of the enquiry to include the Beaharnois payment.

Mr. Middleton previously had dealt only with the payment by the Ontario Hydro of $50,000 to Aird, in connection with the purchase of power rights on the Madawaska river and purchase of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company of Hamilton, Ont., for $22,000,000.

Mr. Aird testified in last summer's parliamentary enquiry into political campaign fund contributions that he received $125,000 from R. O. Sweezey, then president of the Beauharnois Corporation, for information which resulted in the successful conclusion of a power contract between the cor-

Palace of Carol's Burns to Ground

BUCHAREST, April 16 (C.P.) —The royal chateau of Folsor, summer residence of King Carol at Sinaia, was burned down this morning.

The fire is believed to have been caused by carelessness of workers who were repairing the chateau. The King left immediately for Sinaia when he heard the news. The chateau is isolated in the middle of a forest.

TWO TRAMPS DRUNK

Had Money for a Gallon of Wine

Arrested on Water street yesterday afternoon by Constable Jack Stevenson, two knights of the road, Edward O'Dette and Sudbury, and Fred Parker of Huntsville, pleaded guilty in police court this morning to being intoxicated in a public place. They admitted that they had been imbibing freely of a gallon of wine. Given the choice of paying $10 fines or spending ten days in jail, they voted for the jail term.

TENSION CONTINUES IN AUCKLAND ALL PUBLIC MEETINGS ARE BANNED

Mayor to Read Riot Act If Unemployed Again Assemble

300 UNDER ARREST

AUCKLAND, N.Z., April 16 (C.P. Cable).—With a tense situation still prevailing in the city, the Mayor of Auckland declared to-day he would read the Riot Act if unemployed assemble for a meeting Sunday. The reading of the Riot Act would mark the first occasion in the history of the Dominion that such drastic action to restore order has been resorted to.

All public meetings have been prohibited, following the disorders on Thursday and Friday nights, when unemployed men battled police, volunteer police and naval pickets, many being seriously hurt and more than 300 placed under arrest. It is estimated the rioters caused damage of about $12,000 on Thursday night. Last night further trouble broke out and the windows of 58 shops were broken.

Tonight, instead of the usual Saturday night jollification, Auckland was like a beseiged city. Naval tickets were concentrateld at strategic points and motor patrols were constantly rolling through the city and suburbs.

The feeling of apprehension was not dispelled, however, especially in view of rumors that residences of prominent citizens might be set on fire. Special guards were posted before some of these.

DO-X Will I'ly Back Over Ocean

NEW YORK, April 16.—Plans to fly the DO-X, world's largest flying boat, across the Atlantic to Spain late in May were announced today by Capt. Friedrich Christiansen, commander of the ship, on his arrival here.

The Giant DO-X arrived in New York last summer after a long flight across the Atlantic marked by a series of mishaps. It since has been tied up in the New York harbor.

PROVINCIAL AIR SERVICE FINISHES WINTER FLYING

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., April 16 — Winter flying operations of the Provincial Air Service came to a close yesterday, Captain W. R. Maxwell, director of the service, said to-day. During the winter planes have been flying from Sioux Lookout into the north, and have been stocking all gasoline caches for the summer's operations. They have also been freighting supplies to remote Forestry Branch stations, and to places where planes will be stationed for summer patrol.

100,000 SEE SCOTTISH CUP SOCCER FINAL

Maxwell Scores First Goal For Kirmarnock After 41 Minutes Of Play

A THRILLING MATCH

Replay Will Take Place at Hampden Park Next Wednesday

GLASGOW, April 16.—(C P Cable)—Rangers and Kilmarnock battled to a one-all draw in the final of the Scottish Football Association competition at Hampden Park today before approximately 100,000 people. It was a thrilling match with both sides looking like winners at different stages. Kilmarnock goaled first through their centre forward, Maxwell, in the forty-first minute of the first half. They held the lead until the eighth minute of the second half when McPhail, Ranger inside left, put in a sizzling grounder from thirty yards out which found the net. McPhail had the ball in the net shortly afterwards but it was called back for offside while Maxwell was robbed of a goal later when Gray, the Ranger right back, blasted a shot after the goalkeeper was beaten. The replay will take place at Hampden Park next Wednesday. Lineup as follows:

Rangers		Kilmarnock
T. Hamilton	G	Bell
Gray	RB	Leslie
McAulay	LB	Nibloe
Meiklejohn	RH	Morton
Simpson	CH	Smith
Brown	LH	McEwan
Archibald	RO	Connell
Marshall	RI	Muir
English	C	Maxwell
McPhail	LI	Duncan
Morton	LO	Aitken

Kilmarnock Holds Advantage

GLASGOW, April 16. (Canadian Press Cable).—The Scottish Football Association cup final to-day started with Kilmarnock having the advantage of wind and sun behind them in the first half when their captain won the toss from the Rangers' skipper. Weather conditions were good while the pitch was in a firm state. Kilmarnock, evidently anxious to cash in on the conditions favoring them, attacked vigorously at the outset but McAulay broke up several of their forays in which Connel was conspicuous. The Rangers reacted with a dash down field which ended in a high dropping shot being put on the Kilmarnock goal and troubling Bell, the custodian.

Rangers maintained their attack and subjected the Kilmarnock defense to severe pressure. Relief came when McPhail shot past. Receiving better support from their half backs Kilmarnock revived and Rangers' goal underwent an escape when Maxwell, the Kilties' centre, was brought down in the goalmouth before he could shoot. Five minutes later English, the Ranger centre, nearly goaled. Bell just managing to save by a magnificent effort. The game swung from end to end while the crowd cheered. Kilmarnock began to do the bigger share of the attacking and Maxwell again came near scoring with a header. Maxwell scored for Kilmarnock in this half.

Rangers Equal Count

In the opening stages of the second half Rangers threw themselves vigorously at the Kilmarnock defence but lost chances to score through over-eagerness. In the eighth minute, however, McPhail set the crowd roaring by equalizing with a fast grounder from thirty yards out. Bell had no chance on the shot. Undismayed Kilmarnock resumed their attack but an offside spoiled Connell's chance to goal when he was clear through.

McPhail had the ball in the net again in the fourteenth minute but the point was disallowed owing to an offside ruling. Kilmarnock made headway with fine, swinging passes which culminated in Aitken flashing in a hot one. Hamilton saving only with the greatest difficulty. He was injured in clearing and the game was held up for a minute or two to let him recover. Kilmarnock, were now playing with great confidence and Maxwell nearly gave them the winner fifteen minutes from time.

Mystery Solved

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 16 (C.P.).—If someone invents a left-handed monkey wrench, there will be a ready market for it, in the speech clinic at the University of Minnesota.

It would be added to its left-handed collection which to-day included left-handed pencil sharpeners, left-handed classroom chairs, and southpaw knick-knacks.

TENEMENT FIRE TRAPS VICTIMS SIX LOSE LIVES

Husband Saves Wife, Two Children—Forced To Leave Two Behind

SECOND TRAGEDY IN WEEK

Combustion In Old Paint Materials In Basement Blamed

NEW YORK, April 16 (C.P.). — Fire, sweeping through a Bronx tenement in which many families slept, killed two adults and four children to-day.

It was the second tragic tenement fire of the week. A mother and five children died when fire trapped them in their fifth floor quarters on Wednesday evening.

Those burned to death today were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dombril, their 12-year-old twin sons, Jacob and Joseph; Edith Weinstein, seven, and Philip Weinstein, 10.

Two Left Behind.

The two Weinstein children were trapped in their apartment after their father, Benjamin Weinstein, had led his wife and two other children to safety through smoke-choked halls.

Rescued by a fireman and by a patrolman, who suffered severe burns in dragging them out, the little girl and boy succumbed several hours later in a hospital.

Combustion in old paint materials stored in the basement was suspected as the source of the fire. It licked through the building quickly.

Campbellford Man Held On $3,200 Bail

Charged With Taking Young Girl To Toronto

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Answering to a charge of unlawfully having taken from her legal guardian without their consent a 15-year-old Campbellford girl, Jack Laws, aged 26, of Campbellford, appeared before Magistrate G. A. Payne in Police Court here to-day, and was remanded until April 20 on $3,200 bail. The charge was laid by Chief of Police G. C. Bromley, following complaints from the parents that the girl was missing from her home last week. Toronto police are alleged to have located the girl at Laws' home in that city and sent her back to Campbellford, arresting Laws on an abduction charge, which was later altered to Section 315 of the Criminal Code.

Laws went bail for himself of $1,600, his mother $800, and his uncle in Toronto $800.

TRAIL RANGERS' GUEST

Toronto Negro Boy To Address Meetings

Peterborough Trail Rangers have as their guest to-day Wilbur Howard, 20-year-old negro boy, who represents a Toronto riding in the Older Boys' Parliament. He is the editor of Parliamentary News, a paper which relates the doings of the parliament.

In fifth form at High School, Howard is an experienced leader of boys' camps. He will speak at the Grand Camp this evening at the "Y," to which all teen-age boys in the city are invited. Sunday morning he will speak at St. Andrew's Church, and in the evening at Mark Street Church.

Auto owners in the Netherland East Indies must pay higher gasoline taxes.

Jacob Biscuit Co. to Leave Ireland If Free State Secedes from Empire

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 16 (C.P. Cable). — A sensation was caused in labor circles to-day by the publication of a circular by the W. R. Jacob Biscuit Manufacturing Company, the second largest individual employer of labor in Ireland, which amounted to a virtual ultimatum that if the Free State seceded from the British Commonwealth of Nations the firm would dispense with the services of 1,500 workers, or half of their staff.

The circular stressed that if the intention of the Republican Government to abolish the oath led to the secession of the Free State, the company's factory would not be able to export biscuits to Northern Ireland and Great Britain without paying import duties on their arrival, and therefore would have to transfer manufacturing to Aintree, Liverpool.

Seven Use Window To Escape Fire

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.).—Seven persons, two of them children, dropped to safety from upstairs windows of a house early to-day when the interior of their home was damaged by fire. W. H. R. Bonnell, his son, William, and daughters, Marion and Mrs. J. Bixell, and Mrs. Bixwell's two children, aged 6 and three months, with a maid, Mary Baker, all escaped.

Six-year-old Beverly Bixell was rescued by Bonnell, her grandfather, after the latter had climbed to the third storey of the house.

POLICE OFFICER TO STAND TRIAL

Manslaughter Charge Develops Out Of Toronto Shooting

YOUTH WAS KILLED

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.)—Motorcycle Officer Peter Thornton of the local force is to face trial on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Albert Heward, shot when he tried to escape from the officer.

Eric Armour, K.C., Crown Attorney, issued the following statement to-day: "Thornton will face prosecution in connection with the death of Albert Heward. The information will be laid in the police court to-day and the charge will be manslaughter."

Thornton, at Heward's inquest, claimed one of the four boys in a stolen automobile fired at him while he was chasing them around several city blocks and that he fired in the air to stop him. Heward's companions declared there were no shots fired by them and that they had no revolver.

SMUTS ADVISES MODERATION IN IRISH DISPUTE

Says South Africa Deeply Interested in De Valera's Claims.

TROUBLE IS DEPLORED.

Concentrate On Opportunities Of Trade Conference, He Urges

CAPE TOWN, S. A., April 16.—(C P Cable)—General Jan Smuts, opposition leader in the South African house of assembly, in a telephone conversation today with J. H. Thomas, dominions' secretary in the British cabinet, expressed the hope the moderation which has so far characterized the negotiations between Great Britain and the Irish Free State would continue.

Referring to the intention of the new Republican government of the Free State to abolish the oath of allegiance and to withhold payment of the land annuities, General Smuts, noted soldier and statesman, declared.

"If by any chance Ireland leaves or is left out of the Commonwealth irreparable damage may be done to the cause—infinitely greater than what is involved in the present dispute. There is profound interest in South Africa over the new Irish difficulty which we all deeply deplore. Prime Minister J. B. Hertzog's message to President Eamon de Valera of the Free State was generally approved.

Only A Family Trouble

I admire the moderate though firm tone of your reply to the Irish note. I trust the moderation will continue and extreme courses will be avoided. Ireland is in the family and it is essentially only a family trouble. Everything should be done

REPORT ON CHARGES BY GORDON MAY BE SHELVED OTTAWA HEARS

Premier Bennett Unlikely to Press for Concurrence by House.

AVOID PARTY DEBATE.

OTTAWA, April 16. — Rumors from usually well-informed sources had it to-day that the report of the probe into the charges made by Hon. George N. Gordon against Premier Bennett and his sister, Mrs. W. D. Herridge, is buried forever in the journals of the House of Commons.

Anxious to avoid further publicity on a matter of great delicacy to the Prime Minister, the Government, it is rumored, will not ask the House to give its concurrence to the committee report. The report strongly censured Mr. Gordon and, by mentioning his status as a privy councillor, gave what was widely regarded as a hint that he would be expelled from that august body, a most unprecedented punishment.

Liberal Position

While the Conservatives moved for a censure of Mr. Gordon, the Liberals on the committee, in a minority report, held that while Mr. Gordon was proven to have made the statements in question, he had subsequently retracted them and apologized. Mr. Gordon was more or less slapped on the wrist by his own party, but no recommendation of censure was made.

Col. G. Reginald Geary, Toronto Conservative, was chairman of the committee and should make the motion for concurrence. Col. Geary was not present however, on the day the report was submitted to the House. Since then—and that is some weeks ago—he has made no move toward making the motion.

Meanwhile, it was generally predicteid here that when he did make the concurrence motion, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and other Liberals would put up an all-day debate against it. But time has slipped by with no motion from Col. Geary and now the lobbies have it that the move will never be made.

Would Avoid Debate

Anticipating a debate and a further nation-wide washing of dirty political linen by the Opposition, Premier Bennett, it is said, is opposed to any re-introduction of the topic. Commitee reports were discussed in the Conservative caucus yesterday morning, but it is not known how the party lined up on this subject. It can be taken for granted, however, that if Mr. Bennet made this decision, he would find it no difficult task to line up his supporters behind him on this question.

Refugees Fleeing From Changchow

AMOY, China, April 16 (C. P.). — The threat against Changchow from Chinese Communist forces which have been advancing upon the city for two or three days, continued to-day and Chinese refugees from there streamed into Amoy.

Chinese military authorities announced yesterday that 2,600 Communists were slain in a battle between provincial troops and the Communists.

ONE MAN KILLED GUARDS INJURED IN SHARP CLASH

Prisoners Attacked Guards With Stone Hammers In Yard Fight

BRIEF ENCOUNTER

Leaders Recently Confined In Penal Cells For Breaking Rules

WINNIPEG, Man., April 16 (CP). Prison guards shot one man dead and wounded two others at Stoney Mountain penitentiary late yesterday to quell a prisoner-uprising, first of serious proportions in the history of the institution.

Two guards were injured when leaders in the rebellion struck them with stone hammers. Mike Bihun, convicted bank robber who took no part in the revolt, was accidentally killed by a bullet which ricocheted from a stone in the prison yard where the fighting took place.

Thomas Jones and William Gorda, prisoners, were wounded after they had slugged two guards. Wall guards shot them in the legs.

Quickly Subdued

The disturbance was quickly-quelled once rifle-armed guards, posted on top of the prisons walls, fired. Jones and Gorda were held entirely responsible for the trouble by Warden Meighen. Bihun took no part in the attack on two prison guards which caused the shooting.

Jones and Gorda, characterized by the warden as two of the hardest prisoners ever housed in the penitentiary, had been confined for several days in the prison's penal cells for violation of rules. Jones, whose home is at Fort William, was taken to Stoney Mountain recently to complete a three-year term for receiving stolen goods.

Gorda is serving a two-year term for housebreaking. He was convicted at Minnedosa, Man.

How Trouble Started

Neither Clayton nor Fisher were seriously hurt, it was reported to-

GIRL VANISHES SEARCH STARTS

NO CLUES TO FOLLOW.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 16.—Authorities set out to solve a kidnapping today but they had no information as to its details, no access to the clues, and in fact no confirmation that there had been a kidnapping.

They were looking for nine-year-old Hilda Brodsky, daughter of a well-to-do hosiery manufacturer, who set out for a public school three blocks from her home yesterday and never got there.

Friends of the family said she was kidnapped for ransom, that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brodsky, had received an unsigned special delivery letter mailed in Wilmington yesterday noon which read:

We have kidnapped your child. If you notify the police or the newspapers we will kill the child. Otherwise await further instructions.

Police Not Confided In

The persons who volunteered this information would say nothing more. The Brodskys refused to see even the police, much less other enquirers. And their lawyer, Harry Rubenstein, notified newspapers that if any article is printed it will be at your peril and responsibility and legal steps will be taken immediately to hold your company responsible for any article published.

Authorities kept a night-long vigil over trains and automobiles without result and Mayor Frank Sparks called a conference of police officials to consider further steps.

Meanwhile a crop of rumors sprang up but none of them could be verified. One was that a telephone caller had arranged a rendezvous with a member of the family for today. Another had revenge the motive and indicated the perpetrators might be persons whom Brodsky prosecuted for some thefts at his business establishment.

U. S. GOVERNMENT TAKING HAND IN LINDBERGH BABY AFFAIR

WORKING SECRETLY.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 16 (C.P.)—The United States Government has been moving secretly to invoke against the kidnappers of the infant Lindbergh the same laws that put Al Capone behind the bars.

As revealed to-day in the Evening Star the Government will waive its technical right to demand a tax share of the $50,000 ransom paid the kidnappers.

But internal revenue agents have been in touch with Charles A. Lindbergh at Hopewell, N.J., for some time.

They were kept advised of the negotiations centring about John F. Condon, and knew of the final arrangements for the ransom payment on April 2.

Elmer J. Irey, chief of the Revenue Bureau's operatives, has represented the treasury along with two of his aces—Frank Wilson and A. P. Madden.

They entered the case after Capone, in a published interview, offered to aid in the baby quest if released temporarily.

For a while rumors were probed that the kidnapping was a plot to obtain Capone's freedom or at least to get concessions from the government.

The law under which the internal revenue agents are investigating is that penalising income tax evasion. There is no expectation the kidnappers will make an income tax return for the $50,000 ransom paid.

MEXICAN BANDS GO ON WAR PATH

Several Towns Sacked, Dozen Lives Taken in Series of Raids.

FEDERAL TROOPS OUT.

MEXICO CITY, April 16 (A.P.)—A dozen dead was the known toll taken by irregular political elements that went on the war path yesterday in Central Vera Cruz, sacked several towns, attacked a train and then scurried back into the hills to disband.

Four persons were killed at Paso Del Macho which the revolutionists captured and sacked. They then attacked a mixed passenger and freight train, which escaped without being boarded because of the valiant defence of its escort and the presence of mind of the engineer.

At least eight persons were slain at Tepetlaxco, according to information reaching Cordoba.

Federal soldiers, under firm orders to disarm the trouble-makers and restore and maintain order, scoured the adjacent hills today for remnants of the bands, who also terrorized the people of Ixhuatlan, Martinez de la Torre, and smaller towns.

It was said the rebels were objecting to the results of the April third plebiscites.

SASKATOON WILL HIRE NO KNOWN COMMUNISTS

SASKATOON, April 16. (C.P.)—Known Communists or those suspected of Communistic activities will not be hired by the parks superintendent during the coming season. This was the decision of members of the parks board last night, when considering the employment policy of the board this summer.

One member objected that the board should not make political discriminations, but another pointed out Communists were in effect criminals as a result of findings in the recent trial of Communists at Toronto, and that no city body could use the taxpayers' money to pay wages to criminals.

To Be "Fair Maiden"

Junia Culbertson of Washington, D.C., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Culbertson, American ambassador to Chile, will take part in the Robin Hood pageant to be presented by the students of Bryn Mawr College as a feature of their two-day May fete on May 6 and 7. Miss Culbertson will play the role of "Fair Ellen."

PRESS DARROW TO NAME KILLER

Honolulu Prosecutor Would Determine Whether Navy Officer is Sane or Not.

DEFENSE ADDS WITNESSES

(By William Ewing.)

HONOLULU, April 16.—(A.P.)—Immediate fulfillment of a defence promise to name one of the four accused persons as the slayer of Joseph Kahahawai was sought by the prosecution in the lynching case here to-day.

Exclusion of testimony relating to the attack on Mrs. Thalia Massie, with which Kahahawai and four others were charged, also was sought by the prosecution.

Before Lieut. Thomas H. Massie resumes the witness stand to continue his story, thus far principally relating to the attack on his wife, lawyers prepared to argue in chambers the advisability of testimony along that line.

Clarence Darrow, chief defence counsel, whose illness halted the trial, announced last night he was much better and would be ready in court to-day.

Would Know Slayer.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley announced he would seek to have Darrow tell the court specifically, before going further with defence testimony, just which one of the defendants would admit firing the fatal shot and plead insanity.

Testifying of the criminal assault upon Mrs. Massie, the young naval officer previously had said the affair preyed upon his mind. The defence indicated Massie would shoulder responsibility for the actual killing and would raise the insanity issue, but Darrow did not specifically name the lieutenant in this connection.

Kelley said he wanted the defense to say whether Massie would admit the killing, so that it could be determined at once whether the navy officer now is sane or insane.

An insane man cannot testify, Kelley said.

The defense broadened the visible scope of its activities by summoning six witnesses in addition to the two Los Angeles alienists previously called.

ONTARIO GRAIN

TORONTO, April 16.—Wheat, 53c to 54c; barley, 35c to 40c; oats, 27c to 30c; rye, 45c; buckwheat, 45c; corn, 36c.

MANITOBA TO RELIEVE BURDENS OF FARMERS

WINNIPEG, April 16 (C.P.)—Aimed at relieving the debt burden under which farmers in Manitoba are struggling, legislation will be brought down in the Manitoba Legislature immediately, according to notice of motion regarding a series of measures given in the Legislature by Hon. D. L. McLeod, municipal commissoiner.

Provision will be made for municipalities helping out farmers who are behind with their taxes, protection against foreclosure and eviction by private corporations without review of the circumstances by the Debt Adjustment Board, and similar protection for farmers in arrears on their loans from the Provincial Farm Loan Association will be given, and the Provincial Government will urge important amendments to the Dominion Bankruptcy Act.

THREE ARRESTED IN KREUGER CASE

BOOKS FALSIFIED.

STOCKHOLM, April 16. (AP)—Three men alleged to have been connected with the operations of the Kreuger interests were under arrest to-day following new developments in the investigation of the affairs of the late Swedish match king, who committed suicide in Paris March 12.

Another important development in the enquiry was a report that a large amount of forged Italian government bonds had been found in Mr. Kreuger's effects.

The three arrested were Carl Lange a director of the Garanta Company of Amsterdam, Sven Huldt of the Nederlanska Bank for Scandinavian commerce, and a man named Victor Holm, described as a director, whose connection with the Kreuger interests was not explained.

They were charged with having falsified a balance sheet and profit and loss account in order to give the impression that the position of the Kreuger companies was much better than it actually was.

They were further charged with assisting Kreuger to manuiplate accounts and of acting as directors of obscure companies formed for the purpose of making possible fraudulent transfers between the books of the various concerns, concealing the real Kreuger position.

These developments were brought out by the enquiry which has been made into the Kreuger interests since the match king's suicide. The investigation had not yet revealed whether any use was made of the forged Italian bonds.

The auditors' report said the irregularities began in 1925.

BENCH ORDERS RUSSELL FREED

CASE ENDS DRAMATICALLY.

MILTON, April 16. — Stanley Russell walked out of the prisoner's box a free man yesterday afternoon when Mr. Justice Fisher brought his trial on a charge of attempting to commit a serious offence against a young girl to an abrupt close by taking the case from the jury and instructing them to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

With startling suddenness the trial of the prominent Oakville funeral director terminated within a few minutes of the Crown closing its case in rebuttal.

Strained Silence.

In a strained silence in which the low sobbing of accused's wife could be heard, His Lordship turned to the jury and briefly reviewed the facts of the case as given in the evidence. The testimony of Dr. Archibald MacCausland, assistant superintendent of the Ontario Hospital at Mimico, who was called by the Crown, had proved the finishing touch to the contention of the defence that the girl was unstable mentally. And His Lordship, in his charge to the jury, declared that the girl's story was not sufficiently supported to permit of the case being allowed to go further.

"The accused must be given the benefit of the doubt," said His Lordship. "I direct the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty. If he is guilty he will have something on his conscience for the rest of his life. It will be a lesson to him."

"You have heard what I have said to the jury," said Mr. Justice Fisher. "You know in your own soul whether you are guilty or not. You have had a close call. You are innocent as far as this verdict is concerned."

LAD FOUND IN WELL.

TATAMAGOUCHE, N.S.—Search for the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Munn ended yesterday in a well behind his home, where his lifeless body was found by brothers and sisters. It is thought he pushed aside the well cover and fell in.

GRAIN INDUSTRY GIVES COMMONS DAY OF DEBATE

OUTLOOK NOT BRIGHT.

Maritime Members Fight for Lower Rates to Boost Trade in Ports.

OTTAWA, April 16.—(CP)— The Canadian grain trade has evidenced slight interest in the $50,000,000 port facilities at Churchill, Man., and the Hudson Bay Railway, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, said in the House of Commons yesterday. It was only after great difficulty that sufficient grain was secured for two trial shipments to Great Britain last fall and bookings for the present year were lacking.

The government, proceeded Dr Manion, was hopeful ten or a dozen boats would clear from the northern port this year but a canvas of the grain grade for bookings so far had been unsatisfactory. There would be no lack of vessels if the grain were available at Churchill, he added.

On the trial shipments last year, said the minister, the government assumed handling charges and the cost to the shipper had been slightly less than if the grain had moved through Montreal. The insurance rate on the cargo we about five times the normal rate.

Dr. Manion said he did not believe the government should absorb part of the insurance rates. Strong representations had been made to the underwriters to reduce the rate and future action would depend largely on the success of the port this season.

No Financial Losses

The house closed this week with a day devoted almost entirely to problems facing the grain industry. The government, announced Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, had incurred no financial losses from guarantees to the wheat pools. This applied to guarantees to the central selling agency of the three prairie pools for the crop year 1930-31 and the guarantee to the three provincial pools, in the form of working capital, for the crop year 1932-32.

Action of the government in standing behind the pools, undoubtedly steadied the market, said Mr. Stevens. If the dominion had not stepped in, the selling agency of the pool's very probably would have found itself in a difficult position. To his knowledge, the Dominion was holding no wheat although he promised to make a more definite statement on this point.

Mr. Stevens gave an emphatic denial to rumours said to be current in some parts of the country that John I. MacFarland, head of the Central Selling Agency, had speculated in grain futures and had suffered losses.

Estimates of the Trade and Commerce Department provoked the grain trade discussion. Early in the day, many Maritime members impressed on the Government the necessity of reducing grain freight rates to Saint John and Halifax. They requested a rate of 19.34 cents a hundredweight—one cent above the Quebec City rate over the National Transcontinental Railway. This rate already has been refused by the Board of Railway Commissioners and an appeal from the judgment was made to the Government about a year ago.

Rate Question.

A decision on the rate question will be made as soon as possible, said Mr. Stevens. It should be borne in mind, he reminded the House, that wheat moved at the direction of its owners. Almost the only part the Dominion could play was to construct port facilities to attract the flow of grain.

In presenting their case for lowered grain rates, the Maritime members said this would attract the volume of wheat to which Saint John and Halifax were entitled.

During private members' hour, Thomas Reid, Lib., New Westminster, moved second reading of his bill to apply Crows' Nest Pass freight rates to grain and flour moving from points as far east as Fort William to Pacific coast ports. Dr. Manion opposed it on the ground the Board of Railway Commissioners, not Parliament, was the logical rate-determining court. After a discussion lasting half-an-hour, the debate was adjourned.

Deafness and Head Noises From Catarrh

If you have catarrh catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, if your nostrils are clogged or if phlegm drops in your throat causing catarrh of the stomach or bowels, secure proper treatment at once. Otherwise you may lose your health, become a wornout catarrhal wreck with your smell, taste and hearing completely gone.

Sprays, salves and inhalers may bring you temporary relief but permanent escape from this dangerous, health-sapping, disgusting disease can only come from a constitutional treatment that will expel the catarrhal poison from your system. So go to your druggist today for an ounce of Parmint, take this home and add to it a little sugar and ½ pint hot water. A tablespoonful taken four times a day will act upon the blood and mucous membrane and bring relief.

Think what it will mean to breathe freely again, to hear plainly, smell, taste, and arise in the morning refreshed and strong, with clear head and throat free from phlegm. Certainly you cannot enjoy or benefit from life so long as you are afflicted with catarrh. So for your own sake give Parmint a trial—start treatment today.

Bishop to Speak At Campbellford

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16.—The Rt. Rev. W. T. Hallam, Bishop of Saskatchewan, will be the special preacher at Christ church, Campbellford on the evening of Thursday, April 21 when he will present the cause of the Western Canadian missions. Coming east with three other bishops of the mid-west, Rt. Rev. Ralph Sherman, Bishop of Calgary, Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, Bishop of Caledonia and Rt. Rev. R. J. Renison, Bishop of Athabaska, a joint appeal is being made to the eastern church with the idea of stimulating interest in the mission work of the Church of England. After speaking in Toronto on Sunday, April 17, the bishops with other church dignities, will make their appeal throughout the Deaneries in the Toronto Diocese.

HOLD TO BELIEF BABY IS ALIVE

MADE ANOTHER CONTACT.

NORFOLK, Va. April 16.— Three Norfolk intermediaries, who say they have been repeatedly requested by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to carry on, awaited in readiness today to further their efforts towards the recovery of the stolen Lindbergh baby.

Word that the famous flyer had requested them to continue their work and that their belief had been renewed that the baby was alive and well was brought back by Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired and John Hughes Curtis from secret missions made this week. Admiral Burrage said Curtis made at least one contact with the supposed kidnappers during his five day absence from the city.

Maintains Silence

Referring frequently to the request made by Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh that the press refrain from questioning and following the negotiators, Admiral Burrage maintained a strict silence concerning the progress of the negotiations and details of their recent trips. He revealed, however, the four conferences were held with Col. Lindbergh.

Mr. Curtis left Norfolk Sunday shortly after conferring with Col. Lindbergh concerning the futile payment of $50,000 to men identified as the kidnappers. Prior to his departure he and Dean Dobson-Peacock stated that their efforts were undoubtedly made more difficult by the unsuccessful ransom payment.

poration and the Ontario Hydro.

Mr. Sweezey at the Senate Beauharnois enquiry subsequently denied Mr. Aird's evidence. He said he had handed him $125,000 in bearer bonds after the contract had been concluded, in the belief Mr. Aird had been deputized by Ontario political chiefs to make the collection and that the money would go to the credit of the Ontario Conservative party campaign fund.

The subject of the payment to Aird became one of controversy between the Ontario Liberal party and the provincial government. W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader in the legislature repeatedly challenged Premier Henry in the legislature to widen the scope of the Middleton enquiry to include the Aird payment.

Premier's Position

Mr. Henry, however, declined to take such action, contending that only payments by the Hydro should be probed but that Mr. Justice Middleton himself, would understand the terms of his commission have power to broaden the scope of his investigation if he should deem such action advisable.

It is understood the Orde enquiry will get started next Wednesday and that Hon. Howard Ferguson, Canadian minister in London, who was premier of Ontario at the time the Beaharnois payment was made, will give evidence. W. N. Tilley is likely to continue as counsel for the commissioner in bringing out the facts.

HINDENBURG WIDENS PROBE.

BERLIN.—President Von Hindenburg, who dissolved the National Socialist storm troops by decree this week, to-day instructed the authorities to investigate accusations that other political units are maintaining military organizations calculated to undermine the authority of the State.

TRIO'S TERM TOTAL 40 YEARS.

TORONTO.—Three persons, two of whom had pleaded guilty to criminal charges, and the third had been found guilty by a jury, were sentenced by Mr. Justice J. T. Kelly to a total of 40 years and 4 months' imprisonment in Assize Court here to-day.

STIMSON AT GENEVA.

GENEVA.—Henry L. Stimson, U.S. Secretary of State, arrived from Paris to-day and went immediately to the villa a mile east of the city, which he had engaged as a residence during his stay here.

JAPAN DECLINES TO PARTICIPATE IN PEACE PARLEY

Takes Stand League Group Not Competent to Deal With Situation.

THREE POINTS IN DISPUTE.

Minor Official Will Give Information But Take No Part in Discussions.

TOKYO, April 16.—(A.P.)— The Japanese delegation at Geneva was instructed by the Government today not to attend sessions of the League of Nations committee of nineteen appointed to deal with the Sino-Japanese controversy.

If the committee specifically requests the attendance of a Japanese representative, the Government instruction said, the delegation may send a minor official to furnish information but not to participate in the discussions.

The government takes the position that Japan does not recognize the committee's competence to deal with the Sino-Japanese situation because Japan denies the applicability of Article XV of the League covenant, under which the committee was formed.

Approved Program.

The committee was appointed by the League Assembly a month ago after it had approved a three-point program for a peaceful settlement of the conflict.

The three points were a declaration that agreements reached under military pressure would not be recognized, an assertion upholding China's claim that the assembly was competent to deal with the entire Far Eastern question and a provision for supervising peacemaking problems through the committee of 19.

FEELING TENSE IN MINE FIELDS

Ohio National Guard Continues on Duty Patrolling Diggings.

SNIPING BY STRIKERS.

CADIZ, O., April 16.—A feeling of tenseness persisted in the East Ohio coal fields around here to-day as the aftermath of striking coal miners' riots, in which two men have been killed.

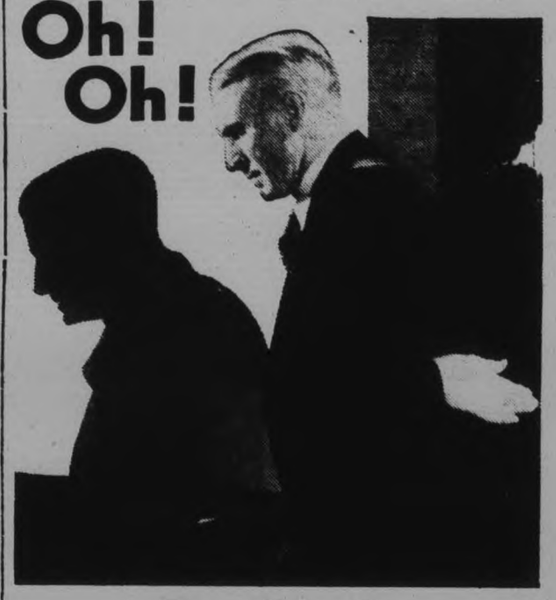
The last death was discovered late yesterday when the body of Carl Naygren, 45, was found in a ditch after a crowd of 200 men earlier attacked four non-striking miners en route to the Harmon Creek mine near this city.

Officials believed Naygren died of fright, for no marks were found on his body. The four men attacked, however, were badly beaten. Later, authorities arrested three suspects.

About 300 members of the Ohio National Guard who remained on duty in the coal fields to-day reported they had the situation under control, except for infrequent sniping.

Hopes for settling the coal miners' wage strike, out of which the hostilities grew, are pinned at the present time upon a conference called by Secretary of Labor William H. Doak.

The conference will be held in Washington, April 20.



Backache

These all important filters have failed to eliminate the uric acid poisons from the blood and poisons cause pain.

You may have headache, pains in the limbs, rheumatism or lumbago. The skin becomes dry and you may lose weight.

The quickest way to sweep the poisons from the system is by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They cannot fail because they immediately arouse the action of the kidneys, the liver and the bowels, cleanse the system and bring relief from pains and aches.

Millbrook

Struck by a suddenly opened door near which she was standing, Mrs. John Fallis, who is in her eighty-third year, sustained a bad fall on Thursday resulting in a fracture of her right hip.

Dr. H. A. Turner was called and gave the necessary medical attention, and unless unexpected complications set in, does not anticipate serious results. Mrs. Fallis has been with her sister, Mrs. Margaret Gardiner, for the winter at her home here, where she is being cared for since the accident, removal to the local hospital not being considered expedient.

A little over two years ago, while visiting in Toronto, Mrs. Gardiner met with a similar accident through being knocked down by a taxi, and after being an invalid for some months was able to go around the home without serious inconvenience.

Mrs. Alexander Hunter, who has been ill with flu for some time past, has gone to stay with her daughter in Toronto until convalescence is complete.

Mrs. Jas. Eastcott is back at her home in the village, after spending the winter with her daughter, Dr. Edna Eastcott, in Toronto.

The many friends of Reeve P. and Mrs. Stinson will be glad to learn that their two little sons, Teddy, who has been ill with pneumonia, and Conrad, with bronchitis, are now making progress toward recovery.

Councillor P. I. Bentley's many friends will be sorry to learn that he is again confined to bed through illness.

Through T. J. Lang of Peterborough, as sales' agent, Hugh Blair has bought the house at the west end of the village where William McIvor formerly lived, and expects to remove from Ted Thorndyke's house at the east end of King street where he has been living, to his new property in the near future.

Miss Alice Vance, of Toronto, is visiting in the village this week, the guest of Miss Margaret Wood.

Mrs. E. G. Britton, and her son, Peter, expect to leave in the early part of next week to join Mr. Britton at Petrolia, where he has been appointed manager of the Bank of Toronto, Mr. Kerr, of Stayner, taking his place as manager of the branch at Millbrook.

Miss Ella Grandy entertained for three tables of bridge recently, prizes going to Mrs. R. A. Ford and Mrs. John Dawson, the service of dainty refreshments shortly after eleven p.m. bringing a most enjoyable social gathering to a close.

S. Parrow, who has been occupying the W. McIvor house at the west end moved this week into Mrs. George Sanderson's house on Main street. G. Freelove and family have moved in with her mother, W. Bruce, at the west end.

SOUR stomach

IF fear of what will follow overshadows the enjoyment of your meals, your system may be too acid.

Those pangs of indigestion right after eating and that lump you feel in your stomach for hours after, the flatulence and sourness, are the symptoms of over-acidity. Take an anti-acid and neutralize the excess acid. You won't be comfortable until you do.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will always check that condition of over-acidity. It acts pleasantly but promptly, and most effectively. It supplies needed alkali to neutralize excess acids of the stomach and bowels. Headaches, flatulence and nausea are promptly relieved. Your digestion will speedily improve. Your appetite will be sharpened. Constipation quickly yields to the gentle laxative effect of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Many make a practice of taking a spoonful or two before meals one or two days weekly. It is a delightful way to keep the system always sweet, and to keep the bowels from growing sluggish; also to guard against auto-intoxication.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will check a cold in a hurry. Just take a spoonful at three-hour intervals until that weak, achy, feverish condition is gone and your head is all clear.

Get a bottle to-day; read the directions and learn Phillips Milk of Magnesia's many important uses. For you and the whole family. 50c bottles at drug stores everywhere in the Dominion. (Made in Canada.)

GOD'S GUIDANCE IN HISTORY

By WILLIAM SOUTHERN

MODERN archaeologists excavating on the ancient site of Ur of the Chaldees, are finding written records and turning back the pages of the history of the human race, reading backward through the deposits of centuries. Every new discovery and each new record fits exactly into the picture and corroborates and verifies the story told in Genesis.

Ur of the Chaldees was the birthplace of Abram, who is venerated by the three great monotheistic religions as the Father of the Faithful. Abram is the father of the Jew, the Mohammedan and the Christian. The story of Abram as recorded in Genesis occupies thirteen of the fifty chapters in the book. Between the account in Genesis of the creation, of the coming of sin into the world and the call of Abram, comes the listing of the generations from Adam, the crime of Cain, the story of the men who lived nearly a thousand years, the giants of those days, the flood, the tower of Bebel. So it is that we get a picture of a wide expanse of country about the Persian Gulf occupied by tribes and nations. Ur of the Chaldees is known to have been a city of civilization and culture and laws. Abram was not just a commoner, but evidently belonged to a wealthy family of great consequence. At least his father Terah was of importance enough to be the centre of government disagreements and when he left Ur with his family it made a hegira of some note.

Ur and the other cities roundabout worshipped the moon god. Abram had long studied about the secrets of life and of God and decided that there was one God. His ideas were not very popular in that country and he decided to go west and grow up with the country and the story of his migration begins the story of the Hebrew and the Arab nations.

If we read the Arab histories we find exactly the same accounts with one big exception. Ishmael is the favorite son instead of Isaac. The Hebrew history makes Ishmael the son of a handmaiden and Isaac the true prince of the House of Abram. But even the Hebrew history mentions Ishmael and his mother Hagar as being under the special protection of God when she is banished and an angel saves her and her child. According to the Arab and Hebrew chronicles twelve sons were born to Ishmael as twelve sons were born to his nephew the great Hebrew prince, and they were all princes of the great nation. Hagar is thought to be an Egyptian. In Genesis the Ishmaelites are taken as a matter of course as neighbors and Joseph was sold by his brothers to a caravan of Ishmaelite traders on their way to Egypt.

Abram was directed of God to leave the old home of his fathers and seek a wider range and found a nation. It seems quite reasonable that for years he had talked the matter over with his father Terah and that when Terah died there was nothing to hinder, for Abram was at the beginning of his journey 75 years of age. His was a great caravan. Retainers, cattle and all the things which a rich man would have accumulated. He travelled slowly and definitely and settled in Canaan. At every stop Abram testified to his faith and built an altar and grew stronger in his faith in God and in his faith that God was directing him. The call had to him been distinct and positive and then, from that time on, this great old man never doubted. He believed that God was directing his steps and he lived close to his God.

Of course the great lesson we of to-day get from re-reading and remembering anew the struggle of men who found God, is the conquering power of faith. God's guiding hand in history. Once he understood the call and obeyed it, his faith was sublime and unshakable. There were times in his long life when things looked mighty bad. when his little caravan was threatened with destruction, but Abram never faltered as did his kinsman. Lot; his faith never wavered.

The religious motive runs through the story and holds it together. It is a part of the web and woof of the whole fabric, that part which makes it strong and worth while.

I like to think of God's guidance in history and in every historical account of the recorded adventures of men and nations I look for the evidences of that guidance and am always able to find it clearly set forth. From Abram's time, some 2,100 years B.C., the story runs without serious breaks. The Hebrew history brings us through the establishment of kingdom as the race develops. It also carries us through the fall of great nations and the rise of other and stronger nations. Of course, the Hebrew history presupposes the special care and direction of God for the Hebrews, but alongside in the same book we find that God is directing the great men of contemporary nations. Then we find the prophet Isaiah declaring a great principle that nations which follow and obey the laws of God shall prosper and those which do not shall be destroyed.

From Abram to Jesus is the same story. Jesus devoted his life to the one theme, the conquering power of faith. Follow then the history of the peoples of the earth from Jesus to the present time and there we also find with certainty the directing power of God. There are some who are willing to believe that God's directing power is abroad in the world and in general terms and are not willing to bring it right down to our own living-rooms and find it in the family and the individual. They argue that it would be too much to expect God to know anything about a backwoodsman or farmer in Canada who did not amount to much anyhow. I do not limit God's power and certainly believe that His directing force touches our individual lives. Indeed I have seen and experienced things for which I can account in no other way and do not wish to account for them in any other way.

A Chat with Young Peterboro

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR APRIL 17.

THEY say a rolling stone gathers no moss. Maybe it's so, but who wants to stay put and be a mossback? I guess all the neighbours talked about rolling stones when Abraham started out for an unknown destination. Abraham didn't intend becoming a mossback so he began to roll. Of course, he didn't know just where he was going, but he knew who was going along with him. Who was that? Why, God, of course. And that makes all the difference. I heard once that "Abraham the Hebrew" means "Abraham the Cross-over Man," because he crossed over and out of the borders of his native land. Well, then, he was the first explorer and emigrant in history. He did a great thing for himself, and a greater thing for the world when he ventured out into parts unknown at God's command. You know whenever you wash dishes, you wash your own hands too. Abraham obeyed God and was blessed for his obedience, but in doing so he became a blessing to the whole world. Abraham is the one person where Christian, Jew and Mohammedan meet. Whatever their other differences, Abraham is a saint to all three.

I always think of Abraham and Dr. John Robertson together. They were men of the same stamp. Fifty years ago, Dr. Robertson stepped out something like Abraham when he began his great work of planting a church in what was then the great unknown West of Canada. Nobody knew much about the West then, except that settlers were going in from various points. There were no railways, only prairie trails. Robertson started out with a horse and buggy to plant religion among the newcomers. His first trip lasted six months. He left Winnipeg in August in the heat and dust, and returned at Christmas in the snow and the cold after travelling two thousand miles. And he kept that up for twenty years, breaking the trail for other pioneers, until he laid himself down to his long rest. Everywhere he went he established his church. Just like Abraham in that, too. You'll notice that every place Abraham stopped in his travels he dug a well for his family and stock to drink from, and he built an altar beside it for the worship of God. That's the kind of trail to leave behind one. Which is the better, a rolling stone like that, or one that only gathers moss?

Growth

DEAD things never grow. At best they crystalize into a mimic semblance of growth. But they possess no power of assimilation, of increase in strength, and use, or of reproduction. The year's end finds them as its beginning did. But a living thing must grow, either harmoniously and symmetrically, or otherwise. No man is the same, either physically or mentally, or spiritually, that he was twelve months back. He has grown either upward or downward. The good in him has increased, or the evil, and the increase of the evil means decay unto death. If he has grown he is more solidly rooted in principle, more sympathetic with his fellowmen, more strict with himself, and more charitable towards others, more patient under irritations, more ready to render kindly service to those who need it.

High Ideals

TO aspire is not enough. A youth may aspire to be the best billiard player, the best politician, the best gambler or the most clever cheat. He may rise to be eminent in his calling; but, compared with other men, his greatest height will be below the level of the failure of him who chooses a noble profession.

Every man will do well to weigh carefully the value of his ideal not only in the light of popular appeal and pleasure but in the light of human experience and the highest wisdom also. No juggiery or thought, no gorgeousness of trappings, no clamor of the crowd can possibly make the low high, the dishonest honest, or the harmful helpful. As is a man's ideal, so shall his life and his influence be.

The happy man is he who distinguishes the boundary between desire and delight, and stands firmly on the higher ground—he who knows that pleasure is not only not possession but is often to be lost, and always to be endangered by it. —Landor.

The greater the difficulty, the more glory in surmounting it. Skilful pilots gain their reputation from storms and tempests.—Epicurus.

God's Dream

DREAMS are they—but they are God's Dreams!
Shall we decry them and scorn them?—
That men shall love one another,
That white shall call black man brother,
That greed shall pass from the market-place,
That lust shall yield to love of the race,
That man shall meet with God face to face—
Dreams are they all.
But shall we despise them—
God's dreams?
Dreams are they—to become man's dreams,
Can we say nay as they claim us?—
That men shall cease from their hating,
That war shall soon be abating,
That the glory of kings and lords shall pale
That the pride of dominion and power shall fail,
That the love of humanity shall prevail—
Dreams are they all,
But shall we despise them—
God's dreams?

Adventures

MEN have circumnavigated the globe and have gone from pole to pole. They are penetrating into the dark corners of the earth. Yet when every square foot of surface has been mapped there will still be need for adventurers. In the sphere of social relationships there are areas that brave souls must enter and take possession of in the name of ordered liberty. The youth of to-day must furnish the leadership of to-morrow for these great adventures into social reconstruction.

A TOUR OF CANADA.

If it is true, as intimated, that Premier Bennett has practically decided to take the delegates from Great Britain and the Dominions to the Imperial Economic Conference on a tour of Canada, the entire party to cross the country on one of the transcontinental railways and return on the other, the plan will appeal to Canadians generally as doubly advantageous.

In the first place, the statesmen from all parts of the Empire would be able to obtain a first-hand impression of Canada's hugeness, its varied scenery, and its immense resources, an object lesson of great advertising value to this country and one that could not possibly be obtained if the delegates merely visited Ottawa.

On the other hand, a transcontinental tour of Canada by such a distinguished group of Empire leaders would have a most beneficial educative effect upon Canadians, enabling them to get a clearer picture of the greatness of the Commonwealth of British nations and a closer acquaintance with the men who direct the destinies of those nations.

If the time at the disposal of the conference delegates enables such a tour to be arranged, the people of this country as a whole would be delighted to play hosts to Empire figures of the first rank, and the benefits both to Canada and to the delegates themselves would justify the suggested plan being carried through to completion.

BEWARE THE CARP!

A local correspondent sends The Examiner a warning to those interested in the fishing and duck shooting facilities of this district to be on their guard against the carp, which, he declares, is threatening to invade the waters in this neighborhood.

Quite a number of years ago, our informant writes, some carp were placed in a mill pond at Newmarket. They multiplied rapidly, but if they had stayed where they were first placed there would have been no complaints. Unfortunately, however, the dam broke and the fish got into the Holland River.

At that time the south end of Lake Simcoe was a mass of wild rice and one of the finest duck feeding grounds in Ontario, as well as a grand fishing ground for 'lunge.

To-day there is hardly a bit of rice left, and the 'lunge is almost a curiosity, all on account of the carp destroying the spawn and destroying the roots of the rice.

All the shallow bays, creeks and rivers around Lake Simcoe are now filled with carp, a fish few people will eat, and our correspondent points out that if the people here do not want the adjoining Kawartha waters invaded something will have to be done, for they have already reached Balsam Lake, and it will not be long before they will have destroyed all the rice and the spawn of the 'lunge and bass in these lakes.

The shallow lake with a marshy or muddy bottom is the place for carp, and it is also the natural spawning ground for 'lunge. The carp feeds like a sucker—that is, he does not bother the small minnows much, but sucks up insects and the spawn of other fish.

Sportsmen will echo the hope of our informant that "the authorities will stop the carp before they get too big a start in these waters."

CANADA'S FUR PRODUCTION.

Canada's raw production for the twelve months ending June 30, 1931, according to figures just released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics had a total value of $11,806,407, a decrease from the preceding season of $563,969, or 4½ per cent.

The decrease in value, it is explained, was due to the lower prices prevailing in the fur trade as the number of pelts marketed was greater than in the season 1929-30 for nearly all the principal kinds of furs.

The total number of pelts, comprising those of ranch bred animals as well as those taken by trappers, amounted to 4,057,479, compared with 3,798,444 in the previous year.

The silver fox, for the second season in succession, occupies first place among the fur producers of Canada, the total value of the pelts for the season 1930-31 being $3,216,217, practically the whole of this amount being credited to the ranch bred fox. The number of silver fox pelts sold was 71,816—more than double the number recorded for any one of the preceding four seasons. The average price per pelt was $44.78—the lowest average recorded within recent years for silver fox pelts. Muskrat is next in importance to the silver fox with a total value in 1930-31 of $2,142,736, and is followed by white fox with $1,689,599, mink with 904,360, and beaver with $740,258. All of these kinds show increases in number of pelts, compared with the preceding season. Other kinds of furs having a production in 1930-31 valued at over $100,000 are red fox, ermine, marten, patch or cross fox, coyote, lynx, otter, badger, fisher or pekan, and skunk.

Ontario was first among the Provinces in order of value of raw fur production for the season 1930-31, but there was a difference of only $82,478 in value between it and the Province of Quebec. The Northwest Territories was third in order of value with a total of $1,872,397, and Saskatchewan and Alberta are next, the former with $1,132,718, and the latter with $1,118,059. The other Provinces fall below the million dollar mark.

AN IMPOSSIBLE PROGRAM.

The reaction to Mr. Gardiner's sub-amendment to the budget and the Progressive leader's suggestion that all incomes above $20,000 or $25,000 should be conscripted has been about what might have been expected.

Such an appeal to mass cupidity may have fooled a few thoughtless people, but thinking Canadians have not been slow to see the impossibility of the Gardiner program.

A tax on savings, bank deposits, such as Mr. Gardiner proposed, as a means of driving into circulation some of the money now held in the banks, would ignore the fact that the majority of savings bank accounts are for small sums and represent the thrift of thousands of Canadians who have laid by these nest-eggs for emergency purposes.

As for the confiscation of incomes in excess of $20,000 or $25,000, The Examiner agrees with the Border Cities Star when it says, "We can think of few things that would harm Canada more than the adoption of Mr. Gardiner's suggestion."

"How could we expect people to come here and invest their money with such a law on the books?" asks the Star.

"How could we expect leaders in business and the professions to plan and toil in the knowledge that after their incomes had reached a certain stage

Mr. Gardiner's theories have no place in Canthe state would step ruthlessly in and confiscate?" ada, and it can be taken for granted that his sub-amendment will get little support in the House of Commons.

REDUCING SALES IS WRONG WAY TO SAVE.

Deflation being the inevitable order of the day, the primary duty of business executives is to get down costs of production and distribution. The need for this arises from two directions; the necessity of reducing selling costs to the lowered purchasing power of farmers and wage-earners and the difficulty of earning any profit at all on the current volume of business.

Chief impetus for cost reduction in business is coming from bankers, who, in the United States and Canada, are going over the accounts of their clients pointing out ways and means of reducing expenses and, in many cases where loans are involved, insisting upon deep cuts. Since bankers are not intimately acquainted with the details of every class of business, they must necessarily confine their activities largely to suggesting general reductions in the budgets for all departments, leaving it to departmental heads to find the wastes that can be eliminated. In the main, the bankers are doing a good turn to business.

But bankers in general are traditionally poor merchandisers. The enforced secrecy with which they surround the major portion of their efforts keeps them to too great an extent out of touch with the public. Their dislike of publicity very often is enlarged into a lack of understanding of the fundamentals of any form of publicity, whether advertising or direct salesmanship. The average banker going through a concern's accounts is very likely, first of all, to suggest that all new improvements be deferred; next he will probably blue pencil entertainment accounts, club fees, bonuses, branch offices and similar obviously controllable expenses. But sooner or later his calculating eye is certain to rest upon the advertising budget and on the ground that advertising is something that can be cut immediately, whereas interest charges, rent, taxes and similar items take a longer time to handle, he will probably urge an immediate reduction in expenditures for this form of salesmanship.

Bankers as a class are still too recent converts to advertising to have any real knowledge of it. It is only in recent years that they have themselves used good advertising to do a job of business building. In their advertising they have aimed less at direct results than at prestige, and so they have not fully sensed the definite dollars and cents value of advertising well directed.

Bankers to-day are unwisely attempting to curb advertising programs. There are some such programs that must be reduced or even eliminated entirely. Each company is, of course, an individual case to be dealt with as the circumstances dictate. But a general policy of reducing advertising and sales efforts is a sure way to prolong the depression not only for any individual concern but for business as a whole.

Advertising is one form of salesmanship and its aim is to build volume of sales. When this strong arms of merchandising and distribution is weakened the result must be fewer sales. A reduction in volume means that the unit costs of production of the remaining business are increased. If production facilities are over-expanded the best solution is to attempt to bring sales up, and to bring sales up proper advertising must be properly used.

Sales effort must be kept up in these times of all times. But it must be intelligently directed sales effort. Advertising copy must be more carefully written and media must be selected more circumspectly. Poor advertising brings only poor results.

Good advertising is not one of the wastes of business and reduction of advertising appropriations, simply as a way to save money, rather than as a way to use the advertising dollar more efficiently, will postpone recovery.—Financial Post.

MAINTAIN THE INTEGRITY OF THE EMPIRE

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

Two nations are determining the course of world events.

Great Britain and the United States determined what nation should be victor in the Great War. The Imperial Impulse of Germany received a check, its devotees, will not soon forget. On the Danube Basin Customs Union issue Britain through Ramsay Macdonald has halted the scheme of Tardieu of France to leave Germany out of consideration. Germany needs the raw material, of the Danube basin countries, for her industries. The Danube basin nations need the German markets. France was determined to destroy the trade between these countries; and thus embarrass Germany. Ramsay Macdonald voiced the policy of Great Britain, that the other nations of Europe, must consent before any such customs union treaty, would be sanctioned by her.

In the Japan-China trouble, Secretary of State Stimson, has notified the League of Nations, and all interested nations of the world of, "The vital importance of the faithful observance, of the covenants of all the nations, concerned in the affairs of the Far East." The aggressions of Japan in Manchuria will not receive the sanction of the United States government. Great Britain is with America in this decision. Japan was undoubtedly bent on confiscation of Manchuria in the face of the protest of the whole world. She is coming to her better senses.

This brings me to the reason why these matters have been touched in this letter. Here it is. The integrity of three or four of the great nations must be maintained for the sake of destiny and the future of the world. Of these nations Great Britain and the United States are pre-eminent, De Valera would dismember the British Empire if he could. He has not won recognition as a loyal British subject. He declares that the oath in the treaty made by the Irish Free State and the British Government is "obnoxious to the Irish people," and "that it is not mandatory." The treaty is an agreement. The Irish Free State was a party to this compact. She is also a party to the agreement about annuities. The objective in the mind of De Valera is neither the oath nor the annuities. He would separate Ireland completely from the rest of the British Empire. Supreme difficulties are in his way. To take one step in that direction he must have behind him an united Ireland, North Ireland and the Irish Free State are antagonistic. Hitch them together and what would happen. This reminds me of a story. A husband and wife were always scrapping. One evening as they sat before the fireplace, wife said to husband, "look at the dog and cat—one at each end of the fireplace, how quiet and peaceful they are." "Oh yes, I see," answered husband. "Hitch them up and see what they will do."

But there is a more serious view of the Irish question to be considered. De Valera would nullify the treaty with Britain. There was the day when Germany repudiated the treaty with Belgium. Germany had a great army of well drilled and disciplined soldiers. She had great army resources. She had a navy. She had all that a strong war-like nation could wish. She was certain of success. She would humble France. Germany was beaten. True great forces finally came into battle field against her. But the great force that beat her was the moral force of the treaty she repudiated. That sacred treaty force will rout Japan from Manchuria and Shanghai.

The moral force inherent in the treaty of the Irish Free State and the British government will, if the treaty be repudiated, be the undoing of De Valera and the Irish Free State.

We are living in an age when the moral values invested in national treaties cannot be repudiated without disastrous consequences. Mightier than armies or navies is the moral force of treaties. Faithfully kept they are the might of nations.

Samuel, British Home Secretary, Makes Statement in Reviewing Criminal Statistics.

MORE CRIME SINCE WAR.

LONDON, April 16. — Motion pictures are doing more to prevent crime than to encourage its commission, Sir Herbert Samuel, the Home Secretary, said yesterday in reviewing criminal statistics in the House of Commons.

Since the war crimes in Great Britain have nearly doubled, he said, and the most serious problemf is the criminal between 25 and 30 who had little discipline in youth because the war occupied all the attention of his parents.

In the discussion which followed, one of the members cited the Lindbergh kidnapping as an instance of what he called "American lawlessness."

He said that the newspapers had reported that Scotland Yard had given the United States police some help on that case, and he asked Sir Herbert to say, before the debate ended, whether that report were true and just what assistance Scotland Yard had given.

PHONE TO HONOLULU

The wireless telephone service from England has been extended to the Hawaiian Islands, the charge from London to Honolulu being £9 for three minutes.

Coffee shipped into the United States in 1931 was valued at nearly $175,000,000.

DISTRICT NURSE by Faith Baldwin

"You won't tell, you won't get Pasquale into trouble?" asked Gilda.

"No, I won't get him into trouble."

"The trucking business. He—he had that all right. But when he first came here, to the neighborhood, he met O'Connor. Pasquale didn't understand. It was a game to him the racket. It was—exciting. He's strong, he's young, dangers—that's a game to him, too. And he didn't mind if they were breaking the law. Laws didn't mean much to him—at home, if had always been a mans' law, first. You were your law. You understand. You know such people. And there was easy money in the racket—"

Ellen was cold with the realization which coming to her slowly, was not to be denied. So many things began to clear, so many little pieces of puzzles began to fit in. Jim, denying he knew Fontana; Jim, at Fontana's table at the Napoli; Jim, and his careless ways, so easy with money; Jim, and Bartlett's warning.

She said, "Liquor, of course?"

"I don't know," said Gilda. She was calmer now. "Liquor, maybe, but something else. Something smuggled. Drugs, perhaps." said Gilda. "I've never been able to find out. Perhaps some imported goods, gotten through here without dust. I've thought and thought and tried to make him tell. He wouldn't. Pasquale's loyal, he laughs, he says, 'never mind, I take care of it.' He said the truck, you see, and his little business. He was young," she said again, "and strong. He had friends—

"It's Jim's business then, whatever it is?" asked Ellen slowly.

"Yes. He's—the organizer. He has men, working for him. He has ways of getting lofts and hideaways. He can take care of whatever it is they bring in, and of men, when they have to hide. He has—his real estate business—it's like a false front on a shop. The others do the hard work, the dangerous work. After—after Pasquale met me he wanted to quit. He told Jim O'Connor so. But he wouldn't let him. He said he was in it; he'd have to stay in it. But after—we married, he did quit. He went down to see O'Connor. He had a knife. He put in on the desk; he said, keeping his hand on it. 'I'm quitting.' He said, 'I'll keep my mouth shut, you needn't worry, but—I'm quitting.' O'Connor was—ugly. And while they were quarrelling—it was at night—in the back room of the office—a man came in—his name was Brown. 'I'm Dan Brown,' he kept saying. Pasquale had never seen him before. He was like a crazy man, he told me. He kept screaming at O'Connor—'You stay away from my wife—I'll see that you stay away from her.' He had a gun. Pasquale is bigger, stronger. He got it away from him. He said he didn't want to be mixed up in a shooting. He said he could take care of his own affairs but he didn't want to be in on any one else's. He took the man out. He walked him blocks miles. The man, this Brown, talked, all the time. Pasquale didn't understand, much. Only that O'Connor had been hanging around his wife making her unhappy, and that Brown couldn't stand it. Brown kept saying, 'Now, now I don't know what to believe. I don't know what to believe.'"

"He walked all the fight out of him," Pasquale said, Gilda went on, while Ellen sat there, still as if carved from wood, her heart the only living thing about her, she thought, leaping against her side, hurting. "And then he went back to find O'Connor. He was still there. He was drinking; he had been frightened. He told Pasquale that he had only flirted with Brown's wife a little, and she got sore at something he said and said she'd tell her husband—that was all, he said. He then thanked Pasquale for what he had done. Pasquale said he hadn't done anything; perhaps he shouldn't have interfered. All he wanted now was for O'Connor to let him alone."

Gilda sighed.

"So, you see, he quit. O'Connor didn't urge him any more and he went on with his little trucking business. But trade was scarce. Sometimes he'd find his tires cut. Sometimes other things were the matter. Another man, here in the district, one of O'Connor's men, gave better prices—and for the last week or so O'Connor's tried to get him back. He said to him, "See, you couldn't make a go of it. Better change your mind. I'll put you in the way of something good." Gilda began to beat her hands together. "I'm afraid he'll go back," she wept. "I'm afraid. And something will happen. Jail. Or he'll be killed, some night. I—he doesn't want to go back. But he keeps thinking of me. I'm going to have a baby," said Gilda. "He keeps thinking of us—I'm afraid O'Connor's beaten him—and he'll go back."

Ellen said through stiff lips.

"He won't go back—"

Gilda shrieked. She hurled herself at Ellen, caught her knees, huddled there on the floor beside her, all the restraint, all the ways of the new world fallen from her; a woman, Gilda, fighting for her man. Whether she loved him or not was not important. She belonged; she was loyal—

"You won't tell—you won't get him into trouble?"

Ellen said, "No, I didn't mean that. Gilda, stop. Get up. Here, come over here, sit beside me. I won't tell. I'll find a way out for all of you, somehow."

"You won't—go to the police?—about O'Connor? If he's caught," sobbed Gilda, "he'll turn the other men up, all of them, to save himself, if he can—"

"I'm not going to the police," said Ellen. "I'm going to get you and Pasquale away. Into the country—somewhere. A house of your own, room for the baby to play in, to breathe in. Sunshine. Right away out of the city. We're going to do that somehow. Find work for Pasquale, and a place for you to live. Where you won't be bothered—any more—"

That was what she had to do; how, she didn't know. She went back to the office. It was past five o'clock. She had spent the last hour of her time with Mrs. Maloney and Gilda. But her calls had been finished. Miss Renwick was alone in the office, ready to leave.

Ellen explained her appearance. "I've come back to do some writing. Tomorrow morning I've long reports. But there's a mental case I want to refer to Miss Allan, and some things I want to clear up, the report I have to take to the Charity Bureau and all—"

Miss Renwick nodded. "Then you'll lock up," she said, "when you're through."

Ellen would. Miss Renwick left presently. Ellen was alone in the bare utilitarian office, with its desks, its writing paraphernalia. The stenographer's machine was covered; the telephone, that instrument which sounded every moment of the working day, was silent. She sat down at her desk and tried to clear her mind. She must get this work finished, odds and ends of things that she had been meaning to get done for the last few days. She made a note of a child's name. The polio case across the street, which had been going to the clinic. The orthopedic staff was looking after him, but she had met the mother on the street and had promised to see what she could do about getting clothes for the boy. He could return to school next term if he were clad; the city bus would call for him.

She picked up the telephone and called her house. Coral answered. "I'm at the office," Ellen said. "I'll be late this evening."

Then she was alone again, Coral's friendly pretty voice silenced. Terribly alone, somehow.

At six o'clock she was through. She pushed the papers aside and ruffled her hair with her hands. Gilda and Pasquale, who must be saved. Jim, who must be—warned. Yet could one warn Jim without endangering other people? What, exactly, was her duty in this instance? Her duty, she knew, and clearly, was to betray Jim. But how many others would suffer? Gilda hadn't known what forbidden things he dealt in, and if it were narcotics, Jim must be punished, no matter how other people were involved—for the good of the majority—

After a while she made up her mind. She said, "There's just one person;" she said it aloud.

She called Bartlett's office on the off chance that he had not left. There was, for a long time, no answer. Every one had left. She would have to wait until later and call his apartment after she got home—

"Ring them once more, operator."

Then Bartlett's voice, impatient, tired, "Well?" said Bartlett.

She replied, laughing a little, "That one will lose you clients, Frank."

The tone changed, perceptibly. But it was still guarded.

"Ellen?"

"Yes, Ellen. Frank, listen—Bill's taken to playing hookey again. He—he thinks you're angry at him—something he told you—something he misunderstood. You're the only one who can persuade him to behave. His family would be grateful—and the truant officer—too."

"The little devil—" Frank's voice was changing; there was warmth in it, eagerness. She went on bravely,

"He needs you, Frank. And—I need you. Awfully. There's something you can do for me—"

He said, over the wire, "There's something you can do for me, Ellen—"

She answered after a long moment, "I think I know. But even if I'm wrong—it doesn't matter—I want you to know—I love you," she said, and brokenly, "I love you—"

"Ellen—Ellen—"

He was shouting at her—she put a hand to her ear—

She heard the receiver go down on the other end. She held hers until the operator said tartly, "Number please—" and then put it down quite gently. She was smiling.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 15. — A photograph of Pluto, the new "Planet X.," taken in 1914 at Harvard and unrecognized for nearly 18 years, is reported in the bulletin of the Harvard Observatory.

For Dr. Percival Lowell, who predicted Pluto, and endured doubts and ridicule for years until he was upheld long after his death by the sensational discovery in 1930, was still alive when his friends at Harvard made this picture.

So keen was the antagonism to Lowell's predictions, that even after the discovery had been verified, noted astronomers asserted his predictions had been mostly lucky accident.

GAINS-LOSSES EVENLY DIVIDED

Toronto Exchange Issues Close Above Lows For Short Session

TRADING IS SLOW

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.). — Gains and losses were intermingled on Toronto Stock Exchange at the close of to-day's market. The tone was better towards the close and most issues were above their lows for the short session, but not all compared favorably with last night.

Trading was slow throughout the entire session, many stocks not appearing on the tape record of sales.

Bell Telephone and Steel of Canada each finished with a net gain of a point, the former at 94 and the latter at 17. Some of the oils, on a limited number of transactions, showed small advances.

Ford of Canada finished just under its previous close. As did Walkers Common, though both were firm on end.

Aberdeen, Scotland, will erect 43 blocks of municipal tenements.

STRENGTH FELT IN BOND TRADE

Stocks On Wall Street Unable To Continue Recovery Through Third Session

CLOSING TONE HEAVY

NEW YORK, April 16 (C.P.) — Stocks were unable to continue their recovery through a third session to-day, although the bond market still felt the stimulating effect of the Federal Reserve's credit expansion program.

Trading quarters were inclined to look upon the upturn in the stock market of the past two session as largely a technical rebound, and to await something in the way of favorable news before trying to press the rally further. In the meantime, enough week-end profit taking and selling came into the market to cause numerous recessions of fractions to more than 2 points from yesterday's close.

The list pushed up a little at the start, slid back, then hardened for a time as coppers had a temporary upturn, but sold off again in the final dealings, and the closing tone was heavy. Trading was quiet, however. The turnover for the short session approximately half a million shares.

Auburn was a soft spot, breaking nearly 5 points to close at 37, a new low since traded here, as a further reflection of the first quarter report showing net of 4 cents a share. The stock sold as high as 514 in 1929.

American Telephone also encountered fresh pressure, losing about more than 2. Coca Cola and Western Union sagged a couple of points and Eastman dropped 4. Issues off a point or so included U. S. Steel, Standards of New Jersey and California, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide and Air Reduction.

EGGS HOLD LOW MARK

Two Dozen for 25c on Local Market

Maple syrup sold at 50 to 60 cents a quart and $2.25 a gallon, on the market this morning. Butter was 22 to 27 cents a pound and chickens were 20 to 24 cents a pound. Geese were 20 cents a pound.

Eggs held their low mark, with plenty offered at 2 dozen for a quarter, and the highest price fixed at 15 cents a dozen.

Little pigs were $4.50 a pair. Apples were 25 and 35 cents a peck, parsnips 40 cents, onions 50 cents. Potatoes were 40 and 45 cents a bag.

Pork was 8 and 10 cents a pound, in front and hind quarters.

Railway freight receipts in Japan in February were greater than in February 1931.

TRADING LIGHT ON MINE MART

Irregularity In Late Session Leaves Gains and Losses About Even

DOME RECOVERS TO $9.25

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.).—The Standard Stock and Mining Exchange showed some firmness in to-day's short session, but late irregularity left net changes mixed and small. Volume remained light, with cheaper issues received the bulk of attention in the second hour.

Dome managed to recover 25 to $9.25; Lake Shore, Wright Hargreaves and Hollinger were steady, but Teck-Hughes slipped 4 to $3.86. In the lower-priced golds Siscoe, Buffalo, Macassa, McLeod River and Barry-Hollinger all closed slightly higher.

International Nickel turned over in odd lots at $7 and closed around $6.75. Noranda was off 15 to $16.25, and Eldorado eased a cent. Peninsular Pete, fractionally higher, showed the only change in a steady oil section.

Grain Reviews

AT CHICAGO

(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, April 16.—Tremendous shrinkage of the 1932 domestic crop prospect has apparently put the United States on a virtual domestic basis regarding supplies of wheat.

Leading trade authorities reported today that if as seemed likely the domestic winter wheat yield this season was no more than 450,000,000 bushel. Any surplus existing would be that carried over from crops in preceding years. It was further reported that the United States 1932 spring wheat crop would probably not be more than 250,000,000 bushels, thus making the total wheat crop about 700,000,000 bushels, an amount little, if, any, in excess of domestic needs.

Largely responsive to this outlook, wheat this morning compared with a week ago was 6 to 6⅝ cents a bushel higher, corn 1⅝—1¾ up, oats ⅜-⅝ advanced, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Many wheat traders express belief that even under the most favorable conditions between now and harvest the country's winter wheat crop will prove meagre. The acreage remaining for harvest this season is generally regarded as promising to be the smallest since 1913 with two exceptions.

AT WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, April 16.—(By the Canadian Press).—Grain traders focussed their attention on the south in search of a stimulant to the wheat markets this week. And they did not look in vain.

Continued adverse crop reports from the United States overshadowed the speculator's horizon all week and was the chief factor in a 3⅛-cent advance scored by wheat prices.

Closing Friday at 64 cents, May delivery ended the six-day cycle showing a gain of 3⅜ cents. July future at 65⅞-66 was up 3⅝-½ and October 3½ at 68⅛.

Trading throughout the week was quite active in good volume.

Little relief was afforded the parched crops in the United States winter wheat territory. Light rains fell Friday but were insufficient to cause more than a temporary easing in grain prices. A decrease of $830,000,000 bushels in the new crop was forecast by the United States government report issued last week and unless heavy rains fall shortly the loss is expected to bt heavier.

A swirling dust storm in Saskatchewan yesterday halted seeding operations in parts of that province and presented another bullish aspect to the grain market.

Foreign importers have not yet come into this market for large quantities and are keeping a close check on the situation in the United States. Only moderate shipments of wheat were made from North America this week.

For the first time this season, Rusia failed to export wheat which suggests that the Soviet has shipped all f oits surplus. Shipments from Argentina and Australia continue and the former country is expected to continue to e a formidable competitor in the European market.

Some improvement was noted in cash grains this week though the trading volume was not large. Spreads were fractionally higher.

Coarse grains prices followed wheat in quiet trading and closed the week with good advances.

to avoid magnifying this matter, however serious it is."

"Let us exploit our opportunities and not our difficulties," General Smuts urged. "Public attention should be concentrated on Ottawa (the Imperial Economic Conference) rather than on Dublin. If the Ottawa conference is a success it will more than compensate for the discouragement we all feel over the renewal of the Irish difficulty. The whole Commonwealth prays for success at Ottawa".

PRESBYTERY HEARS CRAGG CONFESSION

Anonymous Letter is "Deplored and Condemned."

WHITBY, April 16. — A frank confession and apology for writing an anonymous letter alleged to have contained slanderous statements against Rev. E. Harstone of Simcoe Street United Church, Oshawa, was made Friday afternoon by Rev. C. E. Cragg of King Street Church, Oshawa, at a special meeting of the Presbytery.

"Presbyery decided no action be taken under section 143 of the Manual and having heard the statement of Rev. C. E. Cragg as to his having written an anonymous letter, we can but deplore and condemn his act. We note the evident sincerity of his confession and can assure him that in view of his present attitude, he retains the goodwill of his brethren of the presbytery."

"Mr. Cragg made the confession of his own free will so there will be no charge against him," Rev. Thomas Wallace, chairman of the presbytery stated.

Since the public apology by Rev. Mr. Cragg which was printed last week, interest in the case has been high in Oshawa and vicinity. The anonymous letter written to the recording steward of Glebe Board United Church, Toronto, containing statements against Rev. Mr. Harston, was received while the official board was considering giving him a call. Rev. Mr. Harstone obtained the letter and called in handwriting experts and detectives.

COLONEL BLADIN AT ARMY SERVICES

Special Week-end Visitor a Noted Speaker.

The local corps of the Salvation Army is to be privileged this coming week-end with a visit of Col. and Mrs. Bladin the Army travelling spiritual specials. The colonel is a noted author, song writer and orator and during his lengthy service in Army activities has gathered a wealth of story which he very aptly uses in his service.

By birth, an Australian, his first Army service was in the Antipodes where the early Army struggle was very hard; following this was a term of service in New Zealand, an interesting country of which the news of the last few days has been somewhat alarming.

During the days of the war Colonel Bladin was a chaplain with the Australian and New Zealand forces and his lecture of Sunday afternoon will be of special interest as it will be devoted mainly to the associations with the men of the forces. His Worship, Mayor Denne and members of the city council will attend this special service in the Temple.

A lecture entitled "The Pearl of the Orient" will be given in the Temple on Monday evening and some 140 colored stereopticon slides will be shown. This lecture has become one of the most talked of travelogues in the Dominion, and is a racy interesting description of the manners, customs and peoples of Ceylon.

The colonel was in charge of the Army's work for several years in Ceylon and during the lecture native songs are sung and the music of the country played on the concertina, an instrument of which the colonel is a master player.

The colonel also has had charge of the Army's work in Newfoundland. Mrs. M. Bladin is also an able speaker and soloist and will assist in all services.

A public welcome will be given Saturday evening to the visitors by the local corps to which (and all the services of the week-end) a cordial invitation is extended to all citizens.

While in the city Col. Bladin will, on Monday morning, address the students of the Collegiate on "Australia" and is the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon.

ONE MAN KILLED

day. They were escorting Jones and Gorda back to their isolated cell block after giving them a bath when the trouble started. About 18 prisoners were at work in the yard as the quartette started to cross.

Tools, including heavy stone hammers, were strewn about the yard. The gang was employed building a wall. When they reached the center of the yard Jones and Gorda suddenly stopped and grabbed hammers and attacked their guards. Clayton was knocked unconscious by a hammer blow and Fisher received a wound in the head.

The action had been so quick that the three wall guards nearby had missed the incident. But they brought rifles to their shoulders when one saw the two prisoners, wielding hammers, dash in the direction of another guard.

Guards Open Fire

Three shots were fired in the air as a warning signal to other prisoners to take cover. Then the guards opened fire on Jones and Gorda, both of whom were brought down by bullets that struck them in the legs.

As the firing was going on Bihun came out of a wood shed about 25 yards away from Jones and Gorda. He suddenly slumped to the ground and died instantly. Prison authorities are investigating to learn exactly how the death-dealing bullet reached his body.

Bihun was convicted in 1930 for the armed robbery of a Bank of Montreal branch here. He was sentenced to 10 years at Stoney Mountain and 10 lashes.

Only Minor Injuries

Warden Meighen said today Jones and Gorda had been troublesome ever since they came to the penitentiary. Neither was seriously injured.

No attempt was made by other prisoners to take part in the attack. Many of them wanted to aid guards in overpowering Jones and Gorda.

At an inquest held last night a verdict was returned to Coroner Dr. A. N. McLeod that Bihun came to his death by misadventure, killed by a bullet fired by an officer of the penitentiary in performance of his duty and in defence of a fellow officer.

Official Enquiry

OTTAWA, April 16. (C.P.)—The Department of Justice will send an inspector to Stoney Mountain Penitentiary to conduct an official enquiry into the uprising at the institution, it was announced to-day. At the moment, further details of the disturbance are being awaited at Ottawa. The enquiry by the Dominion Government penitentiary inspector will be preceded by an inquest to be conducted on orders of the Manitoba Provincial Government.

SOCCER MEETING MONDAY EVENING.

A special meeting of the P. and D. F. A. will be held in Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Monday night at 8 o'clock.

REV. DUDGEON GIVES ADDRESS AT GATHERING

Mens' Brotherhood of St. James' Church Holds Annual Banquet.

TWO HUNDRED ATTEND.

An event of annual interest to St. James' United Church, is the Father and Son banquet, sponsored by the Men's Brotherhood.

Last night this gathering was especially favored in having as guest speaker, the founder of their organization, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, former pastor of St. James', now of London, Ontario.

Nearly two hundred fathers and sons partook of the sumptuous banquet served from the attractively-arranged and decorated tables, which filled the large auditorium of the Sunday school hall.

Deep red streamers of fluted crepe paper ran lengthwise of the tables, which were centered with baskets and bud vases of crimson tulips.

Toasts of Banquet

W. A. Wood, president of the Brotherhood, presided as chairman and toastmaster and called upon J. Worral to propose the toast to the King, to which the assembly responded with the National Anthem.

In proposing the toast to "The Church," Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, pastor St. James', defined the church, not as an organization, but a place where men and women love Jesus Christ and give obedience to His call. Out of this comes brotherhood created by our love for one another, which leads to many opportunities for service.

"The Church's One Foundation" was sung in response.

A toast to "The Sons" was proposed by Mr. Littlefair, who spoke of the father's part in building up the Kingdom of God; first in the heard, then in the home and church. John Hunter, Ontario Boys' Premier, responded to this toast, saying that fathers and sons have a great deal in common. He gave a very optimistic view of the boyhood of to-day and asked for a better understanding on the part of fathers.

The concluding toast was that to "The Brotherhood," proposed by Mr. Brumwell, vice-president of the class.

Special Speaker

The guest speaker, Rev. Mr. Dudgeon, was introduced by the chairman, and given a warm welcome and ovation. When the assembly rose in greeting, Mr. Dudgeon expressed his great pleasure at being back among his old friends of St. James', and briefly recalled the early days and struggles of the Brotherhood. The reason for its present success, he claimed, was the fact that it started with the true idea of brotherhood and mutual dependence, which is the law of the universe and is also true in the material world. A seed, if left alone would never fill our granaries. No one can live without another. Even the flowers, the tree and the mountain streamlet do not live to themselves. So it is in the human society, and in the church. Our Lord, in sending men out, had in mind this very truth. To-day, He calls us to be co-laborers with Him, for he best serves God who serves others.

There is an opportunity for every man to be an evangelist, for people are eager to hear of Christ as never before. Five words give the whole history of Jesus' life, "He went about doing good."

In closing this inspirational address, Mr. Dudgeon urged the Brotherhood, both fathers and sons, to accept this as their motto.

The banquet was honored by the presence of Rev. A. E. Elliott, B.A., of Milden, Saskatchewan, who addressed the men briefly, recalling old associations in the city.

Another guest was the Rev. J. L. Harton, of Peterborough, who also gave a short address, speaking of his pleasant connection with St. James.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, brought his beautiful message in song, contributing the following numbers: "If Christ Should Come," "Who Will Our Pilot Be," and "When the World Forgets."

Good Program

Community singing, led by Henry Turner, interspersed the addresses of the evening, while the following fine musical program was also greatly enjoyed. Accordian solos, Mrs. Lovatt; male trio, "Gypsy Laughing Trio," Messrs. Lee, Turner and Worrall. Vocal solos, (a) "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby"; (b) "My Dreams," Harold Lee. Duett, "I'll Sing to You," Mr. and Mrs. H. Turner. Male quartette, (a) "All on a Sunday Morning"; (b), "Juanita," Messrs. Baldry, Lee, Worral and Turner.

Miss Aileen Rose ably accompanied all the musical numbers at the piano.

Votes of thanks and appreciation were tendered to Rev. Mr. Dudgeon, by Messrs. Church and Spence; to the ladies, who so graciously provided the banquet, by W. F. Sloane, and to all who in any way contributed to the success of the evening, by Messrs. May and Hogan.

After the singing of the National Anthem, Rev. Mr. Elliott dismissed the gathering with the Benediction.

Robert Kitchen acted as treasurer for the evening.

SOCIETY BREAKS UP.

COBOURG, April 16. — Cobourg Horticultural Society is defunct. At the annual meeting called for last night only six members, including the President, A. C. Hodgetts, put in an appearance. It was decided that in view of the lack of interest the organization would be broken up. When the society was revived in 1929 there were 160 members. Last year the membership dropped to 60. This year only six turned up at the meeting, which was well advertised. The president blamed the radio, movies and the automobile for the lack of interest.

CASE DISMISSED IN WYLIE ACTION

PRISONER CAUGHT.

LINDSAY, April 16.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Judgment has been handed out by Judge Ruddy of Whitby, in a very unusual case, and one which has been watched with interest by lawyers. School Section No. 9, Mariposa Township, was sued by John Wylie, an ex-trustee and his son Lloyd Wylie, for $500 damages claimed for the fracture of the boy's leg when he fell through a wood floor.

The defence claimed the boy climbed into the loft in contravention of rules laid down by the teacher, also he was old enough to know right from wrong, and was an intelligent boy, and should not have climbed into the loft. When the recess bell rang he dropped from the rafters to the floor and crashed through causing the fracture. The judge held that the accident was caused by negligence and the case was dismissed with costs. C. G. Frost, Lindsay, for defendants, R. I. Moore for the plaintiff.

Provincial Officer Nelson arrested a young man named Clarence Demoe as he lay in his bed at 5 o'clock in the morning, at the home of his employer, Mr. John Goodhand, a farmer in Fenelon Township on charge of being a prisoner illegally at large. He was remanded for a week. Mr. T. D. Bell, of the Parole Board, was in town to hear the case. Demoe was sentenced to the reformatory last fall for a term of 13 months, it is stated, got out of prison on a forged request statement from a farmer that he would give the young man employment. The suspicion is that Demoe wrote the letter himself, although this is denied by Demoe. When he failed to make the customary reports to the Parole Board an order was issued for his arrest and the police were looking for him for several months.

CAPABLE CAST FOR 'IRISH EDEN'

MONDAY AND TUESDAY.

"Irish Eden" is the intriguing title of a play which the young people of the Immaculate Conception parish will present in the Ashburnham Community hall on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Those who have been looking for local color and interest in dramatic production will enjoy this play, which is unique in the sense that, while highly entertaining, it combines the faculty of sending its audiences away with a higher outlook on life.

The cast, which will be assisted by Vincent McCabe and Jack Roach, is as follows: Vincent McCabe, as Father Duffy, the parish priest; Thomas O'Brien, as Father O'Brien, his assistant; Miss Louise Flynn, as Nellie Duffy, niece of Father Duffy; Jack Roach, as Dr. Nolan, lifelong friend of Father Duffy; Miss Stella Brady, as Mrs. Brophy, his housekeeper; Mrs. William Moher, as Mrs. Patric, his cousin; William Moher, as Mr. Patric; John Madden, as John Nolan, a young lawyer; Miss oNra Moher, as Anna Ryan, in love with Tom Blake, whose part is taken by Jack Primeau, Junior; Roy Cavanlan, a young lawyer; Miss Nora soldier of fortune; Dan Leonard, as Louis Smidt, the butcher; Miss Cecelia O'Toole, as Aunt Susan, Nellie Duffy's old nurse; and pupils of the Immaculate Conception School, as children of Mr. and Mrs Patric.

John McCabe and Robert Gilman will act as stage managers, and Jack Primeau will direct the play.

Egypt plans to hold a government sweep to raise $5,000,000 to build a new hospital in Cairo.

Ex-King Of Spain And Son

ARE CONSTANT COMPANIONS.

Ex-King Alfonso of Spain, with his youngest son Don Jaime, leaving their London hotel to visit another son, Prince of Asturias, who is studying at Dartmouth College. Jaime is with his father constantly. Private tutors are teaching him French, English, German, and Russian, while every day for an hour or two the former monarch gives him an intimate lesson in statecraft. The ex-King recently balked an attempt by Jaime to get married.

George Street Chuch held its annual Father and Son banquet on Monday evening with Rev. Jim Finlay, National Boys' Work secretary of Canada, as speaker. Medals won by the boys in the Bond Selling Campaign were presented at the banquet. The Osprey Trail Ranger group under E. Tretheway won five of the nine medals taken by George Street boys. This group is working on the new Trail Ranger plan, "Starting the Trail," a number having already qualified for the pathfinder part of the plan. This group yells was one of the features of the banquet.

The group in the Sunday School under Max Parnell also took a large part in the banquet. Their yells went over in a big way and Torrence Henry responded to the toast "To the Sons." This group "The "Vikings" held a hike recently and qualified for part of the Campcraft bade.

Fifteen members attended the meeting last Tuesday evening of the "Live Wire" Trail Rangers of Mark Street Church and lively discussion followed on the theme "Clean Speech." At the close of the meeting group games were played and the boys worked on their book marks, which are progressing fine.

Trail Ranger work is making great advances in the city as will be proved this evening at the grand camp conclave at the Y.M.C.A.

The mentors of the city held a meeting this week at Austin's Tea Rooms to present an opportunity of exchanging ideas and build up a closer bond of fellowship. The four grand officers of the camp were present. They are: Grand Chief Ranger, Ross Allen; Sub Grand Chief Ranger, Bob Thornton; Grand Tally, Torrence Henry; Grand Mentor, John Hunter; and Assistant Grand Mentor, Max Parnell.

The executive of the Trail Ranger council also held a meeting at the "Y." The aim of the council is to assist in preparing programs for meetings.

Formation: Players sit in a circle.

Game: One player starts by naming any object he chooses. The next player must, before the count of ten, follow with the name of some object which begins with the last letter of the word just given. For example, if the first word given were "horse," the next word would have to be "eel" or "elephant" or some wording with "e." Those who fail to give the word within the allotted time must stand in the centre and count.

Hastings

At the weekly meeting of the Anglican Young People's Society of St. George's Church held on Monday evening, Nicholas Dainard, who had been president of the society, and who has left for Toronto, was presented with a suitcase before his departure. The address was read by the vice-president, Mr. Braithwaite, and the presentation made by the secretary, Cyril Blackbourne. The best wishes of the society go with him in his new position.

The monthly business meeting of St George's Woman's Auxiliary was held in the rectory on Thursday afternoon, with the president presiding. After Scripture reading and prayers the secretary and treasurer gave their reports. The receipts from the afternoon tea held at Miss Plant's were $16.25. As her Lenten offering the treasurer donated an embroidered church linen to be sent to Bishop White in China. The president gave as her Lenten offering five pair of mitts, 2 baby jackets, and one pair panties, valued at $1.50. The Juniors also gave 9 hospital jackets. These were sent to the Dorcas Rooms in Toronto. Three of the members were chosen as delegates to attend the annual meeting held in Toronto in May. It was also decided to send voting tickets to the Board reporter, Miss Weaver, who had just sent a full account of the Board meeting held in St. Paul's Church, Toronto. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in quilting after which dainty refreshments were served by the president.

Mrs. Charlton Grigg, of Roseneath, was the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Stewart on Thursday.

Mrs. Claude Ball of Toronto has been a visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Montgomery.

Mr. Ora Varcoe of Roseneath is spending a few days in the village.

Mrs. Charles Black of Campbellford was a guest of Hastings friends recently.

Mrs. Edwards of Lang is the guest of her son, Mr. Harry Edwards.

Friends of Mrs. Arthur Fleming regret to hear of her illness.

Mr. S. Buck and Miss Edith Buck, of Norwood, were in the village on Thursday.

Little Kenneth Pickens, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pickens, has been quite ill, but is somewhat improved.

Northallerton, England, will sell its jail, which has not been used for years.

WOULD EXPEDITE PENSION CASES

N. A. MacColl Favors Hearing of Claims by County Judge.

LEGION MEETING.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 16. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). A suggestion that all applications for pensions from ex-servicemen be tried by the county judge, thus eliminating the high cost of administration and speeding up pensions awards was put forward by N. Alex MacColl representative of Zion 23 of the Ontario Provincial Command Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L. last evening when he paid his official visit to the Campbellford Branch of the Legion.

The meeting was made the occasion for a social evening, a very large attendance being registered. President J. D. McEachern occupied the chair. A fine series of war pictures were shown by Rev. R. C. Tait and G. A. Ironside. Much business was put through, one of the pleasing features of which was the reinstatement of two comrades into good standing and the acceptance of two applications for membership.

Mr. MacColl, speaking of the aims and objects of the Legion, dealt at length on the pension situation as one of the chief activities of the organization. Explaining the unfairness and expensiveness of the present system he pointed out that the Commission fight the applicant at each step, and he did not think this was the idea of the legislation. Approximately only six percent of applicants appeals are granted.

Administration was more serious Mr. MacColl declared. At present there were 1350 cases behind while 2300 cases were waiting to go before the Board of Pensions Commissioners. Many suggested solution had been offered, he stated, but thought that the solution was more simple than the department would admit. This was in brief that pension cases be tried by the county judge, the usual court machinery being used, with an appointed lawyer from the particular district to brief the applicant. He thought that this would not only save the government an enormous sum of money yearly, which could be used for pensions, but speed up and properly take care of the cases. He thought that the county judges could properly handle pension cases and be in sympathy with the returned soldiers.

Mr. MacColl also struck a note of optimism when he declared that the Legion could give a lesson to the world in loyalty and patriotism. The backbone of the organization he said was to stand for law and order and he believed as long as the Legion remained active loyalty and patriotism would remain prominent in Canada.

He also conveyed the congratulations of Col. F. J. Picking, provincial president, to the Campbellford branch for its sound financial condition and fine work.

Obituary

MRS. ARTHUR DOUGLAS.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CENTRETON, April 16. — The sad death of Mrs. Arthur Douglas, of Grafton, in her 35th year, took place on Monday. She was struck and killed by a C.P.R. train at Grafton. Before her marriage Mrs. Douglas was Eva Thompson.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 16.—Another upturn in butter and a better tone in eggs were the features of the produce and dairy market here yesterday. Cheese and potatoes remained firm.

With the export season still some time away, seasonal increase halted by late winter weather, light stocks and improved demand, No. 1 fresh and regraded butter, in broken lots, was quoted at 18½c to 19c a pound, a cent higher than yesterday's closing quotation. Inquiry was reported from Halifax to Northern Ontario, with no Western butter arriving here, the majority going to Toronto. Receipts were higher, being 844 boxes. To retailers solids at 22c and prints at 23c a pound were both up a cent.

A stronger movement was recorded by Ontario, or Prairie graded fresh eggs, in carlots or less, extras at 18½c, firsts at 16c, both advancing half a cent, with seconds dropping half a cent at 14½c a dozen. Quotations to retailers were unchanged and receipts were 2,624 cases.

Receipts of cheese increased, arrivals being 414 boxes. Current cheese ruled firm at 10½c to 11c, with summer make also steady at 12c to 12½c a pound.

Old Quebec and New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes in broken lots per 80 pound bag lost 5c at 40c to 45c. Old Quebec whites were unchanged at 30c to 40c. Carlot prices were 10c a bag cheaper than the broken lot levels. New No. 1 Floridas, per 150 pounds net, barrel, at $8.50 to $9, and No. 2 brand at $7 were also steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 16.— Showers that even failed to lay the dust proved enough of a market bugaboo yesterday to pull grain values down.

Fears prevailed that with the fickleness characteristic of a so-called "weather market," selling stampedes would break out in the wheat pit if heavy general rains appeared likely to give genuine relief from drought. Brisk transient rallies in prices were ascribed to reports of dust storms, both in winter and spring wheat territory and to estimates that Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and Nebraska this season would raise 250,000,000 bushels less wheat than in 1931.

Wheat closed unsettled, ½ to 1¼ under Thursday's finish; corn, ⅝ to ⅝ down; oats, ⅛ to ¼ off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10 cents.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 17.—There was a different story to tell about butter yesterday. The local market has been weak for some time and prices have sagged gradually to quite low levels, but yesterday there was a different tone. On Thursday the Montreal market showed an improvement, and yesterday reports from that centre told of sales at 19½c, with brokers asking 20c. The better feeling was apparent on the Toronto market in the afternoon, and there were rumors of Western butter securing a premium over the morning prices of 19c to 19½c. In the afternoon the 19½c price was general in this city, with the trend upward. Montreal had only small offerings of Western solids.

Cream

Cream prices struck new levels this week, and were probably held steady at the decline, due to the sudden better feeling on the butter market. Local butter-fat buyers quoted 21c to 22c for special, 20c to 21c for No. 1 and 17c to 18c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese

New cheese was easier this week, with the week-end finding the low point at 10c to 10¼c for new large, 10¼c to 10½c for twins, and 10½c to 10¾c for triplets. Retailers were quoted new makes at 12c for large, 12¼c for twins, 12½c for triplets, and 14½c for stiltons.

Eggs Steady

Eggs showed a tendency to reach higher levels early this week, but at the week-end prices were barely steady for ordinary lots and ½c easier for storage-packed supplies. Prices to country shippers were steady, and retailers were quoted the same prices as at the first of the week. On Friday graded eggs in free used cases were quoted at 17c for extras, 15c for firsts, and 13c for seconds, while storage packed were 18c for extras and 16c for firsts. Country shippers were offered 15c for extras, 13c for firsts and 11c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were offered extras in cartons at 21c, extras loose at 19c, firsts loose at 17c, and seconds loose at 15c.

Not only is the season of spring production late getting under way this year, but in many sections production promises to be light. In British Columbia production is said to be fully 35 per cent. under this time last year, and the current report from Vancouver estimates that production at the Pacific Coast is at its peak now. Calgary reports that receipts are not running nearly as heavy as had been anticipated, considering the advanced stage of production. This condition, it is true, does not appear to be true of Northern Alberta, where receipts are increasing fairly rapidly, but the Calgary situation may be taken as fairly typical of the situation throughout the southern part of the Prairie Provinces — the dried-out area of a year ago.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 16. — Promise of rain over parched domestic winter wheat fields in the United States prompted traders to pause for profits yesterday and wheat declined an even cent in all three futures yesterday.

May closed at 64c; July at 65c; and October at 68⅛c.

Influence with traders of the moisture condition of the United States wheat belt was clearly indicated. Prices swung lower in the early part of the session when it was reported rain had fallen in some sections. When authentic reports were received that the downfall was slight traders rushed to the buying side of the market and the values came back.

Fluctuation lessened in the last hour and prices stood down from the high points. Indications pointed to a light overnight export business in Canadian wheat, mostly from Vancouver.

Cash wheat spreads improved about ⅛ cent in slow trading. Coarse grains prices moved within a narrow range.

Along the Scotch Road

The smooth, straight, blue-gray roads of Scotland connect the various parts of the country in more than one sense of the word; for the sameness of their appearance is the one link that makes for unity in the diversity of Scottish scenery. I am tempted to say the "road" rather than the "roads" of Scotland; because, wherever I went, and no matter how fast I sped, it was there ahead of me in its faultless drab color.

Apparently the Scots constantly expect the roadbed to deteriorate, for everywhere by its side are piled gray-blue rocks of all sizes, from rough blocks that have just been dumped by the puffing traction engines, and are being seized upon by workmen to be hammered up in all haste, to the neat, rectangular mounds of tiny stones that have already been through this treatment. These are piled with such geometrical exactness that, as I was rushed along, I had the unpleasant feeling that someone was going to ask me to find the area of the piles. Soon I began to understand why they were built with so much care. It was because they have no further use. I never saw the road being repaired with them; it never needs repairing. They stand permanently where the stone breaker puts them, while he continues the useless massing of more stones farther up the road.

The good gray road did well whenever it led us toward the Highlands, away from the bleak coast of Buchan. Yet I remember two beautiful things in that part of Aberdeenshire—the old villages, and the lodges that bar the entrance to the big private estates.

There was one village house in particular. Before we reached it, we had been passing between the lowering sky and the blacker earth of the peat country, where the fields were blocked out like a checkerboard in dark squares and the damp mold. The air was heavy with a recent shower and the cloying scent of peat. Our road suddenly swung round a corner. From the midst of these somber colors glowed the cottage, dwarfed by the huge stack of peat that at one end rose to the roof. A vine with variegated green and white leaves clung neatly to the plaster, so as completely to hide the outside of the house; the thatch of the roof was warm with rich browns and mossy greens, and over one-half of the tiny building rioted a red rose vine. And those lodges! Full of flowers they must have been, stuffed to bursting; for blossoms were tumbling out over every window sill, and poking themselves through each cranny in the thatched roofs.

This is what man has been able to do with the scant materials of the coast region; in the valley of the Dee nature has been lavish. Now the gray road runs along close to the river, where the salmon are jumping, and on and on toward the Highlands. The hills stand out purple in the west, and long before we reach them bezins the heather; first, in unexpected little tufts, which look healthier, wilder and more bushy than what we have already seen in the square, carefully fenced - in "moors" of Buchan. A little later, we come upon a field entirely purple with it, or find a growth of miniature pines whose fresh green in carpeted with mauve. Next, a stream rushes through banks rounded with the fluffy blossoms. This is indeed the Highlands. Ahead, on all sides, is heather — a shimmering, unreal country. Here, close to us, rises a mountain, so abruptly that we cannot see the top of its glowing side. The sun, catching the tiny blossoms, makes them quiver, until we are not sure if this really is a mountain or if the sun is glinting through a mass of fog. We are in a world of purple and gold. There is nothing but the gray-blue road to lead us back to actuality.

Her Heart Was So Bad Couldn't Do Housework

Mrs. S. Dragoman, R.R. 2, Midland, Ont., writes:—"I had been troubled with heart trouble for many years.

My heart would beat so fast I could hardly breathe, and I had headaches, and dizzy and fainting spells.

I couldn't get my housework done I was so weak.

I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt much better, and now I would not be without them in the house."

"I MIND THE TIME" said Mr. Picobac

"I MIND the time when one man bought all the tobacco grown in the county of Essex," said Mr. Picobac, the Essex county enthusiast. "That was back in 1895. Up to that time there was never more than 200,000 pounds grown in any one year. Now Essex produces about 10,000,000 pounds a year of Burley Tobacco alone."

Mr. Picobac, having lit his pipe, brushed away a fragrant cloud of smoke with his free hand.

"It's a great comfort to know you can get plenty of the tobacco that suits you," observed he, blowing a whiff from his pipe in great contentment.

FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE

The Parrot Finds A Home

LITHO and I had been down along the waterfront all afternoon watching the stevedores unloading the ships from South America. Just before supper we started on our way home and although he had not expected to be, Litho was carrying a green and yellow parrot perched on his shoulder. Instead of hanging on quietly and minding his own business, the parrot was squawking and shouting at everyone who passed and flapping his wings as though he wanted to take to the air.

"Gosh, Litho," I said. "I'm afraid he's going to fly away. We should have tied his legs to a string."

Litho grinned.

"Dinty has high ambitions," he said. "But he can't fly any more than we can. His wings have been clipped."

He Looked At Us Reproachfully, Then Said, "Eight Bells, Sir"

"Call the cook!" cried the parrot, catching hold of Litho's ear.

"Let go my ear," retorted Litho, trying to get himself free, but the parrot fussed and yelled so much that it was minutes before all was quiet again.

"Gosh, Litho," I said. "Mother will never stand for all that noise in the house."

Litho looked worried.

"Maybe he isn't as noisy as this all the time," he replied, hopefully. "Captain Parter said he was a very quiet bird."

"That must have been sarcasm."

"Well, we've got to take him home now," replied my brother. "We promised the Captain we'd take care of him, and we will."

When Mother saw us walk through the front door with the bird, she put her arms akimbo, gave us a baleful glare, and said:

"Now what do you call that?"

"It's a parrot," said Litho, uneasily. "It comes from Brazil."

"Umm," said Mother. "Where's its cage?"

"It hasn't any. It lives free."

"And you intend it to live free in our house, I suppose?"

"Well, I thought ...er...," began Litho. "I didn't think you'd have any objection."

"Well I do," stated Mother. "You've had dogs in this house, and no end of cats and a brood of rabbits; but I'm not going to tolerate a poll parrot!"

"Have an onion, Madam," cried Dinty, pecking at Mother's sleeve. "You look ill."

"Yes," confirmed Litho, eagerly. "It can say lots of things."

Just then Dinty decided to be noisy, and by the time he had finished squawking and hollering, Mother had her fingers in her ears to keep out the racket.

"Such noise, such language!" she cried. "Father, what am I going to do with boys like these?"

"Oh, don't be too hard on the boys, Mother," said Dad. "This seems to be quite a nice bird. Hello, Polly," he went on holding out a friendly finger for Dinty to look at. Instead of looking at it, however, Polly caught it between his bills and bit out a piece of flesh.

"Isn't it a nice bird?" purred Mother, sweetly. "It's quick at making friends. No," she went on, "I won't have a thing like that in the house."

"But, Mother!" cried Litho. "Dinty was given to us by the captain of a steamship!"

"Then you can give him right back again," was the firm reply.

"But he's left on a voyage and won't return for six weeks."

"Let them keep it here for the night," put in Father, sucking his finger. "But they'll have to find some other home for him tomorrow morning."

Dinty was put in the living-room for the night. If he had kept still and minded his own business everything might have been all right. Finding himself in a strange place, however, and being curious, he began to explore the room, stopping now and now and then to bite out a piece of the furniture. Mother tried to stop him but he gave her back talk and got saucy.

"Help! Murder! Police!" he yelled. "Have a drink. Awk! Awk!"

He made so much noise that we had to take him upstairs to a small room at the end of the hall where Father had a desk, a shelf of books, and a small safe in which he kept papers and money. We tied Dinty to the top of the bookcase with a piece of chain, pulled down the curtains and closed the door.

"Now he'll be quiet, thank goodness," said Mother.

But she had no sooner said so when the parrot broke out into sea talk and disturbed once more the peace of the house.

"He has had a real seagoing education," remarked Dad, almost in admiration. "I find it real hard to be angry with him, even if he did nip my finger."

"He leaves in the morning," pronounced Mother, decidedly.

There comes a time, I guess, when even parrots get tired of talking, for soon Dinty quieted down and made no noise whatever. Before Litho and I went to bed, we tip-toed to the door of the study and looked inside. Standing on one leg with the other drawn up under his feathers was the parrot. He had his bill tucked under a wing and the feathers of his head and neck were fluffed out so that he looked more like an owl than a parrot. He opened the outboard eye and looked at us reproachfully. Then he said, "Eight bells, sir," and went to sleep again.

"He's almost human," sighed Litho. "I wish we could keep him forever."

Such was my wish too, and for a long time I could not go to sleep for thinking what fun it would be to teach Dinty new words and listen to his salt water talk. I finally dozed off, however, and slept a dreamless sleep until about three o'clock when I was sudden aroused by Litho's raising himself in bed.

We slept at the other end of the hall from the study, but even from that distance we could hear a terrific row being made in father's small room

"Help! Murder! Police!" we heard. "Ship ahoy! Awk! Awk! Awk!"

"It's Dinty!" cried Litho, catching up a bedquilt and making for the door.

"What are you going to do?" I asked.

"I'm going to wrap this around that parrot's neck before he awakens the whole house," was the answer.

Litho's intentions were good, but he was too late. Father was already storming down the hall with a folded newspaper in his hand, having it in mind to teach the parrot a lesson without really hurting him. Before Dad reached the study, however, he was stopped short by the sound of a chair falling over and the breaking of a window.

"Help! Murder! Police!" cried Dinty, again, keeping up an unbelievable racket for so small a bird.

Dad ran back into his room and got a revolver. He hurried down the hall once more, flung open the door, and switched on the light.

At that moment he gave a cry of alarm and pulled the trigger, for he had been attached by someone from inside the room.

The man, dressed in black and with a mask over his eyes, dropped to the floor with a groan, holding to his right thigh. Dinty, who was hanging to his ear, kept up his shouting, and had to be pulled away and covered with the quilt before he would be still.

Five minutes later the man was being taken away to the prison hospital by the police, and we were surveying the damage. The burglar had opened the safe but had taken nothing.

"It looks as if he was just about to help himself when the parrot gave the alarm," said Litho. "What a fright it must have given the burglar!"

"Dinty," said Dad, letting him up from under the quilt, "you're much better than any watch dog could be, so from now on you're to stay here in the study and keep an eye on my safe."

Litho and I heard this with glee, but looked to Mother anxiously. She realized that it was her turn to say something, so she smiled and addressed herself to Dinty.

"Polly," she said, "consider yourself a member of the family."

Dinty cocked one eye at her with his head turned sideways, then in a loud voice, he cried:

"Have an onion, Madam. You look ill."

ZIGZAG PUZZLE

The following are words of four letters each. If written one below another, their zigzag letters beginning at the upper left-hand corner and ending at the lower left-hand corner, will spell the name of a precious stone.

1. Moist.
2. Neat.
3. To be afraid.
4. To appear.
5. A heavenly body.
6. A girl's name.
7. An action.

ENIGMA

My second is in pug but not in pig;
My third is in read but not in spell,
My fourth is in Paul but not in Nell;
My fifth is in cold but not in hot,
My sixth is in bed but not in cot.
My whole is the name of a color.

"HYDRA-HEADED WORDS"

A word of four letters meaning healthy. Change the first letter, and get wan. Change again, and find a business transaction. Change again, and find a man. Change again, and find a narrative. Change again, and find a glen. Change again, and find a vegetable.

WHEN YOU GO OUT IN APRIL

(To be colored with paints or crayons. Whenever you come to a word spelled in CAPITAL letters use that color)

WHEN you go out in April!", says BROWN-haired Teddy. "You have to be prepared for a shower as well as sunshine."

"Well, here's your RED and GREEN cap and my RED umbrella, too!" says YELLOW-haired Susie May, taking them out of the closet and handing them to Teddy.

Teddy is dressed in his GREEN windbreaker and GRAY (use BLACK lightly) trousers. He is pulling on a pair of BLACK rubbers. (Leave the high lights White.) His socks are GREEN with RED tops.

Susie May wears a light PURPLE frock with White collar and cuffs. Her belt, tie and slippers are BLACK. Her socks are light PURPLE with darker tops.

Susie May's umbrella has a YELLOW handle ferrule and tips. The carpet is BROWN and the woodwork White. The walls are PINK (use RED lightly.) The curtain is light YELLOW. Outside the window you may see a bit of the lawn. The grass is just a light GREEN and the GRAY tree is full of small GREEN buds.

"Oh, I love this April weather!" says Teddy. "It's so near to the good old summer-time!"

Both children have PINK cheeks and RED lips.

The border of this picture can be colored GREEN and the lettering RED.

Noted Remarks--Who Coined Them?

"How far that little candle throws its beams! So shines a good deed in a naughty world." William Shakespeare.

"Oh wad some power the giftie gie us to see oursel's as ithers see us!" Robert Burns.

"Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man." Francis Bacon.

"'Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all." Alfred Tennyson.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: 'It might have been'." J. G. Whittier.

"Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime." H. W. Longfellow.

THE JUNIOR COOK

SPINACH

Spinach is a wholesome vegetable which we should eat at least twice a week, so it is wise to know exactly how to prepare it tastily.

Wash one-half peck of spinach in two waters.

Wash again at least twice or until every bit of sand and grit is gone.

Put in a kettle over a slow fire. Cover tightly and keep over this slow fire for ten minutes. Add no water. The moisture from the last washing, together with the juice which is gradually drawn out by the slow heat will be ample if the spinach is cooked slowly enough.

When there is now some liquid, increase the heat and boil till tender, which will take about 25 minutes.

Serve in a hot vegetable dish and garnish with sliced hard boiled eggs if desired. Do not pour off the juice. That contains valuable mineral and should be used.

The HANDY BOY AT HOME

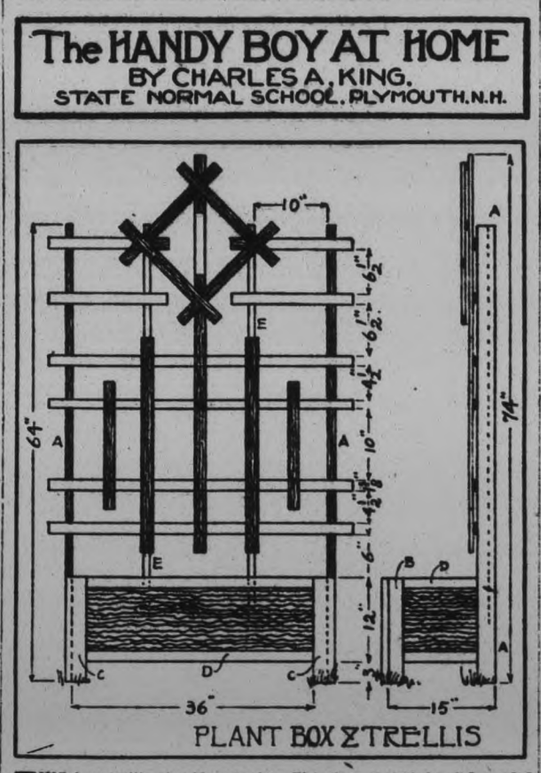
STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, PLYMOUTH, N.H.



PLANT BOX & TRELLIS

THIS box trellis should appeal to every flower lover for it may be easily moved from one place to another as it may best serve a changing decorative scheme.

The foundation is a packing box, assumed to be about 12" x 15" x 36" outside. If a different sized box is used the dimensions may be easily adapted. For the project as illustrated, the back pieces A should be 1" x 2½" x 64", the end pieces B ⅝" x 1⅝" x 15" and front pieces C ⅝" x 2½" x 15". Make rail pieces D ⅝" x 1½" x 10" long; renail the box strongly and assemble, using 4d, 6d, and 8d common nails. Back middle pieces E should be ¾" x 1⅝" x 60" long, assuming that the back of the box is ¾" thick which will bring the fronts of A and E in line.

The slats should be ⅝" x 1⅝" and about 50 lineal feet of them. Cut to length and assemble, using small 4d and 5d common nails and ⅛" clinch nails where the slats are to be nailed through and through. Paint all two coats of white lead and oil, some of the last coat being mixed with light or medium chrome green and certain pieces painted as shown, or another arrangement designed as preferred.

If the box is lined with zinc and soldered yith holes for drainage it should last several years, though in any case it should be good for two years. If lined with asphalt roofing felt, the joints well cemented and the box drained the box will not decay as quickly as if nothing were done to protect it.

Children In Other Lands

THE things that you and your playmates do seem quite proper to you and in no way unusual or queer. But has it ever occurred to you that, if you were suddenly set down in a foreign land, you would soon think the children there were strange indeed. You would not understand them at first, nor they you.

For instance, when a little Hindu boy or girl wants to dress up in his best clothes he simply rubs himself thoroughly with oil and blackens his eyes, both upper and lower lids, with lamp black. Again, many little Hindu boys have their heads "shaved" except for one very long lock of hair on top that is kept straight and stiff with wax.

This is not cut off until he is twelve years of age, for his mother thinks that both she and he are pleasing some of their gods by dressing his hair in this fashion. Then, too, many little Hindu girls are proud indeed of large silver rings worn through their noses and their ears.

Nearly every little girl in Japan is a "little mother" for, all day long, she must carry her tiny baby brother or sister strapped to her back. But even though so handicapped, she is still able to skip rope, run, fly her kite and have a good time with her playmates.

The sturdy little Japanese boy is taught always to picture himself as a soldier in the army of the emperor. He "plays soldier" all the day and you can rarely find him minus his soldier's cap on his head.

And now let us take a peek at the boys and girls in Holland—the land of many dykes, you know. Living in a land of so much water, nearly all of them learn to swim, row boats and skate on ice when they are still very young. They are also quite fond of bicycle riding and, indeed, many of the schools there have sheds built especially to house the bicycles of the pupils while they themselves are in the classroom. Of course you know that they wear wooden shoes.

A "Little Mother" Of Japan

Time For The World

HAVE you often wondered how strange it is that the time in your own city maybe, say, six o'clock in the evening is seven o'clock in another town several hundred of miles distant, and, even more striking, eight o'clock the next morning in another city on the other side of the world! It does seem strange, doesn't it, and confusing, too?

The meridian 180 degrees east and west from Greenwich, which crosses the Pacific ocean from the Aleutian to the Fiji Islands, is called the international date line. Here each new day has its birth at the instant when it is exactly noon of THE PRECEDING DATE at Greenwich; 7 A. M. at Washington, 4 A. M. at San Francisco, and 1.30 A. M. at Honolulu.

It is thus evident that if a vessel westbound across the Pacific were to continue her old calendar, without change, she would find upon her arrival in Japan, Australia or New Zealand that she was one day behind the day of the week and month. To avoid this it is customary, upon crossing the 180th mederian, to drop a day when bound west; repeat a day when bound east. For instance, in the first case, Monday, October 24, would be followed in the ship's log by Wednesday, October 26; and in the second case Monday, October 24, would be followed by another Monday, October 24.

The date line does not coincide with the 180th meridian everywhere, because as a mere matter of convenience it is better for all of Eastern Siberia to have the same date; for all of the extreme Aleutian and Hawaiian Islands to have the same date as the other Islands of those groups and as the United States; and for all of the Fiji and Chatham Island to have the same date as Australia and New Zealand, with which they are closely connected politically and geographically. The date line is thus slightly irregular, but follows very closely the 180th meridian.

By careful calculation in tabu form, it is easy for the scientist to convert the time of one count into that of another, without confusion regarding the proper da Such a table shows the hours, minutes and seconds earlier or late than Washington or Eastern standard time, and standard Greenwich time. Hence it is possible, for example, for it to be 7 P. M. in Washington, D. C., 6 P. M. at Chicago and 8 A. M. of the next day at Manila—at precisely the same moment!

LAKEFIELD CITIZENS MAY HAVE BATHING BEACH THIS SUMMER

Delegation Waits Upon Council Regarding Proper Location for Swimmers.

REGULAR MEETING.

LAKEFIELD, April 16 (Examiner Correspondence). — The regular meeting of the municipal council was held on Monday evening with Reeve Tanner in the chair, and present Councillors Botterill, Hill, Hull and Madill.

A delegation consisting of A. B. Burrows, E. J. Millage, G. Scriver and W. Macdonald was present, asking that the council establish a bathing beach and improve the waterfront on the west side of Hague's point. The council decided to visit the point and see what could be done.

On motion of Councillors Hill and Madill it was decided to purchase 100 feet of Goodyear double jacket hose, 100 feet of Dunlop Sampson red flex hose, and 100 feet of bilateral hose.

The clerk was instructed to prepare a by-law re the licensing of hawkers and pedlars.

An application was received from A. W. Gasson for a dance hall license for Melody Inn. This was granted.

On motion of Councillors Hill and Hull, it was decided that the village stable should be torn down by village day labor under the relief scheme. The team of horses will eventually be disposed of and the council will co-operate with the cenotaph committee in beautifying the grounds in the village square around the cenotaph.

W. Hill was appointed caretaker of the village dump at the usual salary, and Nathan Payne was appointed milk inspector re Dr. Finnemore, declined.

The clerk was instructed to write to the Divisional Superintendent of the C.N.R. regarding the run around siding between Albert street and the station west of the main line, and also to the Canada Cement Company, asking them to remove the few lengths of track at Bishop and Concession streets, so that the council can grade and improve the corner.

The clerk was asked to correspond with the Canada Cement Company regarding the prospect of their operating during the coming season.

The Fire Chief submitted a report covering all the details of expenditure on all fires for the first quarter of the current year.

Completes Testimony

Admitting under cross-examination by A. G. Slaght, K.C., that she had been a psychiatric hospital patient and that she had been a complainant in a similar charge against a Toronto man in 1930, Miss Sylvia Boyd completed her evidence on April 14, in the trial of Stanley Russell of Oakville. Miss Boyd alleges that Russell attacked her when she was alone with the children in the home of her employer, Rev. E. O. Seymour.

TRUCKS WEIGHED NEAR PORT HOPE

Government Sets Up Scales For Traffic Officers.

PORT HOPE, April 16—The government weigh scales on the highway a short distance west of here, was opened this week and already a large number of trucks have been weighed for the purpose of checking loads that according to regulations should not be in excess of half capacity at this time of year. Provincial Constable Reilly, Port Hope is in charge of the scale which is operated for the full twenty-four hours every day. Other district Motorcycle officers who are taking shifts in the operation of the scale are Hornick, Peterborough; Purvis, Oshawa, and Spencer, Colborne.

The scale is of the twenty-ton variety with a weighing capacity up to twenty-seven and a half tons. In the loads already checked a few infractions of the load regulations have been noted and charges will likely follow. An indication of the number of trucks on the road is the fact that between midnight Wednesday and 8 o'clock Thursday morning, no less than seventy-eight trucks were weighed.

CENTRETON.

Visitors to Cobourg from here on Monday were Messrs. James and George Haines, and R. McKenzie.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McKenzie and family, Toronto, have returned home after spending the week end in the village.

Mrs. H. Prettie called on neighbors in the village on Wednesday.

DR. DALES HEAD BOARD OF TRADE

Rashotte Bros.' Account Laid Over Till Next Meeting After Much Discussion.

OFFICERS APPOINTED.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, April 16. — The annual meeting of the Board of Trade took place in the council chambers on Wednesday evening, April 13, a good crowd being present.

The financial report showed a balance on hand of $36.10.

Some discussion took place regarding a disputed account amounting to $17.10, payable to the Rashotte Bros. The account was for the repairing of the J. Finlay factory, suitable for occupation. Correspondence dealing with this matter was read which clearly stated the terms under which the Board acted for J. Finlay and Sons, Norwood. Paul Rashotte also stated that he had correspondence similar to that of the Board of Trade, but had been unable to obtain any action on the part of J. Finlay and Sons. The matter was finally laid over for further consideration.

The president, James Ryan, addressed the meeting, stating that he thought it was time for a change, as he had now held the office for two years. He thanked the members for the support given him in the past and enjoyed the work, although he had found the duties to be more arduous than he had at first anticipated.

Officers Elected.

Appointment of officers was as follows:

Moved by E. Myles, seconded by S. Rollins, that James Ryan be Honorary President.—Carried.

Moved by S. Rollins, seconded by R. Bateman, that the Vice-President, Dr. Dales, be President.

Dr. Dales regretted that he was unable to give the necessary time the office required.

Moved by S. M. Beatty, seconded by S. Rollins, that Dr. Bowlby be appointed President.—Carried unanimously.

Dr. Bowlby, upon taking the chair was heartily applauded, and many expressions of appreciation voiced on his accepting the appointment. It is not the first occasion in which he had had the honor of being chairman, and he thought it was time that the younger business men of the town took a more prominent part in the affairs. Like all other public organizations the Board of Trade had been criticized but at the same time had done work in the past which was a credit to the organization, and proved its worthiness.

Moved by P. Rashotte and seconded by T. Rath, that R. Bateman be First Vice-President.

Moved by Joseph Ryan, and seconded by F. Rashotte, that T. Beatty be 2nd Vice-President.

Moved by H. Sayers and seconded by S. Lee, that W. E. Spackman be treasurer.

Moved by Dr. Bowlby, seconded by M. Quinn, that F. Hindle be secretary.

Mr. Hindle regretted that he could not give the office the necessary attention, and thought that after six years in office he should retire.

Moved by S. Beatty and seconded by F. Hindle, that S. Curry be appointed secretary.

Moved by S. Rollins, seconded by M. Quinn, that the following be appointed to the council:

Chairman: E. Myles, W. McCutcheon, T. E. Moffat, J. Quinn, E. Tummon, M.P., W. Smith, D. Morrison, F. Rashotte, P. Rashotte, H. Rath.

It was decided to appoint the different committees at the next meeting.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WEEKLY COLUMN

A goodly thing it is to meet
In Friendship's circle bright
Where nothing stains the pleasure sweet,
Or dims the radiant light.
No unkind word our lips shall pass,
No envy sour the mind;
But each shall seek the common weal—
The good of all mankind.

LIFFORD LINE

As the gardening season approaches, "Canada's Flower Lady" gives Institute members some interesting ideas for growing perennials.

For the busy person, whose time must be accounted for, yet who wants flowers around the home the perennial forms come as a boon, requiring a minimum of care after they are once established. They are so entirely satisfaotory that even those with lots of time for them will include them in their garden scheme.

However, so many of the so-called perennials are liable to act as biennials in our Canadian climate that the amateur is often discouraged with them. The easiest way to keep them in the garden as a permanence is to plant seed of them each year and let the seedlings be ready for blooming next year Sow them late enough to prevent their getting large enough to start flowering in the fall and they will usually come through the first of winter After a couple of years seeding they invariably attend to the problem by seeding themselves, and will keep up the succession if allowed to do so.

For the amateur who has planned her first year's flowers from those which will produce blooms the first year also, an easy way to get perennials is to sow seeds of those which she wants among the plants already started.

Among the easily grown perennials may be listed the ever popular Sweet William, hollyhocks, pinks in variety, delphiniums and columbines all of which are so well known as to need little describing.

Baby's breath or gypsophelias are essential if you want art flowers, for their tiny flowers, born in such profusion as to form a cloud, are lovely either on the bush or in a bouquet where they give a very bridal effect to the simplest flowers.

Golden glows are perennials and hardy if not set out in the open where winds can whip them all winter. They are safe set under a window of the house where they will make a bouquet for many weeks during the summer. They are lovely and take the place on the prairies of the yellow roses of more favored climates.

No article on perennials would be complete without a paragraph on Iris in variety. They are very easily grown; come in such a wide range of colors and shades and are as lovely as many of the orchids.

There are so many varieties and each kind has its own period of bloom so that every garden should have at least a few of them as permanent fixtures.

MILLBROOK

"Economy Wrinkles" was the fascinating topic discussed at an afternoon tea table where a few Institute members were enjoying a social hour together in recent weeks, one lady telling of an appetizing way of using even the plainest crackers for a 'dress up' occasion.

"You may disguise the plainest crackers deliciously by brushing them over with melted butter, then dust thickly with a mixture of crushed maple sugar (white sugar may be used instead), and cinnamon. Lay them on a baking sheet and crisp in a hot oven. On removal, press into each maple cracker a halved walnut meat, and into white sugar crackers a plump, seeded raisin."

Still other variations were contributed, among the suggestions being to stiffly whip the white of egg, sweeten slightly, and add either minced candied lemon, or citron, peel, chopped peanuts, or a little grated chocolate. In all instances the mixture must be spread on the crackers, and then delicately browned in a moderate oven.

In place of sending garments requiring cleaning to the 'valet' shops, a member of the little gatherings told of a 'wrinkle' she had learned from an old English servant when travelling and visiting abroad, the method being to put a new potato through the meat grinder, add one cup of cold water, and boil ten minutes. Strain, and use the liquid to clean the soiled spots. If they are specially stubborn a small amount of powdered ammonia may be added to the starchy water. "Potato water, in its role as a cleansing agent, is used in Belgium to-day in lieu of soap."

Another member of the group, a mother with a family of four stirring boys, declared that having frequently to mend tears in heavy garments, which could not be darned without showing, she had developed the plan of putting a strip of court plaster large enough to fit the tear (on the under side of course), pressing down with a hot iron, "and you can hardly see the rent afterward."

One mother, whose growing boy was interested in the hobby of stamp collecting, told of her method of removing a used stamp (or possibly a good one put my mistake on the wrong envelope), by cutting a bit of blotter the size of the stamp, soaking it in cold water, and then laying it over the stamp. In a few moments the blotter is removed and the stamp comes off as good as new.

An easy way to chop nuts was an idea advanced by another of the party, the service of nut-topped cookies bringing the subject to mind. "If I want nuts for cake, icing, or salad, I find an easy way is to put them in a bowl and chop with a biscuit cutter; on the edge of a baking-powder tin. It is surprising how nicely the task is accomplished without bruising the nuts.

Since novel ideas seemed to permeate the conversation, the hostess, whose hanging-basket in the sunny bay window had been much admired, told of her discovery of how to water it successfully. "I found a convenient method, without removing it from the hook, was to take a coffee can, and make four holes in the upper edges, fastening in these pieces of wire lon genough to allow of suspending the can several inches above the basket. Drive holes in the bottom and put coarse gravel in, fill with water and hang on the basket hook. You will find, instead of running through immdiately the water will soak thoroughly, and you will be repaid by the freshness of the greenery and flowers."

A cream for a lemon pudding, or pie, sounded good, the guest who gave the recipe telling of taking one tart apple, grated, one cup granulated sugar, white of egg and a pinch of salt, beating until a rich cream and spreading.

CAVAN.

All women who are interested in the health of their families, and all women who are not, must realize that vegetables and fruits compose a very important part of the diet.

1. Vegetables act first as blood regulators, as it is most important to keep the blood alkaline, the following veegtables should be used liberally: Spinach, celery, cabbage, string beans, radishes, turnips, asparagus, onions, peas, tomatoes, fresh cucumbers, beets and carrots.

2. They furnish iron for good red blood. Those vegetables especially rich in iron are spinach, dandelion greens, lettuce, chard, asparagus, string beans, cabbage, brussels sprouts and the lowly carrot, which is the reason for their being recommended to give color to the complexion and as a remedy for any anaemic condition.

3 They aid in eliminating poisons. The coarse fibrous material in the leaf and stalk vegetables will do more to keep the body free of poisonous wastes, than any artificial method known. Spinach contains so much of this fibrous material that it has been called the "broom of the digestive tract."

4. They furnish vitamines for growth and health. Not many years ago it was discovered that green vegetables, fruits, milk and milk products, and certain other foods contain special substances necessary to growth and health. These substances are vitamines. By experiments in the feeding of animals it was found that when deprived of these health-giving substances, growth, was retarded and the general health showed a steady breakdown. When the foods containing vitamines were again given, there was almost immediate evidence of positive improvement in health. Some of the vegetables rich in these vitamines are the green, leafy veegtables such as lettuce, celery, cabbage and tomatoes, roots and tubers.

5. Muscle building and fuel are supplied by vegetables. There is a separate class of seed vegetables which are always considered by themselves, because they belong to the class of plants called legumes, which contain a fair amount of starch as well as protein and lime.

Knowing the importance of the generous use of vegetables, it is worth while to consider a variety of ways of serving them. Use as many uncooked vegetables as possible in salads, one every day, two if your family will eat them. Cook all but the strong-juiced vegetables in as little water as possible, or better still, steam them, so that the valuable salts and minerals will not be thrown away. It is also important to balance the combination of vegetables at a meal.

Last of all, you who work for "Home and Country" help you own farmer and market gardener by using our own Canadian fruits and vegetables, for they contain just as many minerals and health-giving values as the imported kind and cost much less.

WARSAW

Mr. Putnam has notified all staff lecturers, district officers and members of the Provincial Board of the exhibit of homemade articles of Canadian production to be held in Toronto on April 25 to 30.

As Women's Institutes have taken a great interest in a variety of handcraft, the idea is that through the Institutes many articles may be exhibited which otherwise would not.

The object is to place before the buying public useful and attractive homemade articles, and thus create a deeper interest in handcraft, also to let buyers know whence articles, such as those exhibited may be purchased.

Information may be obtained by writing to Miss M. V. Powell, Assistant Supt. of W.I., as she is a member of the committee which is completing plans for the exhibit, and making arrangements for the sales. The Department is also planning exhibits of handcraft at the fall conventions, also demonstrations, illustrative material and information bearing upon thrift and efficiency measures and to make the conventions of next fall of great practical value.

The Department will appreciate any information you may have to send to Miss Powell regarding handcraft, or any suggestions which you may have for the fall conventions, especially along the lines of economy, thrift and efficiency.

Surely among the many readers of The Examiner in the near counties, and perhaps among those far away, there must be many whose handcraft will stand on a par with the best.

Showing What Is New For Spring And Summer

(1) White and gold is the color scheme, and a new one, for the summer's sport dress. The gold is in the double row of buttons and the belt and the costume is completed with a white flannel hat, white gauntlet gloves and a smart envelope-type purse. (2) Beige and green, new shades for spring, make this small, tilted hat of felt becoming as well as modish. (3) Summer sport requires a cooler type of frock and that is just what this is. White dotted Swiss muslin for the blouse, white kid sandals and bright blue forms the skirt and turban. (4) Stripes are runnning in every direction in the new summer sweater styles, but these just run in circles. Short sleeves and a round neckline follow the favorite fashion. (5) This centred by large brown ocean pearl buttons and a double pearl ring at the belt. The wide sleeve and lapel treatment on the coat are both unusual and interesting. (6) Dots for dash, and this is pretty dashing, with a dottel silk lining and scarf. Just the thing for shopping, walking or teaing for the fashionable young miss this spring. is a three-piece cruise costume in brown and beige diagonal tweed, ac-

Welfare Club Meets In Stirling Hall

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, April 16. — The members of the Welfare Club met recently when the treasurer reported $75 in the treasury, and Fred Hulin, postmaster, gave a talk on the "Postal Service."

The postal service is a sort of year round Santa Claus. Benjamin Franklin established the first post office in Canada at Quebec. There are about 20,000,000 incorrectly addressed letters handled in Canadian post offices in a year.

A talk on "Benefits of a Community Club" was given on this subject by Thomas Montgomery. He stressed the benefits of companionship even though there were differences in politics and religion.

Alex. Park gave an Irish recitation, and Art. Duncan gave two humorous solos, while Father Farrell gave a description of a trip through Switzerland.

Bob Patterson, Art Duncan and Chas. Allen gave a novelty song at the close. This concluded the program, about twenty-five of those present taking part.

Bridgenorth Society Plans To Hold Sale

BRIDGENORTH, April 16. (Examiner Correspondence). — There was a good attendance despite unfavorable weather and condition of roads at the April meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the United Church held at the home of Mrs. W. McWilliams on Thursday afternoon and in charge of Mrs. R. J. Merriam, acting president.

The opening worship emphasized the thought of the need of putting on the whole armour of Christ.

The business session followed and the matter of using some special means to raise money for the year's allocation was fully discussed, it being decided that each member should make some useful article, to be sold at an open meeting to be held in July under the leadership of Mesdames R. T. Peterson, H. Jopling and S. Forsythe.

An invitation was extended to the Lakefield Auxiliary to visit Bridgenorth in May and an open meeting is to be held when the Lakefield Society will put on the program and the Bridgenorth Society to provide the lunch.

It was also resolved that the members should make Miss L. M. Rorke, B.A., and her work in Japan the special object of their prayers and study. Mrs. Albert Nichols sang very impressively "The old Rugged Cross" followed by devotional leaflets "National Speaker" read by Mrs. H. Jopling and Mrs. W. Telford and a temperance leaflet "The Trail of the Serpent" by Mrs. W. Nicholls.

Mrs. McWilliams served a very dainty lunch which was heartily appreciated and a vote of thanks was passed.

District Notes

Mr William Jones, of Marmora, was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. Garner Nichols.

TRENT RIVER W.I.

Ladies Spend Enjoyable Afternoon Finishing Quilt.

(Examiner Correspondence)

TRENT RIVER, April 16. — The April meeting of the Women's Institute was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Wight, "Cedar Isle" with an attendance of twenty-three. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. George Brooks and opened with the singing of the Institute Code followed by the Lord's prayer in unison.

The ladies spent the afternoon quilting a quilt which they finished before lunch was served. The letter of sympathy was sent to a member who is ill. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs George Ellis, the hostesses will be Mesdames George Ellis, A. Wight, McLaughlin, Miss Doris Scott.

The following visitors attended the meeting: Mrs. E. Hawley, Mrs. John Scott, Mrs. J. Longmuir, Mrs. John Ruttan.

'HUMANE WEEK' BEGINS MAY 22

Broad Program Planned by Peterboro's Humane Society.

CONVENTION INVITED.

"Humane Week" beginning May 22 will be recognized for the first time in Peterborough this year, and will be marked by a comprehensive and impressive program designed to enlist public support in the work of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Plans for this celebration were outlined at a meeting of the Peterborough Humane Society in the Empress Hotel Wednesday afternoon. The program for the week includes a dog show, horse parade on May 24 and Violet Day on Saturday for the annual collection of funds to assist the Society.

An invitation has been sent to the S.P.C.A. to hold their convention in Peterborough that week, an event which would give special emphasis to the purposes of Humane Week.

On May 6 Miss Marshall Saunders, author of "Beautiful Joe" will give an illustrated address in the auditorium of the Collegiate Institute and will be assisted by girls of the Y.W.C.A. with the kind co-operation of Miss Littlefield.

INSTITUTE WILL RE-DECORATE SIGNS

Mrs. James Waldie Entertains Members of Fenella Branch.

(Examiner Correspondence)

FENELLA, April 16. — Mrs. Jas Waldie was hostess to the members of Fenella Branch, Women's Institute, on Thursday afternoon, April 14. Twenty-seven were in attendance, including several visitors. The President, Mrs. N. C. Leach, presided over an interesting meeting including a program of readings and contests. The prepared programs read: "Grandmother Day" but very few grandmothers were present to respond to the invitation to contribute to the program. One grandmother read a poem, comparing the age in which her grandmother had lived and toiled, and made merry, with the manner of living in the present age. Mrs. W. H. Sandercock read an article entitled, "A Dirty Habit." The winning group in a "paper" contest, which divided the company into five groups, were rewarded with a box of home made candy. Mrs. Frank George, won the prize, also a box of candy, for guessing the nearest correct number of pumpkin seeds, in a glass jar. A reading giving a humorous explanation of the reason for static, was contributed by Mrs. A. Nill.

During the minutes and the business period, after discussion, it was decided on motion not to re-decorate the signboards at the entrance to the village, this season.

The question of serving a banquet to the Rotary Club of Cobourg, was laid over until a later date. The secretary read a letter of appreciation from a sick member for fruit received.

Mrs. H. Rogers and Mrs. W. H. Sandercock were responsible for the program. At the close of the meeting the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Vernon Brenton, her sister, Mrs. Roy Cowling, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Archie Waldie, served lunch, when a social chat was enjoyed. The annual meeting will be held on the second Thursday in May, at the home of Mrs. Harrison George, when the election of officers will be held. Mrs. A. Nill and Miss Muriel Macklin were appointed a program committee.

Catarrh Often Caused By Chilly Night Air

Wonderful progress has been made of late years in treating catarrhal colds. The newer type of treatment consists of breathing away the ailment with the healing vapor of Catarrhozone.

HAD BAD NASAL DISCHARGE

"I caught a nasty cold, from sitting in a draft in my bare head," writes Miss M. E. Newcombe of Richmond. Acute Catarrh developed in my nostrils, and for three days my eyes and nose ran copiously. The usual remedy entirely failed to relieve. I read about Catarrhozone and sent to the drug store for a $1.00 outfit. In two days Catarrhozone cleared out my nostrils, cured the sneezing, coughing, and all traces of Catarrh."

Get the large size of Catarrhozone; it contains a beautiful hard rubber inhaler and medicine that lasts two months. Price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c, at all dealers.

TRENT RIVER.

Mrs. Joseph McNeely met with a painful accident one day recently while carrying a kettle of boiling water out to the barn. She slipped on some ice and fell, the contents of the kettle causing severe scalds on her limbs.

Messrs. Donald Ellis, of Trent River, and Eric Ellis, of Havelock, have secured three coons while back at Crow Lake. The animals were treed by the dog and the boys climbed the tree and caught them and took them to their camp with a trap placed over them. The boys have written to the Government for a permit to be allowed to keep the coons.

The regular meeting of Seymour West Women's Institute will be held Thursday afternoon, April 21st, at the house of Mrs. Roy Fleming.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL STRAIGHTEN HER OUT

Of course you are particular about the medicines you give your child. You want no harmful drugs, no narcotics in a child's medicine.

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged — never forced.

That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments. It contains nothing that can harm a child's tender organs.

Castoria is so mild you can safely give it to a young infant to ease colic pains. Yet, gentle as it is, it is unfailingly effective. Larger doses keep older children well regulated. And babies and children alike love its taste—never object to taking Castoria!

The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's remedy. The genuine Castoria always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

(MADE IN CANADA) Chas. H. Fletcher.

NEURALGIA

THE agonizing aches from neuralgia can be quieted in the same way you would end a headache. Take some Aspirin tablets. Take enough to bring complete relief. Aspirin can't hurt anybody.

Men and women bent with rheumatism will find the same wonderful comfort in these tablets. They aren't just for headaches or colds! Read the proven directions covering a dozen other uses; neuritis, sciatica, lumbago; muscular pains.

Cold, damp days which penetrate to the very bones have lost their terror for those who carry Aspirin tablets with them! All drug stores, in the familiar little box:

YOUR KIDNEYS, too, NEED A SPRING CLEANING

In the Spring the Kidneys are tired and worn out after a Winter's hard work. Imperfect Kidney action means impure blood, which causes that dull, listless, tired and generally run-down condition—and eventually some more serious form of Kidney trouble.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best Spring medicine, for they act directly on the Kidneys and restore them to perfect action; then a full supply of pure, rich blood flows through every nerve, every muscle, and every fibre of the body.

Vigor and strength take the place of languor and weakness. That dull, tired, run-down feeling gives place to one of robust health; the eye grows bright; the brain becomes clear and active and that sprightly step of health returns. Don't neglect your Kidneys. Get some Dodd's today!

Another of the very successful anniversary bridge parties of the Peter Robinson Chapter of the I. O. D. E. passed into history with a flourish last night, when the sixteenth anniversary celebration was held at the Empress Hotel, with an attendance of three hundred and forty people playing at eight-five tablesof auction and contract bridge. The evening was extremely enjoyable and was featured by a very attractive Fashion Parade. Coming down the grand staircase into the rotunda, the mannequins: Mrs. L. Carver, Mrs. R. Leeming, Mrs. Homer Borland, Miss Olga Johnston, Miss Florence Adams and Miss Mildred Morphet, made their way to a raised platform placed in the archway between the grillroom and dining-room, where they were seen to splendid advantage. The display was exceptionally interesting, including fur coats and jackets, frocks and suits, from the showrooms of Barrie's, Limited, with trim and lovely hats from the Misses Haskill and Isbister's millinery parlors, accessories from Mrs. H. Kelso's Smart Set Shoppe, and costume jewellery from Warne's Store. Accompanying music was played by Miss Musa Cox. The show ended with a bridal tableau. Miss Olga Johnston represented the bride, in cream lace with large hat of chip straw and stage bouquet of roses and lily of the valley. Accompanying her were the Misses Adams and Morphet, as bridesmaids in pale pink and pale blue frocks, also the tiny flower girl, Shirley Thorndyke, carrying a basket of pink roses and maidenhair fern and wearing a shell pink robe from the stock of Miss Alice Curtis' Fancy Goods. The coiffures of the models were carefully done by Mr. G. Downer. Following the parade, bridge games were played and refreshments were served at midnight. The guests were received by the regent of the chapter, Mrs. F. Hooper, and the general convenor, Mrs. C. E. Graham. Mrs. Claude Elliott was in charge of the chairs and tables, Mrs. H. H. P. Johnston of the cards, and Mrs. B. V. Moore, with Miss Florence Adams, looked after refreshments. At each table, a dainty favor of four tally cards was presented to the winner of the high score. The winners of prizes for high scores in auction bridge were Mrs. T. G. Loudon and Mr. Max Rishor, while prizes for contract bridge went to Mrs. W. Derry and Mr. R. C. Cummings. Mr. C. G. Graham drew the ticket for the lucky prize, won by Mrs. T. McWilliams, and also drew the prize-winning number for the permanent wave donated by Mr. Ed Wright. This was won by Miss May Wilson, who, not wishing to use it at once, drew another ticket, the winner proving to be Miss C. Grant of Chemong Road. Guests included the following: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. A. Heckman, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. Max Rishor, Mr and Mrs. R. C. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. W. Derry, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Rishor, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. The Caledonian Club met in the Woodmen of the World Hall last evening for carpet bowling contests and card games. Mr. R. Hendry acted as time-keeper for the whist, while Mr. R. Gilmour supervised the bowling. The lady holding the highest score and winning the prize for the whist was Mrs. R. Higgins, while the gentlemen's prize went to Mrs. J. Brown (playing as a gentleman). The carpet bowling games were keenly contested, and the teams skipped by Messrs. G. Low and J. Blair, which entered the finals, had an exciting time. Mr. Low's team, composed of Mrs. D. Anderson, Mrs. C. J. Stillwell, Mr. R. Clyde and Mr. G. Low, carried off the honors. Tea was then served and dancing engaged in to music supplied by Messrs. R. Gilmour and A. Milne. The club is looking forward to having the Rev. J. D. Paterson next Friday to show the Scottish War Memorial pictures.

FASHION SERVICE

Style No. 2789 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust

Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards 39-inch with 1 yard 35-inch contrasting.

ADDRESS ON MUSIC BY DAVID R. HOWAT

"Y" Supper Club Booked for Theatre Party.

David R. Howat, organist of George street United Church, was the guest speaker at Friday Night Supper Club at the Y.M.C.A. last evening, and spoke on the educational value of music. The speaker was introduced by Reg. Storey.

The subject proved a most interesting and instructive one and stressed the aesthetic and practical value of music. The attendance was the largest of the present season, there being seventy-five young men present under the chairmanship of C. A. Salmonsen.

Announcement was made that next Friday night the club is to hold a theatre party to the Capitol Theatre as guests of their popular chairman. It is expected that at least one hundred members will be in attendance as it will constitute the cuminating program for the season.

The membership campaign concluded last evening and Jim Rogers had a real turn out with twenty-four members and men guests. He won first place by a comfortable margin. The winning team had an average attendance of fourteen for six meetings. Jack Richardson's team finished in second place.

The problem of how to hang pictures in a house has proven puzzling to many home decorators.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

This is the right way to hang small pictures, and therefore, is used constantly although other pictures in the same room may be hung in a different way.

* * * * * * *

There are small picture hooks capable of suspending many pounds of weight and these are commonly used, although a stout nail or screw which goes through a lath or beam is equally safe.

* * * * * * *

A heavy picture can be so hung provided the large screw or hook goes into a beam, but not otherwise.

* * * * * * *

The fact that safety is considered best met in hanging pictures from two wires attached to two hooks on a molding is responsible for its being in favor.

* * * * * * *

The wires extend in straight vertical lines from the screw eyes in the picture frame to the hooks above. By having two wires and two hooks assurance is supposed to be doubly sure.

* * * * * * *

Hanging pictures with cord and tassel has a restricted usage since it properly belongs to specific decorative periods, or to interior decoration carried out in definite style such as Italian and that of other countries where cords and tassels are the vogue, instead of picture wire.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

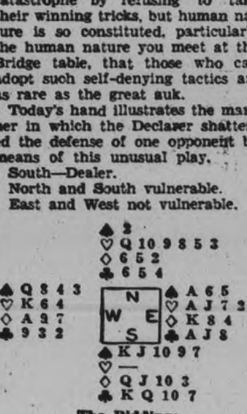
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

SQUEEZE THEM AND WIN

There is one form of the squeeze play that is extremely unusual because one of the adversaries is given the opportunity to make his partner's defense of the contract difficult, if not impossible. This is done through playing winning cards in a suit of which his partner is void, the Declarer meanwhile discarding losers from his own and the Dummy Hand, and not only discarding losers, but, through the operations of the squeeze, establishing cards as winners which otherwise would not have taken tricks. In many cases good players can detect the situation and avert the catastrophe by refusing to take their winning tricks, but human nature is so constituted, particularly the human nature you meet at the Bridge table, that those who can adopt such self-denying tactics are as rare as the great auk.

Today's hand illustrates the manner in which the Declarer shattered the defense of one opponent by means of this unusual play.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	Pass	1NT
Pass	2NT(1)	Pass	3NT(2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—East's Fourth Hand bid has shown at least one stopper in the spade suit. West has 2 honor-tricks and can contribute a second stopper in the adverse suit. His Raise is therefore justified.

2—East has 3-½ honor-tricks with additional plus values. His bid for game is sound.

In the play, South opened the Knave of spades and West won with the Queen in the Dummy. His second play was to lead the four of hearts, and the Knave in the closed hand was finessed. South was void of hearts and forced to discard and selected for that purpose the seven of clubs. This gave East an opportunity to read South's hand with almost unerring accuracy in view of his Opening vulnerable bid. Unquestionably, South held originally five spades. To have a sound Opening bid his hand must contain the King, Queen and Ten of clubs and not less than the Queen, Knave of diamonds. The probable distribution is 5-4-4 and East proceeded to utilize the information so early obtained to the destruction of his opponent's possible defense. After winning the heart trick, he returned a small heart to the King, then led the last heart from Dummy and captured with the Ace and threw North in the lead with his last heart. South had been forced to make three additional discards. His second discard was the trey of diamonds, followed by two spades. He could not discard any more spades without establishing all the spades for the Declarer. He could not discard another diamond without establishing three diamond tricks for opponents. When North won the fourth heart lead, he remorselessly continued to apply the squeeze to his hopeless partner. Upon the lead of the Queen of hearts, South discarded the Ten of clubs and upon the lead of the last heart he was forced to give up entirely defense in one of the remaining suits. Hoping that his partner might have some kind of protection in the club suit, he discarded the Queen, but whatever card he chose for discard at this time was a matter of little moment. North, noting South's three discards of clubs, now returned a diamond. This trick the Declarer won in his own hand and then cashed three rounds of clubs. Again South was forced to discard and the result was that East lost only 3 heart tricks, scoring an overtrick on his contract. It is, of course, apparent that North's best defense would have been to refuse to cash his two good hearts and to have led a club immediately. East would then have won this trick with the Ace and led the Ace of spades followed by a small spade which South would have been compelled to win. South would then have cashed the King and Queen of clubs and while East would have made his contract, he would not have scored the overtrick.

CHOCOLATE SAUCE.

2 squares chocolate or ½ cup cocoa
1 cup cold water
2 cups sugar
Pinch salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 tablespoons butter.

Cut chelocate into five or six pieces (or use cocoa) and stir over direct heat with the water until smooth and thick. Add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Boil three minutes (222 degrees Fahrenheit); add butter and vanilla and serve at once.

If cocoa is used and if the butter is omitted, this sauce may be put into an airtight jar and kept until ready to use. Reheat, add butter and serve.

BROWNIES A LA MODE.

Brownies
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Marshmallow sauce.

Bake brownies. Cut into three-inch squares. On each square place a ball of vanilla ice cream. Cover with a marshmallow sauce made of whipped cream and cut marshmallows.

4½ tablespoons cornstarch
4 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons cold water
3 cups scalded milk
2 eggs yolks
1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
10 marshmallows.

Mix cornstarch and cocoa in the cold water and add this to hot milk. Cook the mixture, stirring it constantly until it thickens. Continue cooking in double boiler for at least twenty minutes. Beat egg and add sugar. Then pour hot mixture slowly over egg and sugar. Stir constantly. Return to double boiler and cook until it thickens. Add vanilla and marshmallows cut in quarters. Pour into mold and cool.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

RAPID HEART BEAT.

Sometimes you discover that your heart is beating very rapidly, and about the time you become anxious about it the rate of beating gradually decreases, and becomes normal again.

It may be that you can account for the rapid rate as you have been excited or anxious about something, you may have received news that excited or upset you either by letter or telephone; perhaps you have eaten considerable food and gas pressure from the stomach is interfering with the regular rate of the heart action.

On the other hand, it may be that these attacks of rapid heart beating come on at any time, when you are sitting or lying down and are free from any of above conditions.

When the heart begins beating rapidly, not due to exercise, it is spoken of as paroxysmal tachycardia which simply means a rapidly increasing heart rate which reaches a very high rate and then comes back to normal again, just as in an attack of asthma the patient breathes rapidly and seems scarcely able to get his breath, and then is back to normal again.

Between the attacks of these rapid beating spells, the patient is usually quite free from any disturbance in the heart rate

While it is true that these attacks may be due to actual organic ailments, in a large percentage of cases it is due to what is called a functional or nervous disturbance

However, the patient, when the attack comes on, is only interested in getting the heart back to its normal rate, because it is uncomfortable to have the heart beating 160 times or more to the minute.

How can this be stopped?

I've seen one case where simply pressing the eyeballs has stopped the rapid beating, and another case where pressure over the stomach was successful.

Dr. J. C. Healy, Boston, says that while there are a number of mechanical means that have been used successfully, the same one does not always succeed the second time even on the same case. Other methods suggested are: (a) having patient sip cold water and try to breathe out air from the lungs at the same time; (b) pressure above the eyeballs; (c) massaging the skin along the inner side of the large muscle that stands out in the neck when the head is turned sideways, (d) pressure on the notch in the front part of the neck where the two collar bones meet.

Although digitalis is used in heart ailments more than any other drug, and is also used in this condition, it would seem that quinidine sulphate (not quinine sulphate) is even more efficient than digitalis in this particular ailment. It must of course be used under the direction of a physician.

SMITH HOLDS BEAR BATSMEN TO FIVE HITS

Leafs Bang Don Brennan for 12 Hits and 8 to 1 Victory.

MONTREAL WINS 16-11.

Eight Reading Errors Accounts for Royal Victory—Bisons Are Winners.

(By the Associated Press)

Canada's two hopes in the International League, the Montreal Royals and the Toronto Maple Leafs, finally have crashed into the winning column. Montreal, however, owes a decided vote of thanks to the Reading Keys.

Without the aid of eight Reading errors, the Royals hardly could have hoped to have won yesterday's 16-11 comedy. Toronto, on the other hand, clearly earned its 8-1 triumph over the Newark Bears.

Comedy of Errors

Clarence Rowland, Reading manager, perhaps will be excused if he voices a desire not to see any more games such as he was forced to witness yesterday. Of Reading's eight errors, Jay Partridge, second baseman, contributed four. In fact, Jay seemed to be doing his best to strike a nice balance between runs. He clouted two home runs and a single, and thus accounted for five Reading tallies. Ripple was Montreal's leading batsman, driving in four runs with a homer, double and single.

Toronto banged Don Brennan for 12 hits in seven innings and won in a walk. Newark's slugging lineup was virtually helpless in the face of Art Smith's expert elbowing. Smith granted only five hits and would have had a shutout had he kept the home run ball away from Jesse Hill, Newark outfielder.

Buffalo Also Victor

Buffalo and Rochester were the other winners yesterday. Buffalo collected 14 hits, including five home runs off Cascarella, Tauscher and Smythe and walloped Baltimore, 8-4. Detore, Tucker and Carnegie hits successive homers in the fifth, and Tucker and Weber added another pair in the ninth. Baltimore's eight hits of Harrison and Brewer included circuit clouts by McGowan and Packard.

George Puccinelli's two home runs in the first and second innings gave Rochester an early lead over Jersey City, and the champions finally won, 12-7. Ray Starr, making his first start of the year, was touched for 10 hits, including homers by Layne, Moore and Clancy, but he worked only as hard as he had to.

Orwell Leads Odds For The June Derby

LONDON, April 4 (C.P. Cable). —To-day's call-over of betting odds on the Derby established W. M. G. Singer's colt Orwell as favorite at 10 to 3. Orwell, by Gainsborough out of Golden Hair, won five times and was third once in his six starts as a two-year-old.

Miracle, unbeaten colt by Manna out of Brodick Bay, was next at 9 to 1. Violator, a hurry-on colt, was at 100 to 7; Cookpen, second only to Orwell among the greatest money-winning juveniles of last season, at 18 to 10; Jiwah, Rolling Rock and Loaningdale 20 to 1; Wyvern, Jackdaw, Dastua and Firdaussi at 25 to 1.

The Derby will be run on June 1.

HURST LEADS PHILADELPHIA TO 7-6 VICTORY

CARDS LOSE OUT 9-7.

Pitchers' Duels Are Feature of American League Games on Friday.

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

If Burt Shotton leads his flailing Phillies out of the National League wilderness this season—and he threatens to—one of the chief reasons perhaps will be the sudden development of Don Hurst into an aggressive player with a real enthusiasm for the game. Despite great natural advantages, Hurst's value to the club has been lessened by an apparent lack of spirit and fire. For four years he has been a steady worker at first base for the Phils, but an uninspired one.

Now he has become one of the big driving forces on a team firmly convinced it is going somewhere this year.

It was typical of the new Phillies that they made every hit count and played heads-up baseball all the way. Carl Hubbell had held them to five hits in seven innings when they filled the bases and gave Hurst his chance for the knockout punch.

Hack Wilson's first home run of the year, coming with two on base in the seventh, broke up a pitchers' duel between Bill Clark and Tom Zachary and gave the Brooklyn Dodgers an easy 8-2 triumph.

Cards Again Defeated

At St. Louis, the world champion Cardinals battered Pittsburgh pitching for 15 hits, 10 for extra bases, yet failed to avert a 9-7 defeat. The Pirates used good judgment in bunching most of their hits for seven runs in the fourth inning.

Lon Warneke, rookie pitcher, scattered Cincinnati's eight hits and Chicago coasted in to an easy 8-2 victory.

Pitchers dominated the American League schedule except at Philadelphia, where the New York Yankees and Athletics put on another slugging duel that finally went to the A's in the ninth inning, 9-8. Foxx ad Cochrane hit homers for the A's and Gehrig got his second of the season for the Yankees.

White Sox Win

Bumps Hadley held the St. Louis Browns to seven hits and fanned 10, as the Chicago White Sox, a vastly improved array, won a 13-inning struggle, 4-3, when Carey Selph singled with the bases filled.

Monte Weaver made his American League debut for the Washington Senators and blanked the Boston Red Sox on four hits, 2—0. Earl Whitehill, veteran right-hander of the Detroit Tigers, held the Cleveland Indians to three hits, but it took a ninth inning rally to win for the Tigers, 3—2.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, the hockey season is all tucked away at last, and everybody seems satisfied except may be the N. Y. Rangers. The Toronto Leaves finished the year travelling like a tornado, and the boys from Noo Yawk was just naturally blew right outa the picture to the tune of 3 straight games, which, friends, is quite a lacing. As I bin reminded a good many times, I called the Canadiens to win out, but they got the wrong kind of brakes, including a broken leg or 2, and with them outa the running Mister Connie Smythe's lads made a snappy finish of the season and they're the Queen City's heroes. But I for 1 can't help wondering what the tune woulda been if the Maroons had of held that 1 goal lead they set up in the last period of the 2nd game. The boys now hailed as the world's greatest woulda be greeted with the Bronx cheer and the fans woulda been clamoring for ½ the team to be sold up the river, for that's the law in the realm of sport where all the world loves a winner and the loser gets nothing but the raspberry. Personally, my chapeau is doffed to the Leaves, who finished like real champs and gave the honesty of the game a decided boost.

The big ball leagues opened in football weather this week, Mac, and so far they ain't much of a chance to get much of a line on anything. The lowly Phillies gave the powerful giants a real shellacking on opening day, and the same p.m. the hard hitting Yanks blasted big Jarge Earnshaw right outa the park at Philadelphia. Mister Babe Ruth, the emperor of swat, had a poor day, getting only 2 home runs and a single, while Mister Al. Simmons, Lou Gehrig and Jas. Foxx was even worse with only 1 circuit swat. But the lads will improve with the weather, and probably before long they'll be cutting into the old apple in mid-season form. Less than 6,000 folks saw the Cards' 1st game, but it was the weather that kept the customers away.

Locally, Mac, we're glad to report a boom in box lacrosse. That oughta provide plenty of excitement later on. Anyway, here's hoping.

Sportfully yours.
A. WISE CRACKER.

MEN FROM LAND OF RHINE MAY EXPLODE OLYMPIC DOPE

Germany Will Be Right at Uncle Sam's Throat in Athletic Events.

PLENTY OF RUMORS.

(By Maxwell Stiles)

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 4 (Special to The Examiner)—Germany, a nation that placed either first or second in the 1928 Olympic games at Amsterdam, according to whichever unofficial scoring system one prefers of several that were in use, again will be a sturdy contender for major honors at the tenth Olympiad in Los Angeles. Of this we are assured by Dr. W. Rammelt, Olympic attache for Germany, and by Hans Wolfram, former German all-round champion athlete who is in this city serving as secretary of the German-American committee for the tenth Olympiad.

Although neither of these gentlemen has been officially advised of this, press dispatches from Berlin recently stated that the German Olympic committee, of which his excellency, Dr. Theodor Lewald, is president, has decided to send to Los Angeles, a team of 5 athletes, including eight women.

Wolfram and Dr. Rammelt said that to the best of their knowledge Germany expects to enter teams in track and field for both men and women, boxing, cycling, fencing for men and women, gymnastics, modern pentathlon, rowing, shooting, swimming for men and women, water polo, catch-as-catch-can wrestling, Greco-Roman wrestling, weight lifting and fine arts.

Men from the land of the Rhine will be right at Uncle Sam's throat in the events that find American athletes trying to build up a score that will more than match the totals being amassed by Finland.

Rivals for Shot Put

The sprints, for instance. In a youngster named A. Jonath, Germany has the one man in Europe who threatens to defeat America's best in the 100 and 200 meters. And if Jonath falls, there are Kornig and Eldracher, Pflug and Lammers, Corts and many others whose ability matches that of the fleetest sprinters in this country.

And in the American shot putters, Brix, Rothert and Sexton will find their chief rival, if it is not Harry Hart of South Africa, in Emil Hirschfeld, Germany's sharer with Brix and Douda (Czechoslovakia) in the world record.

Germany has a pole vaulter named Wegener who will fight it out every inch of the way with whatever three men make the American team.

Germany has discus throwers who will vie with ours, broad jumpers whose feats match those of Americans and at least five men whose leaps of six-foot three inches or better indicate that they may threaten American supremacy in the high jump. Metzer in the 400 meters threatens our Eastman and Williams, while one of Europe's outstanding threats to an American sweep in the 110 meters high hurdles is a German named Beschetznik.

And the only country that seriously threatens the United States in the 400 meters relay is Germany. Looking a bit farther, we find that in the 1,600 meters relay Germany stacks even with Great Britain in threatening the United States. Not only this, but Germany has some of the finest women track and field athletes in the world and these women, if they are sent to Los Angeles, will undoubtedly prove to be serious barriers between American and Canadian women and Olympic championships.

Set New Record

Germany's 16-pound hand grenades will threaten to explode all previous world and Olympic records.

All three of the German competitors in the shot put will be capable of heaving the iron ball between 50 and 53 feet. The fatherland, famous for its strong men, has no less than six contenders for places on its Olympic team who have bettered 50 feet within the last year.

One of these, the Giant Emil Hirschfeld, third in the Olympic games of 1928 at Amsterdam, recently set a new world's indoor record of 524 feet 8 5-8 inches. This surpassed the American mark hung up a few nights later by Leo Sexton of New York, who reached 52 feet 8 3-8 inches. It also exceeded the world's outdoor standard of 52 feet 7½ inches, held jointly by Hirschfeld of Germany, Herman Brix of the United States, and F. Douda of Czechoslovakia.

Germany's field strength is not confined to the shot put. Sievert last year threw the discus 150 feet 1½ inches. Weiman threw the javelin 219 feet 5 inches in 1930, and in 1931 Maseser reached 214-71 feet, Steingroes 213.32 feet. Meier and Kochermann placed fourth and fifth respective marks of 24 feet 1 inch and 24 feet 7 inches. There are several high jumpers who have bettered 6 feet 3 inches and in the pole vault Wegener, with 13 feet 6 -18 inches last year, is probably the best in Europe.

CANADIAN BOXER CHERISHES AMBITION TO RIDE IN NATIONAL

Bradman Has High Average Amongst Australian Cricketers.

"Al" Forenan, who was recently deprived of his British Empire lightweight boxing crown by a ruling of the Boxing Association of Great Britain, like Charlie Chaplin, the famous screen comedian, has a strange ambition. Foreman's ambition as Chaplin's is as far removed from fighting as Chaplin's is from acting the clown to make people laugh.

Charlie Chaplin wants to play Hamlet. It's a way these comedians have. But here's one better. Al Foreman says "I have one other ambition—to ride in the Grand Nationals." There may be a little guffaw from incredulous people, but Al happens to be a very fine horseman. The only thing one could say was that Al had not then seen the Aintree fences. Perhaps he has changed his mind since he visited the course.

Those who know Al Foreman know one of the best dressed men in our land—or any other land. Not flash, but just a model of design and comportment. He would pass for a film star any day. But this model of deportment who looks as if he wouldn't hurt a fly has a crashing blow. One wonders whence comes his ferocity. I saw Al walk out on to a golf course. Well, his form on the links is sufficient to form in my mind an idea that he will one day invade the precincts of the golf championships.

Leads Batsmen

Don Bradman with an average of 116.91 for 1,403 runs headed the Australian averages for all first-class matches played during the season just ended.

It was only in the big games that Bradman excelled, however, for while he scored 1,190 runs for an average of 170 in matches against the South Africans, he scored only 213 in five innings for an average 42.60 in Sheffield Shield games.

L. O'B. Fleetwood-Smith, Victoria's new googly bowler, finished at the top of the bowling averages with 33 wickets at 14.90 each.

Ironmonger was second with 61 at 17.75 and Crimmett third with 77 at 19.95.—Reuter.

Iron Man Passes

After a short illness, J. T. Hulls, the well-known boxing promoter and referee, died, aged 61, in London.

Known to everyone as a fearless official, Mr. Hulls was in demand for every big fight, and he used to delight in the fact that in one week he refereed six big fights, as follows:

Monday, in Cardiff; Tuesday, Nottingham; Wednesday, Sheffield; Thursday, Liverpool; Friday, Plymouth; and to wind up a hectic week he officiated over the 30 rounds draw between Sam McVea and Joe Jeannette.

Apart from his boxing activities, Mr. Hulls was also keenly interested in pedestrianism and trotting, and was a competent handicapper and judge at both sports.

Yesterday's Stars

CONACHER SIGNED WITH MICHAILOFF

Hockey "Big Train" to Make His Mat Debut Within Next Few Weeks.

TORONTO, April 4 (C.P.)—Lionel "Big Train" Conacher, Canada's greatest all-round athlete, will not play hockey for Montreal Maroons next winter, but will devote his time to wrestling. The big fellow will make his first appearance on the professional mat within the next few weeks, probably in Toronto.

Ivan Mickailoff, wrestling promoter, informed the Canadian Press to-day that Conacher had definitely decided to retire from hockey. "His contract is signed and is on file in my office right now," said Mickailoff. "I have not decided yet who will meet Lionel in his first bout, but he will wrestle in a very short time, probably around April 25."

Conacher, a born athlete, has for years been a star at rugby, lacrosse, boxing and hockey. He played for Pittsburgh, New York Americans, and Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League, after sterling efforts in amateur circles. As a boxer he worked out with Jack Dempsey when the latter was training for his first fight with Gene Tunney, and Dempsey agreed the Canadian boy was very handy with the gloves.

Border Team Holds Twelve-Point Lead

WINDSOR, April 4 (C.P.)—A smooth-working band of stars representing Windsor - Walkerville Alumni to-day stand on the threshold of a berth in the Easter Canada senior basketball finals. A sparkling 30-18 triumph over Montreal Fusiliers senior Monarchs of Quebec, last night gives the Border sextette a commanding lead for the second game of the two-tilt series.

With each club minus one of their stars, Warren Stevens missing from the Montreal line-up and Johnny Murray absent from the Windsor roster, the game was not as speedy as expected during the early play, but livened up considerably as the final half got underway.

Down a single point at half-time, Alumni spurted a powerful offensive rush in the final half and bagged 22 points to nine for the Montrealers.

Led by Don King and Jim Stewart, a close checking guard and a dashing forward, Alumni plays began to click in full turn as the second session got underway. Matching stride for stride with Fusiliers during the early minutes, the Borderites quickly began to pull away as the period progressed and after the first five minutes of play the ultimate winner was never in doubt.

King and Stewart along with Bill Butcher led Windsor's scoring parade, the former heading the list with eight points each while Butcher was close behind with seven. Melville and Schuler with seven and four points respectively, were the pick of the Montreal squad.

CAGE FINALISTS DECIDED TO-NIGHT

Raymond Union Jacks Are Favored to Capture Western Honors.

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.) — Eastern and Western semi-finalists in the senior Canadian basketball series will be crowned to-night in Montreal and Saskatoon, where the second games of total-score series are to be played.

Raymond Union Jacks, senior monarchs of Alberta and conquerors of Westminster Adanacs, British Columbia titleholders, carry a 34-point lead into their final game with University of Saskatchewan for the far Western title. From advance notices the Raymond quintet are a speedy and accurate shooting squad and should easily capture the round from the Varsity band.

In the East Windsor-Walkerville Alumni stand out as the team to meet Saint John Trojans, Maritime champions. Earning a 12-point lead on their home floor, Thursday, the Windsor squad will carry their lead into the second game with Montreal Fusilliers. Although their lead is not sufficient to earn the Quebec-Ontario championship, they can be relied on to protect their margin as they are a hard-checking outfit.

Madoc Bowling Club Organized For Year

MADOC, April 16.— (Examiner Correspondence.)— Madoc Bowling Club held their re-organization meeting on Wednesday evening in the Community Hall with a well representative attendance.

Honorary President—R. R. Casement.

President—S. S. Ashley.

Vice-President—Father Meagher.

Secretary—J. L. Rutherford.

Treasurer—Alex Cochran.

Grounds Committee—R. R. Casement, R. Bailey, G. West, F. Dafoe, W. E. Connor.

Games Committee—Jas. Watson, G. C. Moon and J. L. Rutherford.

The Ladies' Club are meeting next Monday for re-organiaztion.

Madoc expects to have a Softball League among the churches of the village and vicinity. There is a probability of at least four teams being entered, possibly more. St. Peter's Presbyterian church is taking the lead in this matter under the leadership of the new minister, Rev. R. Bertram Nelles, and have already organized their team with the title of "St. Peter's Church Club," and the colors chosen are purple and gold.

The officers elected are: President, W. J. Hill; manager, Lloyd Blue; secretary, James Burns; treasurer, Robt. Whytock.

A suitable trophy is to be provided for competition should the church league materialize, and the representatives of each of the other churches are to be approached at once.

Already all the young men of the village are much interested and will readily be persuaded to join one or other of these proposed teams or clubs.

Only Players Can Brighten Cricket

Whenever there is a wet summer the county cricket clubs lose money, and whenever the clubs lose money short-sighted people imagine that the popularity of the game is declining. They blame the way in which cricket is played for the dismal balance sheets, whereas they should blame the weather.

A wet Saturday or a rain-spoiled Bank Holiday, can mark the difference between a profit and a loss on a season's working, and the season of 1931 was flooded by wet days. Every outdoor recreation, from boating to butterfly hunting, suffered as a consequence.

Now, because fewer boats were hired out on the rivers no one was so foolish as to contend that there was something unpopular about the shape of the oars or that the crafts were painted an unattractive color. But it was no sooner known that the county cricket clubs were in financial low water than the faddists of the land decided that the game was dying and could only be saved by revolutionary changes in the rules.

Rules of Play Untouched

Fortunately those who control the destinies of cricket declined to be panic-stricken, and most of the few schemes that got so far as the committee rooms were unfavorably received. If any changes are made in the rules this year they will not affect cricket as a game; they will only touch it as a championship competition.

No one, of course, would pretend that cricket is always played in a way to please even the orthodox who can enjoy the slowest of batting in the right place. Certain innovations—unrelieved back play, the swerve, "leg theory"—have been blindly followed in some directions with tedious results.

Let the players—especially the captains—remember that cricket is intended to be an enjoyable recreation, not a grim toil to gather more and more championship points, and the clubs will find that those who understand the game, and who have the time to watch what must inevitably be "an intricate, vigilant and leisurely warfare," will keep the turnstiles busy.

But, although new rules are not required, there is urgent need for the existing rules to be rigorously enforced. This applies especially to those framed to govern the duration of intervals.

Law 45 clearly states that the umpires "shall allow two minutes for each innings." Moreover, the legal time of a luncheon interval is forty-five minutes, and of a tea interval ten minutes. Yet in the majority of matches the evidence of the clock is ignored. A waste of five minutes is regarded as a trifle. But odd minutes can be of vital importance. They can make the difference between a thrilling win and a tame draw. They can irritate spectators, many of whom are unable to reach a ground until late in the day, more even than unnecessarily slow batting or belated declarations.

The fate of cricket is in the hands of the layers, not of the law-makers. Come out to time, you heroes of the county teams. Don't let a shower of rain hold up the game for an hour. A little mud on your boots won't cause pneumonia. And remember the wise old saw handed down by your grandfathers—"A match is never lost till it is won."

If these things are observed cricket wil not languish in 1932—unless the sun forgets to shine again!—Overseas Daily Mail.

PLENTY ACTION IN ALL-LOCAL RING PROGRAM

Reg Lesurf Takes Decision Over Fred DeCarlo in His Ring Comeback.

GOOD PRELIMINARIES.

Gardner Plasters Severe Lacing on Hank Noakes in Bloody Struggle

Knockouts, both clean-cut and of the technical variety, studded the seven-bout Alpha Club fight card at the Legion Hall last night. The whole show provided action and thrills galore, with the place in an uproar throughout the last three bouts. A good-sized crowd paid their shekels to see the first all-local boxing show of the year, and they got their money's worth, and then some.

The main scrap went to Roy Hope by a kayo over Jack Chamberlain in the second round. Reg Lesurf, after a year's layoff, came back in the semi-final and gave Fred DeCarlo a boxing lesson, but an exciting third round threatened to start a gang fight in the crowd. Jack Gardner pasted a severe lacing on Hank Noakes but couldn't get him down in three stanzas. Both Harrington boys won their fights on technical knockouts when their opponents refused to go on in another round to settle a draw. Tip Anderson was kayoed in one session by Watson.

Fast Curtain Raiser.

Pat Jordan and Joe DeNoble, both around 80 pounds of the Foster Club, staged a fast, hard-hitting curtain-raiser, a no-decision affair. They waded into each other, at times showing fair boxing, and swapped hefty haymakers to the head, going along on pretty even terms throughout. They were popular with the crowd.

Technical For Watson.

Jack Watson, Alpha 114, won on a technical K.O. from Tip Anderson, unattached 115 halfway through the first round. Tip was sagging on the ropes when it was stopped, after taking a hard right uppercut to the chin. He was on the floor twice before that, one no-count and the other for a count of one from right smashes to the jaw. Jack tore in from the start, throwing hard rights and lefts to body and head, with the less experienced Anderson covering up and countering lightly with lefts to the face.

Awarded Decision.

When Tom Heffernan, Foster 110, refused to go on in the extra round ordered, the duke was awarded Earl Harrington, Alpha 107. Earl took the first, dropping Tom twice for no-count and one-count with hard left hooks to the jaw. It was a slugging round that had both their noses bleeding. The second went to Tommy who used straight lefts and right uppercuts to hold Earl out and the place was in an uproar as they mixed hard. The third was even, starting with a hard exchange and then slowing up, Harrington hooking mean lefts to the face and Tom countering as he came in with one-two blows. He was tired and would not come out for a fourth go. Both got plenty of applause.

Whatman Hands Over Duke.

Dan Harrington, Alpha 116½, took a technical kayo over Deb Whatman, Foster 117, the same way, Deb being too tired to try a fourth round. Dan took the first, a slow affair, he being a little more aggressive. No damage was done and the pair were warned to make it a fight. The second was even and draggy again after a fair start. Deb connected for a couple to the kisser, but Dan was more aggressive and pounded his ribs in close. The third looked even and was faster. Deb proved shifty on his feet and had the boring-in Danny missing plenty, and little real damage was done outside of rough clinches. Deb did not come out for the fourth when the judges ruled another one necessary.

Gardner Upholds Honors.

A real old battle that kept the customers yelling was the one between Jack Gardner, Foster 148, and Hank Noakes, Alpha 150, the former winning. The colorful Jack took the first with staggering blows to the head with both hands. After Hank had started strong, Gardner kept feinting and smashing him to body and head with either duke and jarring him at infighting. Hank came back good at the last to swap blows. The middle go was about even, Jack moving around plenty, and slamming in some niffies to the face and a couple pips to the stomach, but Hank rapping home a flock of short jolts to the head.

Noakes' face was a gory mess in the last from looping left swings to the mush and wicked right uppercuts as Gardner hammered him hard with both mitts. Hank was plenty game and durable and kept going in with his hands swinging, but Jack's battering blows rocked him time and again, spilling the claret from a badly-cut mouth. The fans made a great fuss, and cheered both gladiators as they left the ring.

DeCarlo Outboxed.

The semi-final saw Reg Lesurf, Alpha Club 140, return to the sock game in a heavier class and thoroughly outbox Fred DeCarlo, 138 of the Pioneer A.C. in three exciting rounds. Reg took the first easily with his speed, experience and cleverness. He jabbed a lightning left continuously in Fred's face and crossed with a few right hooks to body and face. DeCarlo clipped him a few but Lesurf was going away, and Reg had a big edge at infighting. He waltzed through the middle frame again, boxing cooly and smoothly. Fred charged several times but was picked off with lefts to the head. As DeCarlo bored in and rapped him twice, Reg nailed him with a neat uppercut to the whiskers.

The third was a furious session and the crowd nearly raised the roof. DeCarlo tore into Lesurf and they roughed each other up hard in clinches. Referee Gord Garwood could hardly tear them apart. At one time, Fred's second objected violently to Garwood's splitting up the pair and warning DeCarlo for hitting while holding, and the fans surged to their feet belligerently, but order was restored. The rough infighting was about even, but later Lesurf was picking his spots and cutting Fred's lips. Both were applauded loudly at the end, with Lesurf getting the unanimous decision.

Hope Scores on K. O.

Roy Hope, Alpha 135, was too good for Jack Chamberlain, Pioneer 134, in the final and got a clean knockout after two minutes of the second round. He took the first after Jack had hooked him to the jaw as they sparred and fought close on the ropes. Roy then nailed him with a whistling right drive to the button and Jack staggered up at four. Hope followed him around, but Jack's ring experience saved him and he kept away, or clinched and countered the rest of the way, with Roy failing his midsection when Chamberlain held on.

The second was very fast, Roy tearing after him and keeping right on top, but Jack slipping around, ducking and blocking and holding. Hope pounded his ribs in the clinches and then staggered him with a wicked two-handed barrage to the head. Jack swayed back to the ropes and started to sag downward when Hope clipped him right on the button with a right uppercut. Chamberlain hit the resin, banging his head on the floor and was counted out trying to climb to his feet in a dazed condition. The crowd gave them a big hand, and then made for the doors.

SPORTS Day by Day

HOCKEY, BOWLING, CURLING, BASKETBALL AND BOXING

CASUAL COMMENT

There's something about the ring that gets fans heated up as few other sports can do. Dempsey says it's the "lure of the ring" that gets the fighters while Corbett calls it the "roar of the crowd." Whatever it is for the fighters, an ordinary peaceable citizen has only to watch a round or so of furious battling, and he's ready to start a fight in the crowd himself. This was almost demonstrated last night.

• • • • • • •

It was the third round of the Lesurf-DeCarlo scrap. Lesurf had taken the first two by much-superior boxing. DeCarlo tore into him in the third and they clinched in rough fashion, hammering each other at close range. Referee Garwood started to part them as they were holding and DeCarlo kept punching. Gord got peeved and shoved Frank back roughly, warning him to quit hitting when he was told.

• • • • • • • •

The crowd was at fever-heat then, and when Fred's second jumped up arguing with the referee, they started up like an angry mob all set to get into a fight without caring what side they took. But fortunately it was over before they could get started. Boy, it was sure exciting, that third round. Some of the fans booed when Lesurf's hand was lifted, but he had it all right, taking every round.

• • • • • • •

DeCarlo was plenty game, tough and aggressive, but lacked the ring experience and smooth boxing ability of the other. Reg. has been out of the game for some time and has added weight, but looked good last night. If he goes into training seriously, he should prove just as formidable a welter as he was in the lightweight class. And we don't mean just locally, but throughout the province. He had Toronto pugs refusing to box him a year ago.

• • • • • • •

The whole Alpha Club card last night went over fine. While it was all-local, it wasn't for the city championships, as all three clubs have some good boys who didn't take part in this show. With the bunch of scrappers here, it isn't necessary to go out of town to stage a first-class card. Fans who attended last night got a real evening's entertainment for their dough, and there wasn't a kick.

• • • • • • •

Of the winners up there, Lesurf, Roy Hope, Gardner and young Watson looked outstanding. Hope had too much dynamite in his right duke for Jack Chamberlain, who fought gamely and boxed smartly, but took it on the chin once too often. When Roy clouts them on the button, they generally stay clouted.

• • • • • • • •

Any other boxer in the city but Hank Noakes would have been kayoed in one round the way Gardner was socking last night. Jack was certainly hitting the line for dear old Alma Mater. Either mitt, it made no difference. He would feint with one and connect like a battering-ram with the other. He'd make a real scrapper if he stuck with it awhile, but then what about his baseball, lacrosse, swimming, rugby, hockey and the rest?

• • • • • • • •

The Pioneer Athletic Club is putting on its first fight show next week at the Legion Hall. It will be Wednesday night, and three or four good Toronto mittsers are in it. Jerry Coughlin has some good material, and it ought to be another big night for fight fans.

• • • • • • •

Getting away from the resin-shufflers, Doug Brennan may go in for professional box lacrosse in Toronto this year, according to Len Smith, who writes on that game for the Star. Doug saw a few pro games last fall and figured he could make a place if he wanted to. He played the old lacrosse game as a juvenile, junior and intermediate around this district some time ago, and with hockey over now, he may try it again.

• • • • • • •

The East Peterborough Baseball League holds its first meeting of the year in Duffus' next Wednesday night at eight tells, and it should be an interesting session. Since Charlie Curtis, league secretary, has accepted a position on the senior club executive, it looks as if the E.P.L. and the senior organization will be working together this year to a mutual advantage.

• • • • • • •

The greens at the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club are in good condition now, and it may not be long before they are being used. A big tournament is slated for here the 24th of May, we understand.

GERMANY'S STRONG ACQUATIC TEAM FOR OLYMPIC GAMES

Thirteen in Lot, Including One Mermaid Training for Los Angeles.

DEITER A STANDOUT.

BERLIN, April 14.—(Special to The Examiner).—Germany intends to send a stronger and larger swimming team to Los Angeles this summer than the one which won the Olympic championship at Amsterdam in 1928.

The German Swimming Association has decided to send a squad numbering 13, including one girl, to the United States and also indicated that if financial problems can be solved satisfactorily the team will be larger.

So many new stars have come to the fore in the tryouts that the association believes Germany's chances of retaining the title will be bolstered considerably if the new talent is sent abroad.

The veterans were hard pressed to gain nominations to the teams by many youngsters during the eliminations recently. World and national records were toppled over like ten pins during this heated series of competitions, sending German hopes skyrocketing.

The youth who created quite a stir recently is Raymond Deiter, 17-year-old Cologne star. He put himself right up at the top among the fastest swimmers in the world by establishing a new German free style record for 200 metres in 2.16 3-10, just a fraction slower than the mark set by Taris, famous French record breaker.

Bernard Skampers, German ex-champion, and trainer of Deiters, expressed confidence that his pupil can still improve and put on an impressive performance at Los Angeles.

Ernest Kueppers in the 100 metres back stroke and Wittenberg, Sietas as well as Schwarz in the 300 metres breast stroke events are other German champions who are expected to win Olympic titles.

Ernest Fischer of Wesermunede has splashed 100 metres in 1.00 6-10, thereby becoming the fifth fastest swimmer in the world over that distance after Johnny Weismueler, United States, Barany of Hungary, Taris of France, and Peterson of Sweden.

German Frauleins staged some stirring battles in the trials for the only position on the team. Olgan Jordan holder of several European swimming titles, has practically clinched the berth, but spirited competition is going on still in hopes that the size of the team will be increased and other women taken to Los Angeles.

Lisa Rocke of Madgeburg and Hilde Seibert of Gleiwitz are among the prominent contenders. Miss Rocke has just succeeded in establishing a new world's record for the 200 metres breast stroke in 3 minutes .07 8-10 seconds.

Eleven members of the men's team will take part in the water ball event in the international competition.

LONDON BOBBY WILL SEEK HURDLE TITLE

Giant Policeman Certain to Be on British Olympic Team

London.—Lord Burghley's hitherto undisputed title of champion hurdler of Great Britain is in serious danger. The challenger is a big "six foot three" member of the Metropolitan police force, by name Joseph Simpson.

He is now almost certain that he will make the trip to California.

His father was formerly wealthy and as a schoolboy and a university undergraduate Joe Simpson gathered up a few records. As a youngster of eighteen, when he was a pupil at the famous Oundle school he took the long jump record to 22 ft. 3 in., won the 440 yards in 52 3-5ths seconds, but only took second place in the high hurdles in 16 1-10ths seconds on grass.

At Manchester University Joe set up a new record in the long jump, high and low hurdles and the quarter mile. But of late he has specialized in the low hurdles. He has a beautiful style and takes the obstacles in his stride in faultless fashion.

He jolted up a few critics in 1930 by only taking 53 9-10ths seconds to win a 400 metres low hurdles race on a straight grass track. The vanquished in that effort were R. Leigh Wood, an Oxford blue and South African record holder, and R. K. Brown, a record holder from "T'other place," which is the rather superior way the Oxford undergraduates refer to Cambridge.

In those happy days Joe Simpson was a cotton manufacturer; his father owned many of the mills and Joe looked like stepping into a nice profitable business.

But then something hit Manchester's famous cotton trade, so Joe had to go out into the "crool, hard world" and earn a living for himself.

He tried six months on a trawler in the North Sea, which knocked out a lot of that university nonsense, but it did not improve his high or low hurdling. The Metropolitan police were then looking for tall, strapping young fellows with a superior education. They looked over Joe, asked him a few questions, and Joe signed the dotted line.

ADMIRERS SEND DON CUP

LONDON, April 16. (AP)—Kaye Don, the automobile and motorboat racer to-day received from Andrew Mellon, United States Ambassador, a silver cup presented on behalf of his admirers in Detroit, Mich. Lord Wakefield, his backer, said that he and Don were planning to take a new speedboat, Miss England III to Detroit this year.

AMATEUR ROWING MONARCH PREPARING FOR OLYMPICS

WRIGHT AT NO. 6

TORONTO, April 16 (Special to the Examiner).—Bobby Pearce, the glamorous monarch of the sculling world, is putting the finishing touches to his training campaign these days before embarking for Los Angeles and the Olympic games.

The former Australian works out daily from the Argonaut Club at Toronto. He usually starts at four p.m. and takes several spins up and down the waterfront. Close observers of the champion are unanimous in their opinion that his speed today compares very favorably with his high peak of last summer, which is not so improbable when one considers that he has been sculling most of the past winter in Toronto and on the Canadian Henley course at St. Catharines. Incidentally it has been years since Bobby has known anything but near perfect condition, a fact that in a little way accounts for his unusual success.

Veteran Still Active

Accompanying Pearce on his trial workouts these nights is probably the oldest sculler in active competition in the world today. Dr. Durnan. He has been active in the blade and oar competition since 1898, thirty-four years ago, when he bought a shell and started training at the old Argonaut Club on Fleet St. Dr. Durnan also had the distinction of being the only man who ever practised with what was the greatest sculler of the old school and the greatest sculler of the present day for his partner on those early conditioning jaunts, in the late nineties, was no less a personage than his cousin, Eddie Durnan, the old professional sculling champion of the world. The Dr. does not commit himself regarding the respective merits of Pearce and E. Durnan but he does think that there never was a greater oarsman than the recently adopted son of Canada.

Hedges at Stroke

The Argonauts have definitely decided to place Fred Hedges in the stroke position of their prospective Olympic eight. So Hedges has returned to the position at which he did so well during the 1928 Olympics and Joe Wright, Junior, has dropped back to number six seat. It was thought that this arrangement would prove more suitable as Wright is one of the tallest men in the boat and much of his effectiveness would go to naught rowing in front of shorter men.

As the Olympic trials at St. Catharines will be held on the 21-22-23 of July and as the Los Angeles competitions are little more than a week later complications are likely to arise regarding the securing of funds to send the winning boat California-bound. Ordinarily any of the crews entered in this competition are going to have difficulty in securing the funds but when they won't know until one week in advance of their departure whether they are going to need them or not their worries are going to be considerably increased. There is a possibility that the Olympic committee will overcome this difficulty before long.

Motor City Ladies Win Bowling Honors

A team of bowlers of the Ladies' City League, who have been playing all season at Duffus' journeyed to Oshawa last Thursday evening for their annual inter-city competition. The Motor City ladies captured all three games with a total pinnage of 2409 against 2028. This may be reversed when the Oshawa troupe visits the local alleys on Wednesday, April 20th for the return match. The visitors were guests of the Oshawa team later in the Oshawa Cafe. Following is the result of the three games played:

Peterborough

THE RISING WATER.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Whoe'er has worked and wrought his best
Is thus prepared for any test.
—Paddy the Beaver.

Paddy the Beaver and Mrs. Paddy had worked steadily on their two dams, but had given special attention to the lower dam which made the pond in which their house had been built. If the dam above should give way it would be bad, but not nearly so bad as if the dam below should break. So they worked a stick in here and a log in there wherever that dam seemed to need it. When they were satisfied with this dam they did the same thing to the other.

"I suppose," said Paddy, "that some people would say that we are silly to do all this work when there may be no danger at all, and probably will not be any."

"I am glad you are not one of that kind," replied Mrs. Paddy as she pressed a mass of wet leaves in among some sticks of the dam. She had brought them up from the bottom of the pond. "I like to sleep with an easy mind," she continued "and that I never could do if I didn't know that we have or soon will have done all that we can do. Have you noticed, my dear, that the water has risen rather fast since yesterday?"

Paddy nodded. "Of course I've noticed it," he replied rather shortly. "I would be stupid if I hadn't. It is already beginning to run over the top of this dam and by tomorrow it will be running over the top of the other dam. There must have been a lot of snow up on the Great Mountain. It looks to me as if we are going to have rain. If we do that won't help matters any. Not that I am worried, my dear. Let a big flood come and see how much I care. We will be all right because we are ready for it, but there are some others who probably are not prepared at all, and it may go hard with them."

"Who" demanded Mrs. Paddy.

"Jerry Muskrat for one," replied Paddy. "I presume he has his house down in the Smiling Pool on the Green Meadows as usual, but he hasn't any dam to protect it, and it isn't as stoutly built as ours anyway. A bad flood might wash that house away completely or fill the bedroom with water so that Jerry cannot stay in it. It might go very hard with Jerry Muskrat if we should have a bad flood. And there are others living on the Green Meadows who might suffer in a flood. So far as we are concerned I don't care how fast or how high the water rises, for we are prepared for it. I believe it is beginning to rain. Yes, sir, it is. Well, we are ready for it."

It was beginning to rain. It was a gentle rain and no one thought much about it. But it kept right on raining, and after a while it rained harder. It rained the rest of that day. It rained all night. It rained all the next day and the following night. The water rose higher and higher in the Laughing Brook, and the higher it rose the swifter it ran. Soon it was out of the banks of the Laughing Brook. The two ponds of Paddy the Beaver were so full that the water was running over the dam, making waterfalls. And it was running around the ends of the dams.

So they worked a stick in here and a log in there wherever that dam seemed to need it.

It roared down the Laughing Brook below Paddy's ponds, and the usually quiet Smiling Pool in the Green Meadows became a pond and then a lake as the water overflowed the banks and swept over the Green Meadows, while through the middle of the Smiling Pool surged an angry current.

Jerry Muskrat had not thought anything about it when the rain first started. He had noticed that the water had been rising in the Laughing Brook and the Smiling Pool for several days, but this had not worried him. It was to be expected this time of year. The snow had all disappeared from the Green Meadows and Jerry could see no reason why there should be any higher water than usual this spring.

But with the beginning of the second day of rain Jerry began to be anxious. The water in the under part of his house in the Smiling Pool was getting deeper and rising dangerously near the level of his bedroom floor. Would it get inside the bedroom? A little wouldn't do much harm, but if that bedroom should be filled he would have to leave his house altogether. He remembered the never-to-be-forgotten time when his house had been swept away, and shivered at the memory.

What To-Day Means To You

"ARIES"

If April 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m., from 2:40 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 9 p.m. to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., and from 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

It is not difficult to foresee from the planetary aspects that April 15th will be an active, eventful and adventurous day. Affairs in general will move quickly and profitably. Unexpected developments in plans relative to your personal life, and some change is indicated within the home.

Children born on this April 16th will have fighting, combative natures, and will desire self-expression through legitimate or illegitimate channels. Too much restraint is ill-advised. Their courage will often be replaced by rashness, but they will generally land on their feet. They will be big-hearted and generous.

If birthday honors are yours on an April 16th, Nature has kindly left out of your character all signs of morbidness, suspicion, self-centeredness and most of the grossly selfish traits of mankind. She has, however, put warmth, sympathy, fervor and frankness in your make-up. Your modesty is not that of a shrinking violet, nor is there anything passive or negative about your nature. If you are a genuine big noise, you feel you can afford to keep quiet about it—and do. The spirit of "noblesse oblige" is strongly imprinted in your being.

You have the gift of getting next to people; you take them as they are and generally find much that is both good and interesting in everyone. There are many so-called black sheep amongst the white ones in your coterie of friends, and a general party of all those whom you love would cause a riot. You are very frank, and there are no double meanings to your words. When you say a thing, you do not mean maybe. As you are not thin-skinned, you do not show irritation or temper without considerable provocation. When you do fight, however, you do not stop to put on gloves, and your blows are hard and well directed.

Your work should be with people and for humanity, rather than along commercial lines dealing with dimes and figures. Leave details to others! You should plan and organize.

Sunday, April 17th.

If April 17th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 7:15 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11:20 p.m.

Hankering will be supplanted by happiness on April 17th, as it is shown to be a time of unexpected and pleasant happenings. Family and community life are shown at their best. The spirit of the day will act as a tonic, and it should be a week of history-making.

The child born on this April 17th will be critical, studious, methodical and industrious. Given something to do, it will peg away at it until it is done to the best of its ability. It will not need to be bribed to do things, as it will like responsibilities and the glories of achievement will suffice.

Character analysis of those born on April 17th: To know you is to realize that truth, honesty and decency are not out of date. Your life will be rich in thought and experiences, but will be lived cleanly and in a downright and above-board fashion. Your ideals are not always practical or attainable, but they are at least something worthy of strife, and will carry you upwards, instead of downwards, on your journey through life.

You have many traits typical of that of a reformer, and will probably devote yourself to more than one lost cause. You are not afraid of rowing against the stream of popular opinion if you feel in your heart that you are right. You do not talk about what ought to be done, but take more virile methods in seeing that it is done. You will always have enemies in the opposing camp, but will enjoy universal popularity amongst your real friends.

You are not a procrastinator, and may in your impatience to get things done, err in the opposite direction. You are not particular about details, and work with the end in view regardless of methods of attainment. You are an idealist in your views about love and marriage, and a union with one of dissimilar tastes, and who is not a mental comrade, would probably not be a lasting alliance.

Hockey Player Wed

MARRIAGE UPSET SHAMROCKS.

Captain Gordon Brydson of the Chicago Shamrocks hockey team and Miss Dorothy Beamish of Toronto planned to be wed in Toronto on April 9, and, as it was an elaborate church ceremony and all arrangements were made, Brydson had to leave his team in the American League championship series with the Hornets at Duluth. Although the Shamrocks won the championship, Tom Shaughnessy, president of the team, fired Manager Babe Dye for permitting Brydson to leave and suspended Captain Brydson and fined him $1,000. Gordon Brydson and his bride are shown here.

EDNA M. OLIVER IN NEW COMEDY

"Ladies of the Jury" Provides Medium for Her Talent.

ROSCO ATES IN CAST

NEW YORK, April 16.—The producers have come considerably closer to the brand of comedy suitable to Edna May Oliver in "Ladies of the Jury"—a film version of the play of the same name in which the late Mrs. Fiske appeared more than two years ago—than they did in her previous venture, "Fanny Foley Herself." This is emphatically encouraging, for Miss Oliver is one of the most talented comediennes on the screen, an actress who makes the most of her lines and whose diction is excellent. Her performance in "Ladies of the Jury" proved highly satisfactory in provoking hearty laughter from New York audiences.

Miss Oliver appears as a society woman named Mrs. Livingston Baldwin Crane, who for the first time is called to serve on a jury.

Mrs. Crane enters the court room accompanied by her maid and at once recognizes the judge as a friend, whom she greets as though she were in her drawing room. She cannot quite understand the judge's serious demeanor, for he evidently resents Mrs. Crane's behavior, particularly when she interrupts the proceedings by insisting on introducing herself to both the counsel for the defense and the prosecution.

She declares that she knows nothing of the murder case and asks whether she ought to read up on it and is assured that this is not necessary. Eventually she takes her seat among the jurors and when the witnesses are called she interrogates them as though she were vying with the attorneys. The much-annoyed judge instructs Mrs. Crane to stand when she addresses the court and, although it rather surprises her, she obeys.

A Dominant Woman.

The defendant is an attractive French girl, who is accused of shooting and killing her elderly, wealthy husband. When the jury is beheld in the deliberating room the foreman asks each juror whether he or she considers the defendant guilty, and it is soon disclosed that, with the exception of Mrs. Crane, all believe the prisoner to be guilty. This society woman contends that Mrs. Gordon is innocent of the crime. Notwithstanding the determined attitude of the foreman, Mrs. Crane persists in her attitude and subsequently she enlists on her side Wayne Dazy, a real estate operator, and later a man and a woman who have found favor in each other's eyes. Mrs. Crane is persuasive in her arguments and in course of time she wins over to her way of thinking everybody but the foreman and a stalwart female. Subsequently even these two are forced through circumstances to vote in favor of the defendant.

Although the scenes in the jury room are more than slightly farcial now and again, they afford a good measure of entertainment, and there is a certain satisfaction when Mrs. Crane, with biting sarcasm, tells the foreman, who has on several occasions revealed his animosity toward her, that she wishes to express to him and to the other members of the jury her profound appreciation of his matchless intelligence.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

A new song is out called "I'd Rather Stay Home With Mickey Mouse Than Go Out With You, You Rat."

Laurel and Hardy are listed for appearance in Paris this summer.

J. Harold Murray is drawing $1,500 a week in "Face the Music," Broadway musical comedy.

First National announces the release of four pictures during May, as follows: "The Famous Ferguson Case," with Joan Blondell, Tom Brown and Vivienne Osborne; "The Rich Are Always with Us," with Ruth Chatterton; "The Strange Love of Molly Louvain," with Ann Dvorak, Richard Cromwell and Lee Tracy, and "Two Seconds," with Edward G. Robinson.

When it was thought that Ernst Lubitsch would seek other fields, Paramount announced that they had re-signed the director. His success with "One Hour With You" made Paramount come to his terms and he will have free reign in future productions, much as has von Sternberg. On the same lot Richard Rodgers, Lorenz Hart and Leo Robin, composers all, were engaged to do musicals for the studio.

After a three-month vacation Ronald Colman is back in Hollywood to begin work in United Artists' new film, "The Brothers Karamazov," in which he will take the part of Dmitri. Mr. Colman spent the last part of his holiday in Shanghai and saw some of the fighting.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"SHANGHAI EXPRESS"

The fascinating person who came out of Germany some short time ago, endowed with a great deal of dramatic ability, a pair of famous legs and only enough English to get by in "Morocco" her first starring picture, is the central figure in this picture, which has for its locale the train that goes from Peiping to Shanghai, in China, a three days' journey complicated by all sorts of adventures.

This new idea in talkies, exemplified in "Street Scene", "Union Depot" and now in this picture, is quite interesting. It puts the action of the story all in one place and takes only a short space of time to cover the piece, like a one-act play.

"Shanghai Express" is one of the productions of the silver screen that lives up to its advance notices, in interest, in tenseness and in romantic atmosphere. Of course, it takes a woman of affairs as a heroine, but it pictures her at a moment when she is glad to turn from evil ways.

Marlene Dietrich's noted legs do not appear in this talkie, and her command of English has broadened out considerably although we are not going to admit that she can yet rival the peerless Garbo, still she can put the action over in remarkable style and she certainly has plenty of that "it" quality that Elinor Glyn used to rave about. We wish, however, that she wouldn't roll her eyes so much. That is a new trick that doesn't add to her art to any great extent.

She is the "Shanghai Lily" the notorious "coaster"of China, "the white flower" noted for her preeminence in matters of the heart, and she embarks on the Shanghai Express for a three-day journey that brings her face to face with a former admirer, Captain (Dr.) Donald Harvey, a British medical man who is journeying to Shanghai on an important mission. Clive Brook, with his imperturable demeanor, his cultured accent and his good looks, has this role and plays it splendidly. The spectacle of the "Lily" and "Doc" fencing verbally with each other is realistic and very attractive.

Then there is Warner Oland as the "bad man" the Chinese revolutionist, faultless as usual; Eugene Pallette as the comedy relief for the tense moments, Louise Closser Hale as Mrs. Haggerty, keeper of a select boarding-house and famed for her Yorkshire pudding. In a picture that includes the Shanghai Lily, it seems remarkable to have it open with such a mid-Victorian virtuous figure as this same old lady, with her pet poodle, Waffles. Anna May Wong, with her cultivated, silver English tones believing her extremely Oriental dress and appearance, is another outstanding figure in a talkies that bristles with excellent characterizations.

In China, "where life and time have no value" the train proceeds, with its Chinese engineer and conductor, its Chinese symbols and its Chinese habit of stopping for unimportant events, like the calf's breakfast.

One likeable bit is the manner in which the man of God alone believes in the reformation of the Shanghai Lily.

"Shanghai Express" is in a class by itself, always dramatically interesting, with the curious brooding inscrutability of China hovering over its action. Josef von Sternberg has achieved another triumph.

CENSORS VARY IN FILM CUTS

Ireland Tossed Out Fifteen Pictures By M.G.M.

BUSY START FOR 1932

HOLLYWOOD, April 16.—Despite the enforcement of the Hays code, the inspection of all scripts by the Hays office before they go into production, the censor officials on each major lot and the general knowledge of what is offensive to the screen policing bodies, during the first 10 weeks of 1932, censors throughout the United States, Canada and the rest of the world made 1,239 cuts of dialogue and action in 173 pictures, ranging from a few words to 700 feet and made 54 total rejections that affected 50 pictures.

What was some censors' delight was others' poison and 75% of the cuts were original and unduplicated with the makers. Only one-fourth of the cases paralleled similar deletions on the part of other scissors wielders. In Massachusetts strict tab was kept on everything, but all of the cuts were effective on Sundays only.

Sex and criminal tendencies were the two most fruitful reasons for blacking out on scenes. About 65% of the snipping was done for suggestive reasons, 30% because of law breaking and the remainder divided between gruesomeness, blasphemy, religion and censors finding a more subtle meaning in things than the makers intended.

Chamber of Commerce

Japan still objects to overlong osculation, Czecho-Slovakia and Java to bank robbing activities, England to films showing American engine wheels on British trains, and everyone to too much realism in westerns.

Singapore, one of the wildest open towns in the world, is mightly particular as to the celluloid morals of its heroes and heroines.

Of the 50 pictures rejected outright, the record is held by Ireland and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. The former thumbed down 15 of the latter's films. They were 'Day Break,' 'Free Soul,' 'Laughing Sinners,' 'Inspiration,' 'Dance, Fools, Dance,' 'Billy the Kid,' 'Bachelor Father,' 'Strangers May Kiss,' 'Easiest Way,' 'Wise Child,' 'Just a Gigolo,' 'Never the Twain Shall Meet,' 'Parlor, Bedroom and Bath,' 'War Nurse' and 'Way for a Sailor.'

Lese Majeste

Chicago continued to be death on details about gangsterism, all monarchies resented kidding kings, and Kansas cut any reference to imbibing of intoxicating libations.

Countries with large native populations resented any attempt to screen anything that would make the white man lose face before the other races.

Finland has a neat little way of tactfully rejecting a picture. The censors cut so much out of an unwanted film that it is impossible to make heads or tails out of the result of the butchery.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 72

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Confusion held Flora Hawkes only momentarily. Presently she explained that she had come to Africa with her companions, engaged in scientific research. "Because," she remarked, "I had been in Africa with you and Lord Greystoke and so know something about this section." Wholly unsuspicious, Lady Greystoke called Usula, who was in charge of the Waziri. "Two hundred west coast blacks are coming after these people," she said, "and we shall have to fight to defend them."

Only a moment after this, Luvinis forces broke into view. At sight of the glistening warriors ready to receive them, Luvini's followers halted ....He, seeing the inferior numbers of the enemy, demanded the whites be handed over to him. He accompanied his demand with fantastic, grotesque antics, shaking his fist and waving his rifle. His warriors imitated him, yelling and shrieking as they worked themselves into the frenzy of excitement that would give them the courage necessary to charge.

The Waziri behind the boma wall, schooled and disciplined by Tarzan of the Apes, had long since discarded these preliminaries so dear to the hearts of other warlike tribes. Instead, they stood stolid and grim, awaiting the coming of the foe. Lady Greystoke issued orders, telling the three whites, all armed, to take places among the Waziri. She spoke as one accustomed to command. "Flora and I will remain in the back of the camp," she said, "near that large tree. Do not fire until they attack."

Their movements, in the light of the campfire, were plainly seen by Luvini. And also to that other watcher from the foliage of the very tree beneath which Flora and Jane Clayton now took refuge. Luvini had not come to fight. He had come to capture Flora Hawkes and, accordingly, he made a plan. While his men were occupying the attention of the Waziri, he took several blacks to the rear of the camp, intending by the ruse to capture the girl his savage heart was set upon.

Battle of Ypres The Thermopylae Of Canadian Arms

The Heroic Stand of the Firs t Canadian Division on April 22, 1915. Against the Fir st Poison Gas Onslaught Saved the Channel Po rts and Great Britain.

PRESIDENT OF FRENCH RE PUBLIC RECORDS IT WAS BELG IANS WHO SAVED THE DAY

TORONTO, Ont., April 16 (By The Canadian Press)—Friday of next week is the 17th anniversary of the opening of the Second Battle of Ypres, April 22, 1915. So long as Canada remains a nation will the memory live of that great feat of arms of the Canadian First Division, the Thermopylae of Canadian military annals. For it was on that day the enemy first employed a poison gas, and it was on that day the Canadians held not alone their line but built up a defense on their exposed left flank. They thus saved Ypres, the gateway to the Channel ports.

In his despatch of June 15, 1915, Lord French, the British Commander-in-chief, reported: "I much regret that during the period under report the fighting has been characterized on the enemy's side by a cynical and barbarous disregard of the well-known usages of civilized war and a flagrant defiance of the Hague Convention.

"It was at the commencement of the Second Battle of Ypres on the evening of 22nd April....that the enemy first made use of asphyxiating gas....

"Following a heavy bombardment, the enemy attacked the French Division at about 5 p.m., using asphyxiating gas for the first time... ..What followed almost defies description. The effect of these poisonous gases was so virulent as to render the whole of the line held by the French Division mentioned above practically incapable of any action at all....Hundreds of men were thrown into a comatose condition, and within an hour the whole position had to be abandoned, together with about 50 guns."

"The left flank of the Canadian Division was thus left dangerously exposed to serious attack in flank, and there appeared to be a prospect of their being overwhelmed and of a successful attempt by the Germans to cut of the British troops occupying the Salient to the East.

"In spite of the danger of which they were exposed the Canadians held their ground with a magnificent display of tenacity and courage; and it is not too much to say that the bearing and conduct of these splendid troops averted a disaster which might have been attended with the most serious consequences."

In the War Volumes of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, Capitaine-Commandant R. van Overstraeten, aide-de-camp to the King of the Belgians, records:....."Some suspicions of this new weapon seem to have reached the Allied Headquarters, but there had been no time for preventive measures, and to the unfortunate Africans — (chiefly composing the French Division in the area) — the gas-clouds came as a complete surprise. Luckily for the Allies the efficacy of their new weapon surprised the Germans themselves; they hastened to fall upon the Canadians whose left flank the rout of the French had completely exposed, but they had not enough troops to exploit their success.

"The Canadians stood the strain of their first serious engagement splendidly. Their front line maintained their positions unshaken; a line was hastily improvised along the Poelcappelle road toward St. Julien to cover the exposed flank and rear of the front line, while local reserves manned the second-line trenches near 'Shell-Trap Farm' north of Wieltje in time to check the further advance of the Germans."

Poincare's Impressions

So much for history. These facts are so well authenticated it would seem impossible they could be challenged, especially from an official or authoritative source. Raymond Poincare was President of the French Republic throughout the war and held high office since. A few months ago there was published in London and New York the official translation of his memoirs for the year 1915. This translation was made by Sir George Arthur, author of the lives of Kitchener, Wolseley and Haig, and often called the historian of the British Army. He therefore shares with Poincare the following account of the opening of the Second Battle of Ypres, dated April 23:—

"Yesterday, North of Ypres, between the Canal and the Staden railway line, a thick cloud of gas was vomited on to our lines; the French and Canadian troops, who had no masks or any other protection against this poison gas and who were of course taken wholly unawares by this new method of attack fell back at first south of Pilkem and Poelcapoelle. The Belgian Grenadier Guards, the corps d'elite, gallantly seized and hung on to the position where the British and French troops had been asphyxiated. To-day we have sent up fresh troops who, in close touch with the Belgian and British, will try to recover the ground which was lost. Science is indeed becoming the accomplice of crime."

Unfortunately there is no official Canadian war history to correct this extraordinary misstatement. However, the following is an accurate account in brief of what actually occurred:—

On April 22, four battalions of Canadians were in the line, extending from Gravenstafel Ridge on the right, to the St. Julien-yards. From right to left, the battalions were the 5th, the 8th, the 15th and the 13th. On the Canadian left was an Algerian division.

At 5 o'clock on the afternoon of April 22, the area on the Canadian left was subjected to a projection of poison gas. The easterly limit of the projection was several hundred yards west of the Canadian flank and did not extend to the extreme right flank of the Algerian line. (One company of Algerians was unaffected by the gas.)

Poured into Breach

The Algerians broke, and the Germans poured into the breach thus made, at the same time attacking the whole Canadian line. The resistance, chiefly of the 13th, the 15th and the 8th Battalions, was effective in repulsing the enemy's assault. On the left, however, the German advance continued, penetrating beyond Pilkem Ridge, to as far as the Yser Canal. A German force actually crossed the canal at Het Sas, on the extreme left.

To re-fuse the left flank, the Canadians brought up the 7th Battalion, and made a defensive flank running southward, in the general line of the Poelcappelle-St. Julien Road, to near St. Julien.

At midnight on April 22, the 16th and the 10th Battalions attacked northward from Wieltje, through Kitchener's Wood (west of St. Julien), and elements of these attackers reached the northern fringe of the wood. Confusion ensued, however, and attacking units returned to a position running along the east and south sides of the wood.

Iron Seconds Arrived

At 2.30 a.m. on the morning of April 23, the 2nd Canadian Battalion arrived from Vlamertinghe to support the 10th and 16th Battalions. One company extended the right flank of the 6th easterly towards St. Julien. One company extended the left flank of the 10th westerly to Oblong Farm. (From there to "Canadian Farm" was a gap of 600 yards, and at that point the East Kents continued westerly). A third company of the 2nd Battalion attacked the German position at the south-west tip of Kitchener's wood, and was repulsed with the loss of the entire company. A fourth company remained in support and on the morning of April 23 relieved the 10th and 16th in their positions.

At 7 o'clock on the morning of April 23, two companies of the 3rd Battalion extended the right flank of the 2nd Battalion to cover the gap to St. Julien, where it fetched up with the 14th Battalion's company.

On April 23 the 1st and 4th Canadian battalions attacked at Pilkem Ridge in an endeavor to fill the gap to the canal.

The enemy did not attack during the day of April 23, but on the morning of April 24 the attack was renewed with another gas projection. Heavy fighting ensued. At 10.40 the enemy were seen to have entered St. Julien. The 15th Battalion and the left of the Canadian line running round the apex of the triangle to St. Julien was pressed in.

At one o'clock orders were given to withdraw to the G.H.Q. line, in front of Wieltje. This was carried out.

The Canadians have no knowledge of the Belgian Grenadier Guards being in evidence at any stage of the operation. They have no knowledge of their line being affected in any way on April 22nd. They held their line intact until April 24, when they retired in conformity with orders.

IN MEMORIAM.

BARRY. — In fond and loving memory of Esther Barry, who died April 16, 1926.

The children of heaven were robed in white,
And happy at play in the City of Light.
When Jesus came smiling and said to His band,
"Here's another little playmate; give Esther your hand."
There we'll know her voice in the Lamb's sweet song.
Her walk in the streets of gold.
And the lovely smile upon her face,
As she wore in the days of old.

In my heart there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Every day my thoughts are wandering,
To your grave not far away,
Where they gently laid your body,
Just six years ago to-day.
Your loving smile and kindly ways
Are pleasant to recall,
You always had a cheerful word
And were dearly loved by all."

DR. MACMILLAN TAKEN BY DEATH

Outstanding Social Worker Was Former Pastor at Lindsay.

SERVED OVERSEAS.

TORONTO, April 16 (C.P.). — Rev. John Walker MacMillan, one of the outstanding social workers of Canada, died here to-day. He was 63 years of age and was Professor of Sociology at Victoria College here. He was born at Mount Forest Ont.

The late Dr. MacMillan was widely known in the Dominion. He had served as chairman of the Minimum Wage Board for Ontario, lectured in the Social Service Department, University of Toronto, served overseas with the 63rd Halifax Rifles, and was a member of the Social Welfare Commission at Winnipeg for some years. He was educated at Mount Forest Public and High Schools and later went to the University of Toronto. He obtained the degrees of B.A and D.D. at Union Seminary in New York, and was then called to Mount Pleasant Presbyterian Church in Vancouver, B.C.

Well Known in Lindsay.

From there he returned to Lindsay, Ont. and then to St. Andrew's Church, Winnipeg, and St. Mathews Church at Halifax, N.S. In 1916 he became Professor of Social Ethics at Manitoba College, Winnipeg and moved in 1919 to Toronto, where he was appointed Professor of Sociology at Victoria College.

He was the author of a book, "Happiness and Goodwill," published in 1922.

Dr. MacMillan took a wide interest in municipal affairs, particularly at Lindsay, Ont. He was a member of the Public Library Board and Board of Education there in 1902 and 1903.

In August 1914, he went overseas with the Halifax Rifles, holding rank as Lieut.-Colonel and Chaplain. In 1924, he married Amy Cooper Flavelle, daughter of John D. Flavelle, of Lindsay. His widow one son and two daughters survive.

'TEEN AGE GIRLS' WORKERS MEET

BANQUET TONIGHT

The Teen Age Girls' Work Conference planned for this week-end and promoted by the Peterborough Girls' Council and Girls' Work Board, opened this morning in the Sunday School auditorium of St. Andrew's United Church, with an attendance of over one hundred, including members present from Springville, Bowmanville, Keene, Cavan, Millbrook, Fraserville, Norwood and Havelock.

The two special leaders, already in town, will be Miss Isabel Griffiths of Toronto, travelling secretary of Young People's Groups of the W.M.S. of the United Church, who is here under direction of the National Girls' Work Board, and Miss Doris McCarthy of Toronto, Director of Camps for the National Girls' Work Board, who was leader of the C.G.I.T. Camp at the Y.W.C.A. summer residence at Inglestane, Stoney Lake, last summer.

Discussion periods occupied the attention of the girls this morning. A banquet for the girls and their mothers will be held at St. Andrew's United Church to-night and there will be a church service at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church to-morrow morning, with a closing worship service at St. John's Anglican Church at 4.15 to-morrow afternoon.

SENTENCE REDUCED

TORONTO (C.P.) — Appeal of Fred Allin on a charge of assaulting W. A. Markle, Provincial Constable, of one year, was reduced to three months at the common jail by the Appellate Court at Osgoode Hall here to-day. Allin was sentenced at Woodstock, Ont., by Magistrate Ball.

FARMER FOUND SHOT.

SAULT STE. MARIE. — Edward Herbert, 46, Korah Township farmer, is in hospital in a critical condition with a bullet in his head. The wound is believe self-inflicted.

CRITICALLY BURNED

ST. CATHARINES.—Little hope is held out for the recovery of Walter Dyck, 18, who was critically burned when he used a can of kerosene to light a fire at his home in Vineland, Ont., to-day. His clothing was practically all burned off.

THREE YEARS FOR FRAUD

TORONTO (C.P.)—Charles W. S. Allen, former secretary-treasurer of the defunct Securities Underwriters, Limited, was sentenced to three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary to-day, on charges of theft of $400 and three bonds for $1,000 each from Mrs. Fanny Belyea, a widow of Paris, Ont.

TWO DIE IN CRASH.

LIVERMORE, Me.—Two men were killed to-day when a small aeroplane in which they were riding cracked up on the bank of the Androscoggin River and burst into flames.

BUSINESS BLOCK BURNS.

ST. ALBANS, Vt.—Fire early this morning destroyed a four-storey block, occupied by stores, offices and apartments, with a loss estimated at $100,000. Occupants of the apartments were taken down ladders as the flames cut off the main stairway.

ROYAL COMMISSION TO RESUME

TORONTO, April 18, (CP)—The Royal Commission investigation into certain affairs of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission will probably resume to-morrow, Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, commissioner, informed the Canadian Press to-day. The investigation was adjourned after a one-day sitting when Mr. Justice W. E. Middleton, then commissioner, was taken ill. Since that time Mr. Justice Middleton has returned his commission and the new commissioner appointed.

Detroit Gangster Covers Tracks Well

NEW YORK, April 18. —(CP)— Harry Fleischer, Detroit gangster, sought for questioning in connection with the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, has so far successfully covered all traces of his movements, it was announced in a bulletin issued this morning by Col H. M. Schwartzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey state police.

There are no new developments in the search for Fleischer, and Canadian police have not given us any information that would lead us to believe that Fleischer is in hiding in Canada or Europe, the bulletin said.

Recently police officers were sent to Canada to check on reports that Fleischer had been seen in the Maritime provinces.

Cabinet Assembles To Consider Budget

LONDON, April 18. (C. P. Cable) The cabinet assembled to-day for consideration of the budget which Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, is to bring down in the House of Commons to-morrow. Generally the cabinet's last session dealing with the budget is held on the morning of the day it is brought down and the earlier meeting gave rise to rumors there were new tariff proposals necessitating special consideration.

For the Movies

LONDON, April 18. —(AP)— All's quiet on the eastern front in the Shanghai sector except for occasional mock battles staged for the U. S. movies, Capt. R. A. Eden, under-secretary for foreign affairs, told parliament today.

The only reports of fighting, he said, have been among the Chinese troops themselves and on investigation it was revealed that the reported skirmish was a mock battle put on by the fifth Chinese army for a U. S. news reel camera man.

Famous Red Boy Bids Are Too Low

DURHAM, England, April 18 (C.P.). — The famous painting "The Red Boy" by Lawrence was withdrawn at £95,000 (about $399,000) in auction at Lambton Castle, the home of the Earl of Durham to-day. Some years ago it was reported there was an offer of £160,000 (about $672,000) for the picture.

Officials Predict Early Arrests Through Advance Tip From Agents.

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Authorities confidently predicted the arrest to-day of a man and woman alleged to have kidnapped 9-year-old Hilda Brodsky for $50,000 ransom at Wilmington, Del., Friday, and professed knowledge of their identity.

Hilda was dropped from an automobile in the parish of the Rev. Father Joseph Pugliese here yesterday and taken home slightly hysterical but unharmed. Father Pugliese and police declared no ransom was paid.

Police also said they made no pledge of immunity. The priest declined to discuss this angle, but admitted that he was "bound not to reveal some details of the matter."

Detective Capt. John Creedon said his agents knew who the abductors were as soon as they heard of the affair and that they had "an advance tip."

Hilda herself assisted police with information. She described two men who lured her into an automobile as she was going to school and two houses in Philadelphia where she was held.

The automobile believed to have been used in the abduction was found abandoned in South Philadelphia last night.

RADIO LEAGUE PRESENTS CASE TO COMMITTEE

Immediate Action for Nationalization of Radio Urged.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE.

Not Cent of Expenditure Will Fall Upon Taxpayer or Government Claimed.

OTTAWA, April 18 (C.P.).—Immediate action by Parliament was urged to-day by the Canadian Radio League, on a scheme of nationalization by which it was claimed Canadian broadcasting problems could be adequately dealt with, and not a cent of expenditure fall upon the taxpayer or the Government. A national network of publicly owned stations under an independent national company, and the development of numerous low power stations for local purposes under private enterprise, was the proposal laid before the House Committee on Radio to-day by Graham Spry, chairman of the League.

The Canadian Radio League presented a brief outlining of a nationalization scheme based on the Aird report, when the committee first met over a month ago. Since that time numerous witnesses have appeared both for and against public ownership. To-day Mr. Spry again appeared with his scheme arranged in detailed form as to general operation, technical aspects and financial provisions.

Recommendations.

The Provincial recommendations of the League were:

(1) That the Canadian Broadcasting Company be established by Parliament at the present session and immediately offer coast to coast programs to existing stations for five hours a day.

(2) That licenses be granted to bona fide applicants for low-powered local stations under private enterprise, civic or educational authorities.

(3) That direct advertising be eliminated and that indirect advertising be defined as not more than five per cent. of a total program.

(4) That the national network be developed in three stages, the first stage occupying a year, the second stage providing for the appropria-

Britain Changes Control Of Display at Exhibition

LONDON, April 18 (C.P. Cable).—His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom will not be directly associated with British displays in the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto next autumn, it was announced in the House of Commons this afternoon by Major D. J. Colville, Parliamentary secretary to the Overseas Trade Department.

The Overseas Trade Department will, however, establish an enquiry and information bureau at the Exhibition under the direction of the British Trade Commissioners at Toronto (A. M. Wiseman).

The Under-Secretary promised consideration of the suggestion by a member that in view of the advantages likely to be obtainable for British trade by participation in the Exhibition, the matter should be considered at the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

CURTIS ON ANOTHER TRIP.

NORFOLK, Va.—John Hughes Curtis left Norfolk to-day on another trip believed to be in the interest of his negotiations for the return of the kidnapped son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

IMPORTANCE OF BIG CONFERENCE IS POINTED OUT

Canadians Urged to Think More Empire-mindedly of Ottawa Gathering.

NOT ALL "TAKE."

Rotarians and Guests Hear Heads of Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

An appeal to Canadians to think more Empire-mindedly in regard to the Imperial Conference, an eloquent picture of the British Empire, and an impressive recital of Salvation Army activities throughout the world featured the weekly luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club Many guests, including members of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the local corps of the Salvation Army heard the speakers. Col. J. S. Bladin of the Salvation Army; Col. W. L. McGregor of Windsor, President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce; S. G. Gundy of Toronto, 1st President of the Canadian Chamber, and W. M. Birks of Montreal, Vice-President of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire.

Col. Bladin, who was introduced by Rotarian Fred L. Roy, outlined some of the unusual work undertaken by the Salvation Army. He told of what had been accomplished in India among the criminal untouchables; related the story of the reclamation work done among the beggars in Ceylon; described the leper colonies successfully carried on in the Dutch East Indies; stressed the efforts to control juvenile delinquency in Australia, and the Army's success in dealing with the problem of caring for inebriates in New Zealand. This year, he said, the Salvation Army was tackling another formidable job, in undertaking to establish officers at Devil's Island, the French prison colony.

Col. McGregor, introduced by President Downey, explained the tour of himself and associates as an effort to get into closer touch with local Chambers of Commerce, and to obtain their viewpoint, particularly in regard to the coming Imperial Conference, the importance of which to Canada and to the Empire he stressed. It was necessary, he said, for Canadians to be more Empire-minded in regard to the Conference, and to keep it prominently in their minds, so that the country might be ready to contribute toward the success of the conference. Col. McGregor asked for Peterborough representation at the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce this year, to be held in Halifax.

S. B. Gundy of Toronto, who was the first president of the Canadian Chamber, called attention to the splendid success that organization

ALEX L. ELLIOTT HEADS KINSMEN

CONVENTION IN OTTAWA.

Alex. L. Elliott, first president of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club, was elected Governor of District Number One at the annual convention held in Ottawa on Friday and Saturday. Mr. Elliott will assume his new duties on September 1. His territory includes all the clubs in Ontario and Quebec, with the exception of Kenora. The new governor will select his own executive which in all probability will be composed of members of the Peterborough club.

The convention held in Ottawa was one of the best in the history of the district. A big expansion program is being worked out, and before fall it is expected that there will at least be another six clubs in Ontario. The financial reports submitted by the various clubs showed a year of progress and much service work being carried on wherever there is a Kinsmen club.

Adrian Macdonald, one of the delegates from Peterborough, addressed the convention on Saturday afternoon and outlined how dramatics could be made of use in a service club organization to raise funds.

Those present from Peterborough were Alex L. Elliott, Emmett F. Sheehy, Dr. Ralph Honey, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, Adrian Macdonald and G. Wilson Craw. Next year's convention will be held in St. Catharines.

Landlord Evicts Family From Home Find Shelter In Small Mission Hall

Because their rent was two months in arrears, a family on Orpington Road in North Monaghan was evicted last week and forced to find shelter in the building on that street formerly used as a community Sunday School. The family consists of a man, his wife and young daughter.

Unable to obtain employment, the man had been assisted by the township during the winter, but with a recent restriction of relief the family had neither money nor food and was finally turned out on the street, according to information from that district. A personal appeal to some of the neighbours brought forth generous contributions of food which kept the family from starving, and by occupying the mission hall they found at least a temporary protection from the weather. For a day or two it was as 'cold as a barn', but a little heat gradually made the building fairly comfortable.

Residents of that part of the township who have taken an interest in this family intimated that they are wondering if some material assistance could be provided, and the husband enabled to earn some money for his family's upkeep.

KRUGER FORGED MILLIONS; POLICE ENQUIRY WILL EXTEND INTO NEW YORK, BERLIN, PARIS

Swedish Financial Leader Dubbed "Cool Defrauder and Gambler."

WORKED ON HUGE SCALE.

Press Claims Match King Been Assisting Fascists in Germany and Spain.

STOCKHOLM, April 18 (C.P.). — New developments in the investigation into the affairs of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, who committed suicide in Paris last month, led to-day to preparations for a widespread international inquiry.

The plans called for a special "Kreuger Department of Police," made up of four lawyers and six detectives. It was understood more arrests were imminent and that the police activities would extend to New York, Berlin, Paris, Amsterdam and Geneva.

The investigators were said to have established that the forged Italian bonds reported to have been turned up last week among the documents of the Kreuger & Toll Company amounted to about $100,000,000 dollars, and were printed at Kreuger's direction by a private firm here about a year ago.

The investigators said 42 treasury bonds for £500,000 each had been forged by Kreuger, and that he alone was responsible for their presence in the private safe.

Romance Dispelled.

The aura of romance that clung to the Swedish financial leader has been completely dispelled by the revelations since his suicide. One local newspaper called him "a cool defrauder and gambler."

The newspaper Social Demokraten said the investigation showed Kreuger had given financial support to Fascist movements in Germany and Spain. A receipt for 100,000 reichsmarks, signed with the name of Adolf Hitler, German National Socialist leader, was found, the paper said, and also a receipt for a payment of 500,000,000 peseta purporting to be on behalf of former King Alfonso of Spain.

The "anti-lie" department of Hitler's National Socialist Party at Berlin last night branded as false the report that a payment to German Fascism had been made. "Neither Hitler nor any member of the party ever took a penny from the match king or any of his representatives," the statement said.

Alfonso Mum

FONTAINEBLEAU, France, April 18 (A.P.)—Former King Alfonso XIII of Spain and members of his entourage refused to comment today on reports from Stockholm quoting the Social Demokraten, a newspaper there, as saying receipts had been found by the investigators of the affairs of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish King, indicating Kreuger had paid a substantial sum to support a Fascist movement in Spain.

FERGUSON TO TESTIFY

TORONTO.—G. N. Tilley, K.C., commission counsel, stated to-day Mr. Ferguson would be examined.

Girl Left $75,000 Keeps on Dancing

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(CP). — Elva McGuinness, 19, continued dancing as a chorus girl in a cafe to-day, despite notification that she had just inherited $75,000.

Milton Golden, her attorney, announced the inheritance was from the estate of the dancer's grandfather, James J. McGuinness, who died recently in Dublin, Ireland.

"The income from the trust fund will make it easier for me to continue my career as a dancer," Miss McGuinness said. "That's all it means to me. I'll keep right on working."

JAPS BLAMED FOR VIOLENCE

Red Press Claims Anti-Soviet Acts Inspired By Militarists.

BACKING WHITE GUARDS.

MOSCOW, April 18 (A.P.)—The Government organ Izvestia to-day reiterated a charge that Japanese militarists in Manchuria inspired Russian "White Guards" to anti-Soviet violence.

The Japanese militarists, the newspaper said, are seeking to enlarge the frame of the military conflict in Manchuria.

The organ added that a raid by "White Guards" on the offices of M. Kuzenkoff, Soviet manager of the Chinese Eastern Railway at Harbin recently was instigated by the Japanese who bribed the White Guard clique.

The newspaper added that the Japanese failed in their attempt to have the Chinese authorities search the Soviet Consulate at Harbin, and instigated the "White Guard" raid on the railway offices as the result of this failure.

As further evidence of its contention that the Japanese military authorities are planning aggression against the Soviet, the newspaper accused the Japanese press of deliberately misleading public opinion in Japan with a campaign designed to place Soviet-Russia's peace efforts in a false light.

Pickerel Season Is Closed Until May 15

Local fishermen are warned that if they fail to resist the lure of the river this month and catch pickerel they are laying themselves open to prosecution under the Fish and Game Act. The Canada Gazette of March 26, 1932, states definitely that yellow pickerel and pike are protected in these waters by a closed season from April 1 to May 15.

Further, a license must be obtained to dip suckers in local waters. This license may be obtained from M. P. Kennedy, Game Overseer, of Lakefield.

Sugar imports into Manchuria are increasing.

KING AND QUEEN ARE GUESTS FOR WEDDING OF LORD HYDE

Brilliant Affair is Staged Before Distinguished Group in Westminster Abbey.

MAGNIFICENT PRESENTS.

(By Thos. T. Champion, C.P. Staff Writer.)

LONDON, April 18.— (C. P. Cable.)—The King and Queen motored from Windsor Castle to-day to attend the wedding at Westminster Abbey of Lord Hyde, son and heir of the Earl of Clarendon, Governor General of South Africa, and Hon. Marion Glyn, elder daughter of Lord and Lady Wolverton.

Their Majesties conferred a further honor on the happy couple by sending separate presents to them. The King sent the bridegroom, who is his godson, a magnificent two-handled silver bowl while Miss Glyn received from Their Majesties a lozenge-shaped diamond brooch with the Royal cpyher and crown. Practically every other member of the Royal Family sent presents, the total running into several hundreds.

Rt. Rev. John Harmer, former Bishop of Rochester; the Bishop of St. Alban's, and the Dean of Westminster officiated.

Well Known in Canada

The bridegroom's father, who is well known in Canada, having farmed in Ontario for some years, was unable to leave South Africa for the ceremony, but Lady Clarendon came to England. Mrs. G. H. Ferguson, wife of the Canadian High Commission to Great Britain, and William C. Nixon, Agent-General for Ontario in London, were among the guests.

The venerable surroundings of the historic abbey had been carefully considered by the bride in deciding on the wedding dresses. They were of palest gold upon ivory, the bride also wearing a coronet of orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of ivory and pale gold orchids. Following the fashion adopted by so many brides of to-day her

USE TREE FOR EXECUTION.

SAINT FRANCIS, Kas., April 18 (C.P.) —A mob of North-West Kansas citizens early to-day lynched Richard Read, 53-year-old bachelor farmer and ex-convict, who confessed he abducted, attacked and slew 8-year-old Dorothy Hunter of Selden, Kas.

From the ranches and towns of this prairie land, desolate in many sections, the mob converged on Saint Francis, where the prisoner had been taken for safe keeping.

Its members made Sheriff A. A. Bacon prisoner, took his keys, jerked Read from his cell, took him east nearly to Atwood and hanged him to a tree.

After the hanging, a member of the mob telephoned Dr. Charles E. Hennenberger, Rawlings County coroner at Atwood, to come and view the body. The coroner departed. It was Dr. Hennenberger who Saturday examined the body of the tiny victim, said she had been attacked and then killed by a blow which fractured her skull.

EMPIRE TRADE IDEA FAVORABLE TO CANADIANS

EMPIRE TARIFFS.

Business Men Are Looking For Tariffs That Mean Something.

"If we expect to develop Empire trade along constructive lines then Great Britain and the Dominions must set up tariffs which mean something," said W. L. McGregor, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here to-day.

Mr. McGregor, with W. M. Birks, vice-president of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire; S. B. Gundy, Toronto, past president of the Canadian Chamber and W. McL. Clarke, secretary, were in Peterborough conferring with local business men on the Empire trade program of the Chamber of Commerce. The party has been touring in Ontario for some time.

The departure of Great Britain from her traditional free trade policy has made possible at long last an opportunity for bargaining on her part with foreign countries, and what is perhaps more important, the change of policy enables her to make tangible offers to the Empire overseas, Mr. Ferguson declared. Already Great Britain has manifested a strong Empire sentiment in her tariff legislation, and until after the Imperial Conference at least, British tariffs have a very worth-while preference in their schedules.

Intra-Empire Trade.

As far as Canada is concerned, he continued, she has practised Empire preference since the days of Laurier. Canadians have always been favorably pre-disposed toward the encouragement of intra-Empire trade.

"I think it is not untoward to suggest the economic conference should make some definite pronouncement on Empire tariff policies. In other words, if the various countries of the Empire are to set up Empire tariff policies let these tariffs be Empire tariffs in fact as well as in name. In short, the Empire business men are looking for tariffs that mean something."

Not All Tariffs.

"It is not wholly a question of tariffs that must be considered at the Imperial Trade Conference to be held this summer in Ottawa," W. M. Birks said. "Great attention must be given the problem of stabilization of currency."

Mr. Birks explained that this did not mean that the whole Empire should adopt sterling as their coinage, "but that all forms of exchange within the Empire must be standardized." He stated, "British leaders believe this to be of much more vital importance than we do, and there is no question that it is important. If it can be accomplished successively, it may mean that the Empire will lead the world out of its economic chaos."

Continuing, Mr. Birks said: "British genius is not to come to Ottawa and lay down a cast-iron plan, but gradually by trial and experiment to work out a system of trade that will best benefit each country within the Empire."

George A. Macdonald, manager of the Quaker Oats Company, said,

MASSIE'S STORY BEING ATTACKED BY PROSECUTOR

NOTED LAWYER 75 TO-DAY.

Doubts Officer Killed Hawaiian—Suspects Jones Being Shielded.

HONOLULU, April 13. (A.P.) — Lieut. Thomas H. Massie's court-room statement that he killed Joseph Kahahawai, was attacked by the prosecution to-day with an assertion that the lieutenant was "shielding" one of the three persons on trial with him for second degree murder.

An insanity defence being laid through Massie's testimony under the guidnce of Clarence Darrow, also drew fire. The plea was branded by Prosecutor John C. Kelley as "the bunk".

"Why, Massie did not even kill Kahahawai" Kelley declared in announcing the course he would pursue to-day when he resumed the cross examination.

The ruddy-faced prosecutor did not say directly which of the four defendants he believed shot the young native after questioning him about an assault on the lieutenant's wife. Kelley indicated, however, he thought Albert O. Jones was responsible.

"If Massie killed Kahahawai," he asked, "why did he use Jones' gun instead of his own? He admits that he brought his own gun to the Fortescue house. (where Kahahawai was killed) that morning.

Get Used to Gun

"You get used to a gun like a wrist watch or other personal equipment. So far as Massie knew, Jones' gun was not loaded. Yet he says he used Jones' gun, although he had his own with him."

Massie, in his testimony Saturday, admitted indirectly that he killed the Hawaiian. He said Jones' pistol was in his hand when his mind went blank after Kahahawai, saying "Yes we done it" admitted that he and four others attacked Mrs. Massie.

Kelley said Massie "has not put forth any insanity case yet, not from his story. The lapse of memory he tells about is not insanity."

"He says he is convinced Kahahawai attacked his wife. According to his testimony, the only thing Kahahawai told him was 'Yes, we done it.' Massie already knew that.

"It is not like you got kicked on the head and had an immediate response. There was nothing that occurred in the Fortescue house to make Massie insane."

Kelley disclosed that he would use both local and mainland alienist witnesses to attack the insanity plea.

Besides attacking the insanity plea and the Lieutenant's assumption of responsibility, Kelley also assailed the contention that the slaying was not premeditated.

Made Preparation

"If the defendants did not plan to kill Kahahawai when they took him to the Fortescue house, they made all preparations to do it," he asserted.

Defendants with Massie are his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and Jones and E. J. Lord, U. S. Navy enlisted men.

Today was Darrow's seventy-fifth birthday, but the skill and vigor with which he has fought for his clients belie his years.

"I still think, he said, "the only welcome present will be acquittal. But I guess it won't be soon. I suppose it will have to be sort of a post-birthday present."

Judgment Is Given In Ironside's Case

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Handing down decision in the case of a claim by G. A. Ironside of Campbellford against Dr. F. W. Loucks of the same place, the result of a motor car collision on Saskatoon Avenue, Campbellford, on December 24 1931, and in which a counter-claim was laid, His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke of Peterborough found that the plaintiff was guilty one-third and the defendant two-thirds. The case was heard before Judge Huycke in Division Court at Campbellford on April 8, N Alex. MacColl of Campbellford represented the plaintiff, and G N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, appearing for Dr. Loucks.

ARCHDUKE OTTO IMPROVES

BRUSSELS, April 18. (AP)—The condition of Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Austrian throne, who was operated on at Steenockerzeel Castle yesterday for appendicitis, was said to be "most satisfactory" to-day. He had a good night's rest the announcement said, and had no temperature.

Clubs Needed!

CHICAGO, April 18. — By their clubs Chicago detectives are going to know one another.

They're going to carry nightsticks so they won't be fighting among themselves.

The order for the clubs went out last night as a result of experience the police had in several recent minor riots in which detectives, not recognizing each other, came to blows.

Uniformed policemen have been carrying nightsticks right along, but not the detectives. Sergeants will have blue tassels on theirs and the lieutenants will have red ones.

THREE WOUNDED IN MINE FRACAS

Extra National Guardsmen Rushed to Coal Fields in Ohio.

TROUBLE GROWS WORSE.

CADIZ, O., April 18 (C.P.). — Three pickets were shot when they attempted to scale barricades erected across the road to the Somers Mine of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company early to-day.

National Guardsmen are said to have opened fire when the pickets, after repeated warnings, attempted to hurdle the barrier.

Those shot were Elmer Trionfi 20, of Piney Fork, and Louis Porter, Bellaire. They were shot in the leg while the third man as yet unidentified, was shot in the heel.

The situation appeared so threatening that six additional truck load of soldiers were despatched from headquarters here to the vicinity of the mine. It was presumed the reinforcements would be used to break up gatherings near the pit.

SNOW IN NEW YORK.

ALBANY, April 18 (C.P.). — Northern New York had mid-winter snow conditions to-day after a 24-hour 4 to 25 inch fall over the week-end. High winds piled it into deep drifts and only the principal highways in the Adirondacks were open.

The Malone community was hit hardest, with 22 to 25 inches and deep drifts. Most of the roads were closed.

GIRL'S SLAYER HANGED BY MOB

farmer, and former Colorado convict, was not entirely unexpected, but startled the little county seat town with its suddenness.

Read was hurried to Saint Francis yesterday ahead of fifty automobile loads of angry men; immediately after he had led Sheriff Ed McGinley of Thomas County to a hay stack in which he had hidden the girl's body.

Dorothy had been missing since Thursday evening when she returned to the Selden school house for a forgotten dinner bucket.

Read, a neighbor, was arrested because of his previous conviction of assaulting a 15-year-old girl in Colerado. Officers said he confessed he had lured Dorothy to his car with a string of beads, then attacked and beat her to death.

Sheriff McGinley, keeping the confession secret, dispersed a mob which gathered at the Thomas county jail at Colby, explaining that the possible finding of the girl depended upon Read.

Then the officer placed the prisoner in his car, drove to the haystack and, after recovery of the body, speeded to Saint Francis. Leaving Read in jail there, he returned to Colby. Angry murmurings against Read grew steadily.

They swelled in volume as the funeral of the girl victim was held yesterday afternoon in high school auditorium in Selden.

Mob Gathers

Groups of men soon afterward were reported to have started the long drive across the sparsely-populated prairie o Saint Francis.

Sheriff Bacon and Deputy Sheriff Indors heard a rumor of the approaching automobiles. They decided to move Read to safety.

They demanded the keys to the jail. As the officers argued against violence, other automobiles arrived. The occupants prepared to use battering rams on the building.

Believing resistance futile, the officers tendered the keys. Read was taken from his cell, a rope placed about his neck and he was loaded into a motor car.

RED ACTIVITIES POINT TO CLASH WITH JAPANESE

Tokyo Officials Estimate 70,000 Russian Troops Concentrated on Border.

JAP FORCE SMALL.

Recent Train Wreck Being Blamed on Soviet Communists.

TOKYO, April 18. (AP)—Military preparations of Soviet Russia on north Manchurian border are taken by Japanese military experts as a clear indication that Russia expects a clash with Japan spokesman for the the foreign office said to-day.

"Our military experts estimate that the Soviet forces on the Manchurian frontier between Vladivostok and Manchuli now number nine division, a total of 70,000 men" the spokesman said, with the strongest concentrations in the Pogranichnaya and Manchuli districts where there are two divisions each.

"The experts assert the dispositions clearly indicate the Russians are expecting a clash with Japan. Although they are of a defensive nature, they are capable also of assuming the offensive."

Reports from the Japanese consulate at Harbin, Manchuria, said it was indicated the wreck of a Japanese troop train there last week, causing the death of 14 men, was "the work of Russian Communists" although pasitive proof was lacking.

Acts Expected

"Now that the Russians have completed their troop concentrations in Eastern Siberia we must expect such provocative incidents," the foreign office spokesman said in making public the Harbin consul's report.

He said Japan was taking a much less alarming view of the situation, however, than the Soviet Government apparently did. "We don't believe a clash is imminent," he said, "and we do not believe Russia would be so rash as to challenge Japan.

"It is idle to close our eyes to the fact that Russia is displeased with what has happened in North Manchuria, which is considered in the Russian sphere of influence. We can understand their disappointment at seeing their domination there fading permanently."

The Japanese forces in North Manchuria total less than two divisions and the entire strength in Manchuria and Korea is less than five divisions, "plus auxiliaries" he said.

Search For Youth Missing From Picnic

GLOUCESTER, April 18 (C.P.).—Search was proceeding to-day for F. Winchell Reeve, Massachusetts Institute of Technology junior, who disappeared Saturday night during a picnic party on the rocks at Eastern Point.

Reeve's father, Frederick E. Reeve, of Western Springs, Ill., a wealthy Chicago business man, was en route here to take charge of the search for his son.

TOLEDO, O., April 18.—Information purporting to come from one of the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby, that the child is now in Detroit and will be released safely within a week, was investigated by authorities to-day.

The new clue was given last night in a mysterious telephone call to The Toledo Times by a man who police tried to trace, but unsuccessfully.

ARMS PROPOSAL WIDELY BACKED

Plan Before Nations is That Disarming Be Through Successive Stages.

GERMANY OPPOSED.

GENEVA, April 18.— (A.P.)— A proposal recommending that reduction of armaments be achieved in successive stages received wide approval from the delegates at the world conference here this morning and was referred to the conference drafting committee.

The proposal, which was presented by the delegation of Spain, Belgium, Switzerland, Cechoslovakia, Denmark, Norway, Esthonia and Uruguay provided that successive stages of disarming be achieved through revisions of the rams reduction convention, at short intervals.

It was supported by the French and Polish delegations, and by Sir John Simon, Naotake Sato and Dino Grandi, chiefs of the British, Japanese and Italian delegations. Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, offered an amendment providing that the first stage of the reduction be a substantial one.

Ambasador Nadolny of the German delegation had expressed dissatisfaction with the proposal because, he said, it did not provide for a radical reduction in the first stage.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson remained at his villa today, confined there by a slight cold.

MAYTAG POLICY AIDING CANADA

Company Announces Two New Models Produced in Canadian Plant.

BUSINESS INCREASING.

Only a few months ago Maytag Company of Canada, Limited, announced the change in their policy, under which all Maytag Washers for the Canadian market would be produced in Canada, and which are handled in Peterborough by Kingan Hardware Company.

The company is now announcing two new models produced in their Canadian plant, which are quite outstanding in beauty and performance. These washers are being built in both porcelain and aluminum styles. The prices are substantially reduced, being the lowest in the history of the company.

Considerable success has followed the adoption of the new Canadian policy, the company reporting an increase in business during the last two months, more than 100 per cent. greater than the corresponding period of last year.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Question in regard to table service have been coming in recently, presumably from new housekeepers who find that they are uncertain in regard to the conventionalities of service when the responsibility is theirs.

* * * * * * *

First of all, I must say for their comfort that service customs are far more elastic than they once were, that individuality of taste as long as the convenience of the guests is considered first is not only possible, but desirable.

* * * * * * *

Once tables for luncheon and dinner must be covered with white damask large napkins to match, and silver arranged beside each plate.

* * * * * * *

A reaction from the damask brought elaborate lace and embroidered cloths into favor for the dinner table and all sorts of attractive designs and colors for the luncheon table.

* * * * * * *

Damask came back into favor with the lovely pale colors which were designed for this purpose. White damask has recently returned to its own, especially for the dinner table use and napkins have changed in size and shape.

* * * * * * *

In the reaction from heavy tablecloths we swung over to doilies for luncheon and occasionally when they were very beautiful in design and workmanship, they were used for dinner.

* * * * * * *

They are less in favor now, although there can be nothing more sensible for the home table. It is certainly better to be able to replace one soiled doily with a clean one than to use a spotted cloth or to change with every meal, as used to be the only choice.

* * * * * * *

For luncheon, cloths light in weight and colorful in design are often used. We seldom see a damask cloth for the meal except on a formal occasion.

* * * * * * *

With gay cloths go glass and china which blend with them. It is a good idea to choose one predominating color for all your table settings.

* * * * * * *

It is no longer smart to have a large array of flat silver on the table. We go no further than the salad fork and sometimes that is brought in with the dessert.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS"

What Kipling described as "the joy of the doing" is ever present in the play of difficult hands at Contract. This is the reason that the game gains and retains its tremendous hold upon the public, whether that public is a cosmopolitan one like in the great cities, or an agricultural public as in some sections of the great West.

Today's hand, which came to me from Mrs. Joseph Oeschger, a San Francisco Bridge teacher, was played in a rubber game by a group of San Francisco men, notable for their skill at the Contract table. Mr. John Coleman held the South hand and had ample opportunity to appreciate the truth of Kipling's sage observation.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1◇	Pass
1♠	2♣(1)	3NT	Pass
4♠(2)	Pass	6♠	Dbl.(3)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—This bid was to play an important part in the subsequent development of the hand.

2—South felt that his hand might be nearly worthless at no-trump, while he could utilize North's outside strength with spades as trump.

3—In view of West's bid and East's apparent certainty of a trick in spades and probability of a trick in hearts, the Double cannot be strongly condemned. There appears a prospect of a 2 trick set.

West selected as his Opening lead his fourth best heart. This was won by the Ace in Dummy and the Queen of spades led for a finesse. East refused to cover and South also ducked, and the unfortunate distribution of the trump suit was immediately disclosed.

The second round of trumps was won in the closed hand and South now led his singleton club and finessed the Queen. This appeared safe in view of West's bid of clubs. The Ace of clubs was led, on which South discarded his remaining heart. The last club was led from Dummy and trumped in the closed hand. Mr. Coleman now led a diamond and when West played the 7 he was marked with either K 7 or J 7; probably the former in view of the bidding. The Queen finesse was taken, a heart led from Dummy and trumped and another diamond led from the closed hand, West's King falling to the Ace. The last heart was now led from the Dummy and trumped, thus eliminating all hearts from the East hand as East had been forced to discard a heart on the third round of clubs in order to retain the Knave of diamonds.

On his eleventh turn to play, Mr. Coleman led his last diamond and East was compelled to lead a spade, thus giving him his contract of six spades doubled.

"The Slam bid they reached was rather dangerous," comments Mrs. Oeschger, "although the Defense Overcall of two clubs, vulnerable, made the two finesses look rather safe to North."

I entirely agree.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: Why should Third or Fourth Hand hold 3 honor-tricks to bid one after previous bidders passed?

Answer: Partner, by passing, has shown less than 2-½ honor-tricks. No chance for the odd unless the combined holding is 4-½ to 5 honor-tricks; also, opponents may be able to make game or part-score.

COULDN'T COMB HAIR

Crippled by Rheumatism

"I had been suffering with rheumatism for about 2 years, and about this time last year was laid up for 10 weeks. My hands and arms and knees were the worst affected. I could not get about at all. I could not wash my face or comb my hair. All this had to be done for me. At the beginning of this year I started taking Kruschen Salts every morning and I am pleased to say I am quite well now and able to see to my home and can go out in all kinds of weather without it affecting me."—Mrs. P. K.

Rheumatism is associated with an excess of Uric Acid in the system. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid so as to render it capable of being easily washed out of the system. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist Nature to flush out this dissolved uric acid through the bowels and the kidneys. Other ingredients still, prevent food fermentation taking place in the intestine, and thereby check the formation not only of uric acid but of other impurities which poison the blood and pave the way to ill-health.

RAIL FOUND LOOSENED.

NELSON, B.C., April 18 (C.P.).—Another case of rail tampering in the boundary country, the second within a week, came to light when a track patrolman discovered a rail uncoupled about a mile west of Fisherman, where a week ago a rail was removed and a passenger train derailed. The patrolman flagged a freight that would have passed over the loosened rail.

'PHONES: Editorial 1601 Business Office 1600 Private Branch Exchange to all Departments

MONDAY, APRIL 18, 1932

THE TOURIST GOLD MINE.

A tribute to the importance of Canada's tourist business is paid in a recent Government report which points out that "the tourist trade, which represents the economic disposition of our scenic wealth, our natural facilities for sport and our enjoyable and healthy climate, has become one of Canada's major industries."

How big indeed is this industry with that of Canada's exportable commodities, the report says, only wheat and paper rank with it in importance, and the first-named commodity, which until 1930 stood first, was in 1931 less than half the value of the tourist trade.

Another factor that often escapes attention is the bearing this tourist industry has on the country's outside financial relations.

This, too, is stressed in the report, which declares that had it not been for the invisible export represented by tourist trade the foreign exchange value of the Canadian dollar would undoubtedly have fallen to much lower levels last year.

It is indeed a national industry, and its value to Canada is so great that it may be necessary for this country to revise its opinion in regard to expenditures on better roads and on national parks.

If improved highways will add to the millions of American cars crossing into Canada each year, the general benefit involved in such traffic may more than justify the expenditure occasioned.

DODGING THE LICENSE FEE.

Figures recently issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in regard to the radio industry reveal a condition that would seem to indicate that a good many set-owners have overlooked the formality of securing the license that the law says all operators of receiving sets should possess.

During last year there were 266,122 new sets sold in Canada, an increase of 28 per cent. over the preceding year. Ontario led the parade with 126,404. Quebec people bought 78,171 new radios, 19,340 were sold in Manitoba, 13,840 in Alberta and 23,902 in British Columbia.

The strange feature is that while there was this huge sale of new machines the total number of radio licenses purchased by Canadians was only 39,795.

It is undoubtedly the case that many of the sets sold last year represented replacements, but this, on the other hand, is offset by the fact that the majority of the old sets thus replaced were put back into commission again, and thus the total number of radios in operation would be approximately that indicated by the total sales of new sets.

The disparity between the number of sales and the licenses issued shows that a good many people have been evading the law and have been operating receiving sets without a license, which leads to the logical conclusion that the Government might have been well advised to collect the fees of these dodgers before doubling the license fee.

If a one dollar license has been evaded by thousands of people, it is certain that a two dollar fee will find an increase in the number of delinquents.

MAKE AN EXAMPLE OF THEM.

Disclosures of gross frauds perpetrated on the Toronto relief department by impostors who represented themselves as in need of assistance in spite of the fact that they had sizable bank accounts should occasion no surprise.

There are in every community people with so low a moral code as to make them regard relief work as something to be exploited to their own financial advantage.

Such individuals have no hesitation whatever in preying upon funds that have been raised through voluntary donations or through taxation for the purpose of assisting victims of the present unusual economic conditions; to deceive the authorities in charge of relief funds is regarded by these sharpers as a clever piece of business, and when they get away with it they feel that they have accomplished rather a commendable feat that stamps them as smarter than their fellows.

It is to be hoped that in all cases where such double-dealing has been discovered that prosecutions will follow and the courts will be given a chance to deal with the offenders.

They deserve the severest condemnation, not only for accepting relief under false pretences, but for the harm they do to relief movements in general by destroying the confidence of the charitably-minded.

With assistance so badly needed by so many deserving cases, it is a pity indeed that a few dishonest individuals should cast suspicion upon the whole relief movement.

ON THE RIGHT ROAD AT LAST.

The announcement that the $125,000 payment to John Aird, Jr., is to be included in the transactions to be investigated by Mr. Justice Orde has been received with satisfaction.

Mr. Justice Orde will carry on the inquiry because of the ill-health of the original commissioner, Mr. Justice Middleton, and he is being empowered to investigate the Aird payment as well as the other matters first mentioned in connection with the probe.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson will, it is expected, be one of the first witnesses called, his presence in Canada giving an opportunity for his testimony in regard to the various transactions to be put on record.

There are indeed many people who will give Mr. Ferguson credit for bringing about an enlargement of the investigation so as to include the famous Aird transaction; however much or little there may be in that idea, Premier Henry and his Cabinet are at least to be commended for yielding to public opinion and satisfying the desire of many warm friends of Hydro that the cloud of suspicion hanging over the enterprise should be dissipated by having the questioned transactions properly investigated by a judicial commission.

It may be that when all the evidence has been heard and weighed the whole affair will be still a mystery, but at all events the Government, after months of stalling that has materially increased public distrust, has got on the right road at last, and will as a result be in a much better position to face the electors than if it had continued to refuse an adequate inquiry.

RAILROAD DE LUXE.

Railway travel in Canada and the United States is quite luxurious these days—except in the matter of sleeping accommodation, in which respect it is fifty years behind Europe—but it may surprise many people to know that for real luxury travel on the American continent there is nothing to equal the Argentine. The guage is very wide, permitting the coach builders to construct what practically amounts to self-contained apartments on the trains.

There is immense wealth in the Argentine, and the Argentinians are always willing to pay for comfort. You can have a section of coach that furnishes you with a private dining-room, bedrooms and a bathroom, your meals being brought to you from the buffet. The train has a sitting room in each coach with an open fireplace burning in the grate. The bedrooms are astonishingly spacious, with a bathroom adjoining. In each bedroom is a writing desk with an electric light overhead.

"That's a nice chicken," observes the passenger to the porter. "Yes," is the reply. "We have a chicken run under the train." The diner thinks the porter is having a joke with him, but sure enough there is a chicken run beneath the car in a long, galvanized screen box.

With one exception, all the railways in the Argentine are built by British capital, and all the men at the head of affairs are British. Britain has billions of dollars invested in Argentine transport and other services. In all but name Argentina is practically a British dominion. It is because of the effect that an Empire trade pact might have on the vast agricultural business that the Argentine does with Britain, that a section of Britishers are not so enthusiastic about the Ottawa conference as they might be.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

OTTAWA FEELS IT.

Taxation which affects the Civil Service of Canada plays havoc in every department of business in the capital city. This is the case in a measure in every locality, but as Ottawa is the headquarters for Canada's Civil Service, the members of which run up into the thousands, one can readily perceive what effect the impairment of the purchasing power of these people has on general business—to say nothing of the individual hardship. At the present moment Ottawa can be truthfully said to be in a panic. The extra income tax is now payable, and many will have to meet this demand who were not heretofore called upon. In addition to this, there is the ten per cent. cut in the salaries paid the civil servants. Benevolent societies find their expenditures higher and their revenues lower. What may be called the "ordinary people"—those of moderate salaries—are more severely hit in Ottawa than anywhere in Canada, although the burden of taxation will be felt everywhere.

Sitting down calmly and reflecting on the whole situation, one is led to wonder if governments are right in making a "balanced budget" the acme of their ideals, no matter what the consequences to the citizenship. There is no doubt in the world but that a "balanced budget," particularly under such conditions as are now world-wide, gives the country, or the individual, a good standing among other countries or among other individuals. On the other hand, if in the struggle to balance the national budget and make for itself a great name, a government succeeds as well in unbalancing the budgets of the great majority of citizens, it is questionable if the good accomplished is not more than offset by the injury inflicted.

The incomes of 1932, for example, will, of necessity, be lower than those of 1931, yet in the new scheme of taxation the taxpayer is being compelled to pay out of his meagre income for 1932 the higher tax on the higher income of 1931—a proceeding which it is very hard to justify.

The Government undoubtedly, like all governments, has a most difficult task, and it would be unfair too severely to criticize, but it does look as if Canada in her anxiety to be patted on the back for balancing the national budget is very materially increasing the burden of discouragement which the people are already bearing. In other words, a "balanced budget" is a great thing, but it can be secured at too high a price.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Auckland's experience shows how easily a mob may be stirred into deeds of violence and how much damage may eventuate as a result.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 18.—Light arrivals and a better demand sent butter prices spurting upward on the Montreal produce and dairy market last week. Egg prices sagged a little; cheese was about steady and potatoes a shade cheaper.

Indifferent road conditions prevented the trucking of butter to Montreal last week from near-by points, and this, coupled with the fact that Toronto is taking all Western Canada shipments to the East, contributed to the decline in receipts which amounted to 6,127 boxes against 7,240 a week ago. Dealers were using up stocks on hand which are abnormally light for this season of the year. The market spurted to 19½c to 20½c per pound for No. 1 in carlots or less. Jobbers announced prices to retailers for small lots would be 22c for solids and 23c for prints tomorrow.

Egg Receipts Higher

Egg receipts were heavier, 14,507 cases against 11,023 the previous week. The greater volume and more offerings for shipments eased prices a little, with closing levels for carlots or less of graded eggs being 18c to 18½c for extras, 16c to 16½c for firsts and 14½c for seconds.

On the cheese market receipts were the highest for the year so far, 1,155 boxes compared with 759 in the previous week. First cheese exports of the season will be leaving Montreal in another week. Dealers were still asking up to 11c per pound for current receipts, with most sales taking place at 10½c. Summer make remained 12c to 12½c per pound.

The potato market held unchanged to slightly easier. Prices to the retail trade, ex-track, follow: New Brunswick Green Mountains, 80 lbs., No. 2, 42c to 45c; Quebec Mountains, 80 lbs., No. 1 40c-45c; P. E. I. Green Mountains, 90 lbs., No. 1 mostly 55c; local Whites, 80 lbs. No. 1, 30c-40c; Florida No. 1, $8.50 to $9 per barrel; No. 2, $7 per barrel.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 18. — Pitched downgrade by signs of possible early general break-up of drought conditions, wheat prices fell fast at times Saturday.

Lowest levels reached were in the late transactions, a majority of traders taking the position that for the moment new buying was too hazardous to risk, in additional disconcerting factor being weakness of the New York stock market.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅞c to 1⅛c under Friday's finish; corn, ⅜c to ⅝c down; oats, unchanged to ⅛c off, and provisions showing 2c to 7c decline.

Damage to Crops

Crop damage news had little effect on the wheat market, continued succession of reports of losses having apparently gone stale for at least the time being. Word of showers at various points in domestic winter wheat territory southwest gave an advantage to bears even though the trade as a whole regarded the moisture relief as too slight to be of material benefit. Moreover, the official forecast pointed to likelihood of additional moisture in drought districts over the week-end.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 18. — Moisture relief over south-western winter wheat drought areas dampened bullish enthusiasm in the grain pit on Saturday and wheat receded from the high spots somewhat. Opening ⅛c higher to unchanged, values closed with losses of ⅜c to ⅝c for the short session.

May and July each eased ⅜c to close at 63¼c and 65¼c respectively, while October declined ⅝c to ⅝c to 67⅛c.

Operations were comparatively light throughout and apart from a little foreign buying there was nothing to indicate that export trade had broadened very materially.

Foreign reports were constructive, with Liverpool recording gains. Broomhall reported that native wheat supplies to France and Italy were much depleted, while Germany was considering plans for the importation of foreign wheat supplies.

INSTALMENT 28.

In his downtown office Frank was hurling himself into an overcoat, racing out, slamming doors, ringing elevator bells to the consternation of the elevator boy and every one who saw him. He was rushing to the place where his car was parked.

A dark night, clear and very cold.

Ellen was waiting there, there in her deserted office. The green shaded desk lights were on, the shades drawn. She stood, waiting, leaning against the desk, in the dark gray uniform with the blue of the tie at her throat, and the magnificent hair tumbled. Her lips were very pale against the pallor of her face and her eyes were strange and lovely.

Somewhere some one was singing. It was Accordian Al, walking the dark cold streets, singing his interminable song—"Life is like a city street—"

Frank was coming—she heard him there just beyond the door, and in that split second her mind was divided. There was a part which didn't think, which could not, and a part which was concerned, with Al and the boy who had been burned, who was well but who was well but who should, next year, have a skin graft—

The door opened. Bartlett said, "Ellen?"

There were no more thoughts; there were no words. She was in his arms, where she belonged. Close. Held safely, held strongly. He said after a long moment, "I was such a fool—I thought, if she loved me, that night when she came, she would have told me so, not wasted time in apologies. She would have said, "I believed it of you but I loved you. I love you, now; that's all that matters." But you didn't say it and I thought you didn't care. I thought you cared for O'Connor. I thought—"

"Never mind what you thought," said Ellen.

And then, after another interval, he was sitting beside her on the desk and saying sternly, "I'll attend to Bill."

"It wasn't his fault. Oh, I don't mean running away. That was yours, he thought you didn't just care what became of him. I mean, he did see me—and Jim. I—Jim had gotten out of hand, that was all—it wasn't—I mean—"

"Damn Jim," he said cheerfully. "I can forgive him anything now."

"Can you? And must we?" she asked soberly.

He looked at her, the tumbled hair, the flushed sweet face, the strong sweet generous mouth, not smiling now, the mouth which had kissed him, which he had kissed, the little stubbornly set chin.

"What do you mean, Ellen?"

"Must we—damn him?"

She told him of Jim; of Pasquale; and Gilda. He listened, frowning.

"I told you I'd had him looked up. There were rumors. But nothing to go on. This Fontana—I think I can get a place for him. I wonder is he can garden, if he knows anything about farming.

"He was," said Ellen, "a farmer's son. So Gilda told me."

That's fine. There's a man upstate; a client of mine. He has something of a show place, but it's practical, too. There's a cottage and a job and everything all ready. I'll long distance him tonight. It's as good as in our hands. But O'Connor—?"

Ellen said, white suddenly, "If it's drug traffic—oh, if it's any traffic, we've no right to—think of anything. We must think of his aunt. Of the people he may drag into it. Of long friendship."

"Women are hard," said Bartlett after a moment. "I suppose they have to be. No, there's another way. You'll let me handle it. I come in contact with so many people. I know what Bill would call 'big shots.' Politically and all that. Some of their hands are none too clean. As I see it, this, whatever it is, it's a small racket, hasn't been big enough to bother any one, yet. But there's a way of putting fleas in certain ears. You'll see. Ellen, don't look so dramatic. He won't be killed, I promise you that. He won't even be hurt, except maybe in his pride. But he'll be put out of business. Quietly. Effectively. And for good. I don't even think he'll stay here long, in this neighborhood. It will be made too hot for him. And it may teach him a lesson. The little fellows, they get theirs after a while. The big ones go free. That's the damnable part of it. But in this case it will work out all right. We won't need any publicity. If officialdom comes into it, it will come in so quietly that no one will ever know."

She said, "I know you can handle it, Frank. The way that's best for everybody. I know it will be a right way, too."

He kissed her, smiling a little. And there was no more speech. "Frank," she said after a while, "look at the time."

It was after eight. The telephone spoke at her elbow, petulantly. "For heaven's sake," said Coral's voice, "are you dead, or something? Mother's fit to be tied."

"I'm all right, I'm coming home," said Ellen.

"What's up? You sound funny."

But Frank had taken the phone for her. "Hope you saved some supper," he said. "for Ellen and for me. I'm coming home, too. Kill a couple of fatted calves. Pete's going to get a brother-in-law."

"What did she say?" Ellen asked him when he had hung up.

"Plenty. I didn't listen. Come on, darling."

At the office door she turned, seeing that the latch was on.

"You won't be doing this long," he told her.

"No. I suppose not." She was grave. "I'll miss it," she said honestly. "It's so much a part of me, it means so much—"

"I know. I thought, when she puts me before the work, then I know she really loves me. And you have," he triumphed. "But there'll be lots you can do," he said, "and we'll do it together."

Driving home, he asked her carelessly, "Are you marrying me for my money, Miss Adams?"

"I don't think so," she told him, giving it proper thought. "You haven't enough, have you—? I mean to make it worth my while?"

They laughed, idiotically, to the astonishment of a large cop beating himself across the breast to keep warm, stamping his feet, whistling a tune. Accordian Al's tune—

"That's just it, I have—"

"I knew," she murmured, really serious this time, "that you had a good practice or whatever you call it—but—"

"Oodles of money," he said firmly, "thanks to an uncle—about three years ago. Sitting there in banks and gilt edged bonds. I never saw much sense in spending it just to be spending. And I was afraid that if I once got the habit I'd quit the law and loaf. So I sort of tried living on what I earned. That's over now. I'm marrying an extravagant woman."

"Who is she?" asked Ellen, demurely.

He ignored this.

"Enough," he said, "for us all. To see Pete through anything, and Coral. To make your mother happy and comfortable. To buy Nancy a couple of telephone exchanges—or at any rate I'm rather a large stockholder—to help Bill—and the others. That's what I meant when I said we'll do it together. There'll be work for you, Ellen. It is work to know how to help people by spending and not hurting them. Besides, he said lightly, "Im subject to cold and need a lot of nursing."

She was trying to keep back the tears. And so she said, "If you're marrying me to have a nurse in the family, forget it. Break it off, here and now. For if you as much as sniffle I'll have specials in, on eight-hour shifts, two at a time—"

And now they were home. Coral and Nancy had turned from the window and were saying, "There you are, Mother—for goodness sakes, angel, stop crying — everything's simply gorgeous," and someone was rushing to the kitchen to start the coffee perking—

But for a moment Ellen and Frank were alone in the close tiny darkness of the car. Making their wordless, solemn vows, voicing, mutely, their ecstasy and their hope; a little interlude of rapture, of promising, and of pledging, before they should draw a little apart one from the other and go into the house, and take up the business of living, however, altered, once more—

THE END.

Women's Auxiliary Meets At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, April 18—Mrs. Earl Braithwaite entertained the ladies of the Woman's Auxiliary at her home on Wednesday afternoon, April 13th, when twelve members and six visitors were present. The president, Mrs. James Timlin occupied the chair and opened the meeting by singing a hymn "Go Labor On" followed by the W. A. prayer in unison.

The Bible reading found in St. Mark's gospel, chapter 16 was read by Mrs. Lottie Nichol. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and found satisfactory. A splendid report was given by Mrs. Frank Brown of the March board meeting held in Toronto.

On motion of Mrs. Clara Braithwaite and Mrs. Frank Brown that a delegate be sent to Toronto in May 9 to 13 to attend the annual meeting of the Anglican Auxiliary. Mrs. Dinah Robins was appointed with Mrs. Herbert McCracken as substitute.

A parcel of material was distributed among the members to be made into various garments and will be left for sale with Mrs. Robins in the village. The meeting in May will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Brown, on Wednesday, May 18.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended the hostess and the meeting closed by repeating the Lord's prayer. Dainty refreshments and a good cup of tea was served which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone. Perhaps more so on account of the cold, disagreeable weather.

During the afternoon a very pretty quilt was quilted and ready for sale. The prize is quoted at $4.00.

UNIVERSITY DEMANDING PHOTOS OF EXAM WRITER

CHICAGO, April 17. — (C. P.).—The University of Chicago is taking steps to see that no strangers slip in and take the examinations in June.

It was announced yesterday that all students who wish to take the tests will have to supply photographs of themselves in advance.

It is to prevent strangers who have not tuition, from intruding, said George A. Works, University examiner.

There were some students, however, who ventured the opinion the photographic idea was intended to prevent any of them from taking the exams. by proxy.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 18 (C.P.).—The stock market suffered another relapse to-day and closed with a heavy tone, although transactions approximated only 800,000 shares. Weakness of American Telephone, off 3, American Can. off more than 2 and U.S. Steel, down about 1½, all to new lows, featured the slow decline. Eastman lost 4, and Coca-Cola 3. A number of prominent industrials and utilities yielded one or more, but rails were steady.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 18 (C.P.).—Trading volume remained at a low level on Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon and morning, but the market weakened with New York and closed soft.

Bell Telephone dropped back 4 points to 90, its record low. C.P.R. was off ¼ point and Ford of Canada ata 9¾ off ⅛, and aPge-Hersey lost ½ point gain picked up during the morning.

Oils, which had been firm and slightly higher in early trading, closed soft with small losses common to leaders.

Nickel was firm at 6½, Smelters stronger at 40, but Noranda eased to 16.

STANDARD DEXCHANGE.

TORONTO, April 18 (C.P.).—The Standard Stock and Mining Exchange listings pursued an irregularly lower course in moderate turnover to-day. Lower-priced golds were about the only issues to show resistance to the trend, and even in this group a few losses appeared.

International Nickel and Noranda closed off about a quarter each. Eldorado was weak, dropping about 7 cents. Mining Corp. sold at 80, for a 5-cent loss.

In the higher-priced golds, Lake Shore lost 40 cents and Dome 15, and smaller losses were suffered by Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves, while Hollinger sold unchanged.

Oils trended towards lower levels.

HEALTHIER CHILDREN.

LONDON, April 18. — (C.P. Cable.)—Children are leaving British schools to-day healthier and fitter than the children of 20 years ago, Sir Donald Mackan, president of the Board of Education told the House of Commons this afternoon.

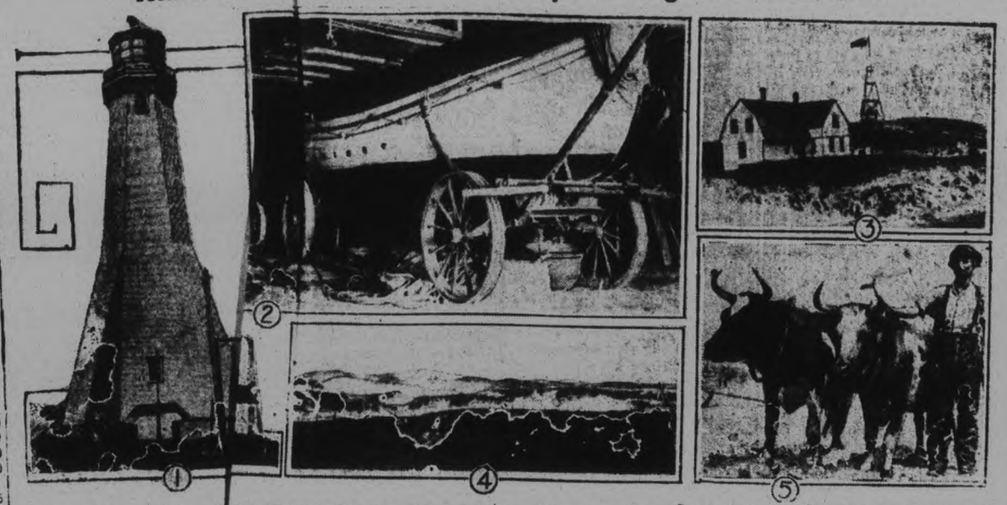
Island That Has Wrecked 200 Ships Moving Out In Atlantic



Sable Island, dread 'graveyard of the Atlantic,' 100 miles south-east of Halifax, is reported to be moving. Of recent years the famous island of sand dunes has shrunk from five to 20 miles, and now it is said that the action of the wind on the beach is causing the island to "creep" eastward. Some views of Sable Island are shown in the layout: (1) One of the modern lighthouses on the island. (2) A lifeboat mounted on a wagon ready for instant use when a wreck is reported. (3) A view of the beach. (4) A staff house and watch tower maintained by the Canadian Government. (5) A yoke of oxen used in tilling the island's comparatively fertile soil.

IMPORTANCE OF BIG CONFERENCE

had attained in the six years of its existence. He explained the origin of the Canadian Chamber, pointing out that it had grown far beyond the expectations of those who launched it. As the first idea had merely been a get-together meeting in Winnipeg that would allow Canadians in the East to get the viewpoint of the Westerns and vice versa.

W. M. Birks, Montreal, a director of the Sun Life Assurance Company and other companies, was introduced to the vice president of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire and in an eloquent ten minute speech gave a comprehensive outline of the greatness of that Empire which included one quarter of the Globe's surface and over one-fourth of the world's population. He stressed the fact that the Empire was not old, but rather young and that of all the Empires that existed in 1914 only the British Empire remained.

Speaking of the Imperial Conference, Mr. Birks declared that while it was not proposed to hurt Canadian industries or lower the living standards of the Canadian worker, the conference must not be approached in a spirit of all take and no give, but rather in an effort to help the whole Empire.

Rotarian R. Goring moved a vote of thanks to the speakers.

The nominative committee's report was read by President R. F. Downey, naming the following ten members chosen among whom five directors are to be elected at next Monday's luncheon: James Juby, Dr. A. Moir, J. L. Gillespie, A. Darling, J. Hughes, Chris G. Graham, Fred Reed, James Dutton, Douglas Loomis and Elmer Metcalfe.

RADIO LEAGUE PRESENTS CASE

tion of the most efficient existing stations and the third stage the high-powered network, covering in all a period of approximately five years.

(5) That the listeners' license fee be raised to $3.00 a year.

(6) That the Canadian Broadcasting Company be independent of the Civil Service, responsible to Parliament through a sub-committee of the Privy Council, consisting of the Minister of Marine and two other Ministers.

The Canadian Radio League strongly opposed the creation of a commission controlling private enterprise, Mr. Spry said. The system, he contended, had been tried out in the United States and had been a failure. Further, he claimed, it would not guarantee coverage for Western Canada or the Maritimes, because of the inadequate advertising revenue available in those areas.

Mr. Spry went at length into the history of the Radio Corporation of America, which he said had a monopoly of radio broadcasting in the United States, and connected this corporation with the powerful interests of that country.

Mr. Spry declared that some of the opposition advanced before the committee was at the instance of the American Radio monopoly.

The program of those opposed to the Aird report is in harmony with the interests of the American chains. There is cooperation with the American chains in opposing nationalization, he said.

In the first place, the American chains have regarded Canada as part of their field and consider Canada as in a state of radio tutelage without talent, resources, or capacity to establish a third chain on this continent, he said.

In the second place, if such a Canadian non-commercial chain were constructed it would seriously weaken the whole advertising basis of American broadcasting. If, for example the Canadian chain offered two hours of the best possible jazz programs over a dominion wide chain at night would inevitably cover a large area of the United States, would not every listener, Canadian or American, tune in on Canadian non-advertising programs in preference to eight 15 minute American advertising programs, in which there would be 16 advertising speeches occupying from 7 to 25 per cent of the time.

EMPIRE TRADE

"We should approach the conference in a give and take spirit. I hope that this British Empire conference is but the beginning of a world conference. Spirit of confidence will do the most good for the Empire and for the whole world."

F. K. Kerr, speaking at the conference, said: "I hope the briefs on the trade situation in Canada are being made clear cut and generous. We should consider what we can give as well as what we take. There is no doubt that Canadian interests will be safeguarded, but we should give much thought to what we can give whole-heartedly and generously. I tremble to think what it may mean to Canada and the whole Empire if this conference should fail."

James Dutton: "This conference should better conditions between Canada and the Empire. A spirit of co-operation should not be lacking in it and there is no doubt that the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce will have some practical suggestion to make when the proper time comes."

G. A. Gillespie pointed out that a great benefit would be conferred upon Canadian agriculture if some small form of preference were given Canadian cheese, butter, and milk entering the British markets

FORMER PASTOR IS SPEAKER AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon of Wellington Addresses Members of Men's Brotherhood.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

A great day's services, conducted under the auspices of the Men's Brotherhood of St. James' United Church, was held yesterday, when Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, former pastor, now of Wellington street United Church, London, was guest speaker.

In introducing him, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse said that words were quite unnecessary, since the crowded church spoke the sincerest welcome of the people, the church at all three services being filled to capacity.

Under the direction of Frank Stevens, organist and choir leader, a special program of music was arranged for the day.

Expressing his pleasure in renewing relations with old friends, Rev. Dudgeon brought to his former congregation an inspiring message of hope in this time of depression and change.

"We must go" said the speaker, "to the word of God, for something that will endure, where we read 'Forever, O Lord, Thy word is settled in Heaven'." The Bible is God's written word and Jesus is His living word. In writing His divine word, man was the stenographer and God the dictator. Jesus, too, declared the Bible to be enduring, for He says Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My word shall not pass away.

To-day, many are losing faith in the Old Book, in its miracles, and in Jesus' redeeming power. But this is nothing short of blasphemy. Heaven and earth are God's own handiwork, and if His word is more enduring, it must be Divine. This stupendous claim made by Jesus has been substantiated by tests which it has already stood. The first test is that of bitterest opposition through all centuries when all the artillery of earth and hell have been levelled against it. It has also stood the test of scrutiny and although it has been analyzed and pulled to pieces, not one flaw has been discovered. It has also borne the test of history and has been found accurate in all its prophesies. The test of practical application has been met, for the Bible is suitable to every occasion.

Most Acceptable Facts

Since this Bible is a sure foundation, we must accept certain facts. First, there is a future life. And eternal heaven and hell, as plainly declared by Jesus. Second, any one who believes shall receive forgiveness and eternal life. Third, No one who rejects Jesus Christ shall see the Light, and lastly, if a man be not born again, he shall not enter the Kingdom of God. This is a matter of tremendous importance and should be the one great business of ministry.

These "sure" things should gladden our hearts in this day of change and uncertainty. In closing Mr. Dudgeon commended to his congregation the Word of God, which fits every human need.

Afternoon Service

In addressing the Men's Brotherhood at the afternoon service, the speaker of the day took up the lesson of Abram's call, emphasizing the fact that such a call comes to each one of us and it is only in answering the call that we receive the blessing.

The president, Mr. Wood, presided, and the male quartette contributed two appropriate numbers "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul".

The evening service was a fitting climax to a wonderfully inspiring day, when Rev. Mr. Dudgeon spoke on the theme of salvation, taking as his text, Psalm 40:1-2: "He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock and established my going."

These words he brought as a personal testimony, as well as the experience of many. This is a picture of an eastern prison, a pit in which a prisoner is helpless, and is typical of the person lost in sin. It is useless for such a one to struggle. He needs some one to deliver him and that one is the Lord Jesus. He offers a perfect deliverance from the bondage of sin and we have that blessed assurance. He puts a new song into the mouths of his children which is not only heard but seen in their lives. An earnest plea to accept the salvation so freely offered, was made by the minister in concluding his evening message, after which he pronounced the benediction.

During all the services the pastor, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse, was present on the plaform with the guest speaker.

Special Music

A special men's choir made up of members of the Brotherhood, assisted by the junior choir, which was organized by Mr. Dudgeon, took charge of the evening's music, while the senior and junior choirs sang at the morning service. The program was as follows:

Morning senior choir: "Send out the Light" (Gounod); Junior choir, "Wonderful Grace of Jesus" (Lillenas); solo, "Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah" (Hughes) Mr. John Parry; duett, "He's the One" (Mackay) Misses Jennie and Margaret Smart.

Evening: Men's choir, "My Anchor Holds" (Towner); Jr. choir, "Reapers are Needed"; (Gabriel); Junior and men's choir, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name"; solo "The Holy City" (Adams), Miss Marion Wood; quartette "Consolation" (Mendelssohn) Messrs. A. Lee, H. Turner, Worral and Baldry.

It is interesting to note that during Rev. Mr. Dudgeon's visit to St. James' Church, his London pulpit was occupied by Mr. Anson Moorhouse, Jr., son of Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, this city.

LEGION HOLDS YPRES PARADE

Annual Ypres Church Parade Held to Murray Street Church.

BIG TURN OUT.

Medals flashing in the brilliant Spring sunshine made a brave showing, when members of the Canadian Legion turned out on Sunday morning for their annual church parade in celebration of the second battle of Ypres. The Legionares' parade was augmented by a large turnout of militiamen headed by the band of the Peterborough Rangers regiment, under Lieut. W. Peryer, and by the Ranger's bugle band and the Caledonia Pipe band. The parade mustered shortly after 10 o'clock under the command of A. E. Everett, president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. It was marshalled by Captain James Abraham. Militia units were under the direction of Major G. G. Winterbottom, M. C., D. C. M.

At the invitation of the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, the returned men paraded to Murray street Baptist church after having first undertaken a short route march through the principal streets of the city, via Aylmer street, Charlotte street and George street.

Commemorating the second battle of Ypres which took place in April 1915 and during which the First Canadian Division suffered severe casualties and won undying fame, the service at the church was completely in harmony with the occasion. The Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe preached an inspiring sermon, the theme of which was "Conquest".

Following the service the parade lined up outside the church while the Last Post and Reveille was sounded by Lieut. Peryer, following which President Everett thanked the men for their splendid turn out. The National Anthem was played and the parade was dismissed.

A total of 7,350,000 acres of land were under cultivation in Quebec in 1931, according to the provincial Minister of Agriculture.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 18 (C.P.).—The stock market suffered another relapse to-day and closed with a heavy tone, although transactions approximated only 800,000 shares. Weakness of American Telephone, off 3, American Can, off more than 2 and U.S. Steel, down about 1½, all to new lows, featured the slow decline. Eastman lost 4, and Coca-Cola 3. A number of prominent industrials and utilities yielded one or more, but rails were steady.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 18 (C.P.).—Trading volume remained at a low level on Toronto Stock Exchange this afternoon and morning, but the market weakened with New York and closed soft.

Bell Telephone dropped back 4 points to 90, its record low. C.P.R. at 14 was off ⅝, Brazilian at 9½ was off ¼ point and Ford of Canada ata 9⅜ off ⅛, and aPge-Hersey lost ½ point gain picked up during the morning.

Oils, which had been firm and slightly higher in early trading, closed soft with small losses common to leaders.

Nickel was firm at 6½, Smelters stronger at 40, but Noranda eased to 16.

STANDARD DEXCHANGE.

TORONTO, April 18 (C.P.).—The Standard Stock and Mining Exchange listings pursued an irregularly lower course in moderate turnover to-day. Lower-priced golds were about the only issues to show resistance to the trend, and even in this group a few losses appeared.

International Nickel and Noranda closed off about a quarter each. Eldorado was weak, dropping about 7 cents. Mining Corp. sold at 80, for a 5-cent loss.

In the higher-priced golds, Lake Shore lost 40 cents and Dome 15, and smaller losses were suffered by Teck Hughes and Wright Hargreaves, while Hollinger sold unchanged.

Oils trended towards lower levels.

HEALTHIER CHILDREN.

LONDON, April 18. — (C.P. Cable.)—Children are leaving British schools to-day healthier and fitter than the children of 20 years ago, Sir Donald Mackan, president of the Board of Education told the House of Commons this afternoon.

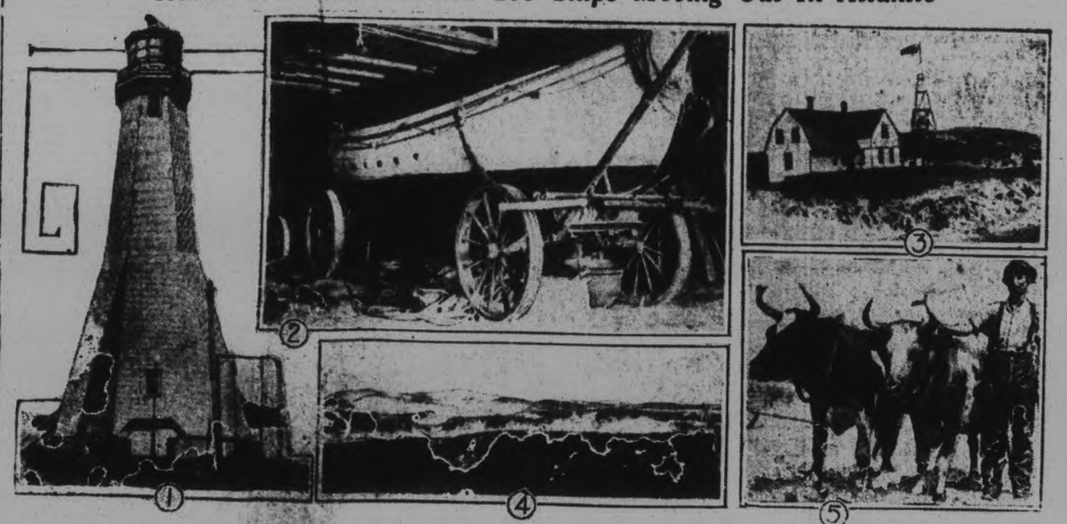
Island That Has Wrecked 200 Ships Moving Out In Atlantic



Sable Island, dread 'graveyard of the Atlantic,' 100 miles south-east of Halifax, is reported to be moving. Of recent years the famous island of sand dunes has shrunk from 40 miles to 20 miles, and now it is said that the action of the wind on the sand is causing the island to "creep" eastward. Some views of Sable Island are shown in the layout: (1) One of the modern lighthouses on the island. (2) A lifeboat mounted on a wagon ready for instant use when a wreck is reported. (3) A view of the beach. (4) A staff house and watch tower maintained by the Canadian Government. (5) A yoke of oxen used in tilling the island's comparatively fertile soil.

More Aid Expected For Mining Industry

OTTAWA, April 18 (C.P.)—Supplementary estimates soon to be tabled in the House of Commons will it is understood, provide further assistance to the coal mining industry in Canada. The exact nature of the assistance will not be known until an official annoucemet is made or the supplementaries are introduced. It is intimated, however, that, in order to help Nova Scotia mines to market their product in the markets of Quebec and Eastern Ontario, the Government may provide assistance. Alberta coal miners, it is understood, will also be assisted.

had attained in the six years of its existence. He explained the origin of the Canadian Chamber, pointing out that it had grown far beyond the expectations of those who launched it. As the first idea had merely been a get-together meeting in Winnipeg that would allow Canadians in the East to get the viewpoint of the Westerns and vice versa.

M. Birks, Montreal, a director of the Sun Life Assurance Company and other companies, was introduced to the vice president of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire and in an eloquent ten minute speech gave a comprehensive outline of the greatness of that Empire which included one quarter of the Globe's surface and over one-fourth of the world's population. He stressed the fact that the Empire was not old, but rather young and that of all the Empires that existed in 1914 only the British Empire remained.

Speaking of the Imperial Conference, Mr. Birks declared that while it was not proposed to hurt Canadian industries or lower the living standards of the Canadian worker, the conference must not be approached in a spirit of all take and no give, but rather in an effort to help the whole Empire.

Rotarian R. Goring moved a vote of thanks to the speakers.

The nominative committee's report was read by President R. F. Downey, naming the following ten members chosen among whom five directors are to be elected at next Monday's luncheon: James Juby, Dr. A. Moir, J. L. Gillespie, A. Darling, J. Hughes, Chris G. Graham, Fred Reed, James Dutton, Douglas Loomis and Elmer Metcalfe.

tion of the most efficient existing stations and the third stage the high-powered network, covering in all a period of approximately five years.

(5) That the listeners' license fee be raised to $3.00 a year.

(6) That the Canadian Broadcasting Company be independent of the Civil Service, responsible to Parliament through a sub-committee of the Privy Council, consisting of the Minister of Marine and two other Ministers.

The Canadian Radio League strongly opposed the creation of a commission controlling private enterprise, Mr. Spry said. The system, he contended, had been tried out in the United States and had been a failure. Further, he claimed, it would not guarantee coverage for Western Canada or the Maritimes, because of the inadequate advertising revenue available in those areas.

Mr. Spry went at length into the history of the Radio Corporation of America, which he said had a monopoly of radio broadcasting in the United States, and connected this corporation with the powerful interests of that country.

Mr. Spry declared that some of the opposition advanced before the committee was at the instance of the American Radio monopoly.

The program of those opposed to the Aird report is in harmony with the interests of the American chains. There is cooperation with the American chains in opposing nationalization, he said.

In the first place, the American chains have regarded Canada as part of their field and consider Canada as in a state of radio tutelage without talent, resources, or capacity to establish a third chain on this continent, he said.

In the second place, if such a Canadian non-commercial chain were constructed it would seriously weaken the whole advertising basis of American broadcasting. If, for example the Canadian chain offered two hours of the best possible jazz programs over a dominion wide chain at night would inevitably cover a large area of the United States, would not every listener, Canadian or American, tune in on Canadian non-advertising programs in preference to eight 15 minute American advertising programs, in which there would be 16 advertising speeches occupying from 7 to 25 per cent of the time.

"We should approach the conference in a give and take spirit. I hope that this British Empire conference is but the beginning of a world conference. Spirit of confidence will do the most good for the Empire and for the whole world."

F. K. Kerr, speaking at the conference, said: "I hope the briefs on the trade situation in Canada are being made clear cut and generous. We should consider what we can give as well as what we take. There is no doubt that Canadian interests will be safeguarded, but we should give much thought to what we can give whole-heartedly and generously. I tremble to think what it may mean to Canada and the whole Empire if this conference should fail."

James Dutton: "This conference should better conditions between Canada and the Empire. A spirit of co-operation should not be lacking in it and there is no doubt that the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce will have some practical suggestion to make when the proper time comes."

G. A. Gillespie pointed out that a great benefit would be conferred upon Canadian agriculture if some small form of preference were given Canadian cheese, butter and milk entering the British markets.

John R. Marshall, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the conference.

FORMER PASTOR IS SPEAKER AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon of Wellington Addresses Members of Men's Brotherhood.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

A great day's services, conducted under the auspices of the Men's Brotherhood of St. James' United Church, was held yesterday, when Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, former pastor, now of Wellington street United Church, London, was guest speaker.

In introducing him, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse said that words were quite unnecessary, since the crowded church spoke the sincerest welcome of the people, the church at all three services being filled to capacity.

Under the direction of Frank Stevens, organist and choir leader, a special program of music was arranged for the day.

Expressing his pleasure in renewing relations with old friends, Rev. Dudgeon brought to his former congregation an inspiring message of hope in this time of depression and change.

"We must go" said the speaker, "to the word of God, for something that will endure, where we read 'Forever, O Lord, Thy word is settled in Heaven'." The Bible is God's written word and Jesus is His living word. In writing His divine word, man was the stenographer and God the dictator. Jesus, too, declared the Bible to be enduring, for He says Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My word shall not pass away.

To-day, many are losing faith in the Old Book, in its miracles, and in Jesus' redeeming power. But this is nothing short of blasphemy. Heaven and earth are God's own handiwork, and if His word is more enduring, it must be Divine. This stupendous claim made by Jesus has been substantiated by tests which it has already stood. The first test is that of bitterest opposition through all centuries when all the artillery of earth and hell have been levelled against it. It has also stood the test of scrutiny and although it has been analyzed and pulled to pieces, not one flaw has been discovered. It has also borne the test of history and has been found accurate in all its prophesies. The test of practical application has been met, for the Bible is suitable to every occasion.

Most Acceptable Facts

Since this Bible is a sure foundation, we must accept certain facts. First, there is a future life. And eternal heaven and hell, as plainly declared by Jesus. Second, any one who believes shall receive forgiveness and eternal life. Third, No one who rejects Jesus Christ shall see the Light, and lastly, if a man be not born again, he shall not enter the Kingdom of God. This is a matter of tremendous importance and should be the one great business of ministry.

These "sure" things should gladden our hearts in this day of change and uncertainty. In closing Mr. Dudgeon commended to his congregation the Word of God, which fits every human need.

Afternoon Service

In addressing the Men's Brotherhood at the afternoon service, the speaker of the day took up the lesson of Abram's call, emphasizing the fact that such a call comes to each one of us and it is only in answering the call that we receive the blessing.

The president, Mr. Wood, presided, and the male quartette contributed two appropriate numbers "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul".

The evening service was a fitting climax to a wonderfully inspiring day, when Rev. Mr. Dudgeon spoke on the theme of salvation, taking as his text, Psalm 40:1-2: "He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock and established my going."

These words he brought as a personal testimony, as well as the experience of many. This is a picture of an eastern prison, a pit in which a prisoner is helpless, and is typical of the person lost in sin. It is useless for such a one to struggle. He needs some one to deliver him and that one is the Lord Jesus. He offers a perfect deliverance from the bondage of sin and we have that blessed assurance. He puts a new song into the mouths of his children which is not only heard but seen in their lives. An earnest plea to accept the salvation so freely offered, was made by the minister in concluding his evening message, after which he pronounced the benediction.

During all the services the pastor, Rev. Mr. Moorhouse, was present on the platform with the guest speaker.

Special Music

A special men's choir made up of members of the Brotherhood, assisted by the junior choir, which was organized by Mr. Dudgeon, took charge of the evening's music, while the senior and junior choirs sang at the morning service. The program was as follows:

Morning senior choir: "Send out the Light" (Gounod); Junior choir, "Wonderful Grace of Jesus" (Lillenas); solo, "Guide Me O Thou Great Jehovah" (Hughes) Mr. John Parry; duett, "He's the One" (Mackay) Misses Jennie and Margaret Smart.

Evening: Men's choir, "My Anchor Holds" (Towner); Jr. choir, 'Reapers are Needed"; (Gabriel); Junior and men's choir, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name"; solo "The Holy City" (Adams), Miss Marion Wood; quartette "Consolation" (Mendelssohn) Messrs. A. Lee, H. Turner, Worral and Baldry.

It is interesting to note that during Rev. Mr. Dudgeon's visit to St. James' Church, his London pulpit was occupied by Mr. Anson Moorhouse, Jr., son of Rev. A. E. Moorhouse, this city.

LEGION HOLDS YPRES PARADE

Annual Ypres Church Parade Held to Murray Street Church.

BIG TURN OUT.

Medals flashing in the brilliant Spring sunshine made a brave showing, when members of the Canadian Legion turned out on Sunday morning for their annual church parade in celebration of the second battle of Ypres. The Legionares' parade was augmented by a large turnout of militiamen headed by the band of the Peterborough Rangers regiment, under Lieut. W. Peryer, and by the Ranger's bugle band and the Caledonia Pipe band. The parade mustered shortly after 10 o'clock under the command of A. E. Everett, president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion. It was marshalled by Captain James Abraham. Militia units were under the direction of Major G. G. Winterbottom, M. C., D. C. M.

At the invitation of the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, the returned men paraded to Murray street Baptist church after having first undertaken a short route march through the principal streets of the city, via Aylmer street, Charlotte street and George street.

Commemorating the second battle of Ypres which took place in April 1915 and during which the First Canadian Division suffered severe casualties and won undying fame, the service at the church was completely in harmony with the occasion. The Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe preached an inspiring sermon, the theme of which was "Conquest".

Following the service the parade lined up outside the church while the Last Post and Reveille was sounded by Lieut. Peryer, following which President Everett thanked the men for their splendid turn out. The National Anthem was played and the parade was dismissed.

A total of 7,350,000 acres of land were under cultivation in Quebec in 1931, according to the provincial Minister of Agriculture.

CITIZENS OF HAVELOCK FORM NEW HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

Over Eighty Members Are Signed Up—Year's Plans Discussed.

R. W. BONNEY, PRESIDENT.

HAVELOCK, April 18 (Examiner Correspondent).—Another definite step toward making Havelock the village beautiful was taken on Saturday night when the Havelock and Belmont Horticultural Society was formed. Both the village and township were well represented by some eighty members who were garnered in by the sixteen who attended the little informal meeting held at the home of Mr. Lancaster the previous week. The government insist on at least fifty members and give a grant of one dollar for the first seventy-five. At the persent rate the membership will soon reach or even pass the one hundred mark. Mr. Lancaster outlined a few of the rules and regulations governing the formation, quoting from the Horticultural Act. He also told of a few of the many benefits that might be derived. The first move after the formation was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—

Honorary President, T. P. Lancaster, M.L.A.; President, R. W. Bonney; 1st Vice-President, J. H. Moore; 2nd Vice-President, Miss M. Williams. Five directors for a term of two years, Mrs. R. Bonney; Mrs. Wesley Johnston; Miss Lily Morrison; Mr. R. J. Peoples and Mrs. W. T. Curtis; five directors for a term of one year, Mrs. A. C. Denike; Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Kemp, Mrs. T. P. Lancaster; Mrs. James Longmuir, Peter McCann. Auditors, Miss E. Wright and J. R. Bedford Jr.

A meeting of the directors was then held and they elected Mr. L. A. Gould as secretary-treasurer. It was decided to hold the next meeting at 8 o'clock in the council chamber on Tuesday evening. Members who were not at the meeting and others who would like to join are urged to attend this meeting, when they will choose the premiums and submit their lists to the directorate who will send in the orders.

Clean-Up Week

Mr. Lancaster suggested they hold a clean-up week in May. This was done a number of years ago, and the council supplied the wagons for carting away the refuse. There is room for a great deal of tree planting, especially speaking of the village streets and the property around the schools, bith in the village and township.

The only work of this kind ever done in the village was the planting of rows of maples on Oak street and elms on Ottawa street. The elms didn't seem to thrive, but the maples came along wonderfully well and are now good-sized trees. The Belmont Women's Institute is the only society that ever took any interest in reforestation in the township, and planted a number of maples arounds the grounds at the old stone hall. Any farmer may obtain as many as five thousand seedling from the department just for the asking. Some splendid wood lots have been thus built up and invaluable windbreaks have been constructed in other parts of the country. There is much work to be done away from our gardens. A true flower lover does not grow flowers for his own pleasure only. For pleasure or profit, he cannot grow them without giving pleasure to others, and he loves to spread the gospel of flowers in every way he can.

A great opportunity lies before the amateur gardeners of this district in the improvement and beautification of our homes and surroundings. It is not for the individual gardener to add only to his grounds, but for all to get together and work for the whole community until they have the prettiest spot in Ontario.

Mr. R. Bonney thanked the members for the honor they had conferred on electing him to be their first president and said he would do al in his power to help along the good work. Mr. Lancaster said he was at the disposal of the members, and would help them in any way he could. He has been advocating the formation of such a society for a long time, and at last his dream has become a reality. The following ladies together with Mr. Lancaster circulated the lists for members: Mrs. Wesley Johnston, Mrs. J. A. C. Allan, Mrs. J. H. Moore, Mrs. F. J. Watson, Mrs. Robert Anderson, Mrs. R. W. Bonney, Mrs. E. H. Cross, Miss Lily Morrison, Mrs. J. H. Wilde and Mrs. G. W. Denike.

SHORT RECORDS BEFORE SENATE

Group Hopes to Make Bear Read Case Out of Records Presented by Whitney.

MAY ASK WIDER PROBE.

WASHINGTON, April 18—(AP)—Five reels of film, a photographic record of stock transactions in the downhill market of two weeks ago, engaged the U. S. Senate banking committee today upon resuming questioning of Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

The tin boxes and their contents, looking outwardly just like an ordinary moving picture, presented the answer to the committee's subpoena demanding that Whitney produce a list of the big short accounts, the brokers handling them and the customers for whom the sales were made.

Upon this record administration senators on the committee seized for ammunition to support the charge that bear raids had much to do with depressing the value of securities to record lows. Whitney, first called to the stand a week ago when the data was not available, has denied steadfastly that the shorts were mainly responsible or that bear raids had occurred.

Received Saturday

The data was received by the committee Saturday, but because of the short time so far available for its study the prospect was that little in the way of definite conclusions would be obtained for some time. Committee workers, however, spent the best part of the week-end poring over it, so as to make resumption of the hearings possible this morning.

While the administration Senators were striving to make their bear raid case—it was the principal reason they advanced for pushing the exchange investigation—the Democratic and Republican Independent members of the committee were sitting back ready to spring a demand for a thorough-going, wide-open examination of the security sales structure and its speculative or gambling features. Dissatisfied with the showing so far, they had decided to let the present leaders of the investigation carry on through the study of the Whitney data.

Thomasburg

On Wednesday evening a very successful dance was held in the I. O. O. F. Hall Thomasburg under the auspices of the A. Y. P. A. at which there was a large attendance. At 12 o'clock the lunch was served by the members of the A.Y.P.A. The music was furnished by the Messrs Rivers and Paunder brothers. The proceeds amounted to $40. The dance broke up at 2:30 and everyone went home, having spent a very pleasant evening.

Miss Mary and Ross Robinson spent Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Damon McCamon and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Geen spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. William Eaton and family of Lodgeroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Damon McCamon and sons Glenn and Clifford spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowers and family.

Miss Dorothy Way of Tweed and Mrs. Laura Prentice spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Murney Geen.

Mrs. Grantley Burleigh and daughter Betty are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harrison.

LIBERALS ELECT

House of Commons will also be present at the Friday meeting.

One thousand delegates will attend the convention of the Central Ontario Liberal Association, which was organized last December in Cobourg, to be held in Peterborough in June. it was predicted by J. J. Duffus, president of this association. The Central Ontario association embodies 12 Federal constituencies and 16 Provincial ridings. The association has been most active, Mr. Duffus said.

The meeting went on record as expressing its full confidence in the Liberal leaders, Right Honorable W. E. N. Sinclair, and Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P.

The vote of confidence in the Right Honorable Mr. King was sponsored by Watler M. Perks and J. S. Mason, and was as follows:

"We the Liberals of the Constituency of Peterborough West at the annual convention of the Association, express our confidence in the Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King, our leader, in the Liberal policies as presented by him to the people of Canada.

"We appreciate that he was removed from office by promises and assurance given by the present Prime Minister of Canada, which he has not undertaken to fulfill, by ending unemployment, but unemployment has increased while his Government has been in office, taxation has increased, business depression has increased, and Canadian prestige among the nations of the world has been impaired to such a degree that her currency has been much depreciated in the money markets of the world. We express our belief publicly that the only certain means of increasing employment and improving business is to turn out of office the present administration at Ottawa, and to replace the Government with men who appreciate the interests and requirements of the great masses of the people, and we confidently believe that at the next election the Liberals will be returned to office under the leadership of the Right Honorable W. L. Mackenzie King."

The vote of confidence in Mr. Hepburn was moved by James C. Ellis and seconded by J. A. Dewart. It read as follows:

"We the Liberals of the constituency of Peterborough City at the annual convention of the association, endorse the leadership of Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., the leader of the Liberal Party of Ontario, and the Liberal policies as announced at the London convention.

"We congratulate Mr. Hepburn upon the active interest he has taken in the affairs of the province and his declaration of reduction in taxation to stimulate business and reduce employment. The policy of the Henry Government is increasing taxation, while the earning power of the farming community and of the workmen has been decreased, is against the interests of the people of the Province, and has direct result in creating a stagnation of business, in increasing unemployment, and causing farmers to lose their properties through insolvency, and we believe that the only remedy will be by dismissal of the Henry Government and the election of Mr. Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., as premier of this province to form a Government which will reflect the wishes and desires of a majority of the people of the province of Ontario."

Dr. Craig presided as chairman of the meeting and reviewed the activities of the association under his presidency during the four past years. He declared that citizens were taking a more active interest in politics and were looking to Liberalism as a cure for many of the ills under which he claimed the country was suffering.

He asked permission to withdraw from the heavy duties of president of the association in order to give more attention to his practice and to dental research. "However," he declared, "I want to retain my association with the party, but for the time being must withdraw from the duties of office.

The meeting went on record as thanking Dr. Craig for the time and work he had given the association and he was unanimously raised to the office of honorary president.

Honorable Nelson Parliament, Liberal organizer, briefly addressed the meeting, emphasizing the need of thoroughly organizing. He declared also that Liberals were taking a keener interest in the affairs of their country since they were now being so badly managed by the party in power. He urged his audience to choose a strong candidate early and give him the support that would assure his election.

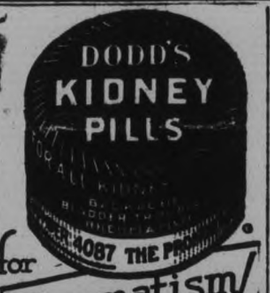
Monthly Meeting Marmora Institute

MARMORA, April 18. — The monthly meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held at the Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening, Mrs. H. W. Sabine presiding over an attendance of twenty-eight.

The roll call was "A man who has made history for Canada." Mrs. R. E. Monter, who is convenor of the Historical research section, then gave an interesting paper in which she dealt with some history of Marmora township and village, extending back to more than a century ago. Misses Florence Sopha and Dorothy Hacke then gave an enjoyable vocal duet. Next on the program was a humorous reading by Miss Haacke entitled "A handsome girl in a crowded car". Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Miss M. Brown then gave a pleasing duet "In the Gloaming".

A contest "Old sayings" arranged by Mrs. Harold Nayler, resulted in a tie between Mrs. L. Green and Miss M. Brown. In the draw for the prize Mrs. Green was successful.

Mrs. C. Nichol, hostess of the evening, with the assistance of the committee, provided an enjoyable lunch.



CAMPBELLFORD

BRIEF AND INTERESTING NEWS ITEMS FROM THE TRENT TOWN.

A good report of relief work by the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion is shown by a statement issued by the treasurer, A. G. Thompson. This shows that from January 1 of this year to date a total of $206.15 was expended on direct relief. The figure for the same period last year was $145.96. Of the money expended this year, $82.25 has been rebated under the government direct relief grant.

Another social function is being staged by the Willing Workers of Christ Church, when on Tuesday, April 19, an afternoon tea will be held at the Clifton Tea Rooms. Tea will be served from 3 to 5 p.m.

Miss Muriel Kingston left on Saturday for Brantford, where she will be the guest of Mrs. W. Hodgins.

Little Gordon Curle, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Curle, of Seymour, who was severely scalded some time ago when he fell into a boiling kettle of maple sap, is reported to be slowly recovering. Dr. F. B. Brintnell is still in attendance.

The Rev. Alexander Rannie of High River, Alberta, who is visiting for a few days in the district, conducted the afternoon service in Hoards' Church on Sunday. Mr. Rannie is president of the Alberta Conference of the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Scott were recent visitors to Allan's Mills, the guests of Mr. F. M. Rutherford.

PROMISING SIGNS FOR FALL WHEAT

Clover Winters Well in Bailieboro District—Bumper Crops in Sight.

BAILIEBORO, April 18.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Farmers in this district are very optimistic with regards to the outcome of the fall wheat and clover seeds. The snow is now off the fields and the wheat and seeds are looking thrifty and promising.

Vegetation has not yet commenced, but up to date the late spring has not seriously injured the fresh seeding. There has been no ice of any account on the fields during the winter months and at times when the frost was severe the seeds were blanketed with a covering of snow.

The soil is now thoroughly saturated with moisture and should spring turn out to be a season with little backward cold weather, indications point to a bumper crop.

There was not as large an acreage of fall wheat sowed last fall as there has been in past years, but owing to the dry summer, farmers were enabled to prepare a much more suitable seed bed and with richer, cleaner soil, and the smaller acreage should yield almost as great a quantity of wheat.

Interesting Reports At Havelock Meeting

HAVELOCK, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—The doors of the United Church parsonage were thrown open on Wednesday afternoon last to welcome the members and friends of the Women's Missionary Society. Twenty - seven availed themselves of this opportunity to attend a most interesting meeting, and to receive the kind hospitality of Rev. S. A. and Mrs. Kemp.

The treasurer reported having sent $37 to the Presbyterial treasurer for the past quarter.

The roll call was answered by a verse from a Psalm. Mrs. Gordon Denike sang "This is my task," which was much enjoyed. Miss Wright, assisted by Mesdames Jas. Wilde and Bonney, reviewed the study "What of the Day," chapter VIII Korea, Land of the dawn. One of the strongest reasons for believing that the Korean church will live and grow, is to be found in the noble character of the Korean Christian. These men and women have been, from the first, a missionary people, eager to carry the gospel message to those of their fellows who have not heard it and ready to give of their limited means for the support of their church. There are many outstanding men and women who are giving of their best, still there are millions yet unreached. The need for more missionaries is great, consecrated men and women doctors, nurses, teachers, evangelists and the church must see that her ideals are carried out, into the industrial life of the nation. "The morning light is breaking" was sung, and the meeting closed with prayer led by Mrs. A. C. Denike.

40 PHEASANTS GET NEW HOME

Havelock Fish and Game Association Ask Citizens to protect Birds.

MANY VERY TAME.

HAVELOCK, April 18. (Examiner Correspondent).—As a result of the formation the new Fish and Game Association here a short time ago forty ring-necked English pheasants were obtained from the government sanctuary at Coderington and released here on Friday. The birds were all in good condition on their arrival here Friday morning and most of them were taken out in automobiles and released.

The co-operation of every resident of the community is asked in the protection of these birds. Some of them are very tame and there is no more sport in shooting them now than there would be to go into your neighbour's yard and knock over one of his chickens. If given a chance they will no doubt be plentiful around here in a few years.

Bridge Party

Mrs. Will Fraser entertained a number of her lady friendds at a bridge party on Friday evening last, when three tables were played The honor prizes was won by Mrs. Herbert Davies, and Mrs. John Leask was awarded the consolation prize. Dainty refreshments were afterwards served, and a social hour enjoyed over the teacups.

Springville Society Plans Quilting Bee

SPRINGVILLE, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — The April meeting of the Springville W.M.S. was held on Wednesday afternoon at the manse.

Owing to unfavorable weather conditions and poor roads the attendance was below the average, but this did not in the least affect the quality of the splendid program.

Business consisted of the presentation of the bale allotment for 1932, this being the same as last year and calling for one quilt. It was decided to make a crazy quilt of heavy material, each lady being responsible for one or more blocks, twelve inches square. The idea of having a special Sunday service to aid in raising funds was discussed and thought advisable whenever a missionary speaker can be procured. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Hunter and will take the form of a Mother's Day service. A lunch committee was appointed to be responsible for refreshments.

Interesting numbers on the program consisted of a reading by Mrs. S. Staples of an article dealing with conditions in Siam, written by the daughter of Rev. Millyard of George Street Church. Mrs. M. Johnston gave a paper entitled the Nation's Greatness, which presented numerous subject worthy of deep thought.

In conclusion Mrs. J. Grandy gave a reading on "Why Are Missionaries Needed?"

MRS. W. W. YALE GIVES ADDRESS

Lakefield Branch of Woman's Institute Hears Interesting Talk.

GOOD PROGRAM.

LAKEFIELD, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence). — Mrs. W. W. Yale gave a very interesting paper on "Laws Relating to Women," at the Women's Institute on Wednesday afternoon at the regular meeting.

Quoting from an article by Judge McCleary of England, the speaker spoke of the so-called loss of freedom of the married woman. According to Judge McCleary this is a faction, as a woman has forfeited, by his marriage, little if any of her freedom. Her husband has little, if any, control over and yet his obligations to her and responsibilities for her are enormous. When a woman marries she adds considerably to her rights; the husband, on the other hand, materially increases his obligation. He is bound to support her according to his condition in life, while she is in no way obligated to support him. A husband may be sued jointly with his wife for a wrong committed by her. If she inflicts injury upon a third party, he may be made liable for any damages, though he knew nothing of the wrong she committed and strongly disapproved of her action.

Mrs. Yale quoted from an address by Mrs. W. R. Lang, Provincial convenor of legislation, and she reports progress along the lines relating to women. In Manitoba, a full time director of temperance education was appointed in the schools; Saskatchewan was studying a method whereby it would be compulsory to have a certificate of health before marriage; in Alberta definite experiments were made in the treatment of the feeble-minded, and a law has been passed (surrounded with many safeguards) permitting the sterilization of mentally defective persons to prevent their reproducing their kind. Mrs. Lang advocated the right of married women to remain British even if they had married foreigners, and stressed the need of watching the naturalization proceedings in our country to insist that a person desiring to be naturalized should be able to speak either French or English and to seek to do away with the clause in the Election Act permitting persons to vote through interpreters.

The Institutes should do their part to raise Canada to the international standard in labor matters; this has been done in part by the Federal Government, but not entirely.

Mrs. Lang said the Institutes should work toward securing the necessary Provincial legislation in order that Canada may take her rightful position in the League of Nations as one of the countries of the world having advanced labor legislation; as in the spirit she is, but from this rightful position she is debarred by her constitutional make-up till all the Provinces come into line.

There was need of change in our electoral laws. Our Provincial Parliament consists of 112 members elected once in four years, and the constituencies are altered from time to time at the wish of the party in power.

Mrs. Yale drew attention to the qualifications one must have to vote; viz., to be 21 years of age or over, a British subject and a resident of the community for a certain time. Voters' lists are prepared annually and are in three sections: 1, ratepayers who are entitled to vote in municipal or parliamentary elections; 2, property owners or taxpayers, now resident, who are entitled to vote on municipal elections; 3, residents of the required age who are non-taxpayers who may vote at the Federal or Provincial elections only.

It is hard to keep these lists strictly up to date and a permanent, non-partizan official (as in New Zealand) in each riding to keep the lists up to date was recommended.

An amendment to the devolution of Estates Act was passed in 1929, so that if a man dies without a will leaving a wife and one child, the estate shall go 50 per cent. to each, not one-third to the wife as heretofore.

An act which interests the women more than any, is that which gives better provision for the dependents of deceased persons. It applies to widowers, widows and children under 16. If inadequately provided for, application can be made to alter the will.

"If the applicant has given personal assistance, gift or loan of money toward the advancement of the testator in any business or occupation, the judge may fix a money value to this assistance and that value shall rank as a debt to be paid along with all other debts before the settling up of the estate. Then, all debts having been paid, the judge may alter the disposition of the residue of the estate and give the applicant up to one-half of that residue on an amount equivalent to that which he or she would have received under an intestacy whichever is the smaller." Mrs. Lang says she protested to both the Premier and the Leader of the Opposition, that a widow and children should be entitled to the whole of the residue if necessary, but methinks we need not worry because if a fair price is fixed in all the service which a woman gives a man during their married life and she gets that value in cash there will be a very small number of estates which can pay that debt, let alone have any residue to distribute.

Mrs. Yale's paper was listened to with strict attention and much appreciation.

Mrs. Stanley Higgins, first vice-president, read the program for the next year, drawn up at a meeting of the executive held on Saturday last. The program presents a number of new and attractive features and includes the adoption of several practical suggestions of the department. Ten minutes at each will be given over to current events.

An exchange of plants, slips and seeds (both vegetable and flower) was a popular feature of the afternoon's program.

Weddings

SPRY—BARRONS.

HAVELOCK, April 18—(Examiner Correspondence).—On April 15th a quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. M. E. Wilson, Havelock, when James Delbert Spry and Miss Effie Barrons, both of Cordova Mines, were united in marriage.

Obituary

MRS. CLARE MacPHERSON

MARMORA, April 18—The death occurred at Sudbury on Thursday of Mrs. Clare MacPherson. The deceased was 57 years of age. She was a sister of Alphonse, Charles and Eva Shannon of this village. The funeral is arranged for Monday to leave the residence of her brother, Charles Shannon, at 9 a.m. for Sacred Heart Church, with interment following in the Sacred Heart cemetery.

MRS. ELIZA R. SEYMOUR.

TRENT RIVER, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Mrs. Eliza Rebecca Seymour of Cataraqui, Ont., widow of Rev. J. C. Seymour, in her 80th year, was held Saturday afternoon from the United Church at Paisley, Ont. Deceased was the second daughter of the late S. T. Rowe of Paisley, and was the first white child born in Elderville Township, and was educated at the Hamilton Ladies' College.

Surviving are three sons: Rev. H. Seymour of Belleville, Ont.; Rev. E. O. Seymour, D.D., of Oakville (formerly of Havelock and Trent River United Church), and three sisters: Mrs. C. Mickle of Gravenhurst, Mrs. E. J. McIntyre and Mrs. H. B. Putman of Totonto.

MRS. WILLIAM RYLOTT.

HAVELOCK, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence). — The funeral of the late Mrs. William Rylott, for many years a resident of Havelock and Belmont who died at Whitby on Wednesday last, was held from the residence of her son, Marcenna Rylott, George Street, on Friday afternoon, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends.

Mrs. Rylott, who was in her 76th year, was born at Belleville, her maiden name being Alice Rosetta Van Norman. Her husband, William Rylott, died here about twenty years ago.

The funeral service held at the house was conducted by Rev. S. A. Kemp of the United Church here. Two favorite hymns of the deceased, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "What a friend we have in Jesus" were read by special request. Mr. Kemp in his discourse spoke words of sympathy and consolation to the bereaved family. The remains were conveyed to Victoria Cemetery by motor hearse and laid to rest in the family plot there. Six grandsons acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. Gerald and Jesse Anderson of Belmont, Will and Demond Rylott of Havelock, and John Aunger and Gordon Rylott of Smith's Falls.

She leaves to mourn three sons and four daughters, Mrs. Marcenna Rylott of Havelock, William of Healey Falls, and Joseph of Peterborough, and Mrs. Will Anderson and Mrs. Peter Johnston of Havelock and Mrs. G. R. Thomas of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Mrs. H. W. Aunger of Ottawa. All of these were present at the funeral.

Many beautiful flowers spoke eloquently of the sympathy of a host of friends. Among them were wreaths and pillows from Capital City Lodge Ladies' Auxiliary to the Railroad Trainmen Ideal Chapter O.E.S., Ottawa, friends of Western United Church, Ottawa, also flowers from many close personal friends.

Prohibition Meeting Is Held In Norwood

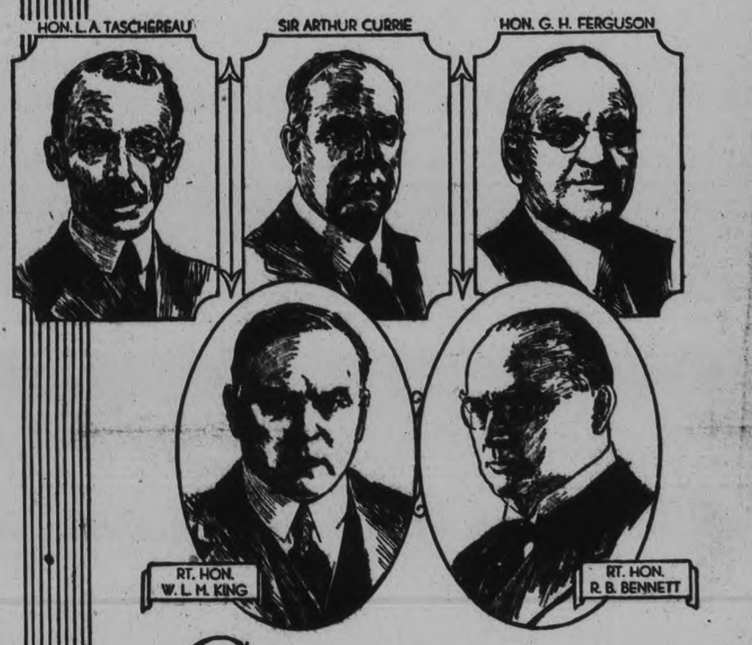
NORWOOD, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — On Wednesday evening in the Sunday School hall of the United Church an enthusiastic joint meeting of the Norwood Prohibition Union and the W.C.T.U. was held at eight o'clock. Mr. John Robb, president of the Union, presided.

Mr. John F. Elliott, the delegate to the Provincial Prohbition Convention held in Toronto in March was to give his report but was unable to be present on account of illness. However, Mr. Elliott had Rev. R. F. Stillman read it in his absence and was a most comprehensive outline of the convention.

Readings were also given by Mrs. Stillman, Mrs. G. A. Brethen and Mrs. Lawlor relating to conditions in the various provinces of Canada under the present system of Government sale of liquor.

Two very pleasing instrumental solos were rendered during the evening by Mrs. C. Renaud and Mrs. Gerald Baker.

Argentina will have a national highway board.



Canada's Leaders Agree

This Investment is a Necessity!

STATESMEN, financiers, churchmen and educationists—known from coast-to-coast for their far-sighted leadership—unanimously commend Life Insurance for its principles of thrift and protection. Read the statements of these five outstanding Canadians:

RT. HON. R. B. BENNETT, Prime Minister of Canada: "Life Insurance in these modern days is a necessity, not a luxury. No man with a sense of his responsibilities to his family and organized society should be without Life Insurance."

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING, Leader of the Opposition: "In this age, it surely is not necessary to endorse the merits of Life Insurance, not only as a means of protection, but as providing a method of systematic saving as well."

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE, Principal and Vice-Chancellor, McGill University: "Of all the institutions that have to do with the welfare of men and women, there is none equal to Life Insurance."

HON. G. HOWARD FERGUSON, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain: "Any business which has as its primary impulse the preservation of the home, the education of children and the care of the aged, must have the admiration of us all. Life Insurance should commend itself to every man of common sense and judgment."

HON. L. A. TASCHEREAU, Premier, Province of Quebec: "Canadians have gradually come to realize that no better protection could be given their families than through Life Insurance."

When Canada's leaders stress the necessity of Life Insurance, it is wisdom on your part to protect the policies you now own and increase your holdings when possible.

CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES

Madoc

Madoc Women's Christian Temperance Union held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Whytock on Thursday afternoon, 14th, Mrs. John McCaffrey presiding.

Oakdale Rebekah Lodge held a very interesting and enjoyable social evening on Thursday, with a good attendance. Contests and games were indulged in and dainty refreshments were served by the members at the close of an amusing program.

FRIEND TOLD HIM ABOUT ALL-BRAN

And It Brought Relief From Constipation

Those who are bothered with constipation should read Mr. Gelpke's unsolicited letter:

"I have suffered with constipation for years. A friend of mine told me to try ALL-BRAN. I have taken ALL-BRAN for the past six weeks as a breakfast food. It has regulated my bowels as clockwork. Now I would not be without a package at all times."—Mr. Leslie Gelpke (address upon request).

Common constipation—with its headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness—is due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines. Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Both are present in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective, ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—serious cases with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Quilting Bee Held At Cordova Mines

CORDOVA MINES, April 18 (Examiner Correspondence) — A delightful afternoon was spent by a number of women in the community at the home of Mrs. Edward Bowen on Thursday last, when two lovely pieced quilts were quilted. Those present were: Mesdames Peacock, Fitzpatrick, Hay, Gilbert Steenburg, Spry, Ellis, Charles Steenburg and Miss Elsie Kennedy. After the work was finished a sumptuous tea was served by the hostess assisted by her daughter, Miss Beatrice Bowen.

During the past week, the roads into Cordova have been almost impassable, due to the heavy rains. Many of the bad spots are now dried up, and traffic back and forth has been resumed.

Toronto Leafs Drop Two Games Over Week-End

SKEETERS WIN FROM DALYMEN BY 7-3 COUNT

"Curly" Ogden, Former Leaf Hurler, Outpitches Cantrell on the Mound.

HERD BEATS KEYS 9-4.

Orioles Continue to Hit Circuits and Defeat Montreal Royals 11-5.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 18.—The Jersey City Skeeters registered their first International League victory of the current season yesterday when they beat the Toronto Maple Leafs, 7-3, in a game played in frigid weather. Warren ("Curly") Ogden had the satisfaction of abolishing his old mates and outpitching Guy Cantrell who earned his pay here in 1925 and 1926 by a fairly wide margin. Ogden claimed six strikeout victims, fanning the fearsome Frank Doljack twice, and after his associates staked him to a three-run lead kept it.

Tom Hughes did his best to get "Curly" out of the frapped fray just before the Pests gave Ogden his three tally advantage, shooting a liner at the Jersey City pitcher in the sixth that caught him on his meat hand and nearly disabled him. Ogden pulled some Spartan athlete stuff after the Skeeters had gathered round to see how bad the injury was, and went back to pitch. He was more effective afterward than before. It probably warmed him up. He was one of the few around the premises who was warm. Hed it been a weekday the game would have been called off on account of cold weather.

Fritz Hits a Home Run

Ogden had almost perfect control, his one lapse coming in the third chapter, when he hit "Hub" Walker. Cantrell franked four men, three of the passes coming in the Jersies' large innings, the first and sixth. In the two rounds Lobert's men, who are wearing 1931 uniforms, rang the scoring gong five times. The Leafs picked up their runs one at a time. Ray Fritz's homer over the centre field fence was the longest seen here this year. It was manufactured the first time Harry Davis's successor batted against Ogden, in the second inning.

Bisons Lead League

By the simple method of hitting the ball oftener and harder than their opponents, the Buffalo Bisons have crashed their way to the top of the International League in the first few days of the season.

Picked as a probable second division team after finishing in the cellar last year, the Bisons, under the expert guidance of their new manager, Ray Schalk, have pounded out four victories in their last five games to tie the Newark Bears for first place in the standing.

The records show that in five games, the Bisons have poled out 58 hits, averaging better than eleven a game, and that 12 of the blows were homers. They took three out of four games from Baltimore, then moved up another notch in the standing by hammering the Reading Keys for a 9—4 victory yesterday. Clayton Van Alstyne's wildness helped them get a three-run start in the first inning and in the third Buck Crouse nicked Nirsci for a homer with two on base to complete the triumph. Joe Bloomer, third Bison pitcher to go the route, allowed eight hits.

Bears Climbing

The Newark Bears gained a half interest in first place by taking a 9-8 decision from the champion Rochester Red Wings, the team with which the Bears were expected to fight for the pennant. Pinky Shoffner, second Newark pitcher, settled the slugfest when he drove a home run into the bleachers with two out in the ninth inning.

The home run epidemic at Baltimore, which produced 17 circuit clouts in the Buffalo series, continued with five more homers as the Orioles defeated the Montreal Royals 11-5. Frank McGowan hit two of them. The Birds won the game in the eighth, when they pounded Brown for six runs to break a tie score.

MARMORA.

Miss Zeta Callery, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Mrs. A. Antoine, of Albany, N. Y., are visiting their mother, Mrs. B. Callery.

Next Monday evening Right Wor. Bro. John Maidens, of Belleville, D.D.G.M., of Prince Edward district, will pay his official visit to Marmora A.F. & A.M., No. 222.

Local ex-service men have been invited to participate in a commemoration service at Stirling United Church on Sunday forenoon, held under auspices of Stirling branch of the Canadian Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smith, Miss Isobel Mace and Miss Eva Inkster, Rev. T. H. Howard and sons, Edwyn and Arthur, Mrs. James Nobes, Jr., and Miss Jean Gladman attended the funeral of Margaret Frost at Warkworth on Wednesday.

MADOC HOCKEY TEAM HONORED

Guests of Community Club Banquet on Thursday Evening.

GOOD PROGRAM

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, April 18.—Madoc Senior Hockey boys were the guests of the Madoc Community club at Blue's hotel on Thursday evening. An attendance of thirty-eight at the banquet assured much interest.

Reports were received regarding the proposed ladies' rest room and other business transacted.

The president, Mr. George West welcomed the members of the hockey club and other visitors. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Father Meagher, who spoke in glowing terms of the work of the past winter, and enlarged on the courage shown by real sportsmen, in contrast with the kind of courage that wants to go out to get the other fellow.

Mr. William Hawthorne gave an original solo, "He Tried to Play Hockey, but He Couldn't Make It Go."

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. Walter Whytock, Reeve and presented to Father Meagher for his address and his work with the hockey club during the past seasons. Mr. Whytock said the parents were always willing to have the boys playing on a team under the management of Father Meagher, as they knew they were in good hands and would benefit by the sport.

The president of the hockey club, Mr. S. S. Ashley, thanked the Community club on behalf of the boys for the invitation extended to them to this banquet.

BOX LACROSSE LEAGUE MOOTED

Attempts Being Made to Establish Teams in Tweed, Madoc, Stirling and Campbellford.

SHOULD BE A SUCCESS.

TWEED, April 18. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—A very small representation of the bowlers turned out for the meeting last week. A little warmer weather and green grass on the local bowling lawn will likely revive the enthusiasm of the local bowlers.

Although the attempt to establish box lacrosse in the autumn was a failure in the district, a meeting should be called in an endeavour to organize the game on a sound footing.

In Western Ontario the game is gaining high recognition and a link-up in Eastern Ontario of Brockville and Cornwall is being made Tweed has all the facilities for playing the game. The rink would be an ideal place and if the proper committees were appointed, it could be put across Formerly Tweed was a great lacrosse centre and there is no reason to believe that the same support could not be gained. A link-up consisting of Tweed, Madoc, Stirling and Campbellford would make a neat, compact group and the travelling expenses would be low. Box lacrosse is a fast, speedy game and it would help to fill in the period between hockey and baseball seasons.

RECRUIT PITCHERS BEATEN BY BEARS

Earl Cook Impresses in Professional Debut After Relieving Butzberger.

NEWARK, N.J., April 18.—Manager Daly of the Toronto Maple Leafs depended upon three youthful pitchers to beat the Bears in the final game of the series here Saturday but only one of the three showed any effectiveness and he arrived too late. The Bears provided with good pitching by Frank Nekola, southpaw, romped to victory by 10 to 3 to take three out of four games from the Leafs.

Harold Jerome Abberbock, the Jewish right-hander, who started for the Leafs, was evidently overcome by stage fright. He failed to show the stuff he is capable of, and when he had trouble locating the plate in the second inning he was derricked in favor of Al Butzberger, the Bay Village, Ohio, southpaw. Butzberger curbed the Bears somewhat for two innings and then he was batted from the box in the sixth when the first four batters to face him hit safely. Earl Cook, former Toronto amateur, then went to the mound and finished the game.

Only ten men faced Cook in three innings. He retired four of them on hoists to left field and struck out another. Four other batters couldn't get the ball out of the infield. The only hit off him was a single through the box by Stevens which drove in the final Newark run in the sixth.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND

SCHUMAKER HOLDS BOSTON CLUB TO TWO CLOUTS AS N. Y. GIANTS COP FIRST VICTORY OF SEASON

Tex Carleton Hurls St. Louis Cardinals to 4-1 Win Over Chicago.

REDS BEATEN 4-3.

Mack Slugmen Drive Three Senator Pitchers Off Mound for 11-3 Win.

(By Herbert W. Barker, Associated Press Sports Writer)

Not since the days before the lively ball first invaded the major leagues have pitchers demonstrated such striking early-season mastery of the batsmen as they have this year.

The season is barely a week old yet the pitchers have written into the records 13 games in which the opposition made not more than five hits.

Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn and Hal Schumacher of the New York Giants have contributed two-hit masterpieces. Vic Sorrel and Earl Whitehill of Detroit and Si Johnston of Cincinnati have pitched three-hit games. Monte Weaver of Washington and Whitlow Wyatt of Detroit have four-hit contests to their credit. The five-hit hurlers include Pat Caraway of the Chicago White Sox, and Dick Coffman and Sam Gray of the St. Louis Browns; Ed. Brandt of the Boston Braves; Ed Holley of the Phillies and Guy Bush of the Chicago Cubs.

Schumacher, young St. Lawrence university graduate, pulled the Giants out of a slump with his excellent effort yesterday and enabled them to beat the braves, 6-0. Johnny Vergez' home run with the bases filled was the big blow in the Giant attack. Urbanski got both of the hits Schumacher allowed.

Holley's five hit performance gave the Phillies a 2-0 triumph over Brooklyn in 11 innings. A single by Chuck Klein, a double by Don Hurst and a triple by Hal Lee decided the duel.

Bush Stops Cards

Bush stopped the world champion St. Louis Cardinals cold and the Cubs won 4-1 with Riggs Stephenson driving in three runs. Pittsburgh scored three runs in the ninth to beat Cincinnati, 4-3, in the other National League game of the day.

In the American League, St. Louis nosed out the Detroit Tigers 1-0, although Vic Sorrell allowed only three hits. A pass to Goslin, followed by a sacrifice and Kress' single produced the winning run in the eighth. Coffman gave the Tigers five scattered singles.

George Earnshaw fanned 12 men as the Philadelphia Athletics trounced Washington, 11-3. The A's drove Fred Marberry out of the box in the fourth inning and battered three other Senator hurlers over the rest of the route. Jimmy Fox hit his third homer of the season.

Cleveland stopped the Chicago White Sox, 6-1, on a six hit pitching performance by old George Connally, a White Sox castoff. Willie Kamm, another former White Sox star, collected three hits, was walked twice, drove in four runs and scored another.

Cold weather forced postponement of the New York Yankees-Boston Red Sox game at Boston and gave Babe Ruth a chance to come down with an attack of grippe. The Babe did not expect to travel with the team for an exhibition game at Springfield today but probably will start in the double-header scheduled for Tuesday.

Yesterday's Stars

Ed Holley, Phillies—Stopped Brooklyn with five hits and won 2-0, in 11 innings.

Jimmy Foxx, Athletics—Drove in three runs with homer and two singles against Washington.

Guy Bush, Cubs— Granted Cardinals five hits and won easily, 4-1.

FUSILIERS LOSE TO WALKERVILLE

Windsor Cagers Win Round 57 to 39—Raymond Union Jacks Beat Saskatchewan Varsity.

TORONTO, April 18 (C.P.). — Four teams remain in the hunt today for Canadian senior basketball laurels. Montreal Fusiliers, speedy Quebec champions and University of Saskatchewan, holders of the Saskatchewan title, were singled from the roles over the week-end with their second losses on round series.

Raymond Union Jacks, perennial Alberta champions, once again advanced to the Western Canada final over Saskatchewan Varsity in two nights. Trouncing the speedy Saskatchewans 55-21 in the first game of the total-point series, the villagers from Alberta duplicated their feat on Saturday with a sparkling 56-21 victory which gave them the round, 111-42. They will now meet Winnipeg Toilers in the Canadian semi-final.

Edging out a 27-26 victory over Montreal Fusiliers in a bitterly-fought struggle on Saturday night, Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, senior monarchs of Ontario, qualified to meet St. John Trojans, Maritime representatives in the Eastern Canadian semi-finals. By virtue of their 30-18 victory in the first game, the flashy Border sextette captured the two-game round 57-44.

Edmonton Grads, women's champions of Canada, again appear on the threshold of another Dominion title. Turning back the challenge of Nimble Witches from Vancouver on Saturday, to the tune of 98-55, Grads captured the two-game point series 198-101.

Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, Ontario senior champions, will carry a 12-point lead into the second game of the Eastern Canada women's basketball finals in Montreal on Monday following their 32-20 victory over the Young Women's Hebrew Association of Montreal.

Larry Gains, champion Canadian heavyweight boxer and British Empire titleholders, will have plenty of trouble in disposing of Muller in his next fight.

Muller is no set-up. The German is champion of Europe. Facially he bears a striking resemblance to Ted Kid Lewis. The likeness is really startling. Similar to the dashing, crashing Kid, Muller is an instinctive battler.

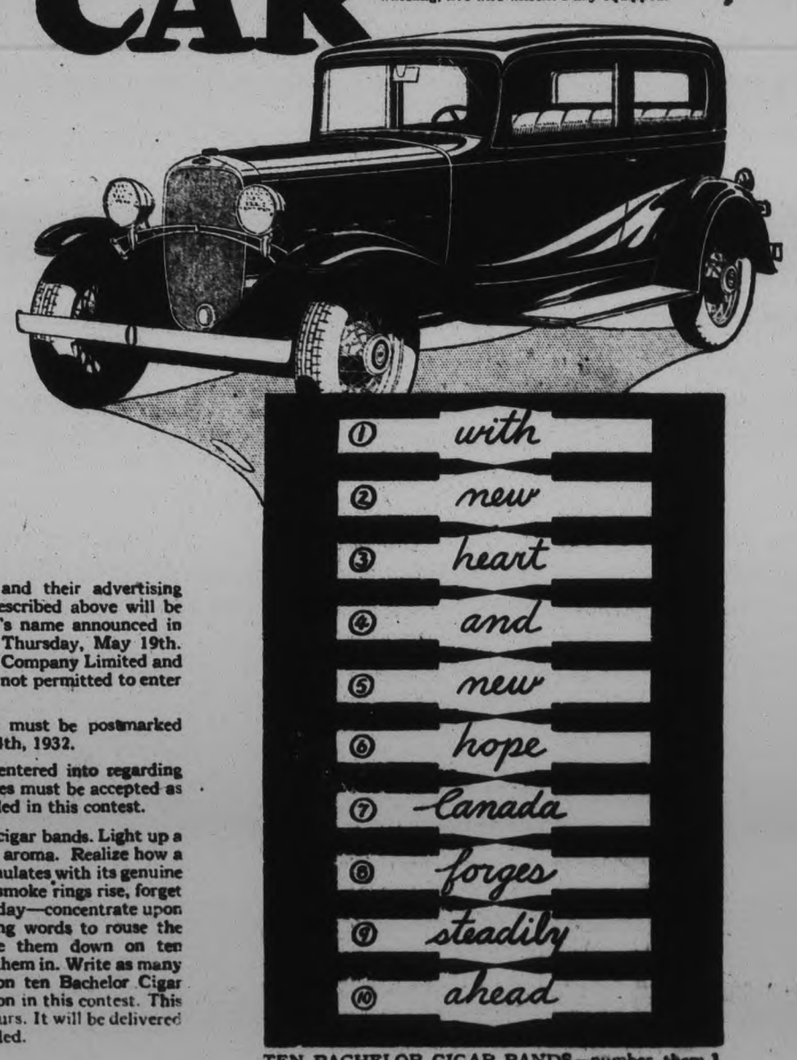
He bewildered Reggie Meen. The right hook delivery which opened a gash over Meen's eye was a corker.

However, Meen was easy to beat. I could name half a dozen heavyweights who would have done what Muller performed that night. Meens was not in the best of condition. He was so painfully slow that it made the movements of the German seem speedy as a young deer. Gains will be well advised to give more serious attention to his preparations.

WIN THIS CAR

with TEN words on TEN Bachelor Cigar Bands IN BACHELOR'S Great "Forward-to-Prosperity" Slogan Contest

New 1932 six cylinder five-passenger Chevrolet Coach; with Fisher body, silent synchro-mesh gear-shift, free-wheeling, five wire wheels. Fully equipped.



TEN BACHELOR CIGAR BANDS—number them 1 to 10 (ten words) this is the way to send in your slogan. Write as many slogans as you like. Sample slogan shown.

THE makers of Bachelor Cigars believe in optimism. To encourage the optimistic viewpoint in Canada, and to help progress towards prosperity, Bachelor Cigars will give away on Thursday, May 19th, a brand new 1932 model Chevrolet Coach, to the writer of the best ten-word slogan to stir Canadians and to turn the mind of the nation towards prosperity.

Here is how:

(1) Write a slogan in ten words exactly, no more, no less. The slogan should be a phrase or sentence typifying the spirit which will win prosperity for Canadians No mention of the name Bachelor is necessary. "With New Heart and New Hope, All Canada Forges Ahead" is a slogan in ten words of the type required for the "Forward-to-Prosperity" Contest.

(2) Write out your slogan on ten Bachelor Cigar bands as illustrated on the right—one word on each band—number the bands in their correct order, and mail to:—"Forward-to-Prosperity" Contest, P.O. Box 548 Toronto. The sole judges will be the officers of Andrew Wilson & Company Limited and their advertising associates. One automobile as described above will be given away free and the winner's name announced in Bachelor radio advertising on Thursday, May 19th. Employees of Andrew Wilson & Company Limited and their Advertising Associates are not permitted to enter this contest.

(3) To win this car, your entry must be postmarked not later than midnight, May 14th, 1932.

(4) No correspondence will be entered into regarding entries. The decision of the judges must be accepted as final. Only one car will be awarded in this contest.

Buy Bachelors today. Save the cigar bands. Light up a Bachelor—enjoy its rich, good aroma. Realize how a really fine cigar soothes and stimulates with its genuine pleasure-giving quality. As the smoke rings rise, forget the bothersome worries of the day—concentrate upon the future—think of ten stirring words to rouse the nation to greater effort. Write them down on ten Bachelor Cigar bands and send them in. Write as many slogans as you like. Ten words on ten Bachelor Cigar bands. That is the only condition in this contest. This fine Chevrolet Coach may be yours. It will be delivered free to your door—license included.

PRIMEAU'S BEATEN BY 27-22 COUNT IN SUDDEN DEATH TILT

Heavy Offensive By Losers in Final Frame Fails to Cut Down Lead.

CLEAN PLAYING.

The "Y" Senior Basketball Championship and the Cressman Cup go to Riley & Hickey's this year, as curtains were rung down on the cage season Saturday night. The champs captured the honors in a sudden-death play-off game with Primeau's, taking the heavier side of a 27 to 22 count, before a good crowd of fans in the Y.M.C.A. gym.

It was another of those fast, close battles put on between the rival clothier teams, the fighting Fashion-Crafters staging a hard finish to threaten to overhaul the winners' early lead. Despite the speedy clip and close defensive tactics, the game was comparatively clean, although the R. & H. squad scored their five-point margin on penalty throws.

They stepped lively from the first whistle, the downtown crew finding the mark pretty regularly, led by Levine and Swartz. The score at half-time was 20-10 for Riley's, with Levine counting ten points, Swartz eight and Stanger two; Armstrong getting six for the Fashion-Crafters, Taylor and Routly two apiece. In this half, the ultimate victors looked superior both offensively and defensively, and outplayed their opponents by a good margin.

Play Fast Game

For a space in the second chapter, play was about even, and fairly fast. Then the Primeaumen opened a drive that kept their rivals on the jump to hold them, outscoring Riley & Hickey's, 12 to 7. They dropped in five clean baskets and two free tosses, while the Riley boys could only hoop the ball twice, though snaring three penalty tries. For the latter, Levine and Kitchen got three points apiece in this half, with Stanger getting one. The Primeau snipers were Chesler and Armstrong with four points each, Ward with three, and McKeagan one. Good checking held the losers off until the last whistle.

The most effective players on the champions' outfit were Levine and Swartz, the former being chief scorer with thirteen points. Stanger and Kitchen worked hard on attacks while both Mott and Sager turned in some fine checking efforts. Armstrong led the Fashion-Craft quintet with ten points, and his teammates, Ward and Chesler, also looked good. The others fought hard in the last half, too, and the whole team deserved credit for their game spirit right up to the finish. The teams:—

Primeau's Fashion-Craft. — McKeagan, Routly, Chesler, Ward, Smith, Armstrong and Taylor.

Riley & Hickey's.—Levine, Mott, Stanger, Kitchen, Swartz and Sager.

Rifle Shoot Results.

PETERBOROUGH RIFLE CLUB.

The shoot last week was marked by a small attendance of members. What it lacked in attendance was made up in enthusiasm and keen competition, McGrath and Clement winning high place on the two events carried out. Wainwright was a close second in both events:

LINDSAY DETOUR IS OPEN AGAIN

Town Council in Secret Session Opposes Amendment to Criminal Code.

YOUTH IS FINED.

LINDSAY, April 18.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The now famous detour round the bend of the Scugog and on the Lindsay-Peterborough Highway is opened for light traffic "at drivers' risk". So stated a Highways Department official today. Those who become mired, however, will be pulled out by workers at no expense. Trucks will be kept off the road until it is in good condition for traffic.

A district meeting of the Rebekahs was held in the Oddfellows' Temple here on Thursday with a goodly attendance of delegates. District Deputy Mrs. C. L. Davidson of Lindsay presided. Among the outside delegates present were Mrs. Londerville, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Sisson of Peterborough and Mrs. Easterbrook and Miss Williams of Havelock.

The town council at one of its secret sessions Thursday night placed itself on record as being opposed to the proposal now before the House of Commons to amend the Criminal Code so that certain fines now paid the municipalities will go to the province. Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., has been asked to place the protest before the Minister of Justice.

Believed to be the go-between for a Lindsay man named Matthewson, now remanded for sentence as a moonshine retailer, and James Lawler, of Cambray, a convicted moonshiner, Clarence Spencely of the latter place faced two charges in police court yesterday. On the charge of intoxication he was fined $15.00 and costs, and was remanded on the charge of the theft of a quantity of maple syrup. Spenceley is only seventeen years of age, and County Crown Attorney Anderson said the boy was "taking the fall" for others who had deserted him when in trouble.

Yesterday morning two coach loads of laborers employed on the Coboconk-Dorset Highway arrived in Lindsay from Minden. It is understood that the work on the highway will cease at the end of the month. There is an unconfirmed report in circulation to the effect that work on the road will be resumed during the summer.

A conference of representatives of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. Express Companies was held in Lindsay this week when topics along co-operative lines were discussed. Prominent officials of the respective companies were present.

Mrs. Martha York of Fenelon Falls, mother of Martha York, of Peterborough, passed away at the Ross Memorial Hospital, here in her sixty-seventh year. The deceased had been in ill health prior to her removal to the hospital two weeks ago. Pneumonia was the immediate cause of her death.

Miss Iva McBride of the staff of the Brooklyn Hospital, New York, was laid to rest in the Verulam cemetery on Wednesday. The cause of death was septic sore throat. The deceased, on the death of her mother, had resided with her aunt at Bobcaygeon, before entering the hospital.

McNAMARA-HORN LEAD AT MONTREAL

Sixth Semi-annual Bicycle Grind Opens in Quebec City This Morning.

MONTREAL, April 18. (C.P.) — Pedalling strongly, the team of Regie McNamara and Horace Horan, New York, were out in front at the end of the first eight hours of Montreal's sixth semi-annual six day bicycle race. The long grind began one minute after midnight this morning as Mayor Fernand Rinfret fired the starting pistol. The race ends at 11 p.m. next Saturday night.

The New York team was swinging around steadily and apparently making little attempt to pick up sprint honors. Alfred Letourner, France and Henry LePage, Montreal, were high point scorers with 23, having won four sprints. McNamara and Horan received 9 points.

The positions at 8 a.m., after 168 miles and 9 laps had been covered:

Reggie McNamara and Horace Horan, New York, 9 points; Alfred Letourner, France, Henry LePage, Montreal, 23 points; Bernhard Stubecke, Germany, Maurice Declera, Belgium, 14 points; Al Crossley and Frank Bartell, Boston, 4 points; W. ("Torch") Peden, Victoria, Jules Audy, Montreal, 18 points; Tony Frits, Montreal; Harold Davis, Vancouver, 13 points; Godfrey Parrot, Ireland, Oswald Van Den Abelle, Belgium, 12 points; Pierre Gachon and Laurent Gadou, Montreal, 4 points; Lew Eder, Toronto, Freddie Zach, Verdun, Que., 10 points; Reggie Fielding, Toronto, Saveer Van Slambrouck, Belgium, 13 points; Fiorvanti Baggio and Tony Schaller, Italy, 10 points; R. and M. Boogmans, Belgium, (brothers), 10 points.

BLAZE IS THWARTED.

NELSON, B.C., April 18 (C.P.).—An attempt was made during the week-end to burn down the sawmill of the Christian Communists of the Universal Brotherhood Doukhobors at Pass Creek. A watchman discovered the fire and extinguished it before it had gained much headway. Cans of gasoline were used to start the blaze.

AMATEUR BOXING

Dear Editor:

I would like a little space in your columns to say something about the boxing bouts that have been run in this city. I have been attending them this season and think it is a good thing for the young men to get into.

Roy Hope is coming on fine but why not put him with some other good lightweight. Len Minicola would be a good opponent I think: if he beats him then bring some cutsider.

I would like to know if it seems fair for an instructor of the club that is running the fight to act as referee. And according to Saturday's paper, said referee got peeved: well he is not in there to get peeved, he's there to see fair play and good clean, hard fighting and when they don't follow his instructions he should make them leave the ring and not try to get in the fight himself. Nothing would spoil the game any faster here than that.

I think it would be a good idea if prizes were donated for the winners of each bout. The merchants of the city would gladly give some little thing, I'm sure.

Why not run open air bouts during the summer at twenty-five cents a head, ladies free.

Hoping this appears in your valuable page and thanking you,

I'm Just a Fight Fan.

OTTAWA CAPTURES JUNIOR PLAY-OFF

Lizzies Win Second Game 30 to 29, but Lose on Round 63-58.

OTTAWA, April 18. — Ottawa Glebe Collegiate won the junior basketball title for the fourth time in seven years Saturday night when they defeated Toronto Elizabeths, 68 to 58, in the two game series. Lizzies eked out a 30-to-29 victory over the Glebe quintette Saturday, but the six-point lead obtained by the High School players Friday when they defeated the Torontonians 34 to 28 gave them the margin of victory.

The win also marked the fifth time the junior basketball crown has been in Ottawa during the last seven years. Besides Glebe, Ottawa Britannias captured it once and Toronto Elizabeths and Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. have each held it for a year.

Saturday night's game saw basketball of the highest calibre played by both teams. The Elizabeths put up a fight that made the game one that will be remembered here for a long time. They were thwarted only by the individual brilliancy of Bill Cowey, hockey star and all-around athlete, whose great performance gave victory to a team that on Saturday night were outplayed nearly all the way on floor play and speed, though their defence never faltered.

The annual value of Quebec's gold production has multiplied over 80 times in five years, or from 3,980 ounces worth $77,072 in 1927 to 300,877 ounces valued at $5,219,679 in 1931.

HOME AND SCHOOL ASSOCIATION NEWS

Confederation School

An open meeting of the Home and School association was held in Confederation School on Friday evening.

Mrs. T. Monk, president, introduced Mrs. Wand who was the guest speaker of the evening. Mrs. Wand gave an interesting and concise account of several important points from her report of the annual convention which she attended in Toronto as a delegate last month.

In referring to the associations or "clubs" as the larger associations are called, the speaker stated that they were composed of members who are banded together to serve both home and community. They must draw past the leader to the cause. The founder of Home and School associations in Ontario was Mrs. Courtice, and a founder's day was being arranged for in Toronto this year several organizations were mentioned with small beginnings which have now large memberships. One which started with seven members now has 66. Each department should have its own convenor, that of the League of Nations being a very important one.

Parent education is the great need of today. Parents should try to build stepping stones not stumbling blocks in the way. Recreation is important. Leisure should be used wisely, and games introduced in the home, in which the fathers also can be interested.

Music was considered an agreeable necessity to school life, as being uplifting in its effects. The Bronte school choir under the direction of their leader Mrs. Russell had delighted the delegates with their singing, and it had been said that if such a choir could be sent to Geneva every year, there would be no need for "disarmaments." A music scrap book was recommended.

A very enjoyable program was provided, the items being as follows:

Piano solo, Miss C. Milby; vocal trio, Misses E. Pilling, M. Harrington and McFarlane; reading, Miss G. Parnell; piano solo, Miss E. Shaw; song, Miss Geneva Sedgwick; duet, cello and piano, Messrs Seymour and Shaw; reading, Miss G. Brand; vocal duet, Viola Edwards and Evelyn Ranger; selection on hand bells, Mrs. R. C. Braund; song (Humoresque) Mrs. B. McKinley; accordian selections, Mr. A. Pooley; piano solo, Mr. Shaw.

A hearty vote of thanks to the artists was proposed on the motion of Mesdames Anderson and Jackson. The president extended the thanks of the gathering to the chairman and also to Mr. Shaw who had kindly donated Ovaltine to be supplied to all present at the close of the meeting. After the singing of the National Anthem dainty refreshments with Ovaltine were served by the members.

GAINS SPLINTERS THUMB.

LONDON, April 18 (C.P. Cable).—Larry Gains, Toronto Negro and heavyweight boxing champion of the British Empire, splintered a thumb on his left hand and was forced today to withdraw from the bout with Heine Mueller, German heavyweight champion, scheduled for the Albert Hall on Thursday. Dan McCorkindale, South African champion, recently defeated by Gains on points, will substitute for the Canadian.

THREE TORONTO SCRAPPERS HERE

Will Take Part in Pioneer Club Boxing Show on Wednesday Night.

MINICOLAS ON CARD.

Three topnotchers in the amateur boxing game around Toronto have been procured by Jerry Coughlin for his Pioneer A. C. show at the Legion Hall Wednesday night. They are Billy Hughes, Ed Delhaney and Mel Allen, and will fight Tony Minicola, Fred DeCarlo and Ned Minicola in that order. The remainder of the card is to be made up of good local boys, and will be announced to-morrow.

The headliner will be the Hughes-Tony Minicola return scrap, the latter having lost a close decision to Billy in the Ontario trials in Toronto last week. Tony was leading on points and keeping right on top of Hughes throughout, but was dropped for a short count in the third and lost the nod. Hughes, who was the Ontario featherweight champion last year, qualified for the finals in Hamilton. Tony is confident he can beat the smooth Billy down here.

Fred DeCarlo is matched with a good boy in Ed Delhaney, a fast, shifty welterweight who gives fans a great show with his flashy, colorful type of battling. Fred has shown he can take punishment to get in close for his devastating short body hooks, so this bout ought to be packed with speed and hard fighting.

Mel Allen is matched with Ned Minicola, who was outpointed by Corporal Patrick in Toronto last week, although it was so close that Duke McGarry, one of the judges, said after the fight he thought Ned had an edge. Patrick then defeated Pidgeon and staged a great argument with Carnegie who got the duke. Mel Allen holds decisions over both Carnegie and Frankie Steffan, outstanding Queen City welter, and practically every other amateur in that class in the city. He is fast, clever, can absorb punishment and hits hard as well. He and Ned should put up a fine fight Wednesday evening.

CASUAL COMMENT

The call to arms is out for senior ball players once again, with the first indoor workout of the spring set for this Wednesday night at seven in the "Y". Manager Art Primeau wants all senior prospects in the city out for the hour drill, bringing gloves along as they'll toss the ball around and loosen up generally.

• • • • • • •

We understand there are several newcomers in town who may try out for places, including a couple of former intermediate players from Milton. And "Toots" Ward, late of Kitchener, Toronto and Oshawa, is back here again where he learned his baseball. He may be out with the boys once more, taking his healthly cut at the pill. Two good boys who made names for themselves in City League hurling are thinking of making a try for berths on the Petes' pitching staff this summer.

• • • • • • •

Both Kingston and Cobourg are wasting no time in getting players lined up and will be pretty well set by the C.O.B.I. meeting in the Limestone town the last of this month. Belleville, as usual, is slow starting, but will be right in there when the time comes. Harry Mills will be back on first this year most likely, and the Nationals' board of strategy, Walter Gerow, "Peeny" Mills and "Shiner" Johnston, won't do opposing managers' nerves a bit of good.

• • • • • • •

At eight bells Wednesday evening, the East Peterborough Baseball League meets in the Board Room at Duffus', and any one interested is invited to attend. The loop officers want to get the dope on the different teams and their plans for this year, and some revolutionary changes in some of the outfits are expected.

• • • • • • •

The Lakeshore District will probably have Intermediate "B" baseball if present plans go through. Port Hope, Bailieboro, Bethany and Orono are the teams in question under the promotion of Orme Gamsby, who figures they are not strong enough for Intermediate "A" class.

• • • • • • •

This morning's mail brings the announcement that President Bob Colling has set the date of the C.O.B.I. meeting for April 23rd at three in the afternoon in the Kingston Council Chambers. The entrance fee of twenty dollars must be paid at this time and the election of officers for 1932 will be held.

• • • • • • •

Some of the other business to be settled is the question of umpires, opening date of the league, adoption of a suitable schedule, signing certificates, etc. The senior blank certificates for this town will arrive here in a day or two. Representatives from Peterborough to attend the meeting are Bill Kay, Vic Hamilton and Max Swanston.

• • • • • • •

The annual banquet of the Cognawaga A. C. is being held in the Sunday School Hall of St. James' United Church this evening at 6.45. It is given to the baseball team, the hockey players and the play cast as an expression of appreciation for their time and talent during the past year.

• • • • • • •

The three Toronto fighters who will take part in the Pioneer A. C. boxing show at the Legion Hall Wednesday evening are Billy Hughes, Edward Delhaney and Mel Allen, all well-known amateur pugs. The former meets Tony Minicola in the main bout, it being a return scrap. Last week, Tony lost a hairline decision to Billy who qualified for the Ontario finals in Hamilton. He was the 126 pound champ last year. Tony thinks he can take Hughes down here.

• • • • • • •

Ed Delaney is a very flashy welter, at least as colorful as Frank Pidgeon, and he and Fred DeCarlo should put on a whale of a battle. Mel Allen scarcely needs any introduction to fight fans of the province. He has boxed them all, holding a decision over Eric Carnegie, the colored boy who won the welter semi-finals, over Frankie Steffan, who is looked on as the best welter in Toronto, and a flock of others. He fights Ned Minicola who lost by a toss-up decision to Corporal Patrick in Toronto last week. Patrick later boxing Frank Pidgeon dizzy in three rounds and then losing to Carnegie. The rest of the card will be made up of good local scrappers.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 18 (C.P.)—Imports into Canada exceeded exports during March, 1932, by $16,906,278, but a favorable trade balance of $8,584,784 was maintained for the twelve months period ended March 31, 1932, according to figures issued by the Department of National Revenue.

Total exports for the year ended March 31 last were $587,565,517, as compared with $617,026,048 during the twelve-month period ended March 31, 1931, when there was an unfavorable trade balance of $89,553,623.

Exports during March last totalled $41,018,757 as compared with $56,296,536, March, 1931, when the unfavorable balance was $19,054,534. Imports during March last were $57,923,035 as compared with $75,349,854 in March, 1931.

Motor Car Damages Hughes' Garage Wall

A motor car ran wild at the corner of Hunter and Water streets at 6.45 last evening, racing across the road, jumping over the curb and coming to a stop against the brick wall of J. K. Hughes' garage. Considerable damage was done to the garage wall, the car was damaged, and the driver, a woman, suffering from shock and cuts was removed to her home under a doctor's care.

The car was turning south on to Water street off Hunter street when its driver lost control. The car struck the signal pole on the south-west corner of the intersection, then careened across the street, jumped the curb and crashed into the stout brick wall of the garage.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

JERRY HAS TO LEAVE

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

What must be must surely be;
So don't kick, but just agree.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Jerry Muskrat has a lot of good old-fashioned common sense. He believes in doing the best he can and letting it go at that. "Some things just have to be and all the worrying in the world will not stop them or help matters," says he. "We must accept them as they are and make the best of them."

When Jerry built his house in the Smiling Pool he built it as well as he knew how. He made the foundations strong and he built the walls carefully. He knew that when Mistress Spring arrived and melted the snow in the Green Forest and on the Great Mountain back of the Green Forest the water would run into the Laughing Brook and the latter would swell and swell until it was out of its banks and the Smiling Pool would do the same thing. He hoped when he built the house, and he had hoped all winter as he lived in it, that there would not be a great flood and that he would not be driven out of his house. But he knew it might happen and he had planned just what to do if it did happen.

Now it was actually happening. For two days rain had fallen almost steadily and the water had risen in the Smiling Pool. Now it was beginning to creep across the floor of his bedroom. If it should keep on rising it would fill that bedroom, and of course he couldn't stay in there with no air to breathe. Anxiously Jerry watched the water creep across the floor until the latter was quite covered. Then slowly but surely it rose higher and higher.

Jerry sighed. "I cannot stay here any longer," said he. "If I do I surely will be drowned. I will go over to my other house in the bank. I hope the water will not drive me out of there."

He drew a long breath, dived into the under-water hall that led out to the bottom of the Smiling Pool, swam out this and then up the surface of the Smiling Pool, which was not smiling at all now but had rather an ugly look. Jerry looked around. He shook his head. "It looks bad," said he. "Yes sir, it looks bad. It looks as if we are in for a bad flood. If the water gets over the banks so as to cover the Green Meadows my other house will do me no good. Well, I won't worry about that until the time comes."

"There is nothing like being prepared for the worst," said he

So Jerry swam to the highest bank of the Smiling Pool, and although the distance was short he was tired when he got there. You see the current was very swift, far swifter than he had thought it would be, and he had found that it was all he could do, swimming his very best, to make headway against it. Here by the bank it was not so swift. He dived to the entrance to his long hall at the bottom of the Smiling Pool. Of course it was filled with water. The hall slanted up and Jerry, holding his breath, swam up. At last there was no water. Just a little way beyond and just under the sod of the Green Meadows was a comfortable bedroom made for just such a time as this.

Jerry sighed with thankfulness. "There is nothing like being prepared for the worst," said he. "The worst may never happen, but if it does and you are prepared for it you are just that much better off than those who are not prepared for it. Now that nice house of mine in the Smiling Pool may not be washed away, but on the other hand it may. If it is I still have this home and this one cannot be washed away. It was a lot of work to dig it, but I am glad I did. Yes, sir, I am glad I did. I don't believe the water will get up in here. I'll rest and take a short nap and then go out and see what is happening."

STONEWALL JACKSON CIGARS

What To-Day Means To You

"ARIES"

If April 18th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to noon, from 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 8:15 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., and from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

There are only minor astrological indications for April 18th, and life will probably slip forward in its usual grooves with little change in thought or action. Your role will be that of a disinterested onlooker, rather than that of a more active player inside the game of life.

The child born on this April 18th will not be an athletic, sporty type, and if a girl, will especially be old-fashioned and domestic. The April 18th boy will be a straight-backed, sturdy and upright, and a most dependable, likeable little man. Their complete horoscope is a very pleasing one.

Born on April 18th, you have a brusque, impulsive, forceful nature and plunge into things with no preamble. Once having made up your mind, you dismiss all thoughts to the contrary with dispatch and finality, pursuing your chosen path to either a glorious success or a courageous failure. You have the sense and grit to grapple with your ordeals face to face and on the spot. You would rather put up with the bad taste of a drastic remedy as a cure for some disturbing element than to chronically poison your system through harboring bad memories from a distance.

You do a lot of grousing and grumbling, which is seldom symptomatic of anything more radical than letting off steam. It is your safety valve and your associates soon realize that yours is a harmless bark. If you be a man you are afraid of being thought weak to show sentimentality, but no mask can conceal the real tenderness and softness which dwells in your heart for certain people or things. Animals, too, know that you are no one of whom to be afraid.

You would be happier as your own boss than being the salaried help of another. Working under someone else would cramp your style, kill your spirit and lower your efficiency, although nothing could ever make you an unskilled workman. You will laugh at love until Mister or Miss Right (man or woman) comes along.

WILLINGDON TRAVELS TO PESHAWAR BY AIR

These changes include conferring the status of a Governor's province on the northwest frontier province, the creation of a legislative council of 28 elected and 12 nominated members, and subsidiary steps which will make the northwest frontier province subject to any reforms applicable to other provinces of British India in the carrying out of the scheme for greater self-government.

HUNT CAUSE OF BLAST

COLUMBUS—Investigators hunted additional evidence today to establish whether the terrific explosion in Ohio's new $6,000,000 state office building, Thursday, was a criminal act or an accident.

With eight men dead, scores injured, and a heavy property damage, from the explosion, Governor George White promised drastic punishment if it is found the work of vandals.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Severe Headaches Pimples on Face

Miss Marie L. C. Blackwell, Gunn, Alta., writes:—"For two years I suffered from severe headaches, and pimples on my face.

My headaches seemed incurable, and I thought the pimples would never disappear.

A friend recommended Burdock Blood Bitters, and on trying a bottle I found the headaches disappear, and I am not bothered any more with the pimples."

BIG CAMPAIGN BEING PLANNED

Clean-up, Paint-up, Give-a-Man-a-Job Campaign Planned.

APRIL 30 TO MAY 17.

Arrangements for the "Clean-up, Paint-up, Give-a-Man-a-Job" campaign sponsored by the Retail Merchant's section of the local Chamber of Commerce, and which is to be held during the week of April 30 to May 7 inclusive, are well under way.

Fifteen manufacturers, mainly of household cleaning products, have already been approached through the Chamber of Commerce with a view to sending to this city decorated trucks or calliopes or anything calculated to arouse an interest in the campaign on the part of the general shopping public.

Local citizens are also asked to request their "help" requirements through The Examiner in co-operation with the Government Employment Bureau, in an effort to place as many unemployed men as possible in some employment during the week of the campaign.

A further meeting of the committee in charge of W. H. Freel, chairman of the Retail Merchant's Section is called for Wednesday of this week at 7.30 p.m.

FENELLA

Mrs. Robert Jibb, Fenella, quietly celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday, on April 12, at the home of her son, W. J. Jibb, Fenella, with whom she resides. Mrs. Jibb is enjoying excellent health, and takes a keen interest in the events of the day. Many messages of congratulation were received by Mrs. Jibb, in honor of this event.

C.G.I.T. SERVICE AT ST. PAUL'S

Conference Church Service Was Addressed by Miss Griffiths.

GIRLS' CHOIR.

St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was the scene of the C.G.I.T. Conference church service yesterday morning. The congregation was large, and with many young people mingling with the older folks, there was something unusual in the way of a morning service to please and satisfy.

The choir loft was filled with about sixty C.G.I.T. girls, each attired in white middy, blue collar, skirt and beret, and their appearance was a bright touch to that part of the church. While the girls occupied the choir loft, the church choir was delegated to the gallery, and from both choirs the singing was led, with Martin B. Chenhall at the organ console.

The program drawn up was carried out principally by the girls, under the tuition of Mrs. John A. McKone, and was opened by the choir of girls singing the chorus, "At Our Father's Throne"; a reading of Scripture by Rev. A. T. Barr, pastor of the church, followed by the New Testament lesson read by Miss Jean McKone. Prayer was offered up by Verna Heffernan; a solo by Isabel Weddell. A duet was rendered by Eleanor Brown and Ola Gillespie; and the theme poem, recited by Helen Heffernan. "I Would Be True," chimes accompaniment being played by Mr. Chenhall on the organ.

Address by Miss Griffiths.

The speaker for the occasion was Miss Griffiths, of the National Girls' Work Board, Toronto, who, after an introduction by Jean McKone, proceeded to elaborate upon the question of the training of girls, with th injunction to "love one another," a subject, she said, which was approached with fear and trembling in view of the present-day conditions, depression and stringency. Girls were in a class which called for the care and best judgment of those who would be their leaders, to advise them on the paths of uprightness, integrity and sound thinking. There were three momentous periods in the world's history—periods when so much depended upon public opinion which led to the solution of many problems—the Reformation period in countries of Western Europe, when destiny was shaped along religious lines, second, the Great War implicated many nations, but not the whole world so far as actual participation was concerned; so much again depended on the outcome of the struggle; and thirdly, the past three years of anxiety and unrest, which girls were called upon to share, and demanded will power to show stamina and common sense, and steer clear of many pitfalls and dangers, and these were warded off by the girls becoming associated with C.G.I.T. and other groups, receiving a religious training and having a closer grip on life's worth-while problems.

Christ the Great Expert.

Proceeding, Miss Griffiths referred to experts in business to-day, with their speeding-up methods and plans for boosting production; but we forget that the greatest expert of 1932 years ago, was, and is to-day, Jesus Christ. He knew our faults and failings, and with greater faith and trust in Him we should have no doubt of His help in our time of need. We are living in an age of scientific advance, with the telephone and radio cutting down distance around the world. With this progress must be studied girl training along the lines best suited for the needs of the day; it is full of possibilities; there is so much to learn, so much to teach, to give them instruction as to daily conduct, proper modes of living, and get them into a closer walk with God and His divine will. Our duty is to follow the Master and show an attitude towards justice in our judgment of all persons. Christ Jesus, said Miss Griffiths, knows what we are best equipped for in life, as no one else can know; and we should believe the best in others as He sees in us all. There is in each one a characteristic of the beauty of the pearl, exhibited in our good deeds day by day. Let us beware of the quicksands along life's pathway, build our standards on God and His love, because Jesus wants us to become His ambassadors.

Miss Griffiths' concluding words of an interesting and timely address were: "Love one another, even as I have loved you," words of Jesus as found in St. John's Gospel, 15.

Ushers were drawn from the ranks of the C.G.I.T., and there were also present representatives from the Girl Guides of the city. Miss McCarthy, of the Girls' Work Board, Toronto, was also present.

The congregation joined in the hymn, Blest be the tie that binds," with the benediction by Rev. Dr. Barr, and Flag-bearers Joan Andrews, Alicia Langley, and Lily Bull taking the Union Jack up to the Communion table, the singing of the National Anthem concluding the service.

LIFFORD LINE.

Mrs. Ernest Corneil, of Niagara Falls, has been the recent guest of her sister, Mrs. Clare Staples, expecting her husband to arrive for the week-end and to return to her home with him.

The "Brick Corners" School was closed at the early part of the week owing to the illness of the teacher, Mr. P. Hamilton.

The April meeting of the Women's Guild in connection with St. Mary's Church, Lifford Line, which was to have been held at the home of Mrs. O. H. McGill on Thursday afternoon for the purpose of quilting a handsome quilt prepared by the ladies during the winter months, has been postponed until next month when it is hoped weather and roads will permit the ladies to meet conveniently.

Mr. Richard Wilson motored to Oshawa on Tuesday in company with Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, of Yelverton, in order to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith. Of recent years Mrs. Smith has resided with her son on a farm near Oshawa, her husband having predeceased her eighteen years ago. The late Mrs. Smith is survived by one sister, Mrs. McLaughlin, and two brothers, Richard Evans of Lindsay and Ephram Evans of Orono.

Gas in Upper Bowel Makes People Nervous

Nervousness and bad sleep are both caused by gas in upper bowel. Soda, magnesia, or "stomach tablets" do not reach it. They act on stomach alone.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 73

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Luvini, making a detour, crept through the dense underbrush to the rear of the camp. The din of his blacks arose to deafening proportions, as they sought to keep the Waziri occupied. Then there dropped suddenly to the ground before the two white women the figure of a white giant, naked except for loin cloth and leopard skin, his god-like contour picked out by the light of the beast fires.

"John!" exclaimed Lady Greystoke. "Thank God, it is YOU!" The white man placed a forefinger to his lips in a warning gesture. Then suddenly he wheeled upon Flora Hawkes. "It is you I want," he cried. Seizing the girl, he threw her lightly across his shoulder. Before Lady Greystoke realized what had happened, the figure leaped the boma wall and disappeared into the jungle beyond.

For a moment Jane Clayton stood reeling as one stunned by an unexpected blow. Then with a stifled moan, she sank sobbing to the ground, her face buried in her arms. She could not know that the sudden apparition she supposed was her savage mate, was none other than Esteban, the false Tarzan. It was thus that Luvini and his warriors found her.

Roughly they dragged Lady Greystoke to her feet and bore her into the jungle toward the village of the ivory raiders. Behind them, the battle ended with the Waziri victors. It was Kraski who first discovered that Flora and Lady Greystoke were missing. The Waziri were frantic at the loss of their beloved mistress. They found Luvini's trail and swiftly set out in pursuit.

2 Arsenal Players On The Injured List

LONDON, April 18 (C.P. Cable). — Arsenal, who meet Newcastle United next Saturday in the final of the English Football Association competition at Wembley Stadium, have run into hard luck, two of their crack players being casualties. Hulme, their right-winger, has pulled a thigh muscle and probably will be unable to play, while Alex. James, their great forward, is also a doubtful starter, though he will be given a try out next Friday evening.

GOSPEL HALL.

Gospel Hall enjoyed a great day with Mr. Harold P. Barker speaking at all three meetings. His manner of presenting truth is unique and never to be forgotten are his illustrations. Last night he spoke of Absolom's rebellion and its fatal ending, showing that such is the same condition of every sinner who rejects Christ and His gospel. There is sure to be an everlasting loss to all who thus refuse submission to Christ as the sin bearer, for God so loved the world that He gave His only Son to be made sins for us, He who knew no sin.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS.

"Dreaming True" was the theme which ran like a golden thread through all the activities of the girls who gathered in St. Andrew's United Church on Saturday for their C.G.I.T. Conference. This annual gathering of 'teen-age girls is sponsored by the Girls' Work Board, with Mrs. J. A. McKone as president and Miss Vera Squire, as secretary, and by the Girls' Council of which Miss Jean McKone is president. The conference was particularly fortunate this year in securing for its guest speakers and leaders, Miss Isabel Griffiths, travelling secretary for W.M.S. Young People's Work and Miss Doris McCarthy, director of camps for the National Girls' Work Board.

At ten o'clock on Saturday morning groups of eager, alert girls were assembling for registration in St. Andrew's Sunday School Hall. Before noon over one hundred girls had registered, representing the various C.G.I.T. groups and classes of the city, as well as organizations in Springville, Keene, Bowmanville, Cavan, Millbrook, Fraserville, Norwood, and Havelock. Miss Margaret Skitch, vice-president of the Council, presided as chairman at the morning session. After the announcement of the day's program, Miss Griffiths was introduced to the girls by Miss Vera Squire.

Officers Elected.

The election of conference officers followed, with Miss Griffiths in charge, with the following executive: President, Miss Margaret Skitch, Peterborough; secretary, Miss Jean Morris, Bowmanville. The remainder of the morning session was spent in discussion and in the reception of reports and helpful ideas from various groups.

"Follow the Gleam," the inspiring C.G.I.T. song, brought to a close the initial session of the conference.

At 2 o'clock the girls assembled for the afternoon period, which was largely recreational in character. Following the impressive worship service led by Miss Griffiths, the delegates again enjoyed a discussion period and later games in the S.S. hall.

Hike to Lift Locks.

number of the girls were given the privilege of a trip through the local Bell Telephone, while others had a hike to the Lift Locks during the afternoon. Returning to the convention church at 6 o'clock the girls, with their mothers and other guests were entertained at a delightful banquet. The dining-hall was festive with gaily colored balloons, while the tables were most attractive with bouquets of daffodils, and wide blue streamers. An interesting decorative note was introduced by the artistic programs introduced by the artistic program, and "castles in Spain" on the front wall of the banquet room.

Enjoyable Program.

Adjourning to the Sunday School Hall, the girls and their friends were entertained with a splendid program, presented by Dorothy Stuart, vice-president of the Girls' Council. Miss Doris McCarthy led the girls in an enthusiastic singsong, and all joined in the National Anthem as a toast to the King. In a brief and interesting manner Mrs. L. J. Pettit, vice-president of the Girls' Work Board, presented the aims and functions of this body of representative girls, who are interested not only in the recreational but in the spiritual side of their development. A beautiful tribute was paid to mothers by Miss Eleanor Brown in her song "Mother Machree," in which the girls all joined for the closing chorus. Mrs. (Rev.) A. T. Barr responded with a challenging appeal to both mothers and daughters to promote a more ideal relationship between one another. Two talented and youthful performers contributed their share to the program, little Dorothy Cunningham delighting her audience with two violin solos, accompanied by Miss Rome; while Ruth McNeely gave, with splendid expression, readings, "The Two Offerings" and "A Girl's Composition on 'Boys'."

An interesting feature was the judging of the theme songs composed by members of the different groups, with Rev. Dr. Barr and Miss L. Brownscombe acting as judges. "Dreaming True" was the subject chosen by most of the clever young composers. The winning theme song was that composed by Miss Dorothy Henderson, of St. Andrew's C.G.I.T., who wrote not only the words but the music for it.

"Willie's Rearing" and "No Complaints" were two amusing readings contributed by Margaret Pitchford in her usual pleasing manner.

"To our Church, our Sunday School and our Leaders." Miss Helen Steer paid a tribute of sincere gratitude and thanks on behalf of the assembled girls.

In a brief introduction by Miss Jean McKone, Miss McCarthy was presented as the speaker for the evening, taking for her subject, "Dreams."

In response to the continued applause, Miss McCarthy returned to the platform, giving the humorous selection, "The Discovery of America."

Concise reports on the various phases of camp life were given by some of the "campers." Miss Jean Morris, Bowmanville, telling something of the religious side of their experience. Olive Rowe, Peterborough, told of the interest groups formed in dramatics, life-saving and handcraft, and Marion Stacey gave a resume of the sports enjoyed.

The singing of "Taps" brought to a conclusion a day of unusually successful activities, both in recreational and spiritual advancement by the girls of this C.G.I.T. conference.

POT IS BOILING IN WEST YORK

Conservatives, Independents and Labor Candidates Are All Picked.

LIBERALS UNDECIDED.

TORONTO, April 18. (C.P.)—The provincial by-election pot is boiling in West York, former riding of Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Conservative and all indications point to a rousing campaign. Possibility of a three or even four-cornered contest looms before the contestants, and the guns of the major legislative parties are being prepared for the combat.

The by-election is scheduled for May 28, with nominations on May 17. Already Harry I. Price has been nominated as Conservative standard-bearer, W. H. Gilbert Dea Independent Conservative candidate and John W. Buckley, as Labor representative, West York Liberals will hold a meeting on April 30 to decide whether or not to enter a candidate.

The seat is traditionally conservative. Dr. Godfrey won it at the general elections of 1929 in a straight fight with W. A. Edwards, Liberal, nearly doubling the vote of his opponent. The official figures were: Godfrey 8296, Edwards 4,411.

Rousing Battle

A rousing battle in the constituency seems assured. Premier George S. Henry, Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Minister of Highways; Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General; Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines and Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands are all billed to stump the riding. The The anti-government forces will probably be led by H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, who stated just prior to the prorogation of the legislature that he "certainly intended to take the platform." Whether W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., house Liberal leader, will speak is undecided, although it is expected Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., provincial Liberal leader, will take part in the campaign.

Weddings

FULLER—ROGERS.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized on Thursday, April 7th, at St. George's Church, when Helen Esther Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Rogers, was united in marriage to Alfred George Fuller, both of Peterborough. The Rev. J. L. Hughes performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Fuller will live in Peterborough.

Golden And Silver Wedding Anniversaries Are Being Celebrated In The Same Home

Golden and silver wedding anniversaries are today being celebrated by members of one family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtis of Park Hill road east.

Fifty years married Mr. and Mrs. Charles Curtis are celebrating their own wedding anniversary and are also playing host and hostess to Mr. and Mrs. John Stenton whose twenty-fifth wedding anniversary falls on the same date.

The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis was solemnized on April 18, 1882 by the Rev. William Joliffe at the Bible Christian church which occupied the site now used by the Canadian Legion Hall. Before her marriage Mrs. Curtis was Mary Elizabeth Stenton, a native of South Monaghan Township. She is 72 years of age.

Mr. Curtis was born at Millbrook 73 years ago. He came to Peterborough with his parents when an infant, at the time the brick works was established here by his father.

Despite his advanced years Mr. Curtis is still actively engaged in the business with two of his brothers, Albert and George.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis have two daughters the Misses Maud and Bertha.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stenton who are celebrating their silver wedding anniversary were married twenty-five years ago today at the homestead on which they still reside. The wedding was solemnized by the late Canon J. C. Davidson, former rector of St. John's church.

Mrs. Stenton is a sister of Mr. Curtis.

The happy couples received their guests this afternoon and this evening and were the recipients of a wealth of congratulations. Among the many flowers received was a large basket of roses from the members of Gold Lake Hunt Club of which Mr. Curtis has been a member for a great number of years.

Police Seeking Clues To Shot-Gun Killing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. April 18. — Officials of Illinois, the Italian Government and the city set out today to determine whether the office of John M. Picco, Italian consular agent, was hiding any clews to his mysterious death at the hands of shot gun assassins.

They decided to invade the office for the first time since three men shot Picco down near his home last Saturday, and to search his documents and correspondence in the belief the papers may lay open some of his many connections, which were as puzzling as the motive for the slaying.

THAT ALL-TIRED-OUT FEELING SHOWS NEED OF SPRING TONIC

Benefited Users Advise Others to Restore Health With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as They Have Done.

There is a definite medical reason for that Springtime "all-tired-out feeling." The system is suffering from oxygen starvation: the blood has been thinned and devitalized by winter living conditions so that it isn't carrying the amount of oxygen required by the body tissues. That's why people are languid, listless, and easily fatigued at this season of the year. They are in need of a reliable proven blood builder which will quickly correct this condition.

Thousands have found the answer in Dr Williams' Pink Pills. This proven remedy actually creates new red blood, and invigorates and purifies the blood stream so that it again carries energizing oxygen throughout the system, banishing the lassitude and fatigue.

Mrs. Elizabeth Clarke, Hastings, Ont., writes "I use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the Spring, when one naturally feels rundown after our long winter. Last Spring I was feeling weak and easily tired. I took Pink Pills with the result that I have had splendid health since."

"I always take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the Spring to build me up for the hot weather. I cheerfully recommend these Pills as the best of health-builders," writes Mrs. L. Hupman, Summerville Centre, N.S.

"I keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house all the time and take them every Spring as a tonic," writes Miss Anna Murphy, St. Odilon, Que.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and experience for yourself the new strength and vigor they will bring you. At your druggist's in the new glass container. 50c a package.

FIREMEN HURT AT PORT HOPE

Fire in Lakeshore Town Robs 13 of Their Homes.

PUMPER STRIKES TREE.

PORT HOPE, April 19.—(Special to The Examiner.)—Thirteen persons, composing three families, were rendered homeless here yesterday when fire swept through a set of frame buildings.

Roaring to the fire, the automotive pumper of the fire department suffered an accident in which Fire Chief Murphy and E. Brundett, a member of the force, were injured. As it sped around a sharp turn, the pumper skidded and crashed broadside into a tree, the two firefighters being thrown heavily upon the pavement.

The buildings were owned by John Currie, who resided in one section with his wife and five children. Charles Ashby, his wife and four children, occupied the next section and Thomas Cook lived in the rear. A spark from a chimney is thought to have caused the fire, which broke out in the Currie residence. The flames had gained great headway when the brigade arrived.

Because of damage to the pumper and difficulty in making a hydrant function properly only one line of hose could be carried to the blaze. Later two lines were put into use and after a two-hour fight the flames were conquered.

COUNCIL FAILS TO SEAT MAYOR POLICE CALLED

Oshawa Council is Set at Defiance in Naming New Mayor.

MEETING ADJOURNED.

Eddie McDonald Occupies Chair Until Police Intervene.

OSHAWA, April 19. — A scene unprecedented in the annals of municipal government was enacted in the city Council Chamber here last evening when Eddie McDonald, defeated candidate for the Mayoralty for 1932, occupied the Mayor's chair as a protest against any member of the Council being elected to that office and had to be forcibly ejected by three constables.

When the Council met City Clerk Hare occupied the chair, and called for the election of a Chairman to preside in place of Mayor P. A. MacDonald, who resigned in order to take a position as accountant of the Public Utilities Commission. Alderman Hawkes was elected Chairman of the meeting, but when he went to take his seat, he found Eddie McDonald seated there. McDonald refused to vacate the chair in order to allow Alderman Hawkes to occupy it. The request was renewed by the City Clerk, but still McDonald was obdurate.

Claims More Right

"No member of the City Council qualified for election as Mayor," he said, "and I want to know by what right you propose to elect one of yourselves to occupy this chair. I have more right to sit here than any one else I know of."

Alderman Hyman said that Eddie McDonald had no right to hold up the proceedings of the meeting, and said that if he insisted on sitting there, a request would be made that he be removed.

"Is there any one of you here who qualified for Mayor at the last election? No; I am the only one. By what outhority do you think you are going to elect a Mayor?"

City Clerk Hare—If you want any authority I can give it to you.

The Clerk then read a communication from the City Solicitor, J. F. Grierson, which confirmed his interpretation of the Municipal Act placed upon it by the clerk and Council.

"There has been an amendment to that," declared McDonald. "What

TRINITY CHOIR WINS FIRST AT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Eighty Entries Made in Kiwanis Club Musical Festival.

OPENED YESTERDAY.

Aim is to Encourage Love of Music, Especially With Juniors.

Trinity Church choir, with Miss Mabel Clarry directing, scored quite a triumph last night, singing at the Conservatory of Music in connection with this year's Musical Festival sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, when they registered a score of 83 per cent, winning the first award in their class, against two other competitors. It was a popular decision which brought a great deal of applause from the audience.

Opening yesterday and continuing until the closing session to-night, this year's Festival sees a registration of 80 entries, with 30 of these registered by F. G. Mann, L.Mus., who continues to give the undertaking fine support. Mr. Mann had more entries than all the rest of Peterborough combined. There are entrants from Toronto, which sent three; Kingston, Cobourg, Tweed, Belleville, Hamilton, Uxbridge, Burketon and Orono, one apiece; Gananoque, 2, and Stratford, 4.

The adjudicators, Frank Welsman of the staff of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and W. H. Hewlett, principal of the Conservatory of Music at Hamilton both commented upon the lack of entries in several of the classes, and hoped for a better showing another year.

Aim Of The Club.

The aim of the Kiwanis Club is to

Farmers Commence Ploughing On Land

Spring is here, or at least all indications point that way. The whole realm of nature is reawakening; trees are budding, birds are on the wing and the latest report comes in this morning of a start on land work by local farmers. Harold Archer, whose farm is in Smith Township, on the Lindsay Highway, is among the claimants for the distinction of being the first to commence tilling his land this season. He was out with his plow this morning.

OUTLINES STAND OF GOVERNMENT ON POWER PLAN

Willing to Loan $15,000,000 to Beauharnois Under Certain Conditions.

SWEEZEY OUT.

Future Depends Largely on Action Taken by Holders of Collateral Trust Funds.

OTTAWA, April 19.—(CP)—The Dominion stands prepared to consider advancing $15,000,000 or $16,000,000 to the Beauharnois project under certain conditions, the House of Commons was told yesterday by Premier R. B. Bennett. At the same time, it was announced the government never had undertaken to guarantee interest on the $30,000,000 six per cent collateral trust bonds of the Beauharnois Power Corporation defaulted April 1.

In a statement to the house lasting more than an hour, the Prime Minister set forth the government's attitude toward the power and navigation project on the St. Lawrence. On two separate occasions, he said, the administration had turned down suggestions to turn over to the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, management of Beauharnois.

The Future

The future of the power company, said the Prime Minister, depended largely on the action taken by the holders of the collateral trust bonds. They must decide for themselves what to do but they had the right to avail themselves of the provisions of the trust deed whereby they may exercise their right, call for the payment of the full sum, sell bonds and become practically, to all intents and purpose, the owners of the enterprise subject to the first mortgage bonds.

The Dominion had stood behind Beauharnois in different forms during the past two years, said the Premier, and was willing to go further. The Government had indicated its willingness to take a very reasonable view of our responsibili-

FERGUSON SEES BRITISH POUND SET AT $4 AS AID TO DOMINION

Predicts Ottawa Parley to be Greatest Force for Good World Ever Known.

BRIGHT EMPIRE FUTURE.

TORONTO, April 19.—(C.P.) — Predicting the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa in July would be the greatest force for good the world has ever known, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, High Commissioner to Great Britain and former Premier of Ontario, addressed the Empire Club here today.

Impressing his hearers with the fact that the Motherland treasured above all else here associations with the Dominions and Colonies which helped form the Empire, the High Commissioner declared England herself had done everything possible to promote intra-Empire trade and was placing great importance on the success of the conference.

In passing, Mr. Ferguson expressed the belief the British pound would never again be set at $4.86, but rather at $4 for the greater convenience of the Dominions. It would be at a parity in Australia, Canada or anywhere else, he thought.

In one of the most impressive speeches he has ever delivered in Toronto, the High Commissioner painted a glowing picture of the future before the British Empire. Interspersing his address with brief touches of humor, he paid striking tribute to the people of England whom, he said, had even lined up to pay their income tax when the Chancellor of the Exchequer had called upon them to do so in the emergency.

Modern Chinese Joan of Arc

HARBIN, April 19 (C.P.).—A twenty-year-old Chinese girl, known among the natives hereabouts as a modern Joan of Arc, is playing a prominent part in the insurgency along the eastern section of the Chinese Eastern Railway, according to Chinese reports.

As near as could be learned here, the girl is the leader of 1,000 Chinese volunteers opposing the Manchoukuo authority in Northern Kirin Province, which borders on Soviet Russian territory.

Reports to-day said she led her band against the detachment of Chinese Provincial forces in that area with such enthusiasm that the Manchoukuo troops retreated in haste before the fiery attack.

AGED MAN WOUNDS WIFE, KILLS HIS SON-IN-LAW

DETROIT, April 19 (C.P.).—A 62-year-old unemployed man was held for the fatal shooting of his son-in-law and the wounding of his wife after a quarrel in their home today.

Leon Auch, 21, died of bullet wounds in the head and back. Mrs. Hannah Amoe, 59, was seriously wounded.

Charles P. Amoe, 62, was arrested. Police said he confessed he shot his wife because she refused to prepare his breakfast, and his son-in-law, because he "was always interfering." They said he told them he planned to shoot his daughter, Irma, wife of Auch, but that he "changed his mind."

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN START BIG CONVENTION

Eigthteenth Annual Meeting of Provincial W.M.S. Opens.

IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

24 Presbyterials and 1,207 Auxiliaries Represented.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada opened this morning in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church for the first open session of a three-day gathering which closes on Thursday afternoon, and which represents nearly 25,000 missionary-minded women in the province.

Nearly 150 delegates were registered this morning, with more expected to-day. They represent the 24 presbyterials and the 1,207 auxiliaries and junior organizations, which are included in the Ontario organization. They come from Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, London, Leamington, Windsor, Preston, Sault Ste. Marie, Oakville, Guelph, Dundalk, Goderich, Stratford, Barrie, Midland, Kingston, Picton, Mitchell, St. Catharines, Penetanguishene, Swansea, Lindsay, Norwood, New Liskeard, Galt, Cornwall, Smith's Falls, Aylmer East, Kemptville, Vankleek Hill, Dungannon, Harrington, Claude (near Orangeville), Oshawa, Port Hope, Iroquois, Pingal (near London), Brantford, St. David's, Warkworth, Paris, Brampton, Bar River (Algoma), Hespeler, McDonald's Corners, Westboro, Dundas, Mount Dennis, Midland and Campbellford.

The president of the Ontario Provincial W.M.S., Mrs. W. A. McLennan of Toronto, presided.

Other provincial officers who are here for the meetings include: Mrs. J. A. Hilts of Toronto, 1st vice president; Mrs. J. A. Milne of Toronto, 2nd vice president; Mrs. J. A. Locheed of Hamilton, 3rd vice president; Mrs. E. Lillian Mowat of Kingston, 4th vice president; Mrs. W. H. Mitchell of Toronto, recording secretary; Mrs. W. J. RAILWAY HEADS STUDY PROBLEM

TIME FOR ACTION.

OTTAWA, April 16. — (C.P.) — Within a week or two Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, hopes that in conjunction with E. W Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, something will be evolved to meet the competition of motor trucks. In this the two railway systems will act jointly. The nature of the action to be taken was not disclosed by Sir Henry, who was explaining the estimates of the C. N. R. to the House of Commons committee today.

Motor truck competition, he said, presented a problem to both railways. The time for action had now come. He admitted that there was a great deal of short-haul traffic captured by the motor truck which the railways could not get back. But in the main, the railways were just as pleased to get rid of much of that business, for it was unremunerative.

However, the problem was now one of preventing the motor trucks from extending their operations into the long-haul business which was the most remunerative for the railways.

PRUSSIAN COMMUNISTS ARE BEING HUNTED OUT

BERLIN, April 19. (AP)—Police this morning searched the former rendezvous of Prussian Communists through Germany on orders of Wilhelm Groener, Minister of Interior, who was tipped that the Red front fighting organization had started to function again after having been banned two years ago.

Secret orders to begin the search were sent from here ten days ago to the various states, ordering the search to begin to-day.

Shotgun Explodes While Dummer Man Is Climbing Fence

Allan Gallagher, 32, Residing on 6th Line of Dummer, While Out Hunting is Believed to Have Stumbled and Killed Instantly.

WARSAW, April 19. —(By Staff Reporter)— With his whole breast torn and bloody by the full charge of a shot-gun, the dead body of Allan Gallagher, aged 32, well-known farmer of the sixth line of Dummer Township, was found this morning by neighbors.

All last night a band of neighbors had searched the thickets, swamps and woods about the Gallagher homestead for the man, who had been missing from his home since yesterday morning. They came upon the body at 10.30 today beneath a thicket beside a fence about 300 yards from the man's home. The discharged shot-gun lay by his side.

Provincial police at Peterborough were notified and Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith, of Lakefield, was called to the scene. Dr. Smith immediately instituted an investigation into the tragedy.

Those who found the body believe that Gallagher accidentally discharged his shot-gun while getting over a fence, Hugh Kelly, a neighbor of Gallagher, who assisted in the search, told The Examiner.

While watering his cattle yesterday morning at the creek which flows near his home, Gallagher noticed some wild ducks feeding. He returned to his home. Lifting his shot-gun from the wall, he told his wife, "I'm going down to the creek to get a couple of ducks for dinner."

Failed to Return

He did not return for dinner and with increasing anxiety his wife waited his home-coming throughout the afternoon. When darkness had fallen and her husband had still not returned, Mrs. Gallagher frantically ran up the road to the Kelly farm and gave the alarm.

Kelly called other neighbors and about midnight 25 men set out in the darkness to search for Gallagher. "It was terrible plodding through the swamps and bushes," said Kelly, telling of the search.

"About 10.30 this morning we found him," Kelly said. "He was lying dead near the fence with his shot-gun by his side. The gun had

CHAMBERLAIN'S BRITISH BUDGET SHOWS NO RELIEF FOR TAX PAYER

Chancellor Balances Receipts and Expenditures With £796,000 Surplus.

Beer. Income Taxes Hold.

LONDON, April 19. (A.P.) Great Britain has balanced the budget with a surplus of £796,000 (about $3,980,000 at par).

Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, informed parliament in his budget speech today that there will be no relief for the income tax payer this year and that the beer tax will remain at its present level. Thus the tax payer will have to stagger along under his present burdens for another year.

It was one of the most prosaic budgets in recent years, providing only minor changes in British finance, aside from the duty on tea.

New Import Duties Pending

The Chancellor announced, however, that new import duties recommended by the tariff advisory committee would be published soon and that they would yield £5,000,000 in the fiscal year. He gave no hint of the nature of the impending tariffs.

Expenditure was estimated at £766,000,000. Receipts on the present basis would be £731,300,000, but the Chancellor estimated the total receipts would amount to £764,300,000—enough for a surplus with the increased yield from the general 10 percent tariff, the abnormal importations duty, additional import duties to be announced, and the renewal of the four pence per pound tax on tea with 50 percent imperial preference.

Only a few changes in taxation were proposed, the Chancellor said.

KILLER FIGHTS FOR LIFE BY TIPPING OFF POLICE

NEW YORK, April 19 (C.P.). — Cock-Eye Benny Gordon, bespectacled killer, fidgeted in his death cell at Sing Sing to-day waiting for the saving word he believed he had earned by becoming an ally of the law.

The youth was due to die in the electric chair to-night, but he hoped a last minute tip-off he gave police would get him a commutation. The tip led to the arrest of Jack Zaroff, 29, who was taken, battling furiously, by a large squad of detectives who rushed a Newark restaurant last night.

They said they wanted Zaroff in connection with the murder of Patrolman Maurice O'Brien, shot down in 1930 while he was investigating a complaint here.

BOMB FAILS TO EXPLODE VEREGIN'S HOUSE SAVED

NELSON, B.C., April 19 (C.P.).—A bomb that had been ignited but had failed to explode was discovered placed against a house in Glade used by Peter Veregin, president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, whenever he stayed in the Doukhobor settlement over night. The bomb, a home-made one, was found by a Doukhobor child yesterday.

Corporal Barber of the British Columbia Police, who investigated, was of the opinion that the fuse, six feet long, had gone "dead" through exposure, and but a few inches of it had burned.

O'BRIEN POWER DEAL IS RELATED AT HYDRO PROBE

Commission's $50,000 Payment to John Aird, Jr., Holds Spotlight.

ONE WITNESS CALLED.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson Expected to Testify During Wednesday's Session.

TORONTO, April 19 (C.P.). — The early negotiations which led to the acquisition of the M. J. O'Brien water power rights on the Madawaska River by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario were laid before Mr. Justice Orde, Commissioner, when the inquiry was resumed to-day into certain phases of Ontario Hydro-Electric administration. Mr. Justice Orde, succeeding Mr. Justice Middleton in the inquiry, is investigating the payment of $50,000 by the Hydro Commission to John Aird, Jr., in connection with the Madawaska deal and also the payment to Aird of $125,000 by the Beauharnois Corporation as well as the purchase by the Hydro Commission of the Dominion Power and Tranmission properties.

$50,000 Payment.

The $50,000 payment held the spotlight this morning, and J. G. Kerry, consulting engineer, the first witness was still on the stand when the inquiry was adjourned for lunch. It is understood that Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario, will give evidence to-morrow.

Mr. Kerry, a member of the engineering firm of Kerry & Chase testified that he became interested in the M. J. O'Brien power properties in 1926. He was in the first instance engaged to prepare certain reports for the O'Briens but later his firm secured an option on the properties and in association with other firms, endeavored to have the properties developed. He related that Messrs. Wood, Gundy & Company expended a good deal of time and money in trying to sell the option for them to secure a contract for the power and when their efforts were fruitless, John Aird Jr., and his partner, R. W. Millard came on the scene as agents for the disposal of the property. Much of the correspondence laid before the commissioner this morning had taken place between Mr. Kerry and the M. J. O'Brien firm and related to the efforts of John Aird, Jr., to interest the Provincial Hydro Commission and the Government in the properties.

"The Man at The Top"

The correspondence made occasional reference to both chairman C. A. MaGrath of the Hydro Commission and to "the man at the top" which Mr. Kerry said was Premier Ferguson. Replying to a letter from Mr. O'Brien in which complaint was made because of the delay, Mr. Kerry wrote to the effect that "the man at the top" was apparently wondering whether the

WOMAN RESCUED IN NICK OF TIME

Fireman Pulls Victim, Suffering Nervous Breakdown, From Edge of Roof.

HANGING BY HANDS.

VICTORIA, April 19.—(C.P.)—Hanging by her hands from the cornice at the top of a departmental store here, an elderly woman for five minutes kept a crowd of people in horrified suspense until she was rescued by Karl Mills, fireman, who risked his life by hanging over the cornice to drag her to safety.

The woman, who police reported was suffering from a nervous breakdown, last night hung from her precarious position, her body swaying over the spectators 50 feet below. Her strength began to ebb and a murmur of horror went up from the throng as one of her hands slipped from its hold. She hung by one hand for a moment, but managed to regain her grip only to lose the grip with her other hand. In the meantime the Fire Department was called and with net and ladder attempted a rescue. Fireman Mills was first to reach the cornice. Two comrades gripped him by the legs while he caught hold of the woman's wrist and gradually worked her back to the projection and thence to safety.

FRANCE VOTES SUNDAY, MAY 1 FOR DEPUTIES

Creation of Three New Seats Brings Total in Chamber to 615.

HOLD POSTS 4 YEARS.

Average Election Expenses of Each Candidate Figured at $2,000.

PARIS, April 19 (C.P. Cable). — On the first Sunday in May the French electorate, comprising all males over 21 who are not disqualified, goes to the polls to renew the entire Chamber of Deputies. Creation of three new seats in the Electoral Reform Bill brings the total number of deputies to 615, the sam eflgure as in the British House of Commons.

Deputies are elected by dsitricts, but a candidate does not need to be a resident of the constituency in which he is standing. Thus Premier Andre Tardieu, Parisian born and bred, seeks re-election in Belfort on the eastern frontier, and Deputy Leon Blum, leader of the Socialist Party, another Parisian, is seeking re-election in Narbonne, not far from the Spanish border.

To be eligible for election a candidate for the Chamber must be at least 25 years of age. The cost of contesting a seat in the Chamber varies with the district. Though each deputy normally represen's between 65,000 and 67,000 of his fellow-countrymen some of the more closely populated districts, such as those in the big centres of Paris, Marseilles, and Lyons, are naturally easier to canvass than scattered constituencies on the plains or in the mountains.

Reds Spend Little.

The Communists spend relatively little in fighting campaigns in the big industrial suburbs outside of Paris, for examp'e. On the other hand a candidate for the favors of the electorate in Riviera constituencies might incur expenses running up to $12,000. The average expenditure the country over was placed some years ago at $2,000 per seat, a total of $1,200,000.

Unlike in Canada, France does not require its would-be legislators to file statements of campaign expenses. If public rumor develops that a certain candidate has been ultra-lavish, or over-direct in "nursing" the voters, a Parliamentary enquiry may be started and the too-zealous spender invalidated. Such cases are extremely rare, however. The most notorious one of recent years, that of Baron Maurice de Rothschild, candidate from the Upper Alps, ended in uproarious laughter when it was revealed he had spent well over a million francs for the privilege of being defeated.

MUSSOLINI'S PLAY IS SCORED BY LONDON CRITICS AS "DULL"

Scenes of "100 Days" Based on Napoleon's Brief Return From Elba.

ADAPTED BY DRINKWATER.

LONDON, April 19.—(AP)—London dramatic critics praised and blamed today Premier Mussolini's play, "100 Days," which had its London premiere last night, but most of them indicated they did not expect it to enjoy a long run.

The play is based on Napoleon's brief return to power from Elba. It was adapted into English by John Drinkwater, British poet, biographer and playwright.

The Daily Mail said the play was "As dull and flat-footed as it is earnest and well-meaning, and that it was like reading the pages of a forgotten school history book."

"Il Duce," the Mail's critic continued, "is a very remarkable man and if in addition to other things he were a great dramatist, he would indeed be a superman, but that has not happened yet."

The Daily Telegraph said that in conception and execution the play constitutes something of a tour de force and certainly is worth seeing, apart from the glamor of the author's name.

Il Duce A Dramatist

The News-Chronicle said it showed Mussolini was a dramatist and that it is not uninteresting, although some may think it dull.

"Mussolini has done the impossible and has made Napoleon dull," said the Express. "The great man is dead. Mussolini has put him on the spot."

The Post said it was a surprisingly good play, full of vital interest and always intelligent, but too long and too episodic. Several episodes would have been better cut out and their purport put into the big scenes, it said. The Times said the play had an extraordinary air of fact, giving the impression that the spectator was watching the scenes as really enacted.

In its essence the play, which was written by Il Duce in collaboration with Viovacchino Forsano, director of the Theatre Royal in Rome, is the Italian premier's case for a dictatorship and an argument against too much parliamentary interference.

Rush for Seats To Hear Budget

LONDON, April 19 (C.P. Cable) —Thirty members of the House of Commons were waiting at the doors of the Commons early this morning to secure seats for the presentation of the Budget by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer. One of them had arrived just after midnight.

Four women members were among the early arrivals.

ORDER PREMIER TO STEP WARILY

Two Doctors Will Attend MacDonald While at Disarmament Parley.

HEALTH VERY POOR.

LONDON, April 19 (A.P.)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's recovery since the operation on his eye, Feb. 3, has not been maintained his specialists announced to-day.

Under normal circumstances, they said, he would be advised to take a complete rest for several weeks, but he will be permitted to go to Geneva to attend the Disarmament conference as he had planned.

He will go, however, under orders that he subject himself to as little strain as possible and that he spend three hours every day in complete relaxation.

The Prime Minister will leave by airplane tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. His two physicians will also go to Geneva.

Mr. MacDonald underwent a two-hour examination before the Cabinet meeting yesterday. He has been taxing himself to the limit since he returned to London from the three weeks' holiday he took in the southwest of England following the operation. His physicians have watched him closely, but his duties, especially the recent Anglo-French conference and the Four-Power conference, necessitated long hours and a strain on his eyes.

There is no especial anxiety for his general health, however; otherwise his physicians would not have permitted the Geneva trip.

MASSIE FAILS TO BE SHAKEN FROM HIS STORY

Naval Officer Insists His Mind Was a Blank When Killing Happened.

4 WITNESSES CALLED.

Accused Describes Death Scene But Claims Others Described It to Him.

(By William H. Ewing.)

HONOLULU, April 19.—(A.P.) — (A.P.)—A double prop for the defence contention that Lieut. Thomas H. Massie was insane when he allegedly held the pistol that took the life of Joseph Kahahawai was brought forth to-day by Clarence Darrow.

The aged counsel for the four persons accused of the lynching called four witnesses for this effort.

Two Los Angeles alienists, Sherman Miles, former United States' Army colonel with whom Lieutenant and Mrs. Massie lived for a time after the attack on the latter the night of Sept. 12, 1931, and Beatrice Nakamura, Mrs. Massie's maid, were summoned to testify.

Despite prosecution avowals of disbelief that Lieut. Massie held the gun which killed the young native suspected of having participated in the attack on Mrs. Massie, the accused naval officer came through a searing cross-examination and finished his story yesterday without being shaken from it in any major detail.

Lapse of Memory.

Massie's repeated reference to his mental unrest after the attack and to his lapse of memory which began with the firing of the fatal shot in the home of his mother-in-law and co-defendant, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, was expected to get some support from the alienists. Dr. James Orbison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, who came here just before the trial opened.

Each day for a week they have occupied court room seats.

Miles and Miss Nakamura were expected to testify that Massie was in a highly nervous state after the attack.

Near the finale of his story Massie gave a vivid account of the death of Kahahawai which he said he had obtained from the other defendants, Mrs. Fortescue, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones. Massie previously had testified that he had no direct remembrance of the tragedy.

The witness said he had stood dazedly holding the smoking pistol which made the fatal wound after the native had confessed participating in the attack upon Mrs. Massie.

Others Ran Around

The other defendants, Massie said, ran about the house shouting. Mrs. Forescue looked on as Lord and Jones tried vainly to wash the blood stains from Kahahawai's clothing, he testified.

Massie said Mrs. Forescue took the leadership in the move to dispose of the body by dashing toward the sea, and had tried to get him to take a drink of Okolehao, native liquor, to bring him out of his "spell." Massie said they decided to take him along so he could get some fresh air and had left Jones behind to clean up the house.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley pounded hard at the story, apparently seeking to trip Massie by jumping from one detail to another. The witness often said "I don't recall," when the prosecutar pressed him.

CHILE ABANDONS GOLD STANDARD

New Government Loses Nine Months' Battle to Keep Peso at Par.

FEAR COMMUNISM.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 19.—(A.P.)—Chile went off the gold standard officially to-day, after nine months of unsuccessful effort to maintain the peso at par through rigid control of purchases of foreign exchange in the legitimate market.

Under the provisions of the government bill which was finally approved by Congress late last night the value of the peso will be subject to a virtually open market with a few restrictions to prevent a wholesale collapse of the currency.

Actually, Chile has been off the gold standard since last July, following the overthrow of the government of Carlos Ibanez, when the new government imposed exchange control to prevent a flight of gold from the country. Officially however, the peso has been at par, with declining transactions at this rate. Most of the money has been handled in a bootleg market which has determined the real value of the currency.

Expect Big Drop.

The official rate for the peso has been about 12 cents gold. It was believed here to-day that the rate would now drop from about 8 pesos to the dollar to 20 or more at the start, with a possibility that it will go still lower. The working of the new bill will be delayed briefly, pending approval of rules interpreting its provisions.

The financial situation had become so acute that Finance Minister Luis Izquierdo declared the peso must be devalorized or Socialism, or possibly Communism, would result through the inequalities between the official and actual values of money.

The new bill creates an advisory exchange commission to handle transactions through the central bank and to set a daily value for the peso on the basis of supply and demand. All transactions are required to go through the commission and any outsied dealings are made punishable by a jail sentence or a fine, or both.

INQUIRY GROUP OFF FOR MUKDEN

League Commission Finds Chinese in Flood District Being Offered for Sale.

EATING GRASS, BARK.

PEIPING, April 19. (AP)—The League of Nations enquiry commission prepared to-day to leave for Mukden, Manchuria, to-night to continue its investigation there.

The party will be divided. While the others travel on a specially chartered train, Lord Lotton, chairman, planned to go to Tientsin and by steamer to Dairen.

The Chinese and Japanese assessors, Dr. Wellington Koo and M. Hoshida, with their staffs, will proceed each on a gunboat of his nation.

The commission was told to-day that 6,000,000 Chinese flood sufferers in the Hwei River valley are existing chiefly on grass and bark of trees and that some of them are being sold in a human market.

Relief workers reported, according to Shaow Peter Chuan, superintendent of the flood relief commission in the area, that the sale price of humans is one dollar in Chinese money, or about 20 cents, for each year of the person's age.

A 10-year-old child sells for about $2 and the rate rises up to age 25, when it begins to recede.

COBOURG, April 19.—Found by her sister in a pool of blood after an alleged attempt to commit suicide by gashing her throat with a pair of scissors, Miss Margaret Hawkins, 50, lies at her home at Gore's Landing in a very serious condition. She is not expected to recover. She has been in very poor health for the past six years.

CHOIR SINGER FOUND GUILTY MERCY ASKED

$10,000 BAIL RENEWED.

Youth Appears To-day Charged with Seriously Wounding Hamiltonian.

HAMILTON, April 19 (C.P.). — Harry Brightwell, Montreal youth, to-day came up for trial before a Supreme Court jury, charged with shooting and seriously wounding George Anderson, local singer, who yesterday was convicted of having attempted an act of gross indecency against the youth.

Anderson, against whom Brightwell was chief Crown witness, will be chief Crown witness against Brightwell in an accusation charging shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Yesterday the jury before whom Anderson was charged, brought in a recommendation for mercy of the court and Chief Justice Hugh E. Rose said he would pass sentence at the conclusion of Brightwell's trial.

Admitted Shooting.

Brightwell, in evidence, admitted shooting and wounding the singer, but maintained his action was prompted by a desire to defend himself from an attack by Anderson, who attempted forcibly, he alleged, to commit a criminal act upon him.

Anderson's bail of $10,000 was renewed yesterday, while Brightwell remained in jail, where he has been since his arrest in Montreal several weeks ago. He was not permitted bail as the Crown maintained he was of the "floater" type and recalled he had fled after allegedly shooting Anderson.

LIBRARY BOARD WILL BUY BOOKS

April Meeting of Members at Frankford—Ladies' Aid Gathers.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET.

FRANKFORD, April 18.—(Examiner Correspondence.)— The regular meeting of the Young People's League of the United church was held at Stockdale on Monday evening, April 11.

Miss Foster, missionary vice-president, was in charge of the program. This part opened with the singing of "O to be More Like Jesus." The Scripture lesson, St. Matthew, chapter 5, verses 1 to 10, was read by Clute Nugent.

Miss Baldwin read an appropriate poem called "Heroes of Peace."

Miss Ruth Hendrick gave a delightful piano solo.

A reading, "Alberta Activities," was given by Gertrude Ferguson.

After the singing of another hymn the meeting closed with the Benediction.

Public Library Meeting.

The April meeting of the Frankford Public Library was held in the Library on Tuesday evening, April 12th at 9 p.m.

The president, E. E. Ketcheson, was in the chair and the following members of the Board were present: Mrs. L. Milne, Mrs. Ed. Ketcheson, Miss K. McCauley, Miss Z. Potter and G. W. Dickson.

The main business transacted was that the purchasing committee was authorized to spend $45 in new books.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. W. Weese, librarian, Miss Zoa Potter has been acting in that capacity.

Ladies' Aid Meeting.

The regular meeting the Ladies' Aid of the United church was held in the church on Thursday afternoon, April 14th, at 2.30.

Mrs. G. W. Dickson opened the meeting by reading a passage of Scripture, after which a hymn was sung.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Lloyd Hanna, secretary of the society.

After the general business was transacted a short program followed.

Mrs. (Rev.) A. S. Doggett gave a solo and readings were given by Mrs. Acton and Mrs. Percy Bell, which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting, Mrs. H. Bush, Miss Irene Hinds and Mrs. .. Bleeker being the hostesses.

Favourite CAKES AND PIES made "Special"

THINK of being able to serve, seven days in the week, the kind of cakes and pies you ordinarily save for "special occasions". It's easy with Baker's Coconut.

Try adding this luscious tropical flavour of coconut to simple cake and pie recipes and see how your family will take to them. Men particularly love coconut.

Baker's Coconut is ready to use at every season of the year. The Baker special process and packing mean full-flavour and freshness always.

Ask your grocer for Baker's—it's made from fresh cocoanuts in Canada.

Three Styles:
BAKER'S SOUTHERN STYLE—moist-packed in tins—slightly sweetened—deliciously fresh.
BAKER'S PREMIUM SHRED—in the familiar triple-sealed, stay-fresh cartons.
BY THE POUND—the same fresh, full-flavoured coconut in bulk.

A Canadian physician with a large family practise declares:—"Drugs alone are worthless. Diet is the rational form of treatment for constipation. Quaker Natural Bran fulfills an important role."

Many other Canadian physicians agree and recommend Quaker Natural Bran to their patients.

Natural Bran best balance for modern foods...

There are many delicious ways of baking Quaker Natural Bran. It makes delighful bran muffins. Raisins or other fruit may be added. The tested recipes in every package offer many useful suggestions.

OUR bodies need natural roughage every day. The refined foods we eat do not stimulate the intestinal muscles to remove the noxious poisons of the body. Roughage should be added to the diet so that the intestines may be kept free from accumulations of bodily waste.

Quaker Natural Bran is the coating of the wheat. It is the roughage nature intended us to have. It is milled soft so as not to cause internal irritation. By encouraging the muscles in the intestinal walls to activity, it induces a healthy natural bowel movement . . . not the enforced action gained by using any drugs which stimulate abnormally certain internal organs.

Abandon drugs; some are habit forming. Many doctors recommend Quaker Natural Bran as a corrective of constipation. Take it sprinkled generously on your cereal every morning, or, eat it baked into delicious muffins or cookies. You will like them at every meal. Easy recipes for delicious baking are found in every package.

WHITNEY SPARS WITH SENATORS ON SHORT SALES

President of Stock Exchange Denies Practise is Depressing Factor.

"BEAR HUNT" CONTINUES.

Committee Admits List of Names Shows No Cabinet Officers.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 19 (A.P.)—Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, again sparred successfully with U.S. Senate "bear hunters" yesterday as the senate baning committee held in reserve a list of short sellers.

Appearing again before a capacity crowd, the 43-year-old exchange head defended market practices and denied short selling was a depression factor.

The committee made no use of the list of short sellers furnished by Whitney Saturday under subpoena and the names were withheld.

Counsel for the committee disclosed however, that it includes names of prominent people, but said cursory examination did not reveal the names of any cabinet officers—as had been reported.

Whitney testified he had sold short in the past but not within the past 9 months or year.

Whitney said short selling provides the market with its only compulsory buyer. The short seller, he said, must eventually buy to cover his transaction.

Senator Fletcher (D. Fla.) asked if short selling did not force liquidation, and Whitney replied, "I don't think so." There is much more forcing of liquidation by those who are liquidating.

Whitney asserted "It is the liquidation of securities that has forced prices down."

Senator Gore (D. Okla.) expressed the view that the short sellers are the professionals.

Tom, Dick and Harry don't know about short selling, he asserted.

I think the janitor, the waitress, the school teacher and all went into the market in 1929 without knowledge of values and it all but drove out the short interests. I think it is too bad there were not more shorts in that sky rocket market.

Whitney agreed.

C.W.L. "AT HOME" VERY SUCCESSFUL

Dance and Euchre Proves Drawing Card for Large Attendance.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 19. (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The Campbellford sub-division of the Catholic Women's League held a most successful "At Home" on Friday evening, April 15, in the Assembly Hall of the High School. The large number of both young and older people present represented the town and surrounding districts, guests being present from Peterborough, Belleville, Stirling, Havelock and Marmora.

Charlie Allan and his Rhythmanians provided splendid music for the evening. Thos. O'Rourke and Frank O'Rourke played for the quadrilles, which were enjoyed by all. The Rhy Waltz was another novelty dance which caused a lot of merriment. The lucky spot dance was won by Miss Frances Lynch and Jack Anderson.

The stage decorated with pussy willows, spring flowers and palms provided a fine setting for the seven piece orchestra. The color scheme for the attractively decorated dining room was yellow and white, the League colors, with a touch of purple. The long tables were beautiful with their yellow roses and candles, large yellow shades on the lights, and yellow curtains finished the picture. Here and there a large purple moth rested on the shades and curtains, a novel but attractive touch.

The dainty refreshments served by the members were up to the usual high standard of excellence, the ladies of the League being noted for the appetizing lunches they serve.

Progressive euchre was played in the upper hall, prizes being awarded as follows: Games, ladies, 1, Mrs Duncan Kerr; 2, Mrs. Richard Anderson; gents, 1, M. Crosson; 2, Jas. Farrell.

When the time came for the "home waltz", all those who had been "happy to meet" were "sorry to part" but it is hoped that this will become an annual affair, and they will be "happy to meet again." Mrs. Chas. Black, president, the executive and members of the league extend their thanks to all those who attended and helped to make the "at home" such a success.

COUNCIL FAILS

year was that passed in? It is only after the first of July that the Council can appoint a Mayor."

The City Clerk insisted that Mr. McDonald was wrong in his interpretation of the Act, and reiterated his request that he vacate the chair.

Alderman Hyman—Do you think that by continuing to sit in that chair you can make it legal?

No Protest.

Eddie McDonald—Not at all; but I am doing it as a protest as a taxpayer of this city. Let the Council elect a Mayor fairly and above board. Let the taxpayers have their say in the matter. Let us have an election. Why should this Council elect a Mayor when every taxpayer should have some say in the matter?

Alderman Morris added his appeal to that of the others, and asked McDonald to vacate the chair. Suggesting that the meeting might be adjourned until Wednesday night to go further into the matter, he made this stand as a motion, which was later withdrawn.

The City Clerk then got into a violent altercation with McDonald, but without result, and the Clerk finally signalled to Police-Sergeant Bowman to come forward and eject the defeated Mayoralty candidate. The sergeant, however, brought two other constables to the Council Chamber, and the three walked forward to an uproar of "Boos" from the large gathering of unemployed who had come to the Council Chamber with McDonald.

The three officers seized McDonald and dragged him forcibly from the chair and out of the chamber, McDonald struggling violently with them. The crowd remained in the Council Chamber throughout the proceedings.

In a few moments, however, McDonald returned to the hall, and occupied a front seat in the spectators' section. He made no interruption of the proceedings until after a formal motion had been carried appointing Alderman Thomas Hawkes Mayor of Oshawa for the balance of 1932. On being declared elected, Mayor Hawkes began to make his inaugural speech, but McDonald immediately jumped to his feet and started another protest against the election of the new Mayor. Mayor Hawkes was unable to get in a word, as McDonald kept on talking, so a motion was moved and carried that the meeting adjourn, which it did without the newly elected Mayor being able to address the Council.

OUTLINES STAND ON POWER PLAN

ties as to extra cost involved for navigation — the excess cost of a navigation canal over a simple power canal—and if a plan of reorganization were arrived at, the Government would consider sympathetically at least, any proposal that might be made ot acquire the first mortgage securities to the extent to which the cost might represent the cost of the canal for navigation purposes.

Extra Cost $15,000,000.

But that in any event would not involve us (the Dominion) in any payment that would not be repaid under the terms of the bonds themselves. In other words, it might be advisable and in the public interest that by the acquisition of bonds, funds might be provided for the purpose of enabling them (Beauharnois) to carry forward the undertaking to which they are now committed and in which they have placed their money. Although the Prime Minister believed the figure excessive, it had been estimated the extra cost of a navigation canal would be between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000.

Referring to the backing given Beauharnois by the Dominion, the Prime Minister disclosed that bank advances totalling $7,951,500 had been guaranteed by the federal treasury. Three Canadian banks, Montreal, Royal and Commerce, had advanced the money to the Beauharnois Power Company. In guaranteeing the banks against loss, the Dominion insisted on the power company depositing with the banks two hundred per cent collateral. The banks held bonds with a face value of $15,903,000 against the guaranteed advances.

Buttressing his statements with official papers, contracts and letters, the Prime Minister disclosed to the house many phases of the inner financial fabric of Beauharnois. It was shown that after the parliamentary investigation of the company, the government requested the banking syndicate to request the resignations of all Beauharnois directors. They were received and those of Senator W. L. McDougald, R.A.C., Henry and R. O. Sweezey, the original promoter of the project, accepted.

Demands Met

The Government also demanded the cancellation of the 80,000 Beauharnois Power Company's shares used to purchase the Sterling Investment Corporation. Again, the demand was met. The Sterling Company, owned by Senator McDougald and R. A. C. Henry, was purchased by Beauharnois because of the "nuisance value" of its power rights in the Lake St. Louis district of the St. Lawrence River. This company figured prominently in the evidence taken before the Parliamentary enquiry.

For the remainder of the day, the House continued debate on the Rhodes budget. A division, orginally scheduled for to-day, is expected Thursday. The Prime Minister and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, both will speak on the latter day.

M. N. Campbell, Prog., Mackenzie, believed the time was propituous for the commencement of the St. Lawrence waterways. Both labor and material were cheap and the completion of the scheme would have a marked effect on the economic welfare of the country.

Other speakers during the day were: Col. H. A. Mullins, Cons., Marquette; E. J. Young, Lib., Weyburn; George McDade, Cons., Northumberland; Herbert Deslaurier, Lib., St. Mary's; J. E. Tetreault, Cons., Shefford; Telesphore Arsenault, Cons., Kent; Charles Bellec, Cons., Pontiac, and Frank T. Shaver, Cons., Stormount.

HALL'S BRIDGE INSTITUTE HOLDS GOOD MEETING

HALL'S BRIDGE, April 19. (Examiner Correspondence).—The regular meeting of the Hall's Bridge W. I. was held in the True Blue Hall on Tuesday.

After the usual opening, the roll call was answered by housecleaning suggestions. Mrs. D. Montgomery gave a paper on "The Mother's Place in the Home." This was followed by a paper, "Practical Hints for the Housewife," by Mrs. A. A. Smith. Word was received from Mrs. Miller, of Warsaw, that they would present their play in Hall's Bridge on Tuesday, April 26.

After a business discussion the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Yelland were in the village on Sunday last.

Giant Cavern Swallows Italian Town

INHABITANTS FLEE AS OLDEST TOWN IN ITALY COLLAPSES

Almost completely swallowed up when an ancient subterranean cavern opened under its foundations, San Stefano, the oldest town in Italy, has been completely evacuated by its inhabitants. When the town, which lies between Rome and Naples, began to settle in the bowels of the earth, its residents fled for shelter to neighboring towns and villages where they were billeted among the citizens. The cavern beneath the town is believed to have been caused by the infiltration of water during the centuries which gradually undermined the community. ABOVE is shown a view of the ruined town which collapsed into the cavern, mouth of which can be seen in the foreground.

NEWSPAPERS BEST FOR ADVERTISING

But Many Pick the Wrong One, Says Macy Executive.

NEW YORK, Apr. 19.—The newspaper of to-day is the best friend the retail store advertising business has, and always has been the best advertising medium such stores can possibly employ, writes Kenneth Collins, executive vice-president and publicity director of R. H. Macey & Company, in his book called "The Road to Good Advertising." The book is published to-day by Greenberg.

"A quarter of a million merchants in the United States can't all be wrong," he says.

Advertising is frequently placed in the wrong newspaper, he points out, and advertisers have an insane desire to "follow the leader."

In selecting a newspaper it is vital to look under the hood and inside the body, to ascertain how fast it can travel and what it can carry in large volume.

Discussing the status of advertising under the depression, Collins criticises merchants for not strengthening their campaigns.

FRANCE VOTES SUNDAY, MAY 1

On the first Sunday's voting a candidate may be elected only if he secures an absolute majority of the total vote cast, as well as a defined proportion of the entire listed electoral vote. If this is not obtained by any candidate, there is a second ballot on Sunday, May 8, in which the candidate who heads the poll is declared elected.

Bill Thrown Out

The last Chamber voted a bill designed to do away with the second ballot, as well as to give the franchise to women and make voting compulsory. The leading candidate need only obtain 40 per cent of the votes cast. The Senate, however, threw this bill out, the Left majority in the Upper House sensing the bill as an attack on the parties of the Left. Invariably French elections see combinations between Leftist candidates to eliminate injurious competition between them on the second ballot.

Once elected, a Deputy holds his seat for four years. He is paid 60,000 francs a year, or approximately $2,400, and has a free pass on all railways as well as franking privileges over telegraph wires.

There are no Senatorial elections in the coming contest. The French Senate is not elected by direct suffrage but by small Electoral Colleges composed of municipal and other functionaries. One-third of the present Senate will be re-elected next October, as is the case every three years.

OPPOSES PROBE METHOD IN CIVIL SERVICE CASES

OTTAWA, Apr. 19 (C.P.)—Objection by E. R. E. Chevrier, (Lib.-Ottawa) to the procedure of the House of Commons committee on Civil Service in singling out specific cases where it was believed merit system was not followed in appointments, featured yesterday's meeting of that committee. Mr. Chevrier is a member of the committee.

The Ottawa member contended that the finding of isolated cases not having worked out according to the merit system did not prove the civil service commission was not properly carrying out its work. He felt their work should be taken as a whole.

Obituary

Mrs. T. Iliffe

CAMPBELLFORD, April 19 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — There passed away at her Campbellford home on Sunday night, April 17, Emma Stone, wife of the late Thomas Iliffe, in her 61st year. Born in Leicester, England, September 25, 1872, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Stone. She came to this country 23 years ago and has for many years past resided in Campbellford. She has been in ill health for many months. She is survived by one son, E. T. Iliffe of Campbellford; and two daughters, Hilda (Mrs. Blakley) of Campbellford, and Lizzie of Napanee.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday, April 20, at Christ Church (Anglican) at 2 p.m., the Rev. T. H. Floyd officiating. Interment will be made in Christ Church cemetery, Campbellford.

MRS. MURTON HYLAND

HAVELOCK, April 19. (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral of the late Margaret Watson, eldest daughter of Mrs. James H. Watson of Havelock and wife of Mr. Murton Hyland of Kingston, was held at Kingston on Friday afternoon, April 15, from the funeral parlors of John Cornelius to Cataraqui cemetery, the service being conducted by the pastor of the Princess Street United Church.

The late Mrs. Hyland was born in Seymour East, the eldest daughter of the late J. H. Watson and Mrs. Watson. At an early age, she with her parents moved to Havelock, afterwards to Round Lake, where she remained until her marriage to Mr. Hyland of Kingston. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and three sons, Melville of the Bank of Toronto staff at Kingston and Howard and Kenneth at home. Also her mother, and four brothers, John, Harry and Carmen, Havelock and Arthur of Detroit and one sister, Miss Nellie Watson a teacher at Bloomfield, Prince Edward County.

Mrs. Hyland died at Hotel Dieu Kingston after an illness of only three days from 'flu. Her brother, Mr. Fred Watson of Toronto, was instantly killed at Oshawa on Feb. 16, when he fell under the wheels of a moving freight on which he was working.

SPEAKER URGES SELF CONTROL

Rev. T. H. Floyd Tells Rotarians to Bear Up Under Adverse Criticisms.

Buy At Home Ideas Voiced.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 19 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A discourse on "How to Improve One's Self-Control," was given by the Rev. T. H. Floyd, rector of Christ Church, to the Campbellford Rotary Club yesterday, at their regular luncheon held in the St. Lawrence Hotel. President, Rev. R. C. Tait occupied the chair, the guest speaker being introduced by N. Alex MacColl.

Mr. Floyd, in the treatment of his subject, pointed out that the study of self-control was not wholly a scientific or a medical one, but part of the Christian teaching, as our faith should teach us how to live as well as die. The lack of self control was a problem that often brought to one utter ruin, much unhappiness and pain to ourselves and to our family; it often meant the breaking up of friendships and the loss through our own fault of those we love. It was because of this, a problem that we all had to face.

Improve Our Control

How to improve our self control was a question we should all study, the speaker pointed out; saying that control went when we were depressed and worried. When this condition exists within us, it is then that we become irritable and are hard to live with. When we feel our resources coming to an end, it is then we should stop work and give our body and nerves a rest.

"Mental rest," said Mr. Floyd, was quite as important as physical rest," stressing the fact that the mind must relax in the same way that the body does. The best way to do this, the speaker said, was to go to some quiet spot, preferably a natural one, and there just be quiet. If this was impossible, then meditate quietly in some church or even in one's own room. Forget all worry and think of the great goodness of God.

There was one thing as professional and business men the audience would have to learn to do, he stated; and that was to stay quiet under abuse and misunderstandings. This was a lesson that all men in public life find they have to learn. They must not grow outwardly bitter when abuse or adverse criticism was heaped upon them. They had to learn the important lesson of staying quiet under such conditions.

"Watch for our danger signals, and fight against them," concluded the speaker. A vote of thanks to Mr. Floyd was sponsored by T. E. Hall and C. H. Davidson; the club heartily responding.

A letter was read by the president from the Bowmanville Club, drawing attention to the Spring inter-city meet which will be held by that club at the Bowmanville Boys' Training School on May 13. The guest speaker at this function will be H. Napier Moore, editor of McLean's Magazine.

A suggestion was put forward by H. N. Carr and S. H. Neale that the club sponsor an educational advertising campaign in Campbellford to induce the general public to "buy at home." It was thought that there was a lack of co-operation between the public and merchants of Campbellford resulting in the fact that much shopping was being done out of town, and in the case of bread, much was being shipped in from other towns, and not sufficient home-baked bread used. This was resulting in a decrease in the labor demand which was being felt in Campbellford at the present time.

A SPLENDID MISSION.

Officers of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce are to be congratulated upon the campaign they are carrying on to intereat Canadians in the Imperial Economic Conference and to secure an accurate and informative cross-section of Canadian public opinion in regard to the momentuous gathering to be held in Ottawa in July.

When such visits as that paid to Peterborough by Col. W. L. McGregor, the president of the Canadian Chamber, and his associates are repeated in all parts of the country, Canadian business men and manufacturers will undoubtedly be more keenly interested than ever before in the possibilities of Empire trade, and at the same time the Canadian Chamber will be in possession of a most valuable fund of information to place at the service of the Dominion Government.

The officials of the Chamber do well in their tour to emphasize that there must be "give" as well as "take" in our attitude at the conference, and to stress the importance of buying more as well as selling more from the countries of the Empire.

If that spirit dominates the conference it is safe to say that much that will be of lasting benefit to the whole British Commonwealth will emerge.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is doing most valuable spade-work in the interest of this most important Empire gathering.

WHY NOT PETERBOROUGH?

In connection with the announcement that 200 of Britain's leading industrialists, manufacturers and business heads are to make a four weeks' tour of the Province of Ontario, it is a matter of regret that Peterborough is apparently not included in the itinerary of this important delegation.

The Agent-General for Ontario in London, William C. Nixon, is organizing the tour, and The Examiner suggests to J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., and Mayor Denne that they should get into touch with the Ontario Government and endeavor to have the British delegation visit Peterborough.

This is the home of many important Canadian industries, a good many of them with important Empire connections, and the community would undoubtedly appreciate a chance to welcome these representative British manufacturers and business men and show them our factories and something of how products of world reputation are made here.

A large number of cities in Ontario are mentioned in connection with the British visit, many of them not nearly as important industrially as Peterborough, and there is no reason why this city should not be similarly honored; at least it would be good business for the local authorities to get busy with the necessary invitations before the itinerary of the British party has been definitely completed.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The choice of Alex. L. Elliott, first president of the Peterborough Kinsmen's Club, as governor of district No. 1 of the Kinsmen organization, which includes Quebec and Ontario, is not only a personal tribute to Mr. Elliott, who gave the movement energetic leadership during its first year here, but is a recognition as well of the good work that has been carried on by the Peterborough club since its inception.

This service organization, composed of young men, has in the comparatively short period of its local existence established itself as a power for good in the community, assisting many worth-while efforts, and it is gratifying to note that its work has not gone unnoticed at Kinsmen headquarters, as evidenced by the unanimous selection of Mr. Elliott as district governor.

The new incumbent, a promising young lawyer, whose interest in the work of the Kinsmen has been keen since he first became associated with it, should make a decidedly able and energetic district governor, whose year of office should be marked by steady progress among all the clubs of the district with the possibilities of the district being augmented by the launching of new clubs.

Congratulations are in order to the new governor, to his home club and to the Kinsmen in general upon the wisdom shown in his selection for this responsible and important office.

THE CASE OF THE VETERANS.

While The Examiner agrees with much that the Globe has been saying in regard to the necessity of a more workable pensions system, we cannot help expressing regret that that usually eminently fair journal should so far lose its sense of proportion as to speak of the "whole despicable history of Canada's treatment of her injured ex-soldiers."

Mistakes there have been, undoubtedly; glaring cases of injustice have cropped up, but in the main this country, no matter which political party has been in power, has shown a willingness and a desire to treat ex-service men fairly and even generously, and in the matter of re-establishment allowances, pensions, the training of disabled soldiers, veterans' insurance and the care and hospitalisation of ill and injured war veterans has on the whole provided commendable treatment.

Canada's record in this respect is maligned when it is described as "wholly despicable"; a country that is spending $58,000,000 a year on war veterans has no right to be so attacked.

With the Globe, The Examiner feels that a change in the present machinery, which, it must be remembered, was drafted by the war veterans themselves, is needed, and that the services of the county judges might well be called into use to relieve the congestion.

There is, however, another angle to the situation that cannot be ignored, and The Examiner, which has always fought for fair play and decent treatment for ex-service men, knows that it will not be misunderstood when it points out that much of the present trouble is caused by the registering of a great many very doubtful claims.

Sir Richard Turner, V.C., whose interest in the war veterans' cause is admitted on all sides, declares that 50 per cent. of the present claims have no real basis—in other words, that the pension machinery is being needlessly cluttered up with appeals that are mere fishing expeditions launched with the thought that there is nothing to be lost in trying.

Many complications are from men who, suffering from minor disabilities, commuted their small pensions shortly after the war and accepted a lump sum instead of a small monthly allowance.

Under a provision of the pension regulations revised in 1930, these veterans were given a chance to apply to be reinstated on the pension list, and if their appeals are successful their pension allowance is made retroactive.

In a good many instances there is no pressing need for a speedy consideration of this type of case; where the veteran is employed and is in reasonably good health his claim might well wait until more urgent cases are disposed of.

The Examiner believes that if some local tribunal could be set up in each district to weigh up the merits of the various applications, sort out the emergency cases, and give them the right-of-way over other claims in which a speedy hearing is not essential, there would be a quickening of the whole pension machinery, and the men most in need of assistance would not have to wait for months and even years while the pension tribunal and board are dealing with cases of much less importance.

Such cases as that of Gunner Hewitt arouse the pity of the whole country, and undoubtedly war veterans whose condition is not grave would gladly cooperate in preventing them by waving their claim for consideration in favor of emergency applications.

THE DERBY IS RETURNING.

Observers report that the derby hat is coming back. In the gay nineties it was really the only hat a man wore. There was no choice between that and a cap, with, of course, the plug hat for ceremonial occasions.

The derby is a distinctly dressy hat. A man with a light suit, or indeed any kind of suit, looks well topped-off with a black derby on his apex. It is a more serviceable hat than the floppy fedora which is of recent vintage. Put it away for a few months during the straw hat season and it comes out of the closet in the late fall with its pristine freshness unimpaired. Give it a whisk with the broom, and it is as good as new.

The soft hat has its advantages, but it has more drawbacks. It loses shape easily, and it absorbs the rain. Moreover—and this is quite important to a man who respects the conventions—only the derby lends itself to the correct salutation of a lady friend in the street. He can pinch the peak of his hat daintily between the first finger and the thumb, raise it gracefully in a semi-circle into the air, and replace it deftly on his head without ruffling his hair or performing a feat of jugglery to get it readjusted. Most men raise a soft hat awkwardly, or content themselves with touching the brim, because they just don't know how. They attempt to lift it by the forepart, with the result that it sags in the middle, rumples their back hair, and is neither off nor on. The correct way to raise a soft hat is to grasp it firmly from above at the centre, and then, of course, the shape is ruined in no time.

Women went back to the days of the Empress Eugenie for their styles. Let us men combine to go back to the days of Queen Victoria.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

IMPORTANT SAVINGS.

Whatever one may think of the public ownership principle, of the wisdom of operating two transcontinental railways in Canada or of any other phase of the situation, political or business, it must be admitted that the annual report of the Canadian National shows that every effort is being made to keep expenses to the minimum and thus make the burden on the shoulders of the taxpayers as light as possible.

We think that credit for this satisfactory state of affairs is due both the Government and the management of the road. Premier Bennett and Mr. Manion, his Minister of Railways and Canals, have undoubtedly had an important part in urging and insisting on the widest economies. Sir Henry Thornton and his fellow directors and their officials, on the other hand, have co-operated in splendid fashion to bring about the savings. It is worth keeping in mind, too, that economies instituted late in 1931 will show up much more strongly in the next annual report than in the one tabled recently. In addition, there is an excellent chance that the revenues of the road will improve in the same time.

There is a staggering deficit, of course, due to the general depression and to the inroads of motor bus and truck competition and an ever-increasing use of privately-owned machines. Passenger business, as an example, dropped 30.04 per cent. during the year. General revenue fell 20.28 per cent. Net earnings dropped from $26,595,634.75 to $7,585,729.53, a reduction of $19,009,905.52. Only eight freight items showed an increase in tonnage.

One somewhat consoling feature of the report is that the result of the year's operation of the Canadian National compares favorably with the annual statements of other railways. Indeed, on a comparative basis, the C.N.R. is a little better off than the average. However, our consolation from this must be small, because all the taxpayers have to foot the bills for the National, while only the shareholders, a relatively small part of the general population, must suffer the losses of the other roads.—Border Cities Star.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 19.—There was a firmer tone to the local butter market yesterday and prices were steady with those of the week-end at 19½c to 20c for No. 1, and 18½c to 19c for No. 2. Better conditions at Montreal were reported toward the end of last week, and as supplies from the West were limited firmness was maintained in that city yesterday. Local brokers were able to make some sales, which was an improvement over the first of last week and a fair week's business was expected as there were no indications of the market being overloaded with supplies. Prices for creamery solids were as shown above and the trend was upward, while retailers were quoted prints at 24c for No. 1.

Cream

Cream prices were unchanged. Local buyers were content to hold levels steady with decreases of last week. Country shippers were offered 21c to 22c for specials, 20c to 21c for No. 1, and 17c to 18c for No. 2, f.o.b., country points. There were reports, however, of prices as low as 18c for No. 1, in some districts.

Cheese

The cheese market was a little firmer, but prices were steady for brokers' offerings and to retailers. Brokers quoted new large at 10c to 10¼c, new twins at 10¼c to 10½c, and new triplets at 10½c to 10¾c. Retailers were offered new makes at 12c for large, 12½c for twins, 13½c for triplets, and 14½c for stiltons.

Eggs

Heavier receipts and only an ordinary demand resulted in weakness on the local egg market. There was considerable storing, but supplies were more than sufficient, and prices for storage packed eggs were not inviting to buyers. Country shippers were quoted 1c less per dozen at 14c for extras, 12c for firsts, with seconds steady at 11c, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Brokers' prices for graded eggs, in free, used cases were lower at 16c to 16½c for extras, 14c to 14½c for for firsts, and 13c for seconds; the latter grade only holding steady. Retailers were asked to pay steady prices, but there were reports of lower levels being quoted today. Yesterday they were quoted, extras in cartons, at 21c; extras, loose, at 19c; firsts, loose, at 17c, and seconds, loose, at 15c per dozen.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 19.—Uneasiness about stock market instability, relative to a Senate vote for investigation of agricultural futures trading, led to late downturns in grain values yesterday.

A decrease of more than 6,000,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply had helped strengthen grain prices earlier, but the effect failed to last in the face of enlarged pressure to sell. Showers in drought districts, especially West and Southwest, together with prospects of more substantial moisture relief later, tended also to pull prices down.

Wheat closed nervous at yesterday's bottom, ¼c to 1¼c under Saturday's finish; corn, ½c to ¾c down; oats, ¼c to ½c off, and provisions, unchanged to 5c lower.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 19. — Butter prices continued to advance, while eggs and cheese quotations were lower on the produce and dairy market here yesterday. Potato prices were steady.

Good demand, light receipts and declining stocks here sent fresh or regraded No. 1 butter, in cartons or less, up half a cent : 20c to 20½c a pound. To retailers solids were quoted at 22c and prints at 23c a pound. Receipts were 356 boxes.

Easiness was recorded by Ontario or prairie graded fresh eggs, in cartons or broken lots, extras at 18c, firsts at 16c and seconds at 14c a dozen, all losing half a cent. Quotations to retailers were unchanged and receipts totalled 1,946 cases.

Cheese Loses Half Cent.

Current cheese lost a ¼c to ½c at 10½c to 10¾c a pound, being the first price change in many weeks. Summer make was unchanged at 12c to 12½c a pound, while receipts were 184 boxes.

The potato market was steady, new No. 1 Floridas, per 150-lb., net, barrel, being quoted at $8.50 to $9, with No. 2 brand at $7. Quotations of old potatoes in broken lots per 80-lb. bag were 30c to 40c for Quebec whites and 40c to 45c for Quebec and New Brunswick Green Mountains. Carlot prices of old potatoes were 10c a bag cheaper than the broken lot levels.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 19. — Reports of showers over United States drought territory and word that European countries were liberal wheat purchasers — construed as "good news" by operators on both sides of the trade—lockstepped the wheat market yesterday. Prices at the close rested at ¼ lower to unchanged from Saturday's figure.

May finished ¼c lower at 63¼c; July, ¼c to ¼c lower at 65, and October unchanged to ¼c lower at 67¾c.

Export trade was estimated at 700,000 bushels, mostly Canadian wheat, but including a cargo of Farm Board wheat sold to Greece. This trade helped to offsett the more favorable weather conditions in the winter wheat conditions in the winter wheat territory of the United States.

Marked improvement in the export of wheat from North America featured foreign news. Approximately half of the 15,817,000 bushels shipped from all sources originated in Canada and the United States. Shipments were 2,500,000 greater than those of the previous week, and the biggest since November last.

Cash wheat and coarse grain trade was very light, with prices showing little change.

Nine Young People United With Church

MILLBROOK, Apr. 19 (Examiner Correspondence)—A reception service preceded the sermon at St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning, nine young people were received into full connection, Rev. Mr. Jones conducting the solemn ritual, assisted by the members of the session. Two adults were also added to the church roll at the morning worship.

The sermon was preached by Franklin Bannister, who has spent two years in mission work in the West, and who is a student at Emmanuel College, Toronto, his impressive discourse on "Calvary's Cross" being based on the words found in Matthew 27:42, "Let Him come down from the cross," the infinite value of man in the eyes of God being emphasized, "a doctrine that proved unwelcome to the Jews since to them the nation was everything."

Four things nailed Jesus to the cross, the speaker declared, military power and national pride; politics, wealth, and the church. "Calvary's cross does four very distinctive things that apply to present day life: it guarantees the love of God; it shows once for all the value which God places upon men; it breaks the sinner's heart; and it led to the formation of a new society, the Christian church, for no man can look into the face of Christ and be the same again."

REVENGE ACTUATED SLAYING OF A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN SPY

Feminine Member of Finnish Police Posed as Friend of Fascists.

MURDERERS ESCAPE.

(Special to The Examiner)

HELSINGFORS, April 19 (SNS)—A fantastic story of a woman spy has been revealed in connection with the recent uprising of the Fascist leader, Lapua, when the body of Minna Kraucher, 41, was found near Helsingors, riddled by a dozen bullets.

The police have not been able so far, to trace the murderers, but it seems certain that Lapua men killed her to revenge themselves for being "double-crossed" by that ingenious woman, officials said.

Minna Kraucher, posing as a friend of the Fascists, at the same time was an agent of the Finnish secret police and betrayed whatever she learned from one side to the other and vice versa.

The daughter of a poor worker in Finland born in 1891, she came to Helsingfors in 1917 and earned a living as a barmaid.

Her smiling beauty attracted a host of suitors, including several Russian officers, one of whom eventually took her to Petersburg. There she succeeded in breaking into the most exclusive, aristocratic circles.

She was hired by the Cheka, the Bolshevik secret service, returned to Finland, and was taken back to safety wherever the ground grew too hot for her in Finland.

Finally she reappeared in Helsingfors in 1928 as a Russian princess, kept a big house and entertained many politicians, especially those from the parties of the right. Nobody ever suspected her to be the same woman that functioned as a barmaid seven years before.

Gradually she became a sort of confidante in the Lapua Fascist movement, but only to betray every move to the Finnish secret police. Quite recently, however, her real game became evident and she met with the fate so many women spies endured before her, police believed.

COMPLIMENTS JUDGE HUYCKE

The Editor, Examiner.

Dear sir:

I have just had the pleasure of reading from your valuable columns the recent trial and sentence of two youths at Cobourg, Ontario.

It is apparent that these young fellows, part of an army of our unemployed, after having failed to get work in Toronto, were returning to Montreal as best they could, when they ran foul of bad company at Cobourg, participated in some "canned heat," got into trouble, and finally landed in gaol.

More than one charge was laid against this pair of young fellows, and at their Magistrate's trial, were quickly sentenced to two years' imprisonment.

The more serious charge was sent up for trial, and they appeared before His Honor Judge Huycke of this city.

Instead of adding to these young fellow's troubles by harsh words and a further severe sentence, this most human Judge gave them some very fatherly advice, such as he is well able to do, gave them a concurrent sentence, and asked that they write to their mothers, and also make the best use of their time whilst in confinement so as to be better fitted upon their release.

The writer has travelled this earth extensively and has met magistrates and judges by the hundreds, but he has yet to meet the equal of our own Judge Huycke.

He combines justice with mercy; he is dignified and commands the respect of all; he is most gentlemanly, and above all, he is human.

Yours truly,
"IMPERIAL."

BURDENING THE FARMER

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:

In your editorial page recently, under the heading, "Encouraging the Farmer" reference is made to the terrific struggle to keep going that is the lot of a farmer with a clear title to his farm. It is further stated that the position of the unfortunate neighbour who has to pay off a mortgage can well be appreciated. We understand that ninety per cent of the farms in this county are mortgaged, so that many of us are the "unfortunate neighbours."

We appreciate your statement that "our fellow-Canadians in the country should not be given cause to feel that they have been deserted in their hour of need, and that the urban communities are indifferent to their difficulties."

There are two or three ways in which our city friends contribute to our misfortunes, perhaps unconsciously, but none the less surely.

First, the manufacturers and merchants will not lower their prices in keeping with the reduction of prices of farm produce. One reason probably is that very many city dwellers who still receive the same salaries or income as three years ago, or at least have had only small cuts, are well able to pay 1929 prices and the merchants know that. The farm population, though equal to the city population, doesn't seem to count for so much with them.

Then all the city housekeepers, who demand and receive delivery of goods to their doors twice daily and even oftener from many stores, if some small article is forgotten, are keeping up the prices to help pay for this added expense to the merchant. It is most unjust that the farmer's wife who makes her purchases at the store should have to pay the same prices as the city woman. Why is the city housekeeper not asked to pay directly for the delivery of goods? Why does the merchant expect the country buyer to pay a high price to cover this high cost of delivery? Of course we do not include the two or three cash and carry grocery stores found in most cities. But there is no opportunity for the farmers to buy clothing, hardware, drugs, etc. by the cash and carry system, or even groceries in the smaller places.

Also city housewives for some unknown reason, have three or four milk wagons, all supposed to be selling pure pasteurized milk, passing along each street every morning, and the same with bread wagons. This lowers the price paid for milk or wheat to the primary producer, the farmer, and also raises the retail prices so that there is less demand for these products.

Merchants and middlemen, belonging to the urban communities, get too large profits in handling country produce. I just read from the same page of your paper that the second middleman who handles our eggs, that is the one buying from the country shippers, usually merchants, and selling to the retail men in the cities, is asking six cents more than he pays per dozen. There are the other two middlemen and the railway or trucker to take their profit besides him. Little wonder that the farmer's wife is getting only twelve cents a dozen and can make no profit on that. Or that the city man's wife has to pay more than she thinks is just and does not buy as many eggs.

I am sure that other farmers can add to this list of ways in which city dwellers are adding to our burdens.

WEE BIT DISCOURAGED.

GEORGE ARMSTRONG RESIGNS POSITION

Interesting Program Provided at Meeting of Trent River League.

TRENT RIVER, April 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The league meeting for Friday night had an attendance of 58. The president, George Armstrong, had charge of the opening exercises. Miss B. French presided at the piano.

The president, George Armstrong, placed his resignation to the league. Owing to his school duties, he would be unable to keep the position. The resignation was accepted under the circumstances.

Rev. S. A. Kemp expressed his regrets on the resignation and felt profoundly sorry as he looked forward to the retiring president making a big mark in the church, and wished him every prosperity, and also moved a vote of thanks for the efficient way he carried on the work of the league. R. W. Umphrey voiced Rev. Mr. Kemp's sentiments. A hearty hand-clap was given the retiring president, who replied suitably.

Rev. Mr. Kemp was called upon to act as chairman and proceeded with nominations for the new office. The following were nominated, but the election will take place a week later: Mrs. Thomas J. Brown, Mrs. John Scott, Miss M. Inkster, Messrs. Rufus Redden, Gerald Buchanan, Earl Vanvolkenburg.

Clifford Chaplin took over the program for the social and literary part, as follows.

Scripture reading, Clifford Chaplin; short address by R. W. Umphrey, during which Miss Helen Brown recited "Barbara Fritzie"; instrumental piano duet, Misses Margaret and Helen Brown; vocal solo, "Love That Passeth Knowledge," Mrs. John Scott; instrumental duet, Gerald Buchanan (harmonica), George Armstrong (Jew's harp); recitation, Fred. Alley; ukelele number, Clayton Revoir; recitation, Clara Chaplin; instrumental, violin and piano, George Brooks and Miss Edna Brooks, who responded to a hearty encore; Clifford Chaplin related some Scotch and Irish jokes; instrumental, piano, Miss Bessie Inkster; guitar, instrumental, Bud Inkster; piano solo, "Fairy Queen" (Krogman), Miss Betty Ormiston. The sides grouped for a contest, conducted by Clifford Chaplin. The khaki, red and white sides tied for first place.

The dining hall was cleared and the assembly joined hands in "Old Dusty Miller" to secure partners for lunch, which was served by a number of ladies present.

A WHOLE VILLAGE FOR SALE FOR ONLY $2,400

Burnhaven Was for Long the Cradle of a Spartan Race

Aberdeen, Scotland.—Burnhaven, a hamlet hidden away behind the grim mass of Peterhead convict prison, is for sale en bloc for £500.

Founded a hundred years ago by hardy fishermen from Cairnbulg, the village, now comprising between 30 and 40 houses, was for long the cradle of a Spartan race who were eventually forced to move to Peterhead and other ports through the distintegration of Burnhaven harbor and other changes which made it impossible for them longer to carry on their work from the village of their birth.

Now the population is altered. As the fishermen left their old homes, 30 or 40 years ago, other workers took them over, such as admiralty employees at the Harbor of Refuge, laborers, etc. Then gradually further changes took place, until to-day there is a preponderance of old people and widows, who are able to live quietly and cheaply in this quaint spot that remains so wholly untouched by the progress of the modern world.

Three pounds a year is the rent of the majority of the houses, which are chiefly of the "but-and-ben" type with old-fashioned red-tiled roofs.

They are tiered above one another in rows on the side of a steep slope rising up from the water's edge, exposed to the fury of the easterly gales that sweep in from the North Sea. The population numbers a little over 100.

A few of the residents own their own homes, purchased from the trustees who administer the property at prices ranging from £16 to £30, but included in the sale are 33 dwellings and the foreshore rights.

NAVAL ARSENAL SHEDS BURN.

BUENOS AIRES, April 19 (C P.). — Four of the eight sheds of the huge naval arsenal here were destroyed by fire last night. The fire, which was fought through the night by a force of 300 firemen and marines, seriously threatened a wide area for a time. The sheds were of frame construction and were used as supply depots for the foodstuffs and unusable material.

INTERLISTED STOCKS FIRM AT NOON HOUR

Opening at Fraction Under, Issues Regain Losses in Morning Session.

OILS SLIGHTLY HIGHER.

C.P.R. Opens Unchanged But Firms Slightly With Rails in New York.

TORONTO, April 19 (C.P.).—Toronto Stock Exchange Market was soft this morning but not weak, turnover being too restricted to permit violent price reactions.

Most of the interlisted issues came out fractions under last night and in the second hour picked up part of those losses, with the result net changes at midday were of no significance. Those stocks still slightly under their previous close included Bell Telephone, Brazilian, Ford of Canada, which touched a new low under 9, Massey-Harris, Page-Hersey Tubes and Dominion Stores. C.P.R. opened unchanged at 14 but later firmed slightly with the rails in New York.

Oils were unchanged to a small fraction higher, the trading very narrow in this section of the list. Walkers remained firm, the common up slightly, and the Preferred unchanged at 9½.

STRENGTH SEEN LEADING GOLDS

General List Makes Poor Showing During To-day's Trading on Standard.

OILS UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, April 19. (CP) Trading was sluggish on the Standard stock and mining exchange to-day. Volume was below that of the previous session, and outside of strength in the higher-priced gold stocks, the market made a poor showing.

International Nickel and Noranda sold at slightly lower levels, chiefly on odd lot transactions. Eldorado was firm but Keeley dipped.

Hollinger and Dome each gained 25 cents. Wright-Hargraves added more than 10 cents, and Teck-Hughes was up about a nickel. The cheaper golds were reactionary, fractional declines occurring in Siscoe, Bidgood, Big Missouri, Buffalo, and Howey.

Kirkland Lake was firmer.

Oils held close to previous closing levels, in light trading.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 19. —(CP)— Prime commercial paper 3½-3¾ per cent. Foreign exchange easy, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain 3.78½; France 3.94 916; Italy 5.14; Germany 23.74; Canadian dollars at 9⅞ percent discount.

TORONTO, April 19 (C.P.). — Exchange rates at noon to-day were as follows:

Pound sterling, Montreal, 4.20½.
Pound sterling, New York, 3.78¾.
Canadian dollar, New York, 90½.

Centurian Splits 50 Cords Wood

BROCKVILLE, April 19 (CP) —R. McLaughlan, 100 years old, who lives at York Mills, with his son-in-law, Victor Purvis, demonstrates that he is no weakling. During the winter he split no fewer than 50 cords of stovewood and performed other chores about the homestead.

Councillor Shippobotham of Cardiff, Wales, has protested against dancing of the Black Bottom in the city.

Canadian Legion Members Visit Vimy

IN FLANDERS FIELD—NEW AIR LINER—RECONSTRUCTED HISTORY

Accompanied by many leading members of the Canadian community in Paris, a large detachment of the Canadian Legion visited Vimy Ridge and went over old trenches where the Canadian troops fought so gallantly during the war. The group shown in number (1) included Mme. Pacquette, Mme. Dupre, Mme. Bray, Colonel H. Barre and Hon. Maurice Dupre, Canadian solicitor-general. The new French ship Bleriot, shown in number (2) is duel in the respect that it has two separate passenger cabins. Accommodations are made for twelve passengers and a crew of four. Number (3) shows a model of one of the temples of Babylon which was about 300 feet high, reconstructed from plans by the late Prof. Keldewy in Berlin by Ernst Stegemann for the Oriental Institute in Chicago.

FINANCIERS PREDICT EARLY RETURN OF GOLD STANDARD

International Capital Flowing Back to London at Fast Pace.

BUYING IN POUND.

(By Frank H. McConnell, A.P. Financial Writer.)

NEW YORK, April 19. — International capital, seeking employment at a profit, is flowing back to London at a rate which some financiers say presage the early return of London to its role of "world banker."

Added interest attaches to the comeback because London only recently seemed on the verge of disaster when England suspended the gold basis.

Foreign exchange dealers report that buying of the British pound sterling, which is a necessary part of the shifting of international capital to London, continues to feature all foreign exchange markets.

Bankers also say the return flow of funds to London has been helped by recent action taken in Europe. Bankers in Holland and Switzerland have served notice on the world they do not want surplus capital to come pouring into those countries.

Just before the collapse of sterling from the gold standard Septtmber 21, and estimated £200,000,000 or at that time approximately $1,000,000,000 or short term foreign balances were pulled out of London. The bulk of this money is said to have fled to the continent.

Since England's withdrawal from from the gold standard, London has not been obliged to buy all the gold that has come her way. She has shifted this responsibility to France which already has all the gold she needs but, being a gold country, is obligated to buy up all the gold offered her.

With the pound sterling quoted now around $3.79 in New York and $4.20 in Montreal against its January low of $3.35½, the flow of international capital to London appears to be continuing.

As a means of preventing too rapid a rise at the expense of British trade, the British government has been selling sterling and using a portion of the balances thus built up to buy her own bonds in foreign countries. The rise this week of British 5½ percents to above par is said to be due in part to this policy.

O'BRIEN POWER

purchase of the O'Brien rights would be a good political stroke or not. In another letter dated Aug. 24, 1928, Mr. Kerry wrote the O'Brien firm that "he had unqualified assurance" of the friendliness of the premier to the proposed deal. The witness said his recollection was that this assurance had come from Mr. Aird. The question of "political expediency" was mentioned by Mr. Kerry as a reason for the delay in bringing the negotiations to a successful issue.

Officials of the Hydro Commission are attending the enquiry including Hon. I. B. Lucas, K.C., general counsel for the Hydro Commission.

PAUL DE BRYUN

Mass. Then followed Leslie Pawson of Paytucket, R.I., Ed. Cudworth of Toronto trotted in behind Pawson.

De Bruyn was a newcomer to the race here. He had established a reputation in his home land and then came to the United States to gain another. After running in several races he returned to Germany last fall and won the German Marathon and then returned to these shores to register victories over some of the best the United States had to offer in the long distance running line.

RAILROAD MAY CLOSE

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 19 (A.P.) Closing of the Transandine Railroad chief traffic link between Chile and Argentina, seemed inevitable to-day, as last-minute conferences last night failed to reach an agreement on problems which, the road's managers say, make continued operation impossible.

One of these is a prohibitive tariff on imports of Argentine cattle into Chile which has cut the freight volume from the eastern end.

Czechoslovakia may increase its sales tax by 25 per cent.

Shows Exceptional Talent

WOOD CARVING IS HAMILTON HOBBY

A talent for the fine wood carving has been discovered by Rev. Frank Kovacs of the Hungarian Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, among his parishioners. The hobby is one which may develop into a household industry. The picture shows two sample paper knives carved from maple.

CHAMBERLAIN'S BRITISH BUDGET

The increased tax on beer would remain for another year.

The Chancellor estimated expenditure in the fiscal year just opened at £766,000,000, and receipts —exclusive of the new import duties—at £731,300,000.

Addition revenue of £20,000,000 from the general 10 per cent. import duties; £1,000,000 from the Abnormal Importations duty, and £5,000,000 from additional import duties to be announced, reduce the estimated deficit to £1,700,000.

Old Tea Duty Revived

Mr. Chamberlain announced a revival of an old tea duty of four pence per pound, with an Imperial preference of 50 per cent. Thus duty on Empire tea will be two pence per pound.

The Chancellor announced an increase of one shilling per hundredweight in preference for all colonial sugar imported into the United Kingdom for the next five years. Duties on foreign and Dominion sugars would be unchanged.

He also proposed to grant during the same period a special supplementary preference equal to another shilling on a limited quantity of colonial sugar to be allocated by the Colonial Office among sugar-producing colonies in proportion to their exports. The sugar changes would be operative from to-morrow.

All silk import duties would be on an ad valorem basis in the future.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

TORONTO EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, April 19 (C.P.). — Price level remained practically unchanged during afternoon trading on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. There had been slight price recessions during the morning.

Bell Telephone fluctuated more widely than most pivotal shares, declining 1½ points to a new all-time low of 88½. Goodyear Tire sold at 58, down a couple of points from the previous sale. C.P.R. was up a small fraction, a reflection of the improved sentiment towards rails in New York. Dome Mines rost to $9.90, up nearly $1.00 from last night, after announcement that an extra dividend of 20 cents could be paid in addition to the regular dividend of 25 cents.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 19 (C.P.). — The Stock Market had a heavy closing tone to-day, although reactions were moderate and volume approximated only a million shares. Most of the slow selling was in industrials. U.S. Steel eased under 30 for an extreme decline of 1½, and American Can dipped 2, later reducing its loss. American Telephone also sagged 2 but made partial recovery. Rails were firm, Santa Fe rising a point.

STANDARD EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 19. (C.P.) — Strength among higher-priced gold stocks partially offset the effect of continued softness in other groups on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day.

Declaration by Dome directors of the regular 25-cent quarterly dividend and an extra of 20 cents a share payable July 20 resulted in a brisk upswing in Dome shares. Price touching $9.95 and closing up 75 cents on the day. Lake Shore recovered 50, Hollinger 20, Granada and Wright-Hargreaves 10 apiece and Teck-hughes a few cents.

FIFTY POLICE GUARD LONDON GOD OF LOVE

29 Arrests At Celebration of Boat Race and Football Victories

London.—Eros, the statue to the god of love, who suffered so grievously during the New Year celebration, was the central figure in the boat race and rugby international festivities in the West End, with this result:

Fifty or more constables formed a double-ring guard around him.

Thousands of boisterous merry-makers swarmed into Piccadilly Circus and cheered him, and there were 29 arrests.

But no damage was done to Eros. Oxford undergraduates forgot their defeat on the river and Scotsmen forgot their trouncing at Twickenham.

That night, for the first time for many years, both university rowing crews saw the same show—"Bow Bells" at the Hippodrome, and there was no disturbance.

TRYING TO CURB TUBERCULOSIS

Medical Men Requested to Report Cases to Board of Health.

BOAD MEETS.

In an effort to combat the spread of communicable diseases, especially tuberculosis, the medical men of the city will be requested to report all such cases that come under their care to the local Board of Health.

This was the decision reached this morning by the members of the Board of Health at its regular meeting. Dr. N. H. Sutton, District M. O. H., brought to the Board's attention the need of closer co-operation by the medical men with local health officials. He urged the Board to pass the resolution requesting the doctors to report communicable diseases to the Board as required by rules and regulations of the Health Act.

"With the reporting of such cases, especially tuberculosis, proper steps can be taken to examine those who have come in contact with the disease, and by proper treatment in this way reduce the number of patients who through the ravages of the disease become public charges on the community," explained Dr. Sutton.

Letter From Department

Dr. Sutton read a letter which he had received from the Department of Health. It read as follows:

"The depression through which we have been passing may have an important effect on our mortality rates during the next five year period. The lack of wages means a lack of food, a lack of proper nourishment, a lack of resistance. These things are predisposing factors to tuberculosis, the greatest killer in the ages between twenty and forty.

"Allow me to ask your co-operation in protecting your municipality against the evident danger of the present stringent period. Tuberculosis is a disease of the wage earner. It is the most expensive disease with which we have to deal, because of its chronic nature, the cost of treatment, but chiefly because it strikes at the bread winner. May I advise that you bring immediately to comb your municipality for suspects, exposed children and members of families affected. The Department can help you by confirming or removing your suspicions. Make an application for a clinic in your municipality if you feel that conditions in your municipality will reasonably justify the departmental expenditure involved."

Agreeing to the suggestion that the doctors should be requested to report all cases of communicable diseases to the Board of Health, a resolution was passed instructing City Clerk Armstrong, secretary of the Board to write letters to the medical men in the city, telling them of the Board's decision.

The co-operation of the local Medical Association will be sought also and a clinic may be set up to which the doctors will give their service gratis. This was the suggestion of Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

Dr. T. W. H. Young, M.O.H., reported the milk supplied to the city to be first class as shown by the recent inspection.

The Department of Health will be asked to send an inspector here to make a thorough examination of the four pasteurizing plants supplying milk to the city. The members of the Board will accompany the inspector on his visit to the plants.

Dr. Young stated that the measles epidemic was declining in the city, the number of cases known to him being greatly reduced. In March there were four cases of measles and two of scarlet of fever confined to St. Mary's hospital.

discharged and the load had plowed into his breast."

Kelly advanced the theory that in climbing over the fence Gallagher's gun had become entangled and was accidentally discharged. "That's what we think," he declared.

Gallagher is survived by his wife and four young children, the oldest being ten.

"He was popular throughout the country-side?" Kelly said. "He was born in this neighborhood and had lived here all his life."

OMEMEE DROPS OLD HOME WEEK

Citizens Not Unanimous in Sponsoring Project.

OMEMEE VILLAGE NEWS

OMEMEE, April 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A large gather[illegible] the citizens met in the Coronation Hall Friday evening to discuss plans for a proposed old home week in July. Many arguments for and against were listened to, and after much discussion it was finally put to a vote whether or not it was deemed advisable to go forward with the undertaking. The vote was practically a deadlock, so the committee had to regretfully give up the project. As the body of the hall was to be used for dancing, the meeting adjourned to the council chambers, and here it was decided by the Athletic Association to hold the annual sports day on May 24 with an entertainment in the Coronation Hall at night. The Rev. J. T. E. Blanchard, Horace Hill and John Bent were appointed to lay plans for this entertainment.

W.M.S. Holds Quilting.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held a quilting at the home Mrs. David Belch on Wednesday afternoon. On the completion of the sewing, supper was served by the hostess.

At the Ladies' Aid meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, held at the home of Mrs. O. G. Williamson on Thursday afternoon, it was decided that the ladies would hold a bake sale at Mr. Hendry's store on Saturday, April 30.

The Women's Association of Trinity United Church held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Ivory on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Sandy, the president, took charge of the business. Several letters of appreciation were read by the secretary. Arrangements were made for a supper, followed by an evening of games, the date of which will be decided on later. Following the singing of a hymn, the meeting closed with the benediction.

Masons Meet.

The monthly meeting of Lorne Lodge, A. F. & A. M., took place in the lodge rooms at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance on hand. Owing to the absence of the secretary and the junior warden, substitutes were appointed to these positions. An application for membership was received and was passed on to a committee to investigate. A letter was read from the D.D.G.M. informing the lodge that he would make his official visit here on Wednesday June 8. Bros. N. Clemett and A. Jones were present from Peterborough and Bro. H. Bradley from Lansdowne, all three being called on for a few words.

Falls Is Divided Over School Problem

(Examiner Correspondence)

LINDSAY, April 19.—The residents of Fenelon Falls are at present divided into rival camps over a school issue, which is likely to reach the courts. For some time the Continuation School in the village has been totally inadequate to meet present day requirements. The Department of Education has at different intervals drawn the board's attention to the fact that the building, etc., was not up to requirements and that the grant would be withheld if steps were not taken to improve conditions.

What was really required was a new school building. The situation had reached the point when it was exceedingly difficult to secure a sufficient number to serve on the School Board, a second election being necessary. This development was due to the fact that the council would not advance sufficient money to bring the school up to the standard required by the department. Some weeks ago, however the council passed a by-law to raise the sum of $30,000 to build a new school Reeve Foster Kelly breaking the tie by voting in favor of the resolution.

The action of the council provoked a storm of protest on the part of those who held that in view of present economic conditions, the ratepayers could ill afford to assume such a burden. Reeve Kelly, therefore resigned his position in the council. A meeting of the ratepayers has been held to discuss the situation. Premier Henry, Minister of Education, had informed the ratepayers that the people of the village must determine the matter for themselves. The meeting decided to obtain the advice of a solicitor in order to ascertain if the village council's action had been legal. The legal firm of Frost & Frost was consulted, and the opinion was expressed that the council's action could not be sustained.

On information laid by C. N. R. Constable Morden, three small boys appeared before Police Magistrate Jordan on Saturday, charged with destroying railway property. The youths entered a coach in the local yards and destroyed the upholstery on some of the seats. Two of the boys were sentenced to St. John's Industrial school and the third was given suspended sentence.

Obituary

MRS. ROBERT GRAY

ROSENEATH, April 19 (Examiner Correspondence)—The very sudden death occurred on Thursday morning early of Mrs. Robert Gray of Alderville. Deceased was a lady highly respected among the Indians on the Reserve. She was twice married, her first husband, the late Frank Smoke predeceased her many years ago and also her second husband, the late Robert Gray.

The funeral took place from her late residence on Saturday forenoon and conveyed to the Alderville Church where the funeral service was conducted by the Rev. R. W. Paton, M.A. and who spoke words of hope, faith and comfort from the text chosen, "O death where is Thy sting, O grave where is Thy victory."

Deaceased who was 76 years old, her maiden name was Rebeocah Taylor and was born at Curve Lake but her married life was spent at Alderville, where she made a great many friends who gave evidence by the very large gathering that attended her funeral.

She is survived by five sons, Frank, John, William, Noah and Levi, all of Alderville and two daughters, Mrs. M. Howard, Hiawatha and Mrs. George Gray of Alderville.

The pall-bearers were her five sons and grandson, William Smoke, Jr.

Interment was in the Alderville Indian cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS FITZGERALD

BRIDGENORTH, Apr. 19 (Examiner Correspondence)—The funeral of the late Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, of Smith Township was held on Wednesday afternoon from her late residence to Lakefield cemetery, where burial was made. The funeral services at the house and graveside were conducted by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

The late Mrs. Fitzgerald was taken suddenly ill on Tuesday, with a stroke, having been in fairly good health up to that time, and was in her ninetieth year. She was of a quiet and reserved disposition but had made a host of friends.

Survivors are two sons Arthur and Wilbert at home; two daughters, Miss Agnes at home and Mrs. McCoy, of Peterborough; also four sisters.

Pall-bearers were Fred Roseborough, Roland Denne, Bert Allen, Alex Fitzgerald, Clarke Garbutt and Bruce Fitzgerald.

Many beautiful floral tributes bore evidence of the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Fitzgerald was held.

MRS. GEORGE HODGE.

LAKEFIELD, April 19.—(Examiner Correspondence).—An old resident of Lakefield passed away on Thursday in Port Arthur at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. S. Wiley, in the person of Mrs. George Hodge. She was born in Smith Township on the farm now occupied by R. H. Knox. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Willie Ray (her maiden name was Agnes Ray) and was a cousin of the late Miss Mary Ray. The deceased taught on the staff of the Lakefield Public School until her marriage to Dr. Hodge. After some years' residence in the village, Dr. and Mrs. Hodge removed to Mitchell and later to London, Ontario, where they made their permanent home. Interment was made in London on Saturday, April 16.

New Chemical Plant For Canadian Firm

The chemists and engineers of Canadian Industries Limited are at present actively engaged in designing a commercial plant to be built at Copper Cliff, Ontario, to produce Sodium and Aluminum Sulphates. These chemicals are to be recovered from waste slag by a new process developed by Canadian Industries Limited. A sufficient quantity of slag is produced at the International Nickel Mine to allow approximately 15,000 tons of sodium sulphate and 25,000 tons of aluminum sulphate to be reclaimed annually.

Copper and nickel sulphides are found in the same ore body at the International Nickel property. To separate these two minerals that company uses the Orford process which leaves as a waste product a slag rich in soda and alumina which can now be treated with a cheap sulphuric acid to produce sodium and aluminum sulphates. The sulphuric acid which will be used in the process is being made by Canadian Industries Limited from smelter fumes which formerly were going to waste in the air.

Do you always ——

GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR

when you shop?

When you shop, do you always get your favorite packaged products—the ones you ask for?

Or do you sometimes yield to the persuasion of insistent clerks and let them sell you, instead, other products which they claim are "just as good?"

If you have ever purchased these "just as good" brands, you know how frequently such unfamiliar products disappoint you. Compared with the brands you know and like and ask for, these others often fail to give you the money's worth which you have every right to expect.

Why, then, should any clerk ever urge you to buy them? Usually there is only one reason. But for your own protection, bear it constantly in mind.

Whenever you find any store continually urging you to buy strange products in place of the dependable brands you ask for, this is generally true: The merchant reaps an extra profit, or his clerk a commission, by switching you to the unknown, often inferior merchandise!

Many of the best stores everywhere forbid this practise. When you buy from them you are always sure of getting exactly what you ask for, with full value in the merchandise you want for every penny you spend.

But if you are urged to buy something "just as good" as the thing you ask for, refuse it! Insist on products you know by experience, or by reputation. Such products are often advertised in this newspaper. Get the brands you ask for, and you'll avoid many a disappointment!

Peterborough's "PURSE STRINGS"

are in her hands---

WHEN it comes to a matter of buying, of spending the family household allowance, whether the purchase be one of commodities or amusements, of business or professional service—whether they be considered necessities or luxuries; it is, in the vast majority of cases, the woman who influences the final decision. For women are the logical purchasing agents of the home, the guardians of household budgets and the custodians of the "Purse Strings" in the average family.

YOUR most important prospective customers are women. Prospects waiting to be told about the values and the services you have to offer. Prospects ready to become buyers in YOUR store. And clever buyers they are too, abreast of the times. They KNOW what, when and where to buy most advantageously, because they rely on the information gained from consistently reading the advertising in this newspaper, to guide them in their buying.

YOU can most economically reach these buyers with the story of your store through this same medium. For YOUR advertising messages in the Examiner are placed in the same hands that control the operation of Peterborough's "Purse Strings."

DEMOE IS GIVEN TWO-YEAR TERM

Real Battle Expected for Vacant Reeveship of Fenelon Falls.

SCHOOL QUESTION ISSUE

LINDSAY, April 19 (Examiner Correspondence)—Nominations for the vacant reeveship at Fenelon Falls takes place on April 25 and a lively battle is anticipated for the office. The contest will be fought on the Continuation School issue. The council was deadlocked on the question of raising $30,000 for the new school, and it needed the casting vote of Reeve Kelly, who voted in favor of the by-law.

A gang of Peterborough workmen have been engaged for some time on the Hydro line from Fenelon Falls to Coboconk. It is expected the work will be finished in about ten days.

Two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary was the sentence meted out to Clarence Demoe by Police Magistrate Jordan this morning, on the charge of being unlawfully at large from the Ontario Reformatory. Demoe, it appears, wrote a phoney letter purporting to be from one who was anxious to give him employment and look after him in case he was paroled.

Clarence Spenceley, aged 17 years a resident of Cambray, was to-day sentenced to ten days in jail for stealing a quantity of maple syrup, this sentence to run consecutively with a like sentence for drunkenness.

Characterizing the police as "dubs," and displaying ingratitude for the liberty given him by the court last Monday in being allowed to go home on remand to help his sick wife, Fred Matthewson, town, received a three months' sentence on the charge of "having." The accused went to his home all right, but extracted a couple of bottles of moonshine which the police had overlooked from the woodbox and got gloriously drunk on the contents.

Seeding operations were in full swing in this district this time last year, but farmers will not be on the ground until May 1st this year. The ground at present is very wet, and frost every evening did not give it much chance to dry out. Some of the farmers report a shortage of feed. Fifteen per cent less beef cattle sold from this county during the months of May and June this year is the prediction from the local Agricultural Office. Poor prices are mainly held responsible.

A "small" maple syrup season is being reported by many farmers in this district. The quality is just as high, but the quantity will only be about two-thirds that of last year. The low run was attributable to the fact that sap had run some during the winter, and after the trees had been tapped, bad weather set in. W. I. Reid, of Reaboro, has a fine grove of 500 trees, and he is the authority for the statement that the year will be a lean one.

This ALL-CANADIAN ACOUSTIC TILE Controls Nerve-Shattering Noise

The medical profession are agreed that the nerve strain caused by the cacophony of ear-shattering noise of our modern civilization is injurious to health. The clatter of dishes in restaurants, the clacking of typewriters and the din of traffic are but a few of the noises that distract and depress. Fortunately the worst features of noise—reverberation and echo—can be eliminated to a point where the actual noise itself creates very little irritation and nerve strain. This is particularly true in hospitals, churches and offices, where sound is reflected from hard wall and ceiling surfaces, and becomes a jumble, making hearing very difficult.

Donnacona Acoustic Tile brings the quiet of the forest to hospitals, churches, offices, etc. It is made of wood fibres processed in such a way as to capture echo and reverberation, and thus eliminate the most injurious features of the noise nuisance. Buildings equipped with Donnacona Acoustic Tile are remarkably quiet and restful. It can be applied with ease, and is surprisingly low in cost.

Sound Absorbing Efficiency

TYPE C

. . . has been designed to give a high coefficient of sound absorption. Tests show an absorption coefficient of between 49 percent and 58.6 percent. Its concealed channel construction gives it greater sound-absorbing surface. This type is particularly suitable for the correction of all conditions where the noise nuisance is acute.

TYPE B

. . . has been designed for use under conditions where the acoustical correction, while essential, is not so exacting as in those cases where Type "C" is employed. Absorption efficiency 45 percent to 52 percent.

TYPE A

. . . finds its greatest application where conditions are such that a low-price acoustical tile answers the requirements. It has a plain sanded surface with a remarkably high efficiency (28 percent to 35 percent), considering its cost.

SURPRISES AWAIT PRINCESS ON HER 6TH BIRTHDAY SOON

Little Cottage Given by People of Wales Has Been Completely Restored.

RIDES EVERY DAY

BY BETTY TWIST
(Special to The Examiner, Copyright 1932).

LONDON, April 19 (SNS.) — Princess Elizabeth has been ticking off the days to her birthday. A party is a real treat for her, under the wise regime of the Duchess of York, they come few and far between. Every member of the royal family makes a special effort on this occasion and if other engagements prevent them from attending the princess' birthday party, they never neglegt to send her an extrac special token of their affection. The Duchess of York is consulted about the presents, for otherwize Uncle David and the other princes might be too extravagant or make mistakes about the sort of gift which appeals to a little girl who has been trained to find her pleasure in simple childish things. But the Duvhess of York will keep all secrets until April 21.

There is one secret, however, in which Princess Elizabeth has been allowed to share, and that is the "Y Bwthyn Back to Gwelit" (The Little Cottage with the Straw Roof) the gift of the people of Wales, which has been completely restored after the fire which destroyed a portion of the roof. It is now on exhibition until the great day when it is given into the keeping of its owner. She has consoled herself for the delay by consulting with her mother as to the best situation for it. It will stand in Windsor Park near the royal lodge, the new home of the Duke and Duchess of York. The little rockery just in front is her own special garden and she must see to the raking and the sweeping and the planting of seeds between the crazy paving. The addition of the splendid new toy will strengthen her sense of responsibility towards her gardening task.

Will Visit Pets

After she has examined her presents the princess will go to tell her animals all about them. First of all she must visit her own dog and her own pony, and then the other domestic pets in turn. When, during the absence of her parents on their overseas tour she stayed with her grandmother, Lady Strathmore, at St. Pauls Walden, although she had not reached her first birthday, she found here for special playmates two great Chinese Chows, Brownie and Blackie, who became so attached to her that they always escort her up to the nursery at bedtime. A story is told of how during the King's illness she took her walks from Piccadilly to Buckingham with a lump of sugar tightly clasped in her hand which she gave to his parrot, Charlotte, saying that it must be consoled for the King's absence.

The royal chef has baked a sugar cake for her birthday and when the family gather round the nursery tea table it will be decorated with six candles.

During her six years Princess Elizabeth has grown in health, beauty and wisdom. Her fresh complexion and sturdy build are due in no small measure to her open-air life. When they are in the country the Duchess of York plans all sorts of picnic meals, even breakfast being out of doors. In town the princesses go for a ride every day and, unless the weather is particularly bad, it is always in an open carriage drawn by horses. Princess Elizabeth is allowed to run about freely in the gardens. Passers by her Piccadilly home may sometimes catch a glimpse of her scampering round, her fair curls blowing in the breeze. Her everyday clothes rely for their charm on their colors and trimness.

Studies French Now

The princess' life, however, is not all play. She has her lessons to do. French has just been added to her studies. She can read simple books and on the strength of this she considers herself qualified to take a hand in her baby sister's education by explaining to her the gaily painted wooden letters which are nailed to her bricks. Dancing is more of a pleasure than a task to her. When she finishes her course she has been promised that she will be able to perform some of the steps of the old Highland dances.

Her training must be directed to her future responsibilities. Discipline is all-important and Princess Elizabath has learnt patience, not an easy achievement to one of her impetuous disposition. When she visits the photographer—and she is the most-photographed child in England—she remains perfectly still throughout. A greater ordeal the sitting to artists. The final tribute to her as a model is a six inch high (indicative of her six years) statue in porcelain which has just been added to the Queen's collection.

CHICKEN SHORTCAKE

2 cups pastry flour
(or 1¾ cups of bread flour)
3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1 egg ½ cup water

Sift dry ingredients; add shortening and mix in thoroughly with a steel fork; add beaten egg and sufficient water to make soft dough. Roll or pat out with hands on floured board. Cut out with large floured biscuit cutter, or half fill greased muffin rings which have been placed on greased baking pan. Bake in hot oven at 475° F. about 12 minutes. Split and butter while hot, and fill with hot creamed chicken. Makes 6 shortcakes.

Chicken Shortcake

"I always use and recommend Magic Baking Powder," says Miss Alice Moir, Dietitian of one of Montreal's finest apartment-hotel restaurants. "Magic combines efficiency and economy to the highest degree. Besides, it always gives dependable results."

In whole-hearted agreement with Miss Moir, the majority of Canadian dietitians and cookery teachers use Magic exclusively. And 3 out of 4 Canadian housewives use Magic because it gives consistently better baking results.

No wonder Magic outsells all other baking powders combined!

Favour your family with Chicken Shortcake—made with Magic as Miss Moir directs. Note its delicate flavour, its feather lightness!

Free Cook Book—When you bake at home, the new Magic Cook Book will give you dozens of recipes for delicious baked foods. Write to Standard Brands Ltd., Fraser Ave. and Liberty St., Toronto, Ont.

Ministers Will Receive Degrees

At the convocation in divinity of Victoria University to be held in Bloor St. United Church, Toronto, April 19, the degree of doctor of divinity (honoris causa) will be conferred upon: Rev. David Strathy Dix, M.A., Ph.D. (1), professor in St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon, Sask.; Rev. Charles Wesley Demille, B.A. (2), pastor of Central United Church, Stratford; Rev. Henry James Pritchard, B.A. (3), North Broadview United Church, Toronto; Rev. John Coburn (4), department of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, Toronto.

Smith and Audrey Nixon gathered the offering. A recitation by Miss Marie Mouncey entitled, "Don't quit," followed with singing a hymn, "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus."

An amusing number was a contest. The questions were read by Jessie Mouncey, the answers were towns or cities in Ontario, after which the judges, Mrs. A. J. Campbell and Mrs. Delbert Bribbin gave their decision.

The pastor, Rev. R. W. Paton, on behalf of the young men's class made a few pleasing remarks and congratulated the ladies upon their success.

The meeting closed by repeating the mizpah benediction in unison.

Bridgenorth

Messrs. Geo. Ballard and Garbutt Mann motored to Wellington to spend the week-end with friends there.

Mrs. Fred Dobson of Peterborough was a visitor at the home of Mrs. Fred Jopling on Friday.

Mr. James Jopling made a business trip on Thursday as far east as Belleville.

The Athletic Club euchre party and dance on Friday evening was a real success. Twelve card tables were necessary to accommodate the guests. Card games were played from eight to ten and dancing was then enjoyed until about twelve-thirty. Next Friday the entertainment will take the form of a dance. The proceeds from these social evenings is to be used in equipping the baseball team with sweaters, bats, balls, etc.

Miss Edith Nichols of Lakefield was a Sunday visitor at the home of Mrs. Garner Nichols.

Mrs. Donaldson and daughter of Peterborough were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Nichols.

Miss Betty Isbister of Peterborough is visiting Mrs. Elizabeth McGee of Fairview Farm.

Mr. John Deck of Peterborough is a visitor at the home of his brother, William Deck of Fairview.

The Young People's Society of Fairview Church are bringing their contest to a close by holding a banquet in the church on Friday evening, April 22nd.

Fraserville

Mrs. W. A. Kidd has returned home after spending an extended visit with friends in Athens.

Miss Mary Lackey, R.N. of Peterborough spent a few days recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lackey.

Mr. and Mrs. John White and children of Ida spent the week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Moncrief.

Miss Ruth Trotter of Peterborough is convalescing at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kidd and children of Peterborough were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. B. Seabrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Dencil Moffat and Dorothy and Allen Moffat visited at the home of Miss E. Moffat on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will McElroy and family of South Monaghan were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. R. Moncrief.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanbach and family have moved to a farm in Ennismore.

On Sunday evening in Fraserville United Church, a young ladies' choir, composed of Misses Jean Holden, Blanche Reesor, Roberta Holden, Roberta Wood, Marjorie Swayne, Ruth Snelgrove, Alita Moore and Mary Atchison, an anthem, "Beautiful Flowers of Eden."

On Wednesday evening the C group of the Fraserville Ladies' Aid will hold a surprise social in the Orange Hall.

Pain Over the Eyes Often Due to Catarrh

People who suffer from headache and constant pain over the eyes will often find that nasal catarrh causes the trouble.

To quickly drive catarrh out of the nostrils, why not use Cattarhozone, which is so effective. Read what Miss Worrel of Clarksville has to say: "I received extraordinary benefit from 'Catarrhozone' and have induced many of my friends to use it also. My catarrh was so bad a year ago that I despaired of ever getting well. I am sure my lungs were affected. I improved under this treatment very quickly, and was restored so thoroughly the disease has never returned."

Two months' treatment costs but a dollar, smaller size 50c at all druggists. Catarrhozone is "hospital-certified."

SULPHIDE

Mr. H. J. Cordy spent a few days in Montreal this week.

Miss Beatrice Deline and Mr. Clayton Deline are visiting friends in Marysville.

Mr. Ray Adams spent the week-end in Belleville.

Mr. Gilbert Cordy was in Kingston this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Drinkwater spent a few days at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. Purd Young.

Mr. William Douglas and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Salisbury in Belleville on Sunday.

Messrs. J. Bygot and J. Campbell of Hay Bay and Adolphustown spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Gould.

Congratulations of the community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Credicott on the arrival of a daughter and to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Marsh, a son.

A social evening was held by the Y.P.S. on Tuesday evening. Owing to the inclement weather, the attendance was small but a round of games followed by a delightful lunch comprised a very pleasant evening.

Busy Bee Juniors Meeting At Madoc

MADOC, Apr. 18 (Examiner Correspondence)—On Friday afternoon, the Busy Bee Juniors of Madoc held their April meeting at the home of Mrs. Karl Stockloser with an attendance of seventeen, Miss Marion Hamm presiding. After the usual business and the discussion of the report of the relief committee, an excellent program was provided by the members. Miss Betty Stewart gave an interesting paper on paper making, and Miss Phyllis Stockloser followed with an excellent piano solo, which was enjoyed by all. Miss Harley Smith gave a recitation, "Sowing Seeds," and Miss Marion Hamm delighted all by a vocal solo, "The Second Minuet." An instructive paper on "The Maple Sugar Industry" was given by Miss Reta Gillen, and a piano solo by Miss Jean Nickle.

It has been decided to take up some gems of literature during the summer months, and a short time was spent on the introduction of Longfellow's "Evangeline" which may be continued atanother meeting.

Before closing a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Stockloser and Miss Phyllis for their hospitality. A short time was spent socially during the serving of dainty refreshments, and arrangements were made for the annual meeting in May.

RADIO PROGRAM

Now in their third week, the Morning Devotions which originate in the studios of CFRB, Toronto, each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday morning at 8.30 seem destined to become one of the most popular features on the air. Letters are pouring into the station from listeners throughout Ontario and in parts of Quebec and the United States, voicing appreciation of the clear, sympathetic speaking voice and heartening morning messages brought by the Rev. William Allan, Minister of the Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church, Toronto, who conducts the devotions; and the singing of Canada's noted baritone, Wishart Campbell, who is both soloist and accompanist of the broadcast.

INDIANS WITH TEN DOG TEAM FIND GOLD ON LAIRD RIVER

In District Where Two Flying Prospectors Were Lost Last Year.

NEAR B. C. BORDER.

VICTORIA, April 19 (Special to The Examiner)—Thomas Brocks of Carcross has advised the British Columbia chamber of mines of what is regarded as an important gold strike on the Laird River, 50 miles north of the British Columbia boundary.

The strike is near Wolf Lake, east of the divide, near the spot for which Capt. E. J. A. "Pat" Burke, Emil Kading and Bob Martin, a prospector, were heading by aeroplane when they were lost in December, 1931. Gold was first discovered in that area in the late seventies, when prospectors from northern British Columbia drifted into the Yukon.

According to Mr. Brooks, about the end of January, an Indian named Billy Smith arrived in Carcross and with other natives left hurriedly for an unnamed destination. On March 15 they returned and exhibited considerable gold. They called the creek where the discovery was made "Shoo-ta-Nook" which Mr. Brooks says he thinks means "New Life." The Indians also claimed to have discovered some gold-bearing quartz and samples have been sent away to be assayed.

Mr Brooks adds that if the strike proves genuine, the best way to reach it will be by aeroplane from Carcross. A lake six miles from the strike would offer good landing. Three aeroplanes will be stationed at Carcross this summer. One is there already and two more are being sent from Atlin.

Bishop A. H. Sovereign of Vancouver is now in residence at Tagish Pass, Mr. Brooks adds. The bishop saw the Indians returning from the strike behind a ten-dog team.

The unemployment situation in the Yukon is bad, Mr. Brooks advises. He says there are more men there than can be put to work this summer.

Handy Recipes

By Edith Barber

Baked Hamburg with Mustard

1 pound hamburg steak.
1 tablespoon onion juice.
½ teaspoon nutmeg.
Salt and pepper.
3 tablespoons mustard.

Mix with onion and seasonings. Put into one round or oblong one inch thick. Spread with mustard and bake in a hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) fifteen to twenty minutes. Serve with creamed onions or with mushrooms.

Baked Corn and Tomatoes

2 cups canned corn.
2 cups tomatoes.
1 teaspoon salt.
Pepper.
1 teaspoon sugar.
1 cup fresh bread crumbs.
3 tablespoons butter.

Mix seasonings with the corn and tomatoes and pour all into a greased baking dish. Spread the crumbs over the top, dot them with butter and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for one-half hour.

Salmon Loaf

2 cups cooked salmon, fresh or canned.
2 eggs.
4 tablespoons butter.
½ cup fine bread crumbs.
Salt and pepper.
Minced parsley.

Flake the fish. Add the eggs beaten lightly and the other ingredients. Put in a greased mold and steam for an hour. Arrange on a platter and garnish with slices of lemon, parsley and pour cream sauce around.

Orange Nut Bread

2 large oranges.
1 cup sugar.
1-3 cup boiling water
1 cup sweet milk.
1 egg.
½ teaspoon salt.
3 cups flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup chopped pecans.

Cut the orange peel into narrow strips. Put in cold salted water and boil until tender. Drain, and add sugar and boiling water. Boil slowly until peeling is thoroughly sugared. Cool, and add milk, egg and sifted salt, flour and baking powder and chopped pecans.

FISH HOSPITAL HAS MANY CURES

Can Take Fish Out of Water and Diagnose Disease Like a Human.

EVEN CURE LICE

(By James Montagnes. Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — Sick fish can be cured the same as human beings. That is the theory on which James Palmer of the Walker House Hotel Aquarium at Toronto operates what is thought to be the only hospital in the world for pet gold fish tropical and fancy fish. Patients come to the fish hospital from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Fish have many ailments, varying from eye inflammation to consumption. Of all the diseases, the most common, says Palmer, is fungus. He gets more calls for treatment of fish with one variety or another of that disease than any other. And that is due to the fact that owners of pet fish forget that a sudden change in the temperature of water is harmful to their fish. More sickness and more deaths are caused among pet fish by this than by anything else. The change in temperature when clean water is put in the tank causes shock and the shock brings sickness.

Patients to the fish hospital are segregated in individual tanks. A chart hangs on the tank. It denotes the date of entry. The type of fish and its age and the disease for which it is being treated. When the fish is recovered the chart with the release date on it goes back to the owner with suggestions on how to keep the fish healthy.

Sick fish require constant attention, for only from their actions can their ailment be diagnosed, says Palmer. There was one little goldfish which was brought to the hospital. It was very listless. It would lie at the bottom of its tank hour after hour, as if its every movement caused pain. It did not show the symptoms of the more usual fish diseases, and after having tried various remedies which had helped his other patients, Palmer had the fish X-rayed at the Toronto General Hospital. The X-ray disclosed a sharp piece of flint inside the fish, which had probably been swallowed as food. The fish was brought back to the hospital, where it was operated upon, being held in a damp towel, the stone was removed, and the fish became its old self again.

Cure for Fleas?

After many years of experimenting with sick fish, Palmer now knows what to give his patients. Epsom salts dropped in the water instead of food is a good remedy for constipation. Clinical cases are treated at the hospital by taking the fish out of the water, holding it in a damp towel and giving it a drop or two of castor oil. Fish can also get lice and the itch. Fish parasites are numerous. Special treatments are given to rid the fish of these parasites and a fish with that ailment will be found near the bottom or along the sides of the tank, trying to rub off the vermin. Some fish are treated at the hospital for dropsy. They swell up to many times their normal size. Digitalis is a remedy tried, but sometimes it is necessary to take the fish out of the water and lance it to drain the dropsical fluid. No perfect cure has been found for this disease as yet.

Careful feeding is one of the main factors in keeping fish in good shape, the fish doctor asserts. He makes up a fish food of dried shrimp, calf's liver, laxative, whole wheat bread, beef, codfish and eggs bakes it all together, and then cuts it up. He recommends a pinch of salt in the tank from time to time, taking unconsumed food out of the water; giving the tank lots of light; not changing the water too often or too suddenly—there are tanks at the hospital which haven't had fresh water in eight or nine years; keeping big and small fish in separate tanks.

If there is anything wrong with your fish he will treat it without any charge. He ships fish in vacuum bottles filled two-thirds with water and tightly sealed. Fish can travel across the continent in that way, and arrive at their destination alive.

Ruth Nicholls On Long Flight

FLYING COUPLE WITH THEIR MOTHER

This flying couple was photographed at Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, a short time before one of them—Miss Ruth Nichols—hopped off for Pittsburg on the first lap of a 3,000-mile flight through the east and middle west in behalf of the National Council of Women. LEFT to RIGHT, they are shown with their mother: Ruth Nichols, Mrs. Erickson M. Nichols, and Lieut. Erickson S. Nichols, the latter flying from Mitchell Field to see his sister take off.

ROYALTY USES SHOPPING BAGS

Raincoats Go Gay in London —Wet Days Are Brightened Up.

NECKLACE OF NUTMEGS

By Betty Twist.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, April 19.—(S.N.S.) — Dress novelties this season are cuter than ever. There is nothing so prosaic but fancy has not guided it. Shopping bags while retaining their portmanteau qualities are so attractively decorated that even cess Mary has recently acquired one in upholstery material bordered with leather that can be turned with a flick of the hand into a motor cushion. Mackintoches are so gay that they turn a rainy day into a thing of joy but a new pleasure has been found for the up-to-date lady who when she dons her weatherproof suit, may also dress her favorite dog in a mackintosh coat to match her own.

Many strange hiding places have been found for the vanity case. Few, however, could beat the innocent-looking black felt cloche with a powder puff and diminutive mirror. The milliners are bubbling over with bright ideas. For instance, they have utilized zip fasteners in hats with brims which can be removed at will. As an example of original trimming methods there is a red crochet beret with a couple of crochet bells complete with clappers of silver beads bobbing over the side. The waxed fruit and flowers our grandparents used to put under glass cases to decorate their mantelpieces now appear on hats.

The wave of Victorianism is spending itself in the smaller details. A pretty revival is the necklace and brooch to match of china flowers. There are plenty of cheap imitations but the real thing is quite expensive for the process of manufacture demands skilled craftsmanship. The soft clay is rolled in the palm of the hand and each minute petal and tiny leaf is attached separately. In course of firing there is a shrinkage which makes the twined posies even tinier and their fragility is emphasized by the delicacy of the handpainting.

An old-fashioned idea that the nutmeg was a specific against rheumatism has been exploited in the necklaces of nutmegs strung on bright cords and interspersed with vivid wooden or glass beads. And to make assurance doubly sure the sufferer is provided with a bracelet in the same design.

A new use has been found for the homely bootlace which is tied round the long mitten sleeves, generally in a color different from the blouse, which, if not held in place, slip in ungainly folds round the elbow.

RARE PORTLAND VASE RETURNS TO MUSEUM

Most Valuable Treasure of Its Kind Now in Existence

BROKEN BY LUNATIC

But Was Restored and Duke Scorned 29,000 Guineas for It

London.—The Portland vase, the rarest gem of Grecian craftsmanship in existence, is to go back to the British Museum, after being nearly three year, in the vaults of a bank.

In April 1929, the Duke of Portland, owner of the treasure, withdrew it from the Gold Ornament Room, where it had been for about a century, and it was put up for auction at Christie's.

An exceptional price was expected, but only 29,000 guineas was offered—far below the reserve, and the vase was withdrawn.

1,950 Years Old

Mr. Arundell J. K. Esdaile, secretary of the British Museum, told a reporter yesterday that since the sale the vase has been kept in the vaults of a bank. "The duke," he said, "has now offered to redeposit it in the museum. It will be put back in its original place in the Gold Ornament Room."

Eighty-seven years ago the vase was smashed to fragments by a lunatic, but it was restored. Josiah Wedgwood used it as a model from which he developed a new technique in British pottery.

The Duke of Portland's private secretary said that the return of the vase did not necessarily mean that it was withdrawn from sale.

The Portland vase is considered about 1,950 years old, and stands ten inches high. It was found in a tomb near Rome in the sixteenth century and came into the Duke of Portland's family in 1784.

Among the 2,715 aliens who were refused admission into Great Britain last year were four who arrived by air.

Y. W. PAGEANT WELL PLANNED

Pantomimic Portrayal of Up-to-date Mother Goose Characters.

SET FOR APRIL 29.

Mother Goose Goes Modern in the Y.W.C.A. Pageant to be presented on Friday of next week, April 29th, at the Grand Opera House.

This year's presentation of the work of the gymnasium classes of the Young Women's Christian Association will be featured by pantomimic portrayal of up-to-date Mother Goose characters. It seems that they have grown tired of their conventional attire and demeanor and are going to have their fling on the stage of the Grand Opera House. Miss Caroline Littlefield and her girls are sympathetic with the tired-out people: Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary, and Little Bo-Peep and the Blackbirds who picked off the maid's nose in the garden while she was doing her work in a perfectly quiet manner.

Then there is the grand pantomime of all, in the brave King's Men who try to help Humpty-Dumpty after his historic descent from the wall. They are going to wear fine outfits in scarlet and blue and white and they are all tap dancers. They will make a great contribution to the fun of the evening.

"Love game" will be a picturesque Badminton dance done in scarlet and white, with saucy scarlet berets, and the Marionettes' Romance is a Russian dancing number in pantomime, picturing the woes of two young lovers, and gowned in the characteristic Russian costumes, with gay chintz as a foundation.

"The Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary" ballet number promises to be a lovely portion of the dancing entertainment. In it, four of the best toe dancers do their stuff, in frilled frocks of rose, green, blue and gold, with peeping white pantellettes and large flowered hats.

Wee Blackbirds

The Blackbirds in the maid's song are wee babies, some only two and three years old, in black tights and black peaked caps, with wings to their shoulders.

Then there is Mickey Mouse himself, or rather, several of him, in another Junior number by the tap dancers, gowned in the well-known black and yellow attire of the famous Mickey, with real mouse hats of black.

There will also be something special in the Balloon dance in which girls and their swains appear, the former in rose gowns crossed in squares with black ribbon, the 'boys' in trousers and smocks of green and pink.

A novelty will be a presentation of real Country dance, in modern and old-time effect, the former done in blue and pink ginghams, the latter dressed as men of the Morris-dance Elizabethan era, in dull green and black, with large flat hats like the Merry Monarch used to wear.

There has been a special request for the repetition of the Babies' dumbell number, which will appear on the program; also wand and reed drills, fancy club-swinging and Swedish exercises.

There will be plenty of interest in the wand drill, as the girls are singing with it the song of Charlotte Greenwood, "Bend Down, Sister," that she used in Eddie Cantor's "Palmy Days."

For the Pageant, a poster contest has been in progress, and the posters are displayed in the Y.W. reception hall, with the prize-winner, done by Miss Elda Bradley, in a prominent position.

encourage the love of music, particularly in the juniors of the community. Therefore a good deal of pleasure was expressed yesterday by L. J. Pettit, chairman of the general committee for this Festival, upon the number of young musicians who appeared on the program. The club intends to present the first awards to those securing the first place. The first-class mark is set at 75 per cent.

There are 21 shields given for this Festival, 5 new, the balance awards which have been contested for previously, also 16 medal classes, each of these having gold and silver medals presented in the senior classes, and gold, silver and bronze medals in the junior classes, provided there are more than five entrants. The shields have been presented by Judge Wearing of London, Ontario; Dr. F. C. Neal; the Dominion Stores; R. M. Glover, who gave three; E. A. Peck, M.P.; the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E.; the Capitol Theatre; the Canadian Department Stores; the Women's Music Club; the Canadian General Electric Company; Colonel Charles Ackerman; W. G. Morrow; R. J. Kidd; A. H. Stratton.

Good Children's Choirs

A highlight of the program yesterday was the massed singing, with about ninety voices represented, by children of three of the Public Schools who competed separately, then sang the test piece altogether on suggestion of the adjudicator, Miss Emily Tedd, Supervisor of Music in the schools of Toronto, who, accompanied by Mr. Brethour of the same staff, came down especially for the one class, and congratulated the children on the excellence of their work.

The adjudicators spared no pains to explain the reason for their decisions. Mr. Welsman explained that the value of such a Festival is to encourage a love for, and participation in, good music, and that the first duty of the adjudicator is to try to eradicate faults in those taking part, so that progress may be made in the art.

Both gentlemen mentioned an outstanding defect in pronunciation among Canadians generally, noticeable in the singing at these Festivals. The rough burring of the "r" and "er" sound was emphasized as unnecessary, and Miss Tedd also pointed out the manner in which the "ing" sound was slurred in the junior choral numbers. Another defect, asserted Mr. Hewlett, was the manner in which singers used the broad "a" for "and" and "can," calling them "awnd" and "cawn." Singers, he said, should try to be natural, instead of trying to be different.

Insistence on time values in music of any type was another point strongly emphasized by the judges. Mr. Welsman advocated the occasional use of the Metronome so as to implant the proper time emphasis in the student's mind.

Winners Yesterday

Yesterday afternoon's contests, with the prize-winners, were as follows: Piano, open class, playing Debussy's "Clair de Lune" (8 entrants), first award won by Miss Grace Johnston of South Monaghan, with 7 per cent., and second by Eric Quilter, with 75 per cent.

In the open violin class, playing "Canto Amoroso" (Sammartini-Elman), (3 entrants), the first award was won by Alex Carlisle, with 76 per cent. and the second by Jack Skitch, with 75 per cent.

One junior spring quartette from the Conservatory of Music, played in that class and received many encouraging words of praise from the adjudicator. They played "Drink to Me only with Thine Eyes" and received marks of 75 per cent. These youthful players, whose ages range from nine to thirteen years, are Bob Borland, viola; Jack Borland, 'cello; Alex Carlisle, first violin and Jim Lillico, second violin.

Thirteen-year old Phyllis Starr, the only entrant in the contest for girls' vocal numbers, (under seventeen years of age), sang the test piece, "I'll Rock You to Rest" by Stanford, and received 73 per cent.

There were three school choirs taking part in their class (not more than 30 voices), singing "The Rainbow" by Rowley, and also getting much commendation from Miss Tedd.

Led by Miss Jessie MacNaughton, the choir from the Queen Mary School won first place, with 77 per cent, while Miss Margaret Dickson's choir from the King Edward School took 74 per cent. and Miss Musa Cox's choir from King George School received 73 per cent., giving them a close margin for second place. All these choirs are trained by Miss M. Rannie, supervisor of music in the local Public Schools.

Last night, the singing by church choirs was another strong feature. Singing in three classes, there was only one entry, from St. John's church in both instances, in Classes B and C, while Class A had three entries.

Trinity Winners

Trinity Church choir, singing the test piece, Healey Willan's "Hail Glanddening Light" won in Class A (29 members or over) with 83 per cent., while the two other contestants, choirs from St. John's and All Saints churches, took 78 per cent in both cases. Leaders of the two last-named were F. G. Mann and G. S. Chandler, respectively.

Choirs from St. John's Church, competing alone in both the other classes, took 80 per cent. in Class C (18 members or over) singing "Fight the Good Fight" by Harold Rhodes, and 75 per cent. in Class B (18 to 28 members), singing "Come, Holy Ghost" (Palestrina).

The boys' choir from St. John's Church, also the only entrant in that class, received marks of 76 percent. singing "A Boy's Song" by Percy Turnbull.

The entries for Male and Mixed Quartettes were also from St. Johns, with one in the former class and two in the latter. The Male quartette, composed of J. Trotter, Eric Quilter, Stewart Roberts and J. Branscn, received marks of 68 per cent. singing "Here's a Health Unto His Majesty."

The winning Mixed Quartette had members in Messrs. Eric Quilter and Stewart Roberts and Victor Coleman and Roy Pitchford, the last two being members of the boys' choir. They sang "Sweet Day So Cool" by Edward German, and received marks of 72 per cent.

All solo numbers in the contests are given from memory.

Taking part in the competitions, there seems to be an equally divided number between the sexes. One of the interesting entrants is the girl clarinet player, the only one in her class.

Although yesterday afternoon's attendance was small, the hall was well filled for last night's program, and much appreciation was noted for the presentation of contest numbers.

Mr. Pettitt was in charge in the afternoon and C. S. Browne last night. Dr. J. J. Craig supervised matters this morning, Isaac McNabb this afternoon, while Mr. Pettitt will be on hand to-night for the closing session. These gentlemen are members of the committee in charge, which includes also the president of the Kiwanis Club, H. J. Boyle, and W. H. Freel and A. B. Gates. J. A. McKone is the club secretary.

To-day's sessions included contests for Boys' Unchanged voices, violin, piano, trombone and clarinet competitions, while to-night's program has contests for singing classes, in lyric soprano, contralto, lyric tenor, baritone and mezzo-soprano range.

On Wednesday night, a concert will be given by the prize-winners in Trinity United Church, when awards will be presented.

A fish and game reserve embracing practically the whole of the unorganized part of Quebec, an area of approximately 350,000 square miles, has been created.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Chocolate is such a popular article of food that it has come to be added to various recipes and to be used in increasing number of ways.

• • • • • •

Here are a few recipes, the first of which is for chocolate nut sandwiches. Melt one or more squares of chocolate according to the number of sandwiches to be made.

• • • • • •

Dilute with cream or rich milk to form a paste which will spread. When a little of either of these liquids is added to melted chocolate the mixture thickens, if more is added it returns to a more fluid form. Sweeten to taste, add a very few grains of salt and a little vanilla.

• • • • • •

Stir in finely chopped nut meats. Spread between slices of buttered or unbuttered white bread.

• • • • • •

If a richer mixture is wanted add the yolk of one egg, or more, according to the amount of the spread needed. Cut these sandwiches in finger strips or squares or fancy shapes.

• • • • • •

Dice bananas, pineapple and canned pears drained of their juices. Mix lightly, put in sherbet cups, and set in the refrigerator. Just before serving, pour over each a cupful of chocolate sauce made of one-quarter cup of cocoa or one and a half squares of melted chocolate, into which stir 3-4 cup of milk added slowly; ¼ cup sugar; 1-8 teaspoon salt; 1 level tablespoon cornstarch dissolved in two tablespoons cold milk or omit the cornstarch and add yolks of two slightly beaten eggs.

• • • • • •

Cook in double boiler until thick as cold custard. Flavor with one teaspoon vanilla and allow to cool. Top each serving with a dessertspoon of whipped cream and a maraschino cherry or ripe strawberry.

• • • • • •

Or one might line sherbet cups with thin slices of sponge cake, fill with the fruit mixture given above the top with whipped cream dotted with shreds of maraschino cherries or strawberries.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

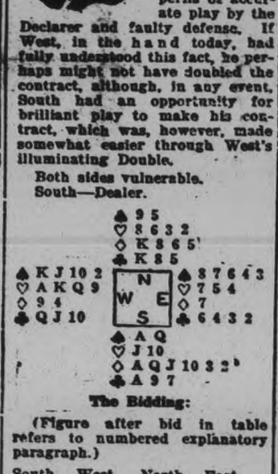
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

136

SQUEEZING THE DOUBLER

Penalty Doubles add much to the charm of Contract, but the expectation of the defeat of the contract should be at least 2 tricks to justify the risks taken by the player making a Penalty Double. The odds in favor of the Declarer are too great to justify the Double on a bare 1-trick margin, which may melt into nothingness against the perils of accurate play by the Declarer and faulty defense. If West, in the hand today, had fully understood this fact, he perhaps might not have doubled the contract, although, in any event, South had an opportunity for brilliant play to make his contract, which was, however, made somewhat easier through West's illuminating Double.

Both sides vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figure after bid in table refers to numbered explanatory paragraph.)

South	West	North	East
1◇	Dbl.	2◇	Pass
5◇	Dbl.(1)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—While West's hand is very strong, it lacks one requisite of a sound Double of a suit bid, i.e., a trick in the trump suit; otherwise the Penalty Double could not be criticized.

West opened the King of hearts and continued to lead the suit until South ruffed the third round. South was confronted with the problem of taking all the remaining tricks to complete his contract. The manner in which he proceeded to do so is extremely interesting, illustrating, as it does, the manner in which mass attack nullifies what appears to be impregnable defense.

After winning the third trick, South proceeded to lead five rounds of trumps. East, of course, was an entirely negligible factor throughout the sanguinary conflict. West followed twice, but was then forced to seek three discards. South retained the 8 of hearts in the Dummy and thus made West's choice of discards an impossible task. He first discarded two spades and then, hoping that East might hold the 9 spot, he threw the 10 of clubs.

South laid down the Ace and King of clubs, upon which West's remaining club honors dropped, and on the third round of clubs, South having played the 9 spot on the King, West was again squeezed. To discard the 9 of hearts established the 8 in the Dummy; to throw a spade would give South both the spade tricks, provided he held, as seemed apparent, the Ace and Queen originally.

West was hopelessly squeezed, but discarded the spade, hoping that his partner might, through some miracle, show up with the Queen. This was not to be, however. Through a triple squeeze, South had completed his contract.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: What is a biddable suit?

Answer: One that will develop about 3 trump tricks possibly more, but never less. Also a suit containing at least ½ honor-trick at the top.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

INVESTIGATING ASTHMA.

One of the pleasing things in medicine to-day is to see how the 'incurable' diseases of the past are being attacked and many of them rendered curable and many cases prevented. In this list are tuberculosis, pernicious anæmia, and diabetes, diseases that were formerly fatal.

And now another ailment, one which, while not usually fatal, causes much misery to the patient and much distress to the family, is being thoroughly investigated and already many cures are reported.

I refer to asthma.

In Great Britain the Asthma Research Council has issued its yearly report, and outlines the work that is being undertaken at its various research centres. New methods of treatment have been introduced and old ones modified, so that the average asthma patient can now be treated with more hope of success than was formerly possible.

At the "Guy's" Hospital Clinic over three hundred patients have been investigated.

One of the points of great interest is that during an attack of asthma, an albuminous substance is manufactured in large amounts in the urine. This substance probably contains material to which the patient is sensitive, that is this substance, food or other material, so upsets the processes of the body that an asthmatic attack follows.

In addition to this substance, 'urinary proteose,' as it is called, the Council investigated such factors such as diet, heredity, physical habit, dust, pollen, hairs and feathers. The Hospital for Sick Children, London, provided interesting information on heredity. In two out of every three cases some relative of the asthmatic child suffered from asthma.

As a result of the inspection of many hundreds of homes it was concluded that the most common causes were feather or horse-hair beds or pillows, animal pets, and dust.

That dust is a big factor has been proven by Dr. H. C. Gram, Norway, who states that of 366 cases of asthma admitted to hospital 187 cases were helped simply because the modern hospital has light dry wards, kept absolutely free of dust. The bedding is frequently disinfected and thus the development of organic life in it is prevented.

This may help to explain why the correction of nose defects cures some cases of asthma.

It is certainly gratifying to know that asthma is being investigated so thoroughly, and that within reasonable time it will become a curable disease in practically all cases.

New Zealand Seeks Emergency Powers

WELLINGTON N.Z., April 19 (C.P. Cable).—Emergency powers similar to those introduced in Great Britain in 1920 to deal with outbreaks of disorder are sought by the New Zealand Government under the terms of the Public Safety Conservation Bill, introduced to-day in the House of Representatives.

The bill is a direct outcome of the disorders at Auckland last week, when mobs of unemployed and others got out of hand, looted shops and battled official and volunteer police and naval pickets from H.M.S. Philomel. Many were injured and hundreds arrested.

The bill follows the lines of the British Emergency Powers Bill, giving the authorities special power to deal with outbreaks of violence.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

VANCOUVER, April 19.—W. F. Findlay, well-known local newspaperman, who was injured Saturday night when his automobile crashed into a street car on Granville street bridge, died early today. His is the second death resulting from the accident; his wife, Mrs. Nancy Findlay, succumbing to injuries shortly before noon Monday.

Smith, both of Toronto, and Mrs. John Stewart of Appleton. Mrs. H. W. Morgan of this city is the remaining provincial officer without portfolio.

Yesterday, a round table conference was held at four o'clock for members of the board and Presbyterial corresponding secretaries, and supper was served at six o'clock by the ladies of St. Paul's Church. At half-past seven last night, a board of management meeting was held for provincial officers and Presbyterial presidents.

The session opened this morning with a devotional service led by Mrs. J. A. Locheed of Hamilton, and invocation by the Rev. T. A. Barr, Ph.D. Later, prayer for the work of the Ontario Provincial society was offered by Mrs. J. Stewart of Appleton.

The minutes of the last annual meeting, held in Windsor, were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. W. A. Mitchell of Toronto.

A Nominating Committee was appointed this morning, consisting of Mrs. T. Firth of North Bay, president of North Bay Presbyterial, convenor; Mrs. W. J. Hunter of Inglewood, president of Orangeville Presbyterial; Mrs. C. H. Thorburn of Ottawa, president of Ottawa Presbyterial; Mrs. R. C. Campbell of Woodstock, president of Paris Presbyterial; and Mrs. D. Ewart of Cobourg, president of Peterborough Presbyterial.

The members of the Business Committee are: Mrs. John Williams of Toronto, convenor, Mrs. W. Guillock of Ottawa, Mrs. J. H. Inkster of Toronto, Mrs. S. M. Scott of Picton, and Mrs. H .C. McKellar of Hamilton.

Presbyterial Reports.

Reports of Presbyteries were commenced this morning. They included brief sketches of the year's work from the following: Mrs. A. B McDonald of Ailsa Craig, reporting for London Presbyterial Mrs. K. N. Cooper of Collingwood, for Barrie; Mrs. L. E. Waterson of Woodstock, for Paris; Mrs. Norman Anderson of Perth, for Lanark and Renfrew; Miss Grace Stewart of Hamilton, for Hamilton; Mrs. C. S. McDonald of New Liskeard, for Temiskaming; Miss Ethel M. Wren of Uxbridge, for Lindsay; Miss Janet B. Scott of Paisley, for Bruce and Owen Sound; Mrs. Peter McIntyre of Sarnia, for Sarnia; Mrs. Wesley Huston of Lucknow, for Maitland; Miss Gertrude Harvey of Cobourg, for Peterborough; Mrs. G. A. Reid of Belleville for Kingston; Mrs. Calvin Blair of Manotick, for Ottawa; Mrs. T. Firth of North Bay, for North Bay; Mrs. George McDonald of Goderich, for Huron; Mrs. Tape of Windsor, for Chatham; Mrs. W. P. Sutton of Preston, for Guelph; and Mrs. George W. Dodge of Kenilworth, for Saugeen Presbyterial.

In reporting for Lindsay Presbyterial, Miss Wren mentioned that the reports showed more interest in the work and fewer ways of raising money, "showing that people are returning more to the Scriptural way of giving to the Lord."

Miss Wren also said that Lindsay Presbyterial will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary of foundation, in June of this year, while Lindsay Auxiliary has its golden anniversary this month.

In Hamilton Presbyterial, Miss Stewart reported that a deficit in givings was made up, not through the medium of teas nor sales, but by voluntary contributions from the members, of 50 cents each.

The ladies of St. Paul's are looking after their guests in very efficient style. Everything has been planned for their comfort. Meals are being served by the Ladies' Aid Society at Murray Street Baptist Church.

The following are in charge of arrangements:: Mrs. H. W. Morgan, general; Mrs. F. H. Rowan, billeting; Mrs. D. Ewart of Cobourg, reception; Mrs. M. B. Chenhall, music, with Mr. Chenhall playing organ accompaniments for the devotional services; Mrs. F. F. Mason, information; Mrs. E. E. Cox, publicity; Mrs. C. H. Thorburn of Ottawa, railways; Mrs. C. J. Ray, registration; Miss Nina Davidson, Post Office; Mrs. D. Jordan, telephone; Mrs. S. Taylor, baggage; Mrs. W. N. MacDougall of Lakeport, literature. Mrs. J. A. McNabb, trains. Members of the Young Women's Auxiliary and Girls' organizations are acting as ushers.

This afternoon the president, Mrs. W. A. McLennan of Toronto, gave her presidential address, outlining in concise fashion and very eloquent language the activities of the year, and inspiring the members to renewed efforts for the coming twelvemonth.

Pres dent's Address

"Many auxiliaries," said the president, "have carried on this year under most trying circumstances, but they would testify that they have been greatly blessed in so doing. Some have disbanded and this we regret. Membership in the W.M.S. involves three things, an understanding of the work, prayer for the work and giving to its support. While adverse conditions may affect the last, they should not hinder the coming together of all women for study and prayer."

Mr. McLennan mentioned the good work done by Miss Pelton, field secretary and by Miss Jean Cowan, Girls' Work secretary, also the appointment, since the last annual meeting, of a Provincial Student Secretary, in the person of Mrs. J. A. Milne of Toronto.

"Our aim is that we may not lose sight of our students when they leave home to pursue their work, but that some organized effort be made to maintain their church connection during those formative years of conflicting interests. For six years the Candidate Secretary has been asking for a university graduate to become principal of the girl's school in Formosa, and now with another vacancy in British Guiana of a similar nature it is necessary that these and other needs be kept before our Presbyterian students when they are looking for "Investments in Life."

The president announced an increased membership and interest in Mission Bands, Girls' organizations, and Young Women's Auxiliaries.

She went on to impress upon her listeners the value of enthusiastic and concerted effort, especially in the support and maintenance of the church's missionaries.

To-night's program includes the introduction of four graduate deaconesses under appointment to home and overseas fields, by Miss Winnifred Ferguson, principal of the Deaconness' Training Home at Toronto, also an address by Miss Laura K. Pelton of Toronto, Field Secretary of the Council executive.

Sessions to-morrow commence at half past nine o'clock, with provincial reports as the main item in the morning and afternoon. In the evening, Rev. Stuart Parker, D.D., of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, will give an address.

The meeting closes on Thursday afternoon, when election of officers takes place, from report of the nominating committee.

3 OUT OF 4
Women use Wrong Shade of Face Powder

Experts have shown that there are four distinctly different shades of skin, each requiring a different shade of face powder. By using the exact shade best suited to their skins, 3 out of 4 women might easily increase complexion beauty 100 per cent. Poudre Tokalon is the one face powder that stays on all day or evening indoors or out, in spite of wind, rain or perspiration. The mousse of cream makes it adhere so closely and invisibly, that no one would ever dream the exquisite tint imparted is not your own natural loveliness.

FREE. So that you may test the different shades on your own face and determine which is best adapted to your skin, you may now obtain a de luxe Beauty Outfit, containing four popular and distinct shades of Tokalon Mousse of Cream Powder. The Outfit also contains Creme Tokalon Skinfood for both night and morning use. Simply send 10 cents in stamps to cover cost of packing, postage, etc., to Agent for Canada: H. R. Madill & Co. (Dept. Local Analyst Gives Reading Of Actress

Madame Blanche, grapho-analyst of Weller street, this city, to-day received a letter from Jean Harlow, the platinum blonde film star, at present in Toronto, in acknowledgment for a character analysis undertaken for her by the local handwriting expert.

The film star pays tribute to Madame Blanche for her skill in the delineation of character merely from the signature of any person. Madame Blanche, who broadcasts weekly over a Montreal radio station is known to thousands of radio fans all over the North American continent. She states that Jean Harlow is really not at all like the person one sees on the screen cast in parts that give an erroneous impression of her real self. On the contrary she is a person of real charm and accomplishment, and anything but a vacillating gold digger.

NO DEFINITE CONTACT MADE WITH KIDNAPPERS

HOPEWELL, N.J., April 19.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh says he has been unable to re-establish a definite contact with kidnappers of his 21-months-old son.

"We are extremely anxious to re-establish contact with the kidnappers, and while we sincerely appreciate the co-operation we have received from many press organizations, our attempts are still greatly hampered or made impossible by press activity," said a statement he issued last night.

Prospects Bright For Artificial Curling Rink

MATTER IS DISCUSSED AT ANNUAL GATHERING OF PETERBORO CURLERS

Committee Formed to Interview Individual Shareholders of Rink Company.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Comprehensive Survey of Past Season is Read by Retiring President, R. L. Dobbin.

Artificial ice was the important issue under discussion at the postponed annual meeting of Peterborough Curling Club held at Charlotte street rink last evening under the chairmanship of Ross L. Dobbin, as a result of which prospects look excediengly bright for definite action on the part of members which may assure facilities for curling throughout the season regardless of weather conditions, in the near future.

Reference was made in the annual report of Mr. Dobbin, retirwinter which had curtailed the activities of local curlers. It was the mild weather also which was largely responsible for the work which was undertaken in the interests of the artificial ice project by J. T. Braund.

After consulting with the executive of the Curling Club early in the season Mr. Braund issued a questionaire to members of the club and also to the shareholders of the Peterborough Curling Rink Company in an endeavor to sound out their opinion on the matter. He reported that replies received in answer to the questionaire had been somewhat disappointing. Any doubts he entertained however so far as the curlers are concerned were dispelled. Largely attended the meeting was entirely in favor of the proposition.

Out of the lengthy discussion that resulted was a resolution on motion of L. Brooks and E. R. Shirley that the executive committee of the club go to the individual shareholders of the Curling Rink Company to put before them a definite proposition and to report back to the club.

Election of Officers.

By acclamation Dr. N. H. Sutton was elected to the presidency for the ensuing year. Other officers were also elected by acclamation as follows:

Honorary president—Ross L. Dobbin.

Vice-president—W. M. Cruthers.

Committeee of Management—N. Hamley, J. T. Braund, Howard Clegg and G. L. Kirkwood.

Open Bonspiel Committee—J. J. Howden, H. F. Foote, Cecil Williamson and Walter J. Oke.

Representatives to the Ontario Curling Association—President Dr. N. H. Sutton and R. L. Dobbin.

Honorary Chaplain—Rev. David Wren.

Auditor—H. C. Sootheran.

Umpire—Herb. Martin.

Financial Report.

In his financial report secretary-treasurer J. W. Mayneord stated that a balance had been carried forward to the new fiscal year of $275.46. During the year past the club had found it necessary to sell a part of its reserves and there was a deficit on the year's operation of approximately $300.00.

The statement had been audited and certified by H. C. Sootheran who, in a letter to the president, stated: "I should like to express my appreciation of the exceptionally fine way in which the books and vouchers are kept by Mr. Mayneord. It is not possible to imagine how they could be improved on."

Retiring President's Address

In his address Mr. Dobbin gave a comprehensive survey of the season just closed. It was as follows:

"The curling season of 1931-32 will probably go down in history as the worst curling season ever experienced, and I expect that as a result my name will be linked with this fact as being president at the time," he said.

"Because of the extremely mild weather, the mildest in 50 years, we had very intermittent curling. In spite of this, we carried on and made one or two records.

"We curled the president vs vice-president match on New Year's Day for the first time in three years.

"We curled on Good Friday, the first time since 1923. Curling was also indulged in Thursday, April 14th, by some of the die-hards.

"The schedule committee, headed by J. T. Braund, was successful in completing the schedule games one day ahead of time. We played double-headers for many nights, but with the co-operation and support of the members, the committee was enabled to complete its program.

"We were able to play all the competitions listed in our program, with the exception of the Open Bonspiel, which we had decided to hold this season after foregoing it last season. Without ice when it was scheduled we had to call it off, which was unfortunate as there were a number of entries from outside clubs as well as our own," he remarked.

"The Neill Trophy was won by Ira Moore's rink, with Wellman of Norwood as runner-up. Twenty rinks in all participated.

"The vice-skips' bonspiel was won by Cecil Williamson, with J. T. Braund in second place.

"The Front-End Bonspiel was won by Reg. Turner's rink, with Rollie Glover's rink in second place. This competition, as usual, produced an extraordinary brand of curling.

"The group winners in the schedule games were the rinks skipped by George Kirkwood, Alex Kay, and George Cairns."

"In the play-offs Mr. Kirkwood's rink won first place, with Alex Kay second, and George Cairns third. The balance of the rinks played off with Walter Oke getting fourth and George Green fifth prizes. Mr. Kirkwood's win was quite deserved. His rink won thirteen straight games, and used a substitute only once during the season. Mr. Kay's rink won thirteen straight games, and used a substitute only once during the season. Mr. Kay's rink is also to be commended as it did not use any substitutes all season.

"The Lakefield-Peterborough Cup was played for this year and won by the Lakefield Club. This is the first time this cup has been played for in several seasons.

"The Ontario Junior Tankard was again won by our boys for the third time in four years, a record to be proud of.

"Our rinks were not particularly successful in the District Cup and Tankard competitions, principally because they were unable to obtain any practice, there being no ice previous to the games.

"Friendly games were played with Millbrook, Cobourg, Toronto High Park, and Toronto Strathcona Clubs.

"During our second winter, on March 23rd, a three-game bonspiel lasting one day was played, with some outside clubs participating. This proved very successful, first prize being won by Alex Kay, with Bill Fletcher in second place, followed by Wilfred Fletcher of Keene.

"All of this curling was accomplished in spite of the adverse weather conditions, on account of which we had practically no curling in December of January—twenty days in February, and twenty-four in March. In an average winter the rink is flooded 45 to 55 times. This year, owing to the large number of spells of soft weather 78 floods were put on, which will indicate the work done by our ice maker this season. Advantage was taken of every drop in temperature. Even as late as March 21st ice was made for curling. Mr. Martin is to be congratulated on the results achieved despite the handicaps.

"The soft weather at the start of the season, no doubt, reacted unfavorably as far as membership was concerned. We had 116 members on our list this season as compared with 138 in the previous season.

"The small membership resulted in reducing our income, so that in order to carry on we are compelled to dip into our reserve, in spite of the fact that the Curling Rink Company reduced the rent from $1,014.00 paid in 1930-31 to $760.00 paid this year. Our thanks are due the Company for this concession which came at a very opportune time.

"The very unfavorable weather for making ice has brought up the subject of artificial ice to the fore once more. After much discussion amongst our own executive, and conference with the directors of the Curling Rink Company, it was decided to send out a questionaire to the membership and the shareholders of the rink company.

"Angus McIntosh who was our caretaker and umpire for over 40 years retired at the beginning of the season, but the executive were able to retain his services in an advisory capacity."

"In conclusion I wish to thank the membership on behalf of the committee of management for their co-operation in making the best of unfavorable weather conditions prevailing during the season just past.

"I would also like to thank the other members of the committee for their support, and the Press for its interest in our activities."

Prize winners were as follows:

Schedule Cup Competition—First, Kendry Cup and blankets presented by W. D. Campbell: A. Pagett, H. Baptie, W. E. Taylor, G. L. Kirkwood, skip. Second, sweaters, presented by Jack Sedgewick: Vic Curry, Cloy Taylor, Ray Bacon, Alex Kay, skip. Third, sweaters, presented by Ray Best: C. Graham, J. S. McGiffin, T. H. Hooper, George Cairns, skip. Fourth, auto rugs, presented by President Dr. N. H. Sutton: A. B. Gates, C. H. Huffman, G. Hill, Walter Oke, skip. Fifth, auto rugs, presented by Alex Kay. S. J. Black, T. Holyman, H. C. Sootheran, George Green, skip.

Vice-skips Bonspiel — Patterson Trophy and sweaters, presented by W. M. Cruthers: R. L. Adams, R. P. Best, Ira D. Moore, Cecil Williamson, skip. Second, auto rugs, presented by Ira D. Moore: C. E. Graham, James Turnbull, J. W. Richmond, skip.

Leads and Seconds Competition—Ross L. Dobbin Trophy and bacon and lard: S. Yeotes, F. H. Dearborn, E. M. Wall, Reg. Turner, skip. Second, Thermos flasks: M. Hamilton, H. B. Hanna, B. Chesler, R. M. Glover, skip.

In outlining the artificial ice project so far as it had advanced, Mr. Braund stated that the questionaire seeking the opinions of interested parties had been sent out to 240 persons, ninety of whom were shareholders of the Peterborough Curling Rink Company. He had received 82 replies and of that number 69 had declared themselves as being in favor of an artificial ice plant.

He did not know if the curlers thought that was sufficient encouragement to go ahead with the project, but he assured them that if they did he as willing to lend his wholehearted support to the scheme. He expressed appreciation for the courtesy he had received in his enquiries from the directors of the Rink Company.

In reply to Alex Kay, Mr. Braund said he had received estimates from some of the largest ice plant manufacturers in the Dominion. He quoted prices as follows: 3 sheets of ice and equipment, $10,000; 3 sheets of ice and equipment to take care of 7 sheets of ice in contemplation of further expansion at some future date, $12,500.00; 7 sheets of ice complete, $17,000. To each of the figures quoted there were certain other sums to be added for necessary alterations to the existing building and other incidentals in connection with the installation of the ice-making plant. To the 3 sheet proposition would be added an additional $1,000.00 making in all $11,000.00 or to the last named proposition providing for the refrigeration of the entire seven rinks an additional $3,000.00 bringing the total cost up to $20,000.00

During the discussion which followed, the majority favored the three-rink proposition, contending that refrigeration of the centre ices would tend to hold the outer ices in mild weather.

After the question had been discussed from all angles the retiring president voiced the opinion that the club was faced with two propositions, and they first had to acquire control of the Curling Rink Company before they could proceed with the artificial ice proposition. On resolution, therefore, the executive committee of the club was authorized to confer with the directors of the Rink Company with a view to coming to a satisfactoy undertaking which will pave the way for reconsideration of the ice question.

All Set For The Kentucky Derby

With 115 thoroughbreds nominated for the $50,000 American Turf classic which will be run at Churchill Downs, Louisville, on Saturday, May 7, the winner of the 58th renewal of the Kentucky Derby will be sitting on top of the world in an equine sense. Among the sure starters is (No. 1) Burning Blaze, second greatest two-year-old winner in last year who is one of the shortest priced horses in the winter book after Top Flight (No. 2) and Tick On. Top Flight owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney is considered to have an even chance of capturing the celebrated event. If she does it will be the first time that a filly has been victorious since Regret did the trick in 1915.

Senators Cop 15-7 Triumph Over Athletics—Tigers Beat Browns 14-7.

(By Gayle Talbot, A.P. Sports Writer.)

With the big league ball season one frigid week old to-day, it begins to look like the champion St. Louis Cardinals are to receive what is known as "a run for their money" in the National League.

In losing their fourth straight home game yesterday, the Cards set a new low mark for the last two seasons, dropping into seventh place. Their longest losing streak at Sportsman's Park last season was three straight and only once did they drop four in a row on the road.

Where they started last season's victorious dash with a succession of triumphs, winning eight of their first eleven games and taking a lead they never relinquished they found themselves to-day with only two wins in six starts and a long, uphill climb before them.

Will Not Have Runaway.

It is probable Sergeant Street's boys will collect themselves in the near future and move up around the top, but the odds are long against their making another such runaway as that of last year. Charlie Root of the Cubs set them down with four hits yesterday and would have scored a shutout but for an error by Rookie Bill Herman in the ninth. The score was 3-1.

The one cheering note so far as the Cardinals are concerned lies in the fact that the New York Giants, generally regarded as their most dangerous rivals, have got away to an even worse start. Walter (Huck) Betts of the Boston Braves handed the McGrawmen a 7 to 1 beating yesterday, sending them definitely into the basement.

Herman Back in Form.

Led by Babe Herman and Ray Kolp, the Cincinnati Reds further aroused their constituency with a 5-0 win over Pittsburgh. Kolp held the Pirates to five hits, while Herman drove in four of the Reds' runs with a double and a home run.

Babe Phelps, a sensation for Brooklyn in 1930 and a flop in 1931, made his 1932 debut by blanking the Phillies 8-0 on six hits Glenn Wright Dodger shortstop, hit a home run and two singles.

The Washington Senators supplied the fireworks in the American League with a crushing 15-7 triumph over the Athletics. Walt Johnson's proteges topped things off with a six-run splurge in the ninth, to which Sam West and Joe Judge contributed homers.

Ferrel Registers Second Win.

Wes. Ferrel of the Cleveland Indians registered his second victory and stopped the Chicago White Sox 2-1. Vic Frasier pitched sterling ball for the losers, permitting five hits in eight innings, but the Sox made six errors behind him.

Whitlow Wait of Detroit likewise scored victory No. 2 as the Tigers took a loose one from the St. Louis Browns, 14-7. The Tigers knocked Sam Gray from the hill in the fourth.

The Yanks and Red Sox were not scheduled.

BIRDS DEFEAT ROYALS.

Oriole Slugmen Connect for Four Circuits in Twenty Hit Splurge.

JERSEY CITY, April 19.—There was a turn for the better in the weather in the Jersey sector of the International League to-day and the Maple Leafs showed their appreciation of the change in the temperature by knocking off the Skeeters by a score of 11-6 and moving out of last place. Frank Barnes got credit for the first victory here and the second 1932 win for Toronto, but didn't last through the contest, getting into a jam in the eighth inning and turning over to young Glenn Liebhardt a packed house and a five-run lead.

Liebhart headed off the Jersey City rally, fanning pinch-hitter Outen as a starter, and would have come through with a hitless relief stunt but for a scratch blow by Captain Hunnefield in the ninth.

Barnes was practically invincible up to the sixth, the score at that time being 9-1 in his favor. He only had permitted two hits and one of these became a safety on a hit-and-run play, pulled off in the opening inning by Hunnefield, with Brown, who had walked, en route for second. There were two down in the sixth when the residents started after Barnes. Three hits, the last a double by Barnhart, gave them two runs and they obtained three more in the following round on homers by Veltman and Brown and a walk to Morrow. Clancy, first up in the eighth, skied out, but Barnhart and Layne negotiated hits and Pittenger drew a pass. The left-hander passed out of the picture then, and right-hander Liebhardt arrived to halt the Jersey City attack. Glenn halted it all right.

Bears Take the Honors

In their first two hand-to-hand grapples with the Rochester Redwings—the club they hope to beat for the International League pennan—the Newark Bears have walked away with all the honors.

After edging out a 9-8 decision over he Redwings in the first game of the series Sunday, the Bears made it two in a row yesterday, 7-0 behind the great pitching of the righthanded recruit, Harry Holsclaw.

That victory enabled Newark to remain in a tie for the league lead with the Buffalo Bisons, each with five victories and one defeat.

Holsclaw set the league champions back with five hits and yielded only one base on balls to win his second game of the season. It was not until the ninth that Rochester got a man as far as third base. Newark pounded Ray Starr for 11 hits and all their runs in the seven innings he worked. Jesse Hill drove in three runs with a single and double.

Buffalo easily walloped Reading, 7-4, bunching hits for three runs in the third and fifth innings. The Bisons collected 14 hits, five for extra bases. Reading's eight hits included home runs by Poole and Legett, the latter's coming when he batted for Bramhall in the ninth.

Baltimore unleashed a 20-hit attack on the Montreal Royals to win, 17-2. In the Oriole hit collection were home runs by Packard, Arlett, Jordan and Boyle and doubles by Sand, Heffner and McGowan. Ken Holloway held Montreal to five hits.

FIVE SOCCER TEAMS ENTER LOCAL LEAGUE

Gordon S. Matthews Sponsors Canadian Packers—Clubs Awaiting Opening Date.

DELORO ALSO ENTERS.

After many anxious weeks awaiting the decision of the local teams to make official entry, the Peterborough and District Football Association were faced with a serious problem of only having two teams from the city—Canadian General and Celdonians—and two outside aggregations from Port Hope and Deloro.

The Canadian Packing enthusiasts informed the local board that they would continue, if they could get the preliminary expense, which included the entry fee, all cup tie competition payments, guarantee assignment and regular "signing on" forms from the Ontario Football Association.

A Sporting Benefactor

For many years the Canadian Packers have gained a highly creditable reputation in local soccer circles, which provided the finest calibre of sportsmanship, also providing excellent relaxation so essential to many players in the city.

Two-thirds of the teams were members of the local plant and the most prolific scorer was one of them. Again through the splendid sporting spirit of Gordon S. Matthews, the local manager of the Canadian Packers, Ltd., a representative team of that name will enter the P. and D.F.A. by his generous gift to the local association, who took the responsibility of aiding the C.P.L. in their predicament.

Five Team League

The Canadian General, Caledonians and Canadian Packers will comprise the local entries; while splendid attractions will be provided by Port Hope and Deloro, to make a five-team league.

Deloro Confirmation

A communication from Deloro Football Club intimated that they would be participants in the league this year again. They suggested that the board consider their recommendation that the games between Port Hope and Deloro be home-and-home games with points counting double, which would mean that each team would have to make only one trip. It was finally recommended that the two outside teams send representatives to the next meeting on Monday evening, May 2nd, in Chamber of Commerce Rooms, when the subject will be discussed.

Referees Requested

A special invitation is extended to all referees of last year to make their application as soon as possible. The conditions and arrangements are the same, also the remuneration not changed. Send applications to Stan. Gillespie, Lock street.

Instead of the regular meeting next Monday night, the members of the board, along with their friends, will hold a work party on King Edward Park, commencing at 6 o'clock.

BORDER GIRLS CAPTURE TITLE

Windsor - Walkerville Alumni Defeats Montreal Y.W.H.A. 75-53 on Round.

NOW MEET EDMONTON.

TORONTO, April 19. —(C. P.) — Windsor - Walkerville Alumni's speedy women's senior basketball team are today senior monarchs of the east. Displaying the same speed and sniping ability which carried them to a clear-cut triumph in the first game of the total-point series with Young Women's Hebrew Association of Montreal, they hung up their second straight victory last night 43-33 and captured the round 75-53.

They will now meet Edmonton Grad's senior monarchs of the west for the Canadian title.

Windsor-Walkerville Alumni, Ontario senior champions, leave for Saint John today where they meet Trojans, Maritime champions in the Eastern Canada final. Bill Butcher, sturdy guard of the Ontario quintette, will not make the trip with the Borderites, so they will be considerably weakened for their two-game series.

In the west Raymond Union Jacks meet Winnipeg Toilers in the first game of the total-point series to decide which club will advance into the Dominion finals. Following their clear-cut triumphs over Westminster Adanacs and Saskatchewan University the perennial Alberta champions are favored to capture the round from the Manitoba champions.

Practice for Olympics

A school of well-known sprinters make use of the Stamford Bridge track every Sunday morning, with the assistance of Albert Hill, the dual Olympic Games winner of 1920, as coach, in preparation for the coming season.

The first full course 100 yards trials were held recently, and once again E. I. Page, the national champion, proved his superiority. But only by a small margin, for George Saunders, the "Poly" international finished less than six inches behind him, after having had a slight advantage at half-way. The time recorded by the three expert watchholders was 10 1-5 seconds, which is satisfactory for this time of the year.

BABY WRIGHT STEPS OUT

Here we have Mrs. Joseph Wright, Jr., and her young daughter, Diane Martha. Mrs. Wright, the former Martha Norelius of Sulphur Springs, W.Va., became a Canadian citizen following her marriage to Joseph Wright, Dominion Diamond Sculls winner. An Olympic swimming champion for the United States for 1924 and 1928, Mrs. Wright first came to Canada in 1929, when she captured the world's professional championship at Toronto. Just a week ago, young Diane Wright took her first step out into the world, and here we have her putting her best foot forward.

CASUAL COMMENT

Bowlers in the Inter-Alley 5-Pin League play to-night at these places: Group 1 at Duffus', Group 2 at the Knights of Columbus, and Group 3 at the Y.M.C.A. The first two groups have only one more week to go after to-night, while Group 3 lasts a week longer, and then the play-offs.

• • • • • • •

Duffus leads in Group 1 with seven points, followed by the Knights with five and the "Y" with four. In Group 2, K. of C. is out in front with nine points, "Y" bowlers are next with six, and then the Duffus team with one. The Duffus boys are leading the parade in Group 3 with eleven points, their nearest rivals being the "Y" crew with a lone point, while the Knights have nil.

• • • • • • •

Babe Bogardis, former Peterborough hockey star, was in town over the week-end visiting friends, before starting his summer job with the customs in Fort Erie. He had a fine season with the champion Buffalo team of the International League. The Babe says several of the Bisons will go up to the National League next winter, including Carl Voss, the Kingston forward who has been starring all year. Carl led the loop in scoring, although low scores were habitual in this circuit.

• • • • • • •

A large turnout is looked for at the first East Peterborough Baseball League meeting being held at eight tomorrow night at Duffus'. Managers, prospective managers, players and anyone interested in this circuit should be on hand in order to get a line on activities for this summer.

• • • • • • •

Ball players figuring on trying for a senior berth here this summer owe it to themselves to take in the indoor drills at the "Y," the first one being to-morrow evening at seven o'clock. Condition will count considerably when they take to the outdoor diamond in about three weeks' time. Bring along gloves and warm up on Wednesday night for an hour.

The Examiner has received from an anonymous correspondent a letter dealing with last Friday night's boxing bouts. Before such a letter can be printed, it is necessary that the communication should be signed by the writer. A pen-name may be used, but it is necessary for The Examiner to know the identity of the correspondent, a rule that applies to all communications submitted to this paper for publication.

Some of the O.H.A. hockey players who have signified their intentions of playing box lacrosse on the city teams this summer are Bill Calladine, Jack Gardner, "Gamey" Jarvis, Pat Calladine, Doug. Hatton, "Red" Creighton, and Ira Dundas. And there'll be more yet, most likely.

Several newcomers to the ring game will be seen at the Pioneer A.C. boxing show at the Legion Hall to-morrow night. The curtain-raisers are those popular kids, Jerry Belland and Pat Jordan, re-matched. They are followed by Fred Lustich and David Peters, the former of the Foster Club. These boys are a bit green in the science of the game, but battle hard from the drop of the hat.

• • • • • • •

"Dutch" McIlmoyle, Foster fighter, and "Hap" O'Toole, should stage another Laderach-Lee slugfest, with Earl Harrington meeting a comer in Ned Vtiarelli, well-known juvenile hockey player. Tommy Heffernan goes on against another tough boy in Jack Minicola, making five all-local prelims. Then come the three main scraps, Mel Allen with Ned Minicola, Ed. Delhaney and Fred DeCarlo, and Billy Hughes, Ontario champion, against Tony Minicola. Sounds pretty good.

• • • • • • •

Some good action pictures of the Canadiens and the Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, may be seen at the Capitol Theatre To-morrow night. The famous kid line of Jackson, Primeau, and Connacher looks good against Howie Morenz and his Flying Frenchmen.

• • • • • • •

Dr. N. H. Sutton was elected president at the annual meeting of the Curling Club last night. The season's prises were presented the various winners, and the matter of artificial ice for next winter came in for much discussion. The curlers are quite hopeful along that line.

LOCAL BOUTS ON WEDNESDAY

Several Newcomers to Ring Will Make Their Debut in Pioneer Club Show.

THREE TORONTO ARTISTS.

The complete line-up of matches for the Pioneer Club's fight card at the Legion Hall to-morrow night shows eight bouts, five of them being all-local and featuring several boxers making their ring debut before the public. The main three scraps are between good Toronto mittsers and the best of Jerry Coughlin's stable. Billy Hughes, Ontario champion, headlines the program against Tony Minicola in the 126-pound class.

Fred DeCarlo, battling local Italian who is rapidly building up a strong fan following, fights Ed Delhaney, a shifty Queen City pug. with a sock in both hands. Ned Minicola is matched with Mel Allen, one of the best of the Toronto welters, a speedy ring veteran who can box or fight with equal ease and effectiveness. They are being brought here tomorrow by "Red" Gallagher, of the Classic A.C.

In the main prelim., Tommy Heffernan, Foster club, meets a promising new-comer, Jack Minicola. They follow Earl Harrington, of the Alpha stable, and Ned Vitarelli, local juvenile hockey player who has been doing some fine fighting lately in the gym. "Dutch" McIlmoyle, another Foster boy, stages a slam-bang battle against "Hap" O'Toole, as they both like to mix it and pack kayo wallops. Fred Lustich, of the Foster Club, and Dave Peters, are both newcomers to the tin ear game, and both look like coming scrappers. They follow the popular curtain-raisers, "Young" Belland and "Irish" Jordan III.

All these boxers are in good condition and should make up an eight-bout card filled with action. The fights start there tomorrow night at 8.30, and competent judges and a referee will be named before the show starts.

QUEBEC QUINTET LOSE AT LONDON

Aces Secure 28-point Lead for Intermediate Cage Honors.

LONDON, Ont., April 19 (C.P.) —Eastern Canada's Intermediate Men's basketball laurels to-day appear headed for London, where Y.M.C.A. Aces of this city last night trounced Montreal C.N.R., champions of Quebec, in the first game of the Eastern Canada final.

Before one of the largest crowds to witness a cage game in years, the Londoners displayed sparkling team work and excellent sharp-shooting in trouncing the visitors 44-16, in the first game of a total-score series. The second game will be played Wednesday.

Utilizing their height advantage while the visitors appeared leg weary after their long train journey, London took a commanding lead at the start and were in front 25—3 at half-time. C.N.R. appeared to get going in the second half and bagged 13 points to 19 for the locals.

Rangy Marvin-Noble, right forward of the Londoners, was the scoring hero of the night, figuring in 21 points. John Donaldson, sub forward, was the high marksman for Quebecers with six points.

LOOKING TO LATIN AMERICA FOR MAJOR OLYMPIC UPSETS

Southern Countries Will Send Small But Select Contingents to Los Angeles.

CHILE BIG THREAT

(By Maxwell Stiles, Special to The Examiner.)

LOS ANGELES, April 19—South America, as we have already discovered in reviewing Argentina, has developed some amazing athletes who should be in the front rank of competition during the Olympic Games at Los Angeles next summer. E. M. Beers, an American coach who now has something to do with a dude ranch in Arizona, expresses the opinion that Latin America will provide many of the major upsets of the tenth Olympiad.

There are at this writing no Olympic attaches in Los Angeles representing Chile or Brazil, nor indeed three other countries to be discussed in this article—Panama, Cuba and Porto Rico. It is therefore impossible to report at this time just what these countres plan to do with regards to Olympic participation.

It may be assumed, however, that the Olympic committees of these nations are in a huddle discussing the ever-present problem of finance and that they will come up with one plan or another to send their best athletes to Los Angeles. The contingents will not be big, but they will be select. This article will give the names and records of some of the available talent.

Front Rank Hammer Tossers

Chile, due largely to the influence of Coach Beers, is strong in at least eight track and field events. Brazil may produce a winner in the 400 metre hurdles and a place man in the pole vault. It is expected also that Brazil will compete in fencing and shooting and possibly in other events. Chile is said to possess some fine fencers and may enter other Olympic sport as well.

Perhaps Chile's outstanding athlete is Miguel Plasa, who placed 2nd to El Ouafi of Morocco (competing for France) in the 1928 Olympic marathon. Plaza has a mark of 2 hours 33 minutes 23 seconds, made in 1928 at Amsterdam. Just how fast he is to-day remains a mystery, but it is certain that Plaza must be reckoned with. These marathon fellows have a habit of improving with age.

Chile has three hammer throwers in the very front rank. One of these, named Bayer, threw the hammer 168 feet 6 inches last year. Barticevic and Goic are credited with 164 feet.

Two Chilean sprinters, Gutierez and Wagner, were clocked in the splendid time of 10.7 seconds for 100 metres last year. Salinas ran 200 metres in 22 seconds and 400 metres in 48.8 seconds. Medel ran 800 metres in 1.55 and 1,500 metres in 4.03.

Belissario Alarcon ranks as one of the world's best distance runners, with 15.06 for 5,000 metres, and 31.30 for 10,000.

Sorruco ran the 110 metre hurdles in 15.4 seconds while Miller showed great promise in the 400-metre hurdles with 55 seconds flat.

Burgos leads Chile's high jumpers at 6 feet 2 inches, Etrada and Geophert have done 6 feet. Moura leaped 22 feet 11¾ inches in the broad jump. Conrads put the shot 45 feet 10½ inches and Benopres threw the discus 145.61 feet. Santisbury reached 187 feet in the javelin.

Brazilian Contenders

Brazil has two men in the 400-metre hurdles who equaled the time made by Victor Burke in the American national championships last summer, 54.2 seconds. These men, Silvio Padilla and Magelhaus, cannot be overlooked in this event.

Castro, Brazil pole vaulter, leaped 13 feet 6⅛ inches last summer, Nell and Puga each did 13 feet 1¼ inch.

Cuba has two fine sprinters in C. Rodrigues and Torriente, the former having covered 100 metres in 10.6 seconds in 1930 and the latter in 11.1 seconds last year.

A NEUTRAL REFEREE.

Sporting Editor.

Dear Sir,—I beg to differ with you in regard to your report of the Lesurf-DeCarlo fight at the Legion Hall Friday night. You say that Lesurf won every round. How do you get that way! I would say Lesurf had a slight edge on DeCarlo in the first two rounds, but the third round was DeCarlo's.

I would suggest for the benefit of the fight game here, keep that referee out of the ring. His action in that third round of the DeCarlo-Lesurf fight was uncalled for; it was so rotten that it smelled bad.

I have seen many fights in the Old Country, where the referee conducts the fight from outside the ring. In the clinches the referee simply says break, and any fighter persisting in holding after being warned would be disqualified. That's fair.

I have seen plenty of the fight game in both this and the Old Country, and have never seen a more lobbside attempt at refereeing.

The referee and judges should be neutral. They should not be members of the various clubs from which the boys are fighting. Then the boys fighting will get fair treatment.

Young DeCarlo put up a great fight Friday night, against the both of them.

Hoping that you will please publish this. I remain, yours ever,

A Fight Fan.

Elder Is Injured In Montreal Race

MONTREAL, April 19 (C.P.)—After a night of jams and spills during which the field was reduced from 12 teams to 10, "Torchy" Peden, Victoria, and Jules Audy, Montreal, were leading in point totals at 8 a.m. in the six-day bicycle race here to-day. It was only in points the team was leading, however, as seven were tied in laps. Peden and Audy had 106 points run up in furious sprints. Nearest them were Bernhard Stubecke and Maurib Declerck with 89 points.

Lew Elder, Toronto cycling star, was taken to hospital after he and Stubeck locked handlebars rounding a turn and his collar bone was broken in the fall. Stubecke was fined $10 for rough riding.

Astor's Mannamead Scratched from Derby

LONDON, Apr. 19 (Canadian Press Cable)—Lord Astor's Mannamead, one of the best juveniles of the English turf last season, and his stablemate Wisborough have been scratched from the Derby which will be run at Epsom Downs on June 1.

Mannamead's training has been unsatisfactory and the colt was not quoted in the last call-over of betting odds, when W. M. G. Singer's Orwell, a Gainsborough colt, was established favorite for the blue riband at 10 to 3 against.

The withdrawal of Mannamead leaves Cockpen and Miracle as Orwell's chief rivals for the greatest of the classics.

Cambray Farmer Is Charged With Theft

LINDSAY, Ont., April 19 (Special to Examiner).—W. G. Laurenson, a 22-year-old farmer, living near Cambray, was brought to Lindsay by Provincial Officer Jos. Nelson yesterday afternoon, charged with the theft of governors from a threshing machine on the farm of Fred Croak, Fenelon Township. The governors are valued at forty dollars, and Laurenson's alibi was that he was working on an invention and needed the governors, which he could not buy. The governors were found on a gasoline engine on his farm, and others in the barn of his father-in-law. He was remanded for a week.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

JERRY MAKES UP HIS MIND

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

'Tis indecision adds to cost,
And through it all is often lost.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Jerry Muskrat awoke. He had been asleep for some time. Now as he opened his eyes he at first couldn't think where he was. Then he remembered that the rising water in the Smiling Pool had driven him from his snug house there to this other house in the bank. This bedroom where he now was was just under the sod, well back from the edge of the bank. The air was fresh and sweet, for there was a little hole to the surface, a hole carefully hidden by a little pile of sticks loosely laid over it.

Jerry yawned once or twice. "This isn't so bad," thought he. "It might be a lot worse. After a while the water will go down and then I can return to my other house if I want to. Perhaps I won't want to because it may be too wet inside to live in for a while. Perhaps there won't be any house when the water goes down. Well, if there isn't it doesn't matter. This house is better for summer anyway and when fall comes I can build a house in the Smiling Pool."

Just then he heard some one coming up the hall and a second or two later Mrs. Jerry appeared. "So this is where you are!" she exclaimed. "I thought as much."

"I thought you would think so," replied Jerry good naturedly. "You were off visiting somewhere when I left the other house. I didn't leave until I had to. The water drove me out. I came straight over here."

"You didn't give a thought about me," sniffed Mrs. Jerry.

"Oh, yes I did," replied Jerry. "I knew that you were at a neighbors and were all right, and I knew that when you returned home and found the house was flooded you would have the good sense to do the same thing I had done and come over here. If the water is running as fast as it was when I swam here you must be tired. I was so tired that I took a nap. I was just thinking of going out to see how things look."

"Don't," replied Mrs. Jerry tartly. "The water is higher and swifter than it was when you came here and you don't want to swim against it unless you have to. I'm so tired I'm ready to drop. When I last saw it only the top of our other house was above the water and I doubt if even that is now. Move over and give me room. My, but it is good to be here. I do hope we won't be driven out of this home."

"Of course we won't, my dear,"

"So this is where you are!" she exclaimed. "I thought as much" replied Jerry in a tone of more confidence than he really felt.

"You never can tell," replied Mrs. Jerry glumly. "What has happened once can happen again, and you haven't forgotten the time when the Green Meadows were flooded and all who were living on them were driven from their homes."

"Indeed I haven't forgotten it," replied Jerry. "But such a thing just couldn't happen again."

"Don't be too sure. That water is still rising and the rain hasn't stopped yet," grunted Mrs. Jerry. Then she yawned and in two minutes was fast asleep, for she was very tired.

Jerry, having had a nap, couldn't go to sleep again. Presently he crept over to the entrance to the hall and started down this. He went only a few steps before he came to water. Even as he stood there the water began to steal around his feet. At this rate it would soon be inside that bedroom. He went back. He wouldn't arouse Mrs. Jerry until the water was actually in the room. If the water continued to rise at the present rate it wouldn't be a great while before this happened. What to do then? Jerry thought it over. At last he made up his mind.

"We won't wait to be driven out," he decided. "We'll make for higher land while we can run for it and not have to try to swim for it."

What To-Day Means To You

"ARIES"

If April 19th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:40 a.m. to 8 a.m., from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 11:10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Astrological influences on April 19th will promote feelings of uncertainty, as though you were walking on a plank and liable to step off at any minute. Possible changes are foreseen for the near future, affecting the family life. Follow your own inner promptings in regard to any important decisions to be made on this date!

Children born on this April 19th will have highly emotional natures. The sway of their feelings, more than the force of their reason, will be the guiding factor in their life. They will be jolly, comradely, affectionate, jealous, proud, ambitious and very intelligent.

Born on April 19th, you have a quiet, unobtrusive nature, which is very much matter-of-fact and business-like. There are no outward trappings of a genius about you, yet the manner in which you do things is artistic, to say the least. Things which you do seem to be done by magic, for you oil the wheels of your machinery so that everything runs like clockwork. As lady of the house, your family are not allowed to be annoyed by the shifting of scenes or the usual household frictions. As a member in an office, you manage to instill harmony, system and silent workmanship into your department.

The honors of leadership are thrust upon you without the asking. You step to the front when there seems no one else to do it, and this will often be the case. You are not anxious for glory, but you are anxious to do your part and to see things done right. You will suffer through the jealousies of those who would like to wear your boots but cannot.

Although not originally humorous, you have a keen appreciation of wit in others, and are quick to see funny situations. You are alert on the "pick up" and make an ideal listener. You are not blind to ideas which are not your own, and like to take part in a friendly argument.

AIMEE REFUSES TO SEE PAINTING

Prize Winning Work is Barred From Museum of Los Angeles.

"TOO CONTROVERSIAL.

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 19.—A flat refusal to view the prize-winning painting "apparition over Los Angeles," was voiced yesterday by Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, and her husband, David, choir singer.

The painting depicts Angelus Temple, where Evangelist Hutton holds forth, overshadowed by a cloud bearing a dollar sign.

It was painted by Barse Miller, vice president of the California Art Club. The club extended the Huttons an invitation to view it.

The evangelist characterized the painting as "untrue and in poor taste."

Because the subject matter was "too controversial," the painting was barred yesterday from the Los Angeles museum. Previous to its showing there, the painting had been awarded the Clara B. Dyar prize for "the best interpretation of the Los Angeles scene."

$800 Is Recommended For Cycle Constable

TORONTO, Apr. 19 (C.P.)—Motorcycle Constable Peter Thornton has been recommended by the Reparations Commission for $800 and interest dated back to January, 1920, as remuneration for war injuries and confinement in a German prison. Thornton at present faces a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of Albert Heward, shot by the policeman when he attempted to escape from a stolen automobile.

The reparations commission found Thornton had 100 per cent disability.

Advertising for the Merchant of To-Day

Conducted by HAROLD S. EDGAR

A series of weekly articles on advertising and merchandising prepared for the merchants of Peterborough District with the co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner.

GOING INTO BUSINESS

Can a man conduct a 5c-10c-15c-$1.00 store profitably in a town of 2,000 people? Where can I secure supplies?

If instead I decide to combine boots and shoes and dry goods—how should store be laid out—where could I purchase supplies—what colors to use on signs.

Reply in detail has gone forward by mail, giving names of jobbers. The following is repeated for the benefit of readers of this columns generally:

A town with a population of two thousand usually has an equivalent population in the rural sections surrounding, making a total of four thousand.

5c-10c-15c to $1.00 stores of this kind are operating in some towns of this size.

General store covering dry goods and shoes—Layout—if the store has a door in the centre with windows on both sides, would place shoe department on the left side, dry goods on the right side, with staple lines at back. If a narrow store with one window—it might be dry goods at the front, then boots and shoes. This can be planned more definitely when store and stock is decided upon.

Windows.—Would dress windows frequently with goods of the type that are seasonable. The articles appearing in our paper under the title of "Advertising for the Merchant of To-day" will give you, each week, information that will be of assistance.

Signs.—Five and Ten Cent Store—sign for store, red background, black letters. Dry Goods Store—royal blue background, letters yellow with red edging.

In deciding on a town in which to locate it is well to consider the type of people and how your own personality will fit in—the other stores located in the town—the competition in the town and from larger towns within trading distance. Consider also what newspaper circulation is available as an advertising medium.

Unless there is an outstanding opening for the business you contemplate in the town in your mind, and you have a personal connection that will be of considerable assistance to you, you might well consider the advisability of locating in a larger town or a good town with a larger population in the countryside.

It is usually preferable to go after a larger market, and a small store well managed can be successful even in competition with larger stores, and making a success in the smaller store, you have a better opportunity to expand.

In the larger centre also you are likely to have a stronger paper with a more widespread circulation, and advertising or the opportunity of telling your story to your possible customers is one of the first essentials of a successful retail business.

Good goods bearing well-known trade marks—suited to your customers needs—sold at fair prices and advertised by you to those customers—is half the battle of building a successful business.

Next Week—Shopping by Sight.

Mr. Edgar will be glad to answer questions in this column, if readers will address their communications in care of this paper. Confidential replies can be arranged through the editor.—(Copyright).

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 74

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Luvini and his party had a good start and gained the safety of the palisade before the Waziri reached it. The village was easy to defend after the gates were barred. Outside, the Waziri made ready to outwit the enemy, realizing they could not overcome them by force. Luvini carried Jane Clayton to a hut and bound her to a stake, still believing she was Flora Hawkes. There he left her.

Lady Greystoke was stunned by the series of misfortunes. But dwarfing all else was the remembrance that Tarzan had deserted her in her hour of need....Usula and ten men crept silently around the palisade to the rear of the village. Here they found quantities of brushwood which they piled close against three sides of the palisade, while most of the Waziri still engaged Luvini's blacks.

Under the rising moon, Luvini watched the besiegers. Confident that they had ceased fighting for the night, the huge black now stole away to the hut in which he had left Lady Greystoke. As he entered with a lighted torch which he stuck in the floor, he gazed at the still form beside him. Jane Clayton looked at him fearlessly.

"Who are you?" demanded Luvini in surprise. "I am Lady Greystoke, wife of Tarzan of the Apes," replied Jane Clayton. "If you are wise, you will release me at once." Surprise and terror showed in the eyes of Luvini—and presently another emotion as well! He realized that Lady Greystoke could be held for a huge ransom. A fortune, so he dreamed, had been put in his hands.

FRESH FIGHTING IN MANCHURIA

Jap Officials Claim Clashes Are With Chinese Rebels Not Soviets.

GARRISONS BOLSTERED.

MUKDEN, April 19. — (A.P.)— Fresh outbursts of insurgent activity in the districts around Chengchiatun, Taonan and Tunghiao caused Japanese military officials to rush reinforcements northward to-day from the territory south of Mukden to strengthen the northern garrisons.

Officials said these redistributions of troops were due entirely to activities of the Chinese insurgeants and were in no way connected with the reported tension between Japan and Soviet Russia over questions concerning the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Because of continued strong resistance of the insurgents under General Wang Teh-Lin in the Chientao district, the Japanese High Command ordered infantry to proceed from here by way of Kirin and Tanhua to assist in suppressing the rebellion. Official Japanese reports said the insurgeants had occupied several towns in the Chientao district and were burning and looting.

30 Rebels Slain.

A despatch to the Rango News Agency from Chientao said that the Japanese expedition clashed with 200 insurgeants near Paitsaohou yesterday and after a two hour battle the Chinese fled, leaving 30 dead on the field. The Japanese losses were given as two killed and 10 wounded.

General Jiro Tamon's shock division is being relieved after a winter of fighting in the Harbin district.

Meanwhile the headquarters and one brigade of the Tenth Division arrived at Harbin and was joined there by another brigade of the Tenth Division. The re-united division under Lieut. General Hiroaz will relace General Tamon's troops.

General Hirose said on his arrival at Harbin that the Japanese were determined to free Northern Manchuria and Mongolia from lawless elements, but he flatly denied reports of aggressive intentions by Japan against the Soviets.

LODGES' OFFICERS JOINTLY INSTALLED

Annual Installation of Officers for Five Lodges Held in Toronto.

Something new in the annual installation of officers of the Sanctorums in District No. 18, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans, occurred on Friday last, when the officers of Herxes No. 1, Toronto; Cyzicus No. 24, Peterborough; Mycerinus No. 41, Lindsay; Achar No. 72, Barrie, and Khari No. 235, Bowmanville, were jointly installed into office at the Oddfellows' Temple, Toronto.

This interesting ceremony was in charge of Sheik F. J. Batten, District Deputy Supreme Monarchos, of Peterborough, together with the following team of installing officers, who were in uniform: E. Norman, P.G.M.; R. Bates; H. McFee; R. H. Brown; G. Webb; J. H. Hall.

The team was highly complimented on their work, and a hearty vote of thanks tendered them, and they received the cordial applause of the large attendance present as they marched off the floor.

At the close of the above ceremony, a first-class entertainment program was presented, which was greatly enjoyed by all, and then adjournment was made to the dining-room, where the big 'moonfeast' was held, and to which all present did ample justice.

Another interesting event of the evening was the drawing for a number of valuable prizes, and which created considerable interest among the members.

FARMER FINED FOR CRUELTY

Team of Horses Appeared in City With Open Sores on Shoulders.

FINED $25.00 AND COSTS.

A farmer of Smith Township, was convicted before Police Magistrate Langley this morning of cruelty to animals and was fined $25 and $6.25 costs. The charge was laid by local officers of the Humane Society, and was prosecuted by Inspector Baird, of Toronto, representing the society.

Constable Jack Deannard and Dr. Thomas Johnston, veterinary, told of seeing a team of horses on the Peterborough market on the morning of April 9. Both horses had open sores on their shoulders. Constable Deannard said that the sores were four inches across.

A son of the accused, said that he worked on the farm for his father, who had instructed him to drive the team to the city with a load of wood. From their farm to the city is a distance of 16 miles, and the boy said that the sores became much worse during the long haul over the country roads. He and his father were aware that the horses had sore shoulders before he started the trip.

Testifying in his own defence, the accused said that he had been treating the sores for several days. The morning the horses were hitched for the drive to the city he said the sores were only about as large as a quarter or fifty cent piece. He admitted instructing the boy to drive the team to the city.

In convicting the man, the Magistrate said that he apparently had failed to realize the pain and suffering such a long haul would cause the horses, which were already suffering from open sores on their shoulders. Continuing, the Magistrate said: "Farmers and others living in this district must realize that they must treat their animals with due consideration and not cause them unnecessary suffering or maltreat them."

A system of agronome control instituted in Quebec four years ago has resulted in many practically barren farms being turned into most productive ones.

WARM WEATHER APPROACHING

Earth Facing Minimum Period of Sunspot Activity States Observatory Official.

WORK ON CYCLE.

OTTAWA, April 19 (Special to The Examiner). — The earth is approaching a minimum period of sunspot activity, which in Canada is usually associated with greater yields of farm crops than during the maximum periods, according to Dr. Ralph DeLury, assistant director of the Dominion Observatory, Department of the Interior, who broadcast an address on the relation between the weather, animal life, and sunspots not long ago.

Minima of sunspots occurred in 1901, 1913 and 1923. The average cycle is about eleven years.

Higher temperatures, greater precipitation, more thunderstorms, are among the changes to be expected as the sunspot minimum approaches, Dr. DeLury says. "The long record kept at Toronto shows on the average 3 per cent. more thunderstorms at minimum than at maximum of sunspots.

The forest fire hazard will be greater in Canada for the next two or three years than it has been if the weather runs true to cycles of the past, because of the increased number of lightning flashes and the more rapid drying of the forest floor.

There even seems to be a relation between the activity of the sunspots and volcanic eruptions in the Philippine Islands and earthquakes in Japan, Dr. DeLury says.

Plagues of locusts and grasshoppers seem to come and go with the sunspot cycle. "You may have noticed," commented Dr. DeLury, "that grasshoppers increased in numbers in 1930, and much more in 1931. This was foreseen as an accompaniment of the sunspot cycle, for a fine record had been kept in Manitoba since 1795, which examined in the light of the sunspot cycle showed a maximum of grasshoppers to be associated with the minimum of sunspots. Grasshoppers are rapidly approaching a maximum and sunspots a minimum."

Certain microbe diseases, including cholera, malaria, yellow fever, and sleeping sickness, are associated with wet and dry periods which seem to be tied up to the sunspot cycle, Dr. DeLury thinks.

The rabbit and the Manitoba grouse vary in numbers in the same way as the grasshopper has been observed to do. Maximum numbers are reached about a year after the sunspot minimum. The number of fur-bearing animals fluctuate widely on a 9½-year cycle. Scientists think this cycle is the sunspot cycle modified by some other still unknown cycle.

"The annual growth-rings of trees which grew in Northern Europe, in the Western United States, and in many regions in Canada, all record the influence of the sunspot," the Dominion observer stated. "We have even found the eleven-year cycle in trees recently released by the retreating glacier in northern British Columbia, trees which grew perhaps many thousands of years ago."

CHINESE TO STRIKE

TOKYO, April 19. (AP)—A despatch to the Rengo News Agency from Harbin, Manchuria, to-day said all employees of the Chinese Eastern Railway decided to go out on a general strike to-morrow in indignation over the arrest of 40 employees in connection with the dynamiting of a Japanese troop train near there April 12.

AN IRISH EDEN MAKES BIG HIT WITH AUDIENCE

Young People of Immaculate Conception Church Present Play.

DELIGHTFUL COMEDY.

Play Will Be Repeated Tonight in the Ashburnham Hall.

"An Irish Eden", a delightful three-act comedy drama, carrying its full share of humor and pathos was the well-acted presentation last evening in the Ashburnham Community Hall of the young people of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

A large and appreciative audience greeted the initial presentation of the play last evening, which is being repeated this evening in the same auditorium.

Father Duffy, a genial, charitable and kindly Irish priest, played in most true character by Vincent McCabe, is the central figure in this altogether human and stirring drama, which has to do with the joys, sorrows, loves and schemes of those living in his small parish.

His niece, Nellie Duffy, played with pathetic realism by Miss Louise Flynn, has left the concert stage where she had given much promise as a singer to live near her only relative, Father Duffy. She becomes the wife of a promising young lawyer, John Nolan, played by John Madden, refusing the love of Harrison Woodworth, her former manager, played as the dark, dashing schemer by Roy Cavanagh. Woodworth decides that he will repay Nellie for his unrequited love and uses May Dempsey, played by Geraldine McAuliffe, who secretly loves John Madden.

Misunderstanding and heartaches descends upon Nellie and her husband and a crisis is reached in their marital relationship through the scheming of Harrison Woodworth. They are about to sign a legal separation but the diplomacy and thoughtful kindliness of Father Duffy wins out "in the fight against the devil" and the young couple are directed back into happy wedded life.

Much comedy is tossed into the play by Father Duffy's old friend, Dr. Nolan, played by Jack Roach, who is always "getting so absent-minded." Father Duffy's housekeeper, Mrs. Brophey, delightfully acted with true brogue by Stella Brady, also contributes many laughs through her efforts to have Louis Schmidt, the butcher, played by Dan Leonard, propose to her. He finally does in German and she joyously answers, "Yes."

More laughs are added by the love-making, quarrels and re-sworn affections of Anna Ryan, played by Nora Moher, and Tom Blake, played by Jack Primeau, Jr. Then giving the homely touch are Mrs. Patric, played by Mrs. Wm. Moher, and Michael Patric, played by William Moher, and their brood of happy children. Simple folk are these but as Father Duffy points out not lacking in true Christian virtue and happy in their wise-understanding.

The play moves swiftly along without a dull moment, laughs following thickly after the sad parts. It is all cleverly acted, each player being well-schooled in their parts, and it runs smoothly to its happy conclusion.

Vincent McCabe, as stated, gives a remarkably characterization of Father Duffy, but he is ably supported by the rest of the cast, Mrs. Brophey, Miss Nellie Duffy and Dr. Nolan being especially well acted. Aunt Susan, Nellie's old Negro nurse, is played by Cecilia O'Toole with real darky articulation.

The play was directed by Jack Primeau and is a credit to his able direction. Stage directors last evening were John McCabe and Robert Gilman. St. Peter's orchestra during the intermissions played stirring Irish reels and also the soul-searching songs of Old Erin.

CONVICT TUNNEL FOUND IN TIME

Shaft Electrically Lighted, Air Cooled, Extended for 63 Feet Toward Walls.

FRESH EARTH PROVES TIP.

FLORENCE, Ariz., April 19 (C.P.).—Thrills of a long search for a new tunnel by which convicts planned a wholesale escape are over for guards of the Arizona State Prison here.

The incompleted shaft, 63 feet long, is found, the convict in charge of the mattress factory, from which it started, is in solitary confinement, and search for others involved is underway.

William Delbridge, prison superintendent, said to-day the finding of fresh earth scattered about the grounds two weeks ago confirmed a tip that the convicts planned a break, but his investigators were unable for days to locate the tunnel.

A pile of mattress material in the prison factory eventually drew attention. Guards found a steel plate and the tunnel entrance beneath it. Concealed wires carried electric light and fan connections to the spare-time diggers.

TWO STRATFORD VIOLINISTS WIN

Bailey Bird and Lorne Small Awarded Group Honors.

KIWANIS MUSIC FESTIVAL.

Two Stratford boys won primary honors in two violin classes of this morning's program of the music festival sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough.

Playing the test piece "Serenata" by Adam Carse, in the competition for boys from 13 to 16 years of age, Bailey Bird enhanced his laurels of recent years by a splendid rendition and interpretation of the set selection. His score was 85 points and Jack McKone of Peterborough was placed second with 80 points.

The results in the group for juniors of twelve years and under were: 1, Lorne Small, Stratford, 84; 2, James Lillico, Peterborough, 81; 3, Russel Huggins, Peterborough, 80. Other contestants were Dorothy Cunningham and Ruth Fisher.

Victor Coleman of Peterborough was awarded first honors in this morning's vocal competition in the class of boys' unchanged voices. He scored 83 points, a narrow margin of one over Robert Haigh of Toronto, who was credited with 82 points. Gerald Perks of Peterborough was third with 80 points. The other contestants were Fred Fowler, Fred Hooper, Orville Wainman, Robert Kay, Christie Mason, George Rowe of Orono, Leslie Sage, Donald Perks and Lyle Glover.

The adjudicators were Frank Wellsman of Toronto and W. H. Hewlett of Hamilton, musicians of long established ability, accomplishment and experience.

In announcing the awards in the violin class for senior boys, Mr. Wellsman complimented both Bailey Bird and Jack McKone. He emphasized the advice of general application that young musicians should pay careful attention to an author's guiding notes.

"There is a great deal that is helpful if they are observed, especially the hints for interpretation," Mr. Wellsman said. Some times they are overlooked and not carried out.

Mr. Wellsman said he did not recommend a slavish adherence to copy.

"Bailey Bird showed more temperament and feeling, and there was more color and contrast in his tone. I think he is going to make a very fine violinist. His performance was excellent."

JOHN AIRD JR. REQUESTED O'BRIEN TO HAVE HYDRO TAKE CARE OF HIM WHEN HE WAS SHUT OUT OF DEAL

J. A. O'Brien Only Witness Called During Morning Session.

LETTERS ARE READ.

In Early Stages Aird and Associates Wanted to Develop Power.

TORONTO, April 20 (C.P.). — Writing to J. A. O'Brien, vice-president of the M. J. O'Brien, Ltd., on January 31, 1929, John Aird, Jr., whose dealings with the Hydro Power Commission of Ontario is a subject of the present enquiry before Mr. Justice Orde, made special request that the Hydro be asked to "take care of me" in the settlement for the purchase by the Hydro of the O'Brien properties. Mr. Aird received $50,000 from the Hydro Commission, and this is one of the matters being investigated.

J. A. O'Brien was the only witness heard this morning, but most of the time was taken up in the reading of correspondence between John Aird, Jr., and the O'Brien firm. The letters revealed that up to the end of 1928, Mr. Aird and his associates were endeavoring to secure a power contract from the Hydro Commission with the intention, if successful, of developing the O'Brien power properties on the Madawaka and Mississippi Rivers themselves.

Secured Option.

In the first place J. G. G. Kerry, consulting engineer, had secured an option for $2,000,000 on the properties, and he in association with the firm of Aird-McLeod and the Wood-Gundy Co., endeavored to carry through a power development scheme. The option, however, expired without anything having been accomplished. The O'Brien firm then raised the price to $2,500,000 and permitted Mr. Aird and his associates, the evidence disclosed, to go ahead in their effort to interest the Hydro Commission in a power contract. All through 1928 Mr. Aird was in constant touch with the O'Brien firm by correspondence and persisted in his hopefulness that a contract would be secured from the Hydro.

Reference is made repeatedly in the letters to visits made to the chairman of the commission, C. A. Magrath and to Premier Ferguson. It was represented that the Premier was friendly to the Aird proposition and that a member of the Hydro Commission, Mr. Maguire was "exceedingly favorable" to the scheme and would give it every support. Sir John Aird, father of John Aird, Jr., was also active in the negotiations and had interviewed J. A. O'Brien and others.

In January 1929, John Aird Jr., suddenly discovered that Hydro officials were in direct touch with the O'Brien concern. Mr. Magrath had seen J. A. O'Brien in Montreal. He then began to wonder about how he was to be compensated for his efforts and he wrote to J. A. O'Brien asking him to arrange for the Hydro Commission to take care of him, intimating at the same time he thought the Hydro would be willing to do this.

Former Premier G. Howard Ferguson was in the room this morning but only long enough to shake hands with the Commissioner, Mr. Justice Orde and a few others. It is understood he will be called to give evidence.

When the enquiry continued today, J. A. O'Brien vice-president and director of M. J. O'Brien, Ltd., took the witness stand. He said his firm acquired control of the properties on the Madawaska and Mississippi rivers in 1916. J. G. G. Kerry and his associates had been given an option on the properties in 1927 at a price of $2,000,000 said witness. No option had been given at a lower figure to any other party

Not Direct Negotiations

Replying to questions by W. N. Tilley, counsel for the royal commission, Mr. O'Brien said his firm had no direct negotiations with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission nor with the government prior to the spring of 1929. Neither had his firm been in touch with Peter White, K.C. He had negotiated

SHORT SELLERS ARE SUBPOENAED

U. S. Senate Group Selects Witnesses From List of 350 Traders.

ONLY BIGGEST CALLED.

WASHINGTON, April 20 (A.P.)—Subpoenas for a score of traders and brokers whose names appear on the list of short sellers furnished by the New York Stock Exchange, were issued to-day by the U. S. Senate Banking Committee.

The names of those called were not made public, but they were selected from among the bigger traders on the list of shorts turned over to the committee by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Some of the witnesses are expected to be called tomorrow at resumption of the enquiry into administration charges of bear raiding to depress the market.

The names were selected from a list of 350 traders on the list of 24,000 short sales on April 8, when the market took a sudden drop.

All of the 350 transactions involved amount to 2,500 shares or more.

SPLIT ON INSURANCE

OTTAWA.—Before it adjourned until some hour this afternoon, the Senate's Banking and Commerce Committee had failed to agree upon the most contentious feature of its bill regulating the operations of foreign insurance companies in Canada. C.P.R. HEAD OPPOSES PRINCIPAL OF PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IN RADIO

Urges Medium of Communication be Available for Commercial Interests.

OUTLINES CONTROL PLAN.

OTTAWA, April 20 (C.P.).—The medium of communication offered by the radio should be made available for the commercial interests of the country as well as for entertainment and educational purposes, E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, told the House of Commons Committee on Broadcasting to-day. Mr. Beatty presented the outline of a scheme of radio control based to a great extent on the report of the Aird Commission, but reserving ownership of the national broadcasting system for a private corporation to be created by the two main railway systems, manufacturers of radio equipment and other interested bodies, and to work under regulation of a commission appointed and paid by the Government.

No Public Fund Outlay.

Another exception to the provisions of the Aird report was the inclusion of the right to broadcast direct advertising for revenue. Mr. Beatty's scheme would not require any capital expenditure of the public funds but would take a share of the money collected in license fees to assist in operation costs.

Mr. Beatty was opposed to the principle of public ownership but maintained his belief in the control of public utilities by Government commission. The Radio Commission, he would propose, would have

FRESH TROUBLE BREWS IN OHIO MINING FIELD

National Guardsmen Set Up Anti-Aircraft Guns to Prevent Plane Bombings.

SEVERAL CLASHES.

Mysterious Blast Shakes Village of Jewett—No Damage Done.

CADIZ, O., April 20 (C.P.). — Fresh disturbances broke out today in the Eastern Ohio coal fields where miners are on strike in protest to wage reductions.

A mysterious explosion shook the Village of Jewett, 10 miles north of here, about 1 a.m., but apparently did no damage.

Sixty miles to the south, in Noble County, nearly 200 strike sympathizers, a few hours later, attempted unsuccessfully to prevent 200 non-strikers from going to work at the Caldwell Mine near Caldwell. The strikers were dispersed by Sheriff Clayton McKee and six deputies with a machine gun, although no shots were fired.

A group of strikers was reported earlier on the march in Guernsey County, but authorities there were unable to locate them.

Shots Fired.

Six shots were fired near the Tasa Mine, a short distance from Jewett, but National Guardsmen at the shaft reported no one was hit. They were unable to discover who did the shooting.

The explosion was possioly a short distance outside the village. Its exact location was undetermined, but a check of nearby mines showed none of them were touched.

Troops set anti-aircraft guns in position in the Cadiz sector to-day to prevent any attempts of an airplane bombing of the mines.

These weapons were set up after an unidentified p'ane flew low over the Somers Mine, scene of recent rioting and dropped an object near the tipple.

TWO MURDER VICTIMS DISCOVERED IN FIELD

GARDEN CITY, N.Y., April 20.—The body of a man who had been stabbed to death and a woman whose head had been crushed were found to-day in an open field in Garden City Park, L.I. They were victims of what police described "must have been a terrific struggle."

They man was tentatively identified as E. Brinker, Jr., of Jackson Heights, and the woman was believed to be Rose Welk, Flushing. Both were about 35 years old.

The woman's mouth was covered with adhesive tape. Her skull had been smashed open. There were numerous stab wounds in the man's throat and chest.

QUEBEC AFTER TOURISTS.

QUEBEC. — The Province of Quebec will open tourist information bureaus at Windsor and Niagara Falls on May 15, it is announced by Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Roads and Mines. "Last year these points brought us a great number of tourists. This year I hope we will have another success," the Minister said.

$5 Month, Board If Road Workers Wish to Stay On

NORTH BAY, April 20.—(CP)—Hon. William A. Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, today announced the highway camps between North Bay and Pembroke would remain open. They were to have been closed at the end of this month but the local branch of the Department of Northern Development received word countermanding the order. The camps will remain open as a straight relief proposition. The men have been offered the option of remaining at the camp for their board and $5 per month wages, or getting off the job. They will be notified today of the new condition.

There are at present 550 men at the five camps.

OLD RESIDENT OF CITY DEAD

Miss Ann Martha Nicholls Passes in Her 96th Year.

BORN IN SMITH.

One of the oldest residents of Peterborough County and member of a pioneer family prominently lined wkith the early history of Smith Township, Ann Martha Nicholls passed away at her residence 216 McDonnell street this morning. She was 95 years of age.

Until eight weeks ago when she sustained injury in a fall, Miss Nicholls had enjoyed remarkably good health considering her advanced years. A resident of Peterborough for half a century she had contributed years of outstanding service to various religious and social service organizations, having been a member of the Women's Baptist Foreign Mission Board for ten years; a charter member of Murray Street Baptist Church Sunday School and an enthusiastic member of Murray Street Church.

She was also a charter member of the Y.W.C.A. Board on which she still retained membership at the time of her death; a charter member of the Children's Aid Society and a member for many years of the Anson House Board of which she was at one time Honorary President.

Born in Smith Township on September 18, 1836 Miss Nicholls was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William C. Nicholls. Her parents were pioneers of the township, having come from Bristol, England. William C. Nicholls was the first public school inspector in this district. The family first settled at Lakefield and some few years later took up residence in Peterborough.

Miss Nicholls is survived by one sister, Mary A. Nicholls of McDonnel street this city.

Funeral services are to be held on Friday at 2 p.m. from the family residence, in charge of the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray street Baptist Church. Interment at Little Lake cemetery.

SOLD TO DODGERS

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 20. — (CP)—The Jersey Journal today said the Jersey City baseball club of the International League would be sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Meaning Of Those Question Marks

Those question marks that have been painted on the uptown sidewalks and duplicated on the front page of The Examiner have served to emphasize an urgent community problem and at least a partial solution.

How many jobs can we provide for our fellow citizens who are unemployed?

Dear Reader, this problem of supplying spring work, the odd jobs, is an individual concern. It is yours.

If we had a dictatorship, a Mussolini, it would all be speedily, drastically and more or less satisfactorily arranged. With us it is a matter for our own freewill.

The man whose salary has been nipped a little may feel that he has made a sacrifice to the public weal.

What of the man who has worked only a few weeks in twelve months? But everybody is aware of this community problem.

The pressing question is—What are you able and willing to do to help relieve it?

The sheer need of many citizens casts a tremendous obligation upon those who can be of some help to them.

Those Spring jobs help the men who give as well as the men who receive. Houses and stores to be painted; rooms to be papered; plumbing that needs repair; furnaces that should be overhauled or scrapped; chimneys that should be rebuilt; roofs that have outlived their time and a whole long list of jobs the carpenter would like to go at.

BILL TO ABOLISH OATH IS GIVEN FIRST READING

Measure Moved By De Valera Passes Without Division in Dail.

ACTION EXPECTED.

Cosgrave Minister Announces Party Wil Start Opposition in Next Stage.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 20.—(AP)— President Eamon de Valera's bill to abolish the oath of allegiance to the crown was passed on first reading without a division in the Dail today.

This had been expected, but a critical vote is looked for when the bill comes up for second reading next Wednesday.

A formal objection to the measure was entered by Deputy McDermott, Independent, by way of serving notice that vital debate on the issue might be expected to begin next week.

The president introduced the bill himself.

Ernest Blythe, who was Minister of Finance in the former Cosgrave administration, announced his party would oppose it in its subsequent stage.

Dr. Stuart Parker Is Convention Speaker

Rev. Stuart Parker, D.D., minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, will deliver the principal address at this evening's session of the 18th annual meeting of the Provincial W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church in Canada in St. Paul's Church. Dr. Parker is a gifted speaker, and the men of the city are cordially invited to attend. The evening session starts at 7.45.

DEACONESSES ARE INTRODUCED TO CAPACITY FILLED CHURCH

Choir of Children Adds Color to Evening Presbyterial Session.

MISS PELTON SPEAKS.

"Even in this day of stress and want, we have tag days for animals. It is a natural thing for us who are trying to be Christians to be kind to the physical aspect of life, but St. Paul meant that we should be kind also to the spirit of man if we have a real love for Christ. We should also watch ourselves when we see the spirit of people—either through indifference or ignorance or absolute wilfulness — walking into a bog of trial.

"'Live and let live' is a popular slogan, but does it manifest as real a love for Christ as the saying, 'Live and help live'? For us it is a very delicate thing to stop the boy or girl who is doing something wrong. We do not want to hurt our prestige, and yet in the garden of the Lord would we let the boy or girl start out in this way when we might prevent them by something we could say or do?"

Miss Laura K. Pelton, of Montreal, with headquarters in Toronto, field secretary of the Council Executive, gave a most inspiring and eloquently-worded address at last night's session of the meeting of the Ontario Provincial W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, meeting here in annual convention.

Her discourse was based on the utterances of St Paul in the 13th chapter of Corinthians, speaking of love in "its divine dimensions and its Christ-like quality."

The address was especially apt to the occasion, as it dealt mainly with problems affecting youth, which was the watchword of last night's program.

The session, which had a filled church as audience, commenced with an extraordinarily pleasing presentation by choruses from the junior organizations. One hundred and seven young girls, from miniature sizes up, dressed in the quaintest style, with long white frocks whose full skirts were caught by road blue ribbon girdles that matched the Presbyterian color of

Predicts Dole In Full Force

TORONTO, April 20.—(CP)—Prof. H. M. Cassidy, addressing the Social Welfare Conference of Toronto and the County of York here today, prophesied the early inauguration of the "full-fledged dole." "This is not a new course," he said, "for we have had direct relief — which is a dole—for the past two years, but there has also been a good deal of relief work provided. With relief work coming to an end and with little prospect of any branch of the government being willing to continue with it, only the direct relief dole will be left."

FREE-FOR-ALL LEGAL BATTLE

Eight Writs Issued Involving Newfoundland's Political Leader.

SQUIRES INCLUDED.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 20.—(C.P.)—Newfoundland's political leaders became involved in a free-for-all legal battle to-day as eight more writs were issued for alleged violations of the Placement Act.

Two members of the Government, including Prime Minister Sir Richard Squires, and three members of the Opposition already had been served with writs charging them with accepting emoluments apart from session indemnities and ministerial salaries while members of the Legislature.

The battle started with Opposition members suing members of the Government. Then Government members sued Opposition members. To-day Government members are suing Opposition members and Government members alike.

COURT ROOM BIBLE MISSING.

PORT COLBORNE. — A new leather bound Bible recently secured for use in the court room is missing to-day. A transient housed there last night is alleged to have stolen it, and now the old thumb worn volume has to be called into use.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt.—Rosario Allard is a man without a country. Neither the United States nor Canada will claim him as a citizen.

Allard was born in Derby Line. The international boundary went through the middle of the house. United States authorities now are trying to determine in which room he was born.

Anderson Is Given Reformatory Term

HAMILTON, Ont., April 20 (C.P.). — George Anderson, choir singer, found guilty of a serious offence against Harry Brightwell, of Montreal, was sentenced to two years less a day in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, plus three months indeterminate, by Chief Justice Rose in Supreme Court to-day.

Harry Brightwell was found not guilty by a jury which returned its verdict to Chief Justice Rose this afternoon. Brightwell was charged with shooting Anderson with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

France Well Blanketed With Election Posters

PARIS, April 20.—(C. P. Cable)—Paris and 18,000 cities and towns throughout France are blanketed with huge brilliantly colored posters put out by a National Republican Committee headed by Henri de Kerillis, political expert of the Echo de Paris, sharply attacking the leftist groups in the French election campaign that winds up in the double ballot May 1 and May 8.

All the various "National Republican" parties, regardless of their different shades of opinion, are called on to form a solid bloc to prevent the return of a Radical-Socialist and Socialist combination in a majority in the new chamber of deputies.

KILMARNOCK IS BEATEN 3 TO 0 IN REPLAY TILT

Fleming, McPhail and English Score Goals for the Winning Club.

FEW SOLO EFFORTS.

Both Sides Receive Warnings From Referee for Flare-ups in First Half.

GLASGOW, April 20 (C. P. Cable). — Glasgow Rangers to-day won the Scottish Football Association Cup emblematic of the soccer championship of Scotland when they defeated Kilmarnock in a replayed final game at Hampden Park by three goals to nil. The two clubs drew on Saturday, each scoring a goal.

Fleming scored for the Rangers in the first half and McPhail and English in the second half.

The first goal came after the Kilmarnock goal had been under sustained pressure for ten minutes. Bell, the Killies' goalie, punched out an overhead kick by English, but could not handle the return kick by Fleming.

Outside of a few forays, mostly individual, Kilmarnock were kept in their own section for most of the half, the backs towards the end forming a circle around Bell. Just before half-time bad tempers flared and both sides were warned by the referee.

Rangers continued on the offensive in the opening stages of the second half, but the Kilmarnock defence took care of everything. The Killie forwards finally got going and forced the Rangers back on the defensive for a period. McPhail completed a fine forward movement by goaling in the twenty-fifth minute of the half, while English settled the issue with his goal in the thirty-fifth minute.

The line-ups:

Early Morning Fire Completely Destroyed the Home of V. Caban.

Out of Work For Months.

V. Caban, an unemployed returned man and his wife and five children, are homeless to-day and dependent upon the charity of kindly neighbours, following a disastrous early morning fire which completedly razed their two-storey frame dwelling situated on Park street south in North Monaghan township, and which also destroyed all but a few meager articles of furniture.

The property valued at $2,000.00 and owned by Alex Levasseur, is completely covered by insurance, while the contents of the dwelling, including furniture and shoe repairing machinery, is about half covered by insurance. The cause of the outbreak is obscure.

As he stood surveying the smouldering ruins of his former home this morning, Mr. Caban told The Examiner, "I was awakened shortly before three o'clock this morning by my wife and discovered the rear portion of the house blazing furiously. I was sleeping in a front bedroom with one of the boys, my wife was in a back room with

CHAMBERLAIN'S OMISSION

URGES DOMINION CONTROL OUTPUT OF ALL RADIUM

Senator King Backs McRae's Proposal—Distribution Costs Can Be Cut.

DULL DAY IN HOUSE.

Meighen Would See Live Cattle Trade Improved in Canada.

OTTAWA, April 20. (CP)— National control of radium extracted from the pitchblende deposits of the Great Bear Lake area, was urged in the senate yesterday by Hon. J. H. King, former minister of health. Canada, he said, might be in a position to supply, not only its own demand for radium, but the British Empire's as well.

In supporting the proposal of Hon. A. D. McRae, that the Dominion assume control of radium-producing ores, Senator King said the metal could be distributed at a cost far below the prevailing level. Debate on the McRae motion was adjourned until to-day.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, government leader in the upper house, announced that problems facing cattle exporters would be brought to the attention of the chairman of the committee arranging for the Imperial Economic Conference, which meets in Ottawa in July. Canadian cattle encountered many restrictions when entering the British market, said Senator D. E. Riley, introducing the subject. Nothing would help Canadian agriculture more than the improving of the live cattle trade.

Sees Greater Possibilities

Canadian cattle encountered less favorable conditions in the British market than Irish cattle, said Senator Riley. A total of 26,000 cattle crossed the ocean last year but the trade could be developed to a greater extent than this, if restrictions were modified. The best opportunity to review the entire trade would be at the conference table.

Organization of the conference agenda was under the supervision of the cabinet, said Senator Meighen. Memoranda were being prepared on tariffs, exchange, currency and other topics and he would undertake to bring to the attention of the government the important subject of the cattle trade.

A statement by Premier R. B. Bennett on actions taken by the Dominion in regard to the Manitoba Savings Office, featured a dull day in the house. Following negotiations between the province and the banks, he said, the Dominion guaranteed the banks against losses when they assumed deposit liabilities of the savings office.

No Less For Dominion

Deposits of the provincial bank aggregated about $12,000,000 said Premier Bennett but after its close, they were distributed among the chartered banks of Winnipeg. The Dominion so far had incurred no

FAMOUS TRANS-ANDINE RAILWAY CLOSED DOWN

MENDOZA, Spain, April 20 (A.P.) —The famous trans-Andine Railroad, which links the Atlantic and the Pacific over the Andes, two miles above the sea, was abandoned to-day.

Tariff walls which have sprung up between Argentine and Chile, each struggling to maintain its business in times of economic distress, have halted the trains over the 155 miles of narrow gauge track and have terminated a 60-year battle of engineering against the forces of nature.

Chile and Argentina are committed stubbornly to the prevention of foreign imports, even from each other, in their fight for economic survival and the resulting retaliatory duties have killed off the freight traffic which sustained the trans-Andine line. Its British administrators suspended its operation to-day rather than continue indefinitely at a loss of $15,000 a month.

James Moore, of Widnes, England, was electrocuted while working an electric milking machine.

Thirteen Homeless by Port Hope Fire

Thirteen persons were rendered homeless yesterday at Port Hope when fire, believed to have been caused by a defective chimney, destroyed the home of John Currie, Great War veteran, and occupied by two other families. McGILL UNIVERSITY TO BUILD FINE NEUROLOGICAL INSTITUTE

Made Possible Through $1,232,652 Grant From Rockefeller Foundation.

FINEST ON CONTINENT.

MONTREAL, April 20 (C.P.) — Thanks to the generosity of the Rockefeller Foundation, the co-operation of the Province of Quebec and the City of Montreal, and financial aid by friends of the University, McGill University is to erect and establish a neurological institute here.

The Rockefeller Foundation, after thoroughly investigating the University's medical school, has decided to grant $1,232,652 towards establishing the institute which the University expects will be second to none on this continent as a place for the study and treatment of neurology, neurosurgery and the physiology and pathology of the nervous system.

A new building will be constructed on University Street, opposite the present neurological laboratories in the Royal Victoria Hospital building. Tentative plans call for a structure seven storeys in height, with wards for public, semi-private and private patients, operating rooms, research laboratories and offices.

INDIANS RAISE WITCH CHILDREN

Ethnologist Makes Startling Discovery Among Cherokee Tribe.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

WASHINGTON, April 20 (A.P.)— "Witch children," specially educated from babyhood to be witches, have just been reported by a scientist to exist among the Cherokee Indians of North Carolina.

These 20th century witches are "made, not born," says Dr Frans M. Olbrechts, Belgiant ethnologist, in a report issued to-day by the Smithsonian Institution. Children, preferably twins, selected for a career as witches, are put through an initiation supposed to endow them with supernatural powers.

"If twins are born and their parents intend to make witches out of them," Dr. Olbechts reports, "no mother's milk is given them for 24 days. They are fed with the liquid portion of corn hominy, which must be given them only during the night. They must be kept rigidly secluded from all visitors during the 24-day period.

The Twin witches, even in babyhood, are supposed to have remarkable powers. The Cherokees believe they can fly through the air, dive underground and walk on the sun's rays. They can assume all kinds of human and animal shapes, and even when they are only a month old "whatever they think happens."

Canada's total registration of 1,206,836 motor vehicles in 1931 works out at one such vehicle for each 8.6 persons.

Rudyard Kipling Gets New Honors

LONDON, April 20. —(C. P. Cable.) — Rudyard Kipling has been elected an honorary fellow of Magdalene College, Cambridge University. This class of honor seems to be the only one Kipling likes, for he holds honorary degrees from eight universities, including McGill, Montreal. It is well known that he could have been elected to the peerage at any time in the last 30 years. Until they became tired of being proved wrong it was the custom of London newspapers to constantly associate Kipling with the exclusive Order of Merit, held by Sir James Barrie and John Galsworthy, among others.

ARMS PARLEY GOING AHEAD

British, Italians, Americans Favor Abolishing Certain Aggressive Weapons.

FRANCE IS OPPOSED.

GENEVA, April 20.—(A.P.)—The world disarmament conference approved to-day the principle of reduction of armaments "to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of International obligations."

Approval of the principle was opposed only by Maxim Litvinoff, head of the Soviet delegation. Litvinoff said the action was not related to any effort to secure genuine disarmament.

Simon Has Plan.

Following up the United States' and Italian proposals last week, Sir John Simon, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, proposed a resolution endorsing the principle of "qualitative" disarmament, that is, the prohibition of certain classes and types of weapons.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, received W. W. Yen, Chinese spokesman, to-day and entertained Sir John Simon at lunch.

Sir John's proposal for an endorsement of "qualitative disarmament" was supported by Ambassador Nadolyn for Germany and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi for Italy.

This left the British, the Italians, the Americans and the Germans presenting a solid front in favor of abolishing certain aggressive weapons which is opposed by France.

The discussion was adjourned until to-morrow.

Alberta Ends Plans Of Manitoba Colony

EDMONTON, April 20. —(CP)— Manitobans, planning formation of a "humanitarian colony of homesteaders" in Alberta, will have to seek other fields for settlement.

A letter received by Hon. R. G. Reid, minister of lands and mines, from Mrs. Mildred Glover, Winnipeg, told of the proposal to settle 100 families from Manitoba at Hythe, Alta. with federal government assistance. The Alberta government was expected to aid the families once they reached the Peace River district.

The Minister's reply puts the quietus on the plan by pointing out that under the Alberta land laws only residents of the province can make entry for homesteads. Mr Reid suggested that if the colonists were to settle down in Manitoba they would be better satisfied.

Liberal Women Plan For Annual Meeting

TORONTO, April 20 (C.P.)—Final plans for the annual meeting of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association were laid at an executive meeting of the association here to-day. The conclave is set for Chatham, Ont., for April 26-7.

Opening day will be occupied with reports and election of officers, followed by a review of the sessional activities of the Provincial Legislature. On April 27, addresses on various subjects will be given. Mrs. John Birss, London, Ont., will speak on Tariffs, and Mrs. P. McEvoy, Ottawa, on Legislation.

Mrs. F. S Greenwood St Catharines, president, presided at to-day's session.

ANNUITIES PACT SHOWS IRELAND AGREED TO PAY

White Paper Issued By British Government Reveals Full Terms.

OPPOSED BY DEVALERA.

Press Sees No Violence, But Free State Shunted Out of Empire.

LONDON, Apr. 20 (C.P. Cable)— "They show the Irish Free State explicitly undertook to pay the land annuities, which is not a tribute," declared the Morning Post yesterday commenting on the British Government's white paper containing the full text of the financial agreement between Great Britain and the Free State dated Feb. 12, 1923.

The British Government made the text of this agreement public Monday night following dispute with President Ramon De Valera as to the Free State's responsibility for the land annuities of 3,000,000. The Free State Government in the recent interchange of notes claimed it could find no trace of this agreement.

The white paper showed the agreement was signed by President William T. Cosgrave on behalf of the Irish Free State Government, and by Major J. W. Hills on behalf of the British treasury. Major Hills was financial secretary to the treasury at the time.

It is presumed the publication of this agreement removes President Eamon De Valera's grounds for disputing the payment of the land annuities. The question of abolition of the oath of allegiance by the Free State dail eireann however remains a big stumbling block. So far as the oath is concerned, the British and Free State Governments are deadlocked.

Violation Of Treaty.

De Valera and his party are evidently determined to repudiate the oath, the Morning Post declared. This would be a definite violation of the 1921 treaty. De Valera by his warlike demonstrations is evidently under the impression force may be used to prevent him. We do not think it is likely. The more probable result is the Irish Free State will find itself quite peacably outside the British Empire.

The text of the financial agreement declared the Free State Government undertake to pay at agreed intervals to an appropriate fund the full amount of annuities accruing and due from time to time making themselves responsible for actual collection from the tenant purchaser (of land in which he had obtained a free hold from his landlord, by means of the large loans provided in the main by Great Britain).

Security for such payments shall be primarily a Free State guarantee fund, similar to that under existing legislation, and secondarily the central fund of the Free State, the text continued.

FARMERS URGE TRUE PICTURES

Demand Movie Characters Dressed Properly Not as Traditional "Hayseed."

FAVOR CORN-FED CURVES.

(By Ruth Cowan.)

CHICAGO, April 20.— When it comes to movie heroines, farmers favor those with corn-fed curves and they want big husky "he" man heroes.

This has been determined by the photoplay staff of the American Farm Bureau Federation which each month produces a silent motion picture to be shown free by rural county agents in thousands of farm communities over the country.

And in fan mail addressed to the Federation, C. L. Jordan, scenario writer, and Bertram G. Bates, director, the farmers have set forth what they want and what they dont want in their photoplays.

First of all they want their movie characters dressed as farmers actualy do, and not after the fashion of the traditional "hayseed."

Chin whiskers on a cinema farmer will get the "boo" anywhere and a colored tablecloth in a farmhouse kitchen will bring in a mail sack of kicks from farmers' wives everywhere.

The Federation's intention is to help and educate the farmers through these pictures. That apparently is all right with the farm folk, for they crowd in to see themselves on the silver screen. But they have made it known that they want what the Federation thinks is good for them, sugar-coated with romance, comedy, adventure, suspense and thrills.

BOAT IS UPSET JAFSIE DUCKED

Lindbergh Emissary Recovering After Chilly End to Mysterious Trip.

HAS A MESSAGE.

HOPEWELL, N.J., April 20. (CP) One of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's emissaries in the attempt to get kidnapped Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. back was recovering to-day from a soaking in chilly water.

Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" who paid $50,000 of the Colonel's money to a man who represented himself as an agent of the kidnappers, went rowing in Pelham Bay, off the Bronx, New York, in an apparent attempt to make another contact.

His boat capsized at a dock as he returned and he was thoroughly wet before he scrambled ashore. The New York Daily News quoted him as saying "I got a message."

A large red aeroplane from Kansas City landed a man at Princeton and he departed for the Lindbergh home. Later he returned and flew away, saying: "If I'm lucky I'll be back."

The plane is owned by Walter C. Taber of Kansas City, who was not in it.

DARROW CALLS ON MRS. MASSIE, FINAL WITNESS

Hopes Direct Story of Assault Victim Will Aid in Freeing Husband.

ALIENISTS TESTIFY.

Specialists Maintain Massie Insane at Moment He Shot Hawaiian.

By William H. Ewing

HONOLULU, April 20. —(AP)— Mrs. Thalia Massie, unwilling player in the drama of passion and homicide that has shaken Hawaii politically and socially, was chosen to strike the final blow for the defence in the Joseph Kahahawai lynching trial today.

Clarence Darrow, promising to end his case today, announced he probably would call the blonde 22-year-old assault victim to the witness stand in the effort to free her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and three other persons accused of the killing.

A direct story of the brutality suffered by the young woman in the assault of last September was expected as the defense sought to reinforce the testimony of Lieut Massie, who admitted holding the pistol that killed the young native.

Despite the efforts of a belligerent prosecution, Dr. J. Thomas Orbison and Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, Los Angeles alienists, insisted in their testimony that Massie was insane at the moment he faced Kahahawai with drawn pistol and heard the athlete allegedly confess attacking Mrs. Massie.

Dr. Williams remained to be cross examined, however, before the defence could take the final step in its case.

May Be Last Witness

The announcement by Darrow head of the defense counsel, that Mrs. Massie would be called was taken to mean none of the other defendants, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of the attack victim; Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, U. S. Navy enlisted men, would take the stand.

The defence previously had considered calling Jones because of prosecution hints that he was the real killer of Kahahawai. It was learned, however, the defence had decided to let Lieut. Massie's story stand

Bethel Young People Hold Good Meeting

EAST EMILY, April 20. — (Examiner Correspondence). — The young people of Bethel United Church held their regular meeting in the basement of the church on Thursday evening, with the president, Miss Marion Rae, in the chair. The Scripture lesson was read by Fred. Jones. Miss Eleanor Sherin gave a very interesting paper on the life and work of Thomas Crosby as a missionary in British Columbia. Sid. Colley put on a contest, which was greatly enjoyed by the young people. And it was decided to have a debate at the next meeting.

Mrs. Oswald Ruth and little daughter, Bernice, spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mrs. Marwood McCarrell and little daughter, Doris, are visiting with her sister, Mrs. Harvey Sanderson, on the Chemong road.

Misses Eleanor and Dorothy Sherin spent Saturday visiting with their aunt, Mrs. Russell Ball, in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cullis attended the funeral of the former's aunt at Eden on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clark spent Sunday visiting with relatives in Peterborough.

TRUCK KILLS BABY

HAMILTON — Walking in the path of a truck being backed out of the side drive near his parents' home, Stanley Geard, aged 19 months, was killed yesterday. The baby had been playing on the front lawn of the Geard home and Mrs. Geard came out of the house to see where the child was. Just as she emerged she was horrified to see the tot walk behind a truck which was being backed up. Death was instanteous.

BLAST STARTLES VILLAGE

CADIZ, O., April 20.—A heavy explosion shook the village of Jewett, 10 miles north of here early to-day, but National Guardsmen were unable to learn at once where the blast occurred or to find any damage.

FASHION SERVICE

Something for the junior and something exceedingly smart. It features the fashionable built-up waistline.

It used a spotted rayon crepe in marine blue and white. The little bodice so girlish, softly gathered into the neckband of lace, is of plain marine blue crepe.

It's quite as practical as it is smart. You'll find it so simple to make it. And the cost amazingly small.

Style No. 2785 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14 and 16 years.

It can also be carried out effectively in sheer woolen, linen, crepe silk and novelty cottons.

Size 10 requires 1¾ yards 35-inch for blouse, with 1¾ yards 39-inch for skirt.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred.) Price of book, 15 cents. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Handy Recipes

By Edith Barber

Potato Nut Croquettes

2 cups hot riced potatoes.
1 cup milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
Few grains cayenne.
1 egg yolk.
½ cup pecans coarsely chopped.

Mix all ingredients and shape into small croquettes. Roll in bread crumbs. Dip in egg which has been mixed with a little cold water and roll in bread crumbs again. Fry to a golden brown in deep fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread in forty seconds (385 degrees F.). Drain on soft paper and serve.

Potatoes Souffle

Peel and cut lengthwise, using a vegetable cutter, in even slices one-eighth inch thick. Discard end pieces if not of same thickness and use a cutter on each slice to make a circle. Wipe each slice on both sides to remove all moisture. Place in hot fat, about twelve slices at a time. When brown, about ten minutes, remove and cool. When all are done heat the fat and heat the frying basket, lay in six to eight slices of potato, lower into the fat, turning slices constantly. They should puff very quickly, blister on both sides so that the center is hollow. Remove at once, drain, sprinkle with salt and serve at once.

French Fried Potatoes

Peel and slice potatoes in rather long thin pieces. Put into cold water a few minutes. Drain and dry well. Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown a piece of bread in twenty seconds (395 degrees F.). Potatoes will take about twenty minutes to cook unless cut in very thin pieces. Drain on soft paper and salt before serving.

RAZ-MAH

SLIGHT FOOD CHANGES AFFECT THE BODY TREMENDOUSLY

My grand niece weighed less at eight months than at birth, due to "Infantile eczema." Was plastered with ointments and unbathed for seven months—entire household exhausted from lack of sleep. I added vegetable juice to each bottle feeding, nothing more. After two days she slept fourteen hours without waking. Ointments then discontinued, baths resumed. No rash, no itching in four years since. Why? Vegetable juice alkalinized her blood, killing the acid-caused eczema. Alkaline Roman Meal has kept her blood alkaline since.

Alkaline Roman Meal also saved my life when the great Osler told me twenty-four years ago I could not live four months. Now at 74 not two per cent. of men 30 have muscles, strength or endurance equal to mine, built up out of alkaline Roman Meal. I'll send you a free booklet "HOW TO KEEP WELL," and other literature, also sample of Roman Meal and Kofy-sub, the new alkaline beverage, if you'll write for them to ROBT. G. JACKSON, M.D., 502 Vine Avenue, Toronto 9, Ont.

The necessity of immediate action is, perhaps, nowhere more essential than in cutting clippings from newspapers immediately that one discovers something of value.

* * * * * * *

There is a peculiar elusiveness about these items. They seem to hide themselves away from the most careful second perusal of the paper. It takes a surprising amount of time to re-discover the paragraphs.

* * * * * * *

During the search, one is inclined to believe someone has taken away the sheet of paper on which the item was printed. Every page has to be gone over to assure oneself that all the pages mentioned as being in the issue are actually at one's command. And this is but part of the research, for this it becomes.

* * * * * * *

When a paper has to be the daily news for a family, it is rather disconcerting for someone, who has a later reading of it, to find holes cut in columns and items missing.

* * * * * * *

One is sure that that particular paragraph has import, or it would not be cut out. If the portion proved valuable to one, it most likely would at least be of interest to and read by another—that other being yourself.

* * * * * * *

And so the mutilation of the paper before the rest of the family has had its opportunity to read it is scarcely fair.

* * * * * * *

How then can one have the clipping without the prolonged hunt mentioned above, or without any annoyance to others. Here are two solutions,—and I might say three.

* * * * * * *

As this would seem to be an afterthought, this third idea, let it be given first.

* * * * * * *

Cut the item out before another paper is due, preferably the very day of issue, before the paper has a chance to be thrown out or put with a heap of others, where it may be lost in the pile.

* * * * * * *

In the meantime there are ways of keeping track of the item. In the top margin of the paper and just above the column in which the desired item appears, cut or tear out a V shaped piece.

* * * * * * *

Another method is very similar. Instead of tearing the paper, mark the margin or margins with a heavy red, blue or other colored pencil and on the top margin write in bold letter the one word "Keep" or "Save."

* * * * * * *

It is a mistake not to mark a clipping with the name of the paper and its date of issue. This definitely tabulates the clipping and gives its time of appearance.

* * * * * * *

Such markings make old clippings valuable sometimes, when without them their worth is nullified. Dates are essential, the name of the paper makes it traceable, and is its verification.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

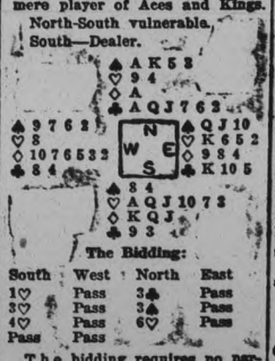
157

CAPTURING A KING

Unfavorable distribution defeats many apparently safe contracts at Bridge. Often, however, unfavorable distribution can be defeated and the player triumphantly fulfills his contract if in the early stages of play he will devote the thought and consideration to the play that too often is delayed until the post mortem is held over a dead and disappointing hand.

If fate has been unkind in the distribution, it may be just her way of showing favor. Frequently it is a means of getting added pleasure out of the play because the player who meets and copes successfully with unusual situations reaps a reward in satisfaction that can never come to the mere player of Aces and Kings.

North-South vulnerable.
South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	3♣	Pass
3♡	Pass	3♠	Pass
4♡	Pass	6♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding requires no particular comment. The combined hands of North and South account for the vast majority of the outstanding honor-tricks, and the distribution is such as to reinforce the probabilities of a Slam.

West, from his hopeless holding, opened a diamond and South saw that to make his contract he must apparently get a 50-50 average on his finesses. He, therefore, led the 9 of hearts, upon which East played the 3, South played the 7 and West the 8. So far so good. The finesse had won, but there was an element in the play that did not fill the Declarer with elation. If West had not false-carded (that is, played a higher card when holding a lower one of the suit) then East still held the King thrice guarded and there remained but one trump in the Dummy to lead through the King. This would seem to leave East with a certain trump trick and many players, when they tried the club finesse and it also lost, would have conceded defeat, but not so South.

South led the second round of hearts and his fears as to the trump situation were confirmed. West failed to follow and South now led a club, taking the essential finesse in that suit. If this won, all that was necessary would be to concede East the King of hearts and South's contract was made. However, East won the trick with the King and returned a diamond. South won and led another club, taking in the Dummy with the Ace. Now the Queen of clubs was led and South proceeded to show the way to catch a well guarded King.

He trumped the trick, although North's card was high. The Dummy was reentered with a spade honor, and another good club was led and trumped. South now led his last spade, and when East followed his troubles were over. Another club was led from Dummy, but nothing could now save East's King. To trump would be to permit South to overtrump and then pick up the King with the Ace. East saw he was in a vise from which there was no escape, due to South's accurate play.

The double Grand Coup had again been successfully achieved.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: Why is it advisable to open with a suit bid, if possible?

Answer: It gives partner a more definite picture of the bidder's hand and he can more readily determine the strength of the combined hands.

Kindness Impresses Lady Martin Harvey

TORONTO, April 20 (C.P.) — Lady Martin Harvey, prominent stage figure, who has played under the name of Miss N. De Silva opposite her husband, Sir John Martin Harvey, in many roles, is impressed by the kindness of the women of Canada.

But she had a "stiff time" with press men of the Dominion until they heard her swear—on the stage, she told the Canadian Women's Press Club here Tuesday.

Her distinguished husband expressed his pleasure at being in Toronto again. "I never heard of the word 'depression' until I came to Canada, and despite it I think you all look very happy," he said.

MUSIC FESTIVAL IS CONCLUDED

Clairmont Morgan Won $25 Scholarship Donated by Music Club.

FINAL WINNERS.

Clairmont Morgan of Ida, Cavan Township, won the $25 scholarship given by the Ladies' Music Club of Peterborough as a special prize in the Musical Festival under the auspices of the Kiwanis Club, which concluded last night at the Conservatory of Music.

The auditorium was well filled for the finale of an event that deserved far more local interest than it received. Competition in the group of classes scheduled for the final session lacked the sharpness which had been created among the youths and children by their numbers in the earlier stages of the Festival.

Frank Wellsman, of Toronto, and W. H. Hewlett, of Hamilton, the ajudicators, told The Examiner that they were delighted with the quality of the music which they had heard during the two days, but they would have been more pleased if the competition had been keener in the vocal solo work.

The medals, shields and other awards will be presented to-night at a concert in Trinity Church, at which Harry Boyle, president of the Kiwanis Club, will be chairman.

Tuesday's results were as follows:

Piano.
(Children 12 years and under).
1—Joan Clapp, Toronto, 80 points.
2—Francis Wells, 413 Edison Avenue, Peterborough, 78.
3—Merrill Smith, 12 Aberdeen Avenue, Peterborough, 77.
4—Hugh Bolduc, Stratford, 76.

Five of the fourteen young folk were tied at 75 marks: Irene Houghton, 581 Paterson Street, Peterborough; Beverly Cowell, 221 Prince Street; Geraldine Schuster (eight years), 330 Shaw Street, Toronto; Hilda Karp, 260 Brunswick Avenue, Toronto.

The test piece in this class was "A Sailor Dance," by T. F. Dunhill.

Piano.
(Children under 16).
1—Gordon Jocelyn, Stratford, 81.
2—Clairmont Morgan, Ida, 80.
3—Merrill Smith, Peterborough, 77.

Trombone Solo.
Russell B. Orser, Gananoque, 80.

Clarinet Solo.
Louise Smith, Gananoque, 78.

Lyric Soprano.
1—Miss Norene Croxall, Uxbridge, 78.
2—Mrs. Groombridge, Peterborough, 76.

Contralto.
1—Miss Quartermaine, Peterborough, 78.
2—Mrs. Fawcett, Tweed, 76.

Lyric Tenor.
The test piece was 'Who is Silvia,' by Quilter.
1—Stanley Willis, Peterborough, 80.
2—T. B. Atkinson, Cobourg, 78.

Baritone.
"The Bells of San Marie," by John Ireland.
1—Leslie Dyer, Peterborough, 80.
2—Sidney Hector, Belleville, 78.

Mezzosoprano.
Mrs. Barrick, Peterborough, 74.

HON. MACKENZIE COMING TO CITY

Hepburn and Mackenize to Address Liberal Rally on Friday.

IN LEGION HALL

Liberals of this riding will be interested in both speakers at Friday night's rally in the Canadian Legion Hall, Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., and Hon. Ian Alistair Mackenzie, M.P. for Centre Vancouver.

Ian Mackenzie is a member of the law firm of Mackenzie, Kerr and Boyd in Vancouver. He was born at Assynt, Southerland county, Scotland, July 27, 1890, was educated at Kingussie, a famous Highland school, and at Edinburgh University where he graduated in 1911 with degree of Master of Arts; in 1912 he took honors in classics, and obtained his law degree (LL.B.) in 1914 with the highest distinction.

At thirteen years of age he went to Kingussie school, and in third year was gold medallist and first in qualifying scholarship in Northern Scotland. Among other achievements during his university career was the winning of the McPherson Scholarship for Research in Celtic Languages and Literature. He studied at the Royal Irish Academy in Dublin, Ireland, and took Professor Blackie's Celtic Prize (the Blue Ribbon for Celtic in Scotland) in 1913.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie was awarded a special Carnegie Research Fellowship and did vauable work transcribing old Irish manuscripts. During his law studies he carried off the "Thow" Scholarship in 1913, given the best graduating law student in Edinburgh; won first prize and medal for Constitutional Law and History; he was assistant author of Songs and Buchanan (Gaelic) language, and has contributed various articles to European journals dealing with old Celtic subjects, and has written a large number of noted Gaelic articles.

Captain Mackenzie came to Canada in 1914. He is President of Vancouver Command of the Great War Veterans, and in 1920 and 1922 was a member of the Provincial Executive for British Columbia.

He was Dominion Vice-president of the ex-service organization in 1924 and 1925. The Vancouver lawyer shortly after reaching the coast enlisted in the Seaforth Highlanders of the C.E.F. as a lieutenant and saw service with the 72nd at Ypres, Kemmel and the Somme. He was transferred to the Headquarters' staff of General J. W. Stewart as Staff Captain, saw much service and was mentioned in despatches.

He resumed his profession in Vancouver in 1919, was elected to the British Columbia legislative assembly in 1920, and was re-elected in 1924 and 1928. He was appointed provincial secretary in 1928. On the elevation of the Hon. Dr. King to the Senate, Captain Mackenzie was given the portfolio of Immigration, Colonization and Soldiers' Settlement, and was elected for Vancouver Centre to the Dominion Parliament in 1930.

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie is a Presbyterian.

ENCOURAGING YOUNG MUSICIANS.

A very real contribution to the city's cultural development is made by the annual musical festival conducted by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club, which comes to an end this evening after three successful days.

There is no denying the importance of music as a most essential factor in community life, and the Kiwanis festival, which seeks to arouse through the medium of competition young musicians to a finer knowledge of their art, is undoubtedly doing a very real service that cannot fail to be attended by worthwhile results.

It is interesting to note that outside attention has been attracted to this annual event, and that the 80 entries in the various classes listed include seventeen competitors from other centres who have come here to compete for honors—and, incidentally, some of these outside entrants have justified their coming to Peterborough by scoring signal successes in a number of events.

Unquestionably this annual competition, primarily aimed at inspiring youthful musicians with a desire to improve, is successfully attaining the objects for which it was launched, and there is every reason to expect a steadily increasing entry list and a finer quality of competition with the passing year.

Peterborough music-lovers should set the seal of their approval on this commendable effort by a liberal patronage for the closing exercises of the festival to-night.

MAPLE SYRUP TIME.

With the annual maple sap harvest here again, it should be of interest to all Canadians to consider the contribution to the national wealth made each year by this most ancient Canadian industry, which dates back to the pioneer history of this country.

According to the National Revenue Review, the total production of maple sugar in Canada last year was 5,484,100 pounds, valued at $938,800, and the yield of maple syrup amounted to 1,314,700 gallons, with a value of $2,606,900.

Thus in a poor year, for the 1931 production was considerably below the average, Canada's sap harvest added over three and a half million dollars to the national wealth, which must be regarded as a worth-while contribution.

Incidentally, Canadian maple products find a ready market, for their high quantity is widely known.

The principle supply of these products comes from Quebec, although Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia also contribute fairly large quantities of syrup and sugar.

It is estimated that approximately eight million maple trees in Eastern Canada are tapped each year for their succulent sap, and that in the Province of Quebec alone some 50,000 farmers have groves of maples suitable for tapping.

A GREAT CANADIAN DOCTOR.

To Alice Roger Collins, a distinguished former Peterboroughian, whose gifted pen has added materially to the richness of Canadian literature, we are indebted for a most impressive word picture of an outstanding Canadian doctor, incidentally himself also a native of Peterborough.

This pen sketch, a series on Real People by Mrs. Collins, gives an insight into the remarkable personality and the inspiring career of a most splendid type of Canadian physician, Dr. Abraham Groves, founder of the Royal Alexandra Hospital at Fergus, Ont., and for over fifty years a practising surgeon and doctor.

Dr. Groves was born in this city, but left it in his early years, going to Fergus with his parents, and his whole professional career was spent in that section of Ontario, where he lived up to the finest traditions of the old family doctor.

Dr. Groves set up a record of over 30,000 operations, the distinction of performing the first operation for appendicitis in this country, and over half a century of service on behalf of humanity.

Mrs. Collins' little pen picture gives a clear insight into the loving character traits and the fine ideals of this striking character; the book is charmingly written and will be interesting not only to the multitude of friends of Dr. Groves but to all who appreciate fine writing.

FATAL CARELESSNESS.

That the carelessness of motorists is responsible for the majority of level crossing accidents has long been accepted as true, and further confirmation is supplied by the accident statistics issued by the Ontario department of the Canadian National Railways for 1931.

This report shows that there were more than 700 highway crossing accidents last year, and that these included no fewer than 192 cases in which motorists drove into engines or trains that were either standing or passing when the impact occurred. 138 of such accidents being reported in Canada and the remainder on Canadian National Railways lines in the United States.

Nothing could surely be more eloquent of the lack of care with which many drivers approach railway crossings than the fact that a couple of hundred motorists in one year should have kept such a poor outlook or had their automobile under such doubtful control that they could not avoid running into the side of a train.

Being caught on a crossing might be due to a fatal error in estimating the speed of an oncoming train, but when a motorist is so careless as to drive blindly into a train standing on a crossing it must be evident that he was not using his judgment at all, but was driving in a manner that could only be described as criminally negligent.

Level crossing accidents would be decidedly scarce if all drivers would approach such danger points in a careful manner and maintain a sharp lookout.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED, NOT COALITION.

Apropos the editorial of Saturday last on "The Holy Show of Parliament," a correspondent writes to say that a logical conclusion is that there should be a National or Coalition Government.

We beg to say to our correspondent that logic permits no such conclusion.

The Journal's criticism was not of the Government, as such. It was not attacking the Ministry's administration, or its record, or its policies. More than that, it was not assailing any particular individual, nor any particular party. It was attacking Parliament. Attacking the folly and futility, the senseless and silly flow of talk which have made Parliament's work, or lack of it, during the past two months all but a national disgrace.

* * * *

Avoidance of this doesn't require coalition. It calls only for common sense. For co-operation. For a sense of decent Canadianism.

* * * *

Let us particularize. No one blames or can blame Mr. Bennett for wanting supreme power in administering relief. All Governments crave that. On the other hand, no one can blame Mr. King, as an Opposition leader, for insisting on the control of Parliament. That is his job. But what the public complains of, and what it has a right to complain of, is that after having stated their respective positions, the Prime Minister and the Opposition leader lacked the ability and the common sense to get together, co-operate decently, and get on with their work.

* * * *

What is really wrong on Parliament Hill is this: That the party leaders—and most of their followers—are hopelessly and pathetically out of touch with what the average man in this country is feeling and thinking and sometimes suffering. They are thinking in terms of legal sophistries and statistics instead of in terms of human beings.

Victims of their self-importance and their complacency, they appear to believe that the country is interested in their personal political fortunes, that it is watching their careers with breathless interest, that it thinks they are making history.

It is pitiful delusion. Tens of thousands of people are in distress and want. Hundreds of thousands are without employment; and many others, business men and commercial men, industrial leaders and professional men, wage a bitter struggle. The last thing in the world that they are liable to be concerned with are the careers of politicians, leaders or otherwise, or their ambitions, or what they feel they ought to do in or out of Parliament to protect their dignity.

Canada to-day is at war. It is fighting a war for its economic life; and it is suffering casualties. Stumbling through that ordeal, it has small patience with people who seem to think that the country has nothing else to do but applaud somebody's wonderful statesmanship, or to watch their party tactics, or to acclaim them as martyrs in hair shirts.

* * * *

What Canada asks of her leaders and their followers to-day, and all that she asks, is that they should forget party strategy for a time, forget their own pomposities and ambitions, co-operate in a decent and sensible way to help the country through a crisis.

No one wants the Government to surrender its responsibility. No one wants the Opposition to abdicate its functions. But there is a vast difference between these things—between exercise of reasonable Government authority and maintenance of adequate Opposition criticism—and the sort of travesty upon Parliament which has been going on.

The Journal has never been of the shallow school which seems to think that Parliament should not have full and free discussion, and that it is a badge of inferiority to be able to talk. But while the Journal believes in the full rights of an Opposition, and appreciates its responsibilities, it has no respect for the foolish fiction that the sole duty of an Opposition is to oppose, that it has no task other than to scrutinize and criticise, to be against the Government and all of its work under all circumstances, and at all times. Such a belief does violence to the fundamental principles and genius of representative institutions. Flies into the face of realities.

No reason exists why an Opposition should not at all times, and particularly in these dire times, be prepared and willing to give a Government reasonable co-operation; and certainly no excuse exists for the sort of stupid obstruction that was reared upon sophistry and hair-splitting during the past few weeks. That was not parliamentary government; it was parliamentary anarchy.

* * * *

But a Government, too, has responsibilities. The executive branch of Government has certain rights and powers and duties, but none of these embrace the right to ride rough-shod over Parliament, to exalt false ideas of power and dignity over the public good, to put forward overbearing manners and declamation with the notion that they may be mistaken for strength. Genuine consciousness of moral strength doesn't express itself that way.—Ottawa Journal.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 20. — Further weakness was apparent on the local egg market yesterday as large supplies continued to arrive. Buyers seemed to have sufficient quantities on hand and were not anxious to take any large lots, and prices for ordinary packed, as well as storage packed, graded eggs dropped to lower levels. There were not many sales of importance, though brokers quoted ordinary packed, graded eggs at 15c to 15½c for extras, 13½c to 14c for firsts and 12c to 13c for seconds, and storage packed eggs at 17c for extras, and 15c for firsts. Prices to country shippers were steady at the decline on Monday at 14c for extras, 12c for firsts, and 10c to 11c for seconds, the last grade only easing slightly. Quotations to retailers down 1c per dozen on the two top grades and steady on the poorer grade at 20c or extras, in cartons; 18c for extras, loose; 16c for firsts, loose, and 13c for seconds, loose.

Butter

Butter from Ontario points was quoted steady, 19½c to 20c for No. 1, and 18½c to 19c for No. 2, but there was no great demand for solids at these prices. Western butter was offered at 20½c for immediate delivery, but there were a few cars on spot at 20c.

Cream

Cream prices were slightly easier, the top levels being 21c for special, 20c for No. 1, and 17c for No. 2, f.o. country points, with some districts being quoted 16c.

Cheese

New cheese was stronger and trade was fair. Prices were ¼c better than previously on the brokers market at 10¼c to 10½c for new, large; 10½c to 10¾c for new, twins, and 10¾c to 12c for new, triplet. Prices were steady to retailers at 12c new, large, 12¼c for twins, 12½c for triplets, and 14½c for stiltons.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 20. — Beginning of the export trade in cheese and butter, heavy cheese and eggs receipts and slight easiness in butter and egg prices featured the produce and dairy market here. Cheese and potato quotations held firm.

Sixty-one boxes of butter were exported to Newfoundland it was announced, being shipped this week on the Silvia, while the Reinunga took sixteen boxes for St. Pierre de Miquelon. No exports have yet been booked for England. Fresh or regraded No. 1 butter, in carlots or less, lost half a cent at 20 cents a pound. To retailers solids at 22 cents and prints at 23 cents a pound were unchanged. Receipts 519 boxes.

Graded Eggs

Ontario or Prairie fresh-graded eggs, in carlots or broken lots, were steady, extras being quoted at 18 cents, firsts at 16 cents and seconds at 14 cents a dozen. To retailers quotations of fresh specials and extras, in cartons, lost a cent at 24c to 25c and 23c to 24c a dozen, respectively, totalling 3,965 cases.

The Silvia, the first boat out of port here this season, took 45 boxes of cheese to Newfoundland, it was stated. Cheese is being booked for export abroad this week. The largest daily total for many months was recorded by cheese receipts today when arrivals totalled 891 boxes. Current receipts at 10¼c to 10½c and summer make at 12c to 12½c a pound were unchanged.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 20. — Despite bearish reports of rain over the south-west drought area and easiness displayed by traders at Liverpool, grain prices soared in the grain pit yesterday Prices at the close were ⅝c to ¾c higher than the previous close.

May improved ⅝c to 63¾; July ⅝c to ¾c at 63⅝c to 64⅜c; and October, ⅝c to ¾c at 66c to 66¾c

No sales of wheat for export could be confirmed. Opening fractionally lower on reports of showers over the south-west winter wheat drought area, the market later rallied. It was a see-saw affair, however, until the closing hour when grain took a spurt to reach the high level. No encouragement was received from Liverpool which closed slightly lower for the day.

Cash wheat and coarse grains gave a drab performance No sales of any account were recorded, and prices showed little change.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN HARPER

FENELLA, April 20 (Examiner Correspondence)—During the past week, death removed from this community, one of the pioneers of Haldimand township, in the person of Mrs. John Harper, Fenella. Mrs. Harper was ninety-two years of age on March 14, and although her body was weakened by her years, she remained active until three days previous to her death. Owing to the illness, and death of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. C. D. Harper, deceased had been staying for a short period with her daughter, Mrs Leonard Brisbin, Rosenath, and there on Wednesday morning, April 13, she passed peacefully away. Mrs. Harper, formerly Mary Ann Nill, was born in Devonshire, England and came to Canada, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Nill in September, 1849. Their ocean voyage, in a sailing vessel, lasted six weeks. The family settled first in Cobourg, later moving to a farm at Camborne. On November 11, 1875, Mary Ann Nill was united in marriage to John Harper by Rev. William Hooper, in the Bible Christian Church, in the town of Cobourg. Mr. and Mrs. Harper settled first in Plainville, moving afterward to the farm on the ninth concession of Haldimand, in the Macklin settlement, where until two years ago, Mrs. Harper has lived continually. When her son C. D. Harper, retired from farming, and moved a short distance from the old homestead, his mother accompanied him.

Mrs. Harper was a distinguished and highly esteemed lady, was widely known and loved by a large circle of relatives and friends. An experienced practical nurse, she was greatly in demand, in times of illness, and before the advent of the telephone, and motor car, her skill and knowledge of nursing were often the means of relieving much suffering before it was possible for a doctor to reach his patient. Even until almost the time of her death, her wise counsel was sought after, and gratefully followed. Never refusing a call for help, she gave freely of her time and strength.

A life long member of the former Methodist Church and later of the United Church, her influence for good has always been a marked feature in any forward movement. Mrs. Harper was a living example of the spirit of eternal youth, for although, her body grew frail, she, at heart, remained ever young.

She is survived by two sons, W. J Harper, Warkworth and Cephas D Harper, Fenella and one daughter, Mrs. Leonard Brisbin, Rosenath, one daughter, Mrs. Henry Brisbin, Fenella, died in 1922, and another daughter, Ida, died in infancy. Mrs. Harper's husband died in April, 1917. She is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. Robert Jibb, and Mrs. E. P. Macklin, both of Fenella, three brothers, Daniel, William and John Nill, predeceased Mrs. Harper some years ago. She is also survived by eight grandchildren twenty-two great-grandchildren and six great-great-grandchildren.

The funeral service was held on Saturday afternoon, April 16. After a brief service at the family residence, the cortege proceeded to Bethany (Macklin's) Church, where Rev. R. W. Paton conducted the service; speaking from Rev. 14:13, he dwelt on the phrase "And their works do follow them," exemplifying how true this is in the example left by the departed. Interment was made in Bethany (Macklin's) cemetery, the casket was carried by W. I. Montgomery, N. C. Leach, A. Fanning, Wilbert Macklin, Bruce Macklin and Frank Adams. Beautiful floral offerings bore loving tribute to the departed.

TWO CHURCHES IN LAKEFIELD PLAN TO UNITE

Knox United Church Plans to Unite With Regent Street.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Sixty-Nine Years Since Old Stone Church Was Built.

LAKEFIELD, April 20.—(Examiner Correspondence). — A congregational meeting which was largely attended was held in Knox United Church on Monday evening, the object being to discuss and decide on the question of the uniting of the congregation of Knox and Regent Street Churches. The matter was fully discussed, and by a unanimous vote, it was decided to unite with the Regent Street, and a committee was appointed, consisting of the pastor, members of the session and board of managers, to meet a similar committee for Regent Street Church to discuss the arrangements of the union.

Sixty-nine years ago the old stone church was built on the corner of Caroline and Katherine streets by the Presbyterians of Lakefield, and among those present at the meeting were sons and daughters and grandchildren of the original founders. And while this union was practical and considered wise and a timely gesture, it cannot be denied that there were sentimental regrets at the thought of the old church being abandoned, and some tears were shed. The congregation has carried on since the consummation of Union in 1925 as a United Church, but it has long been felt that two United churches in a small town were unecessary and was opposed to the principals of Church Union as well as being economically an extravagance.

The committee consists of Rev. T. M. Wesley, Messrs. A. J. Young, G. Mullen, W. W. Yale, E. A. Tanner, J. A. Porter, F. J. Burgess, T. Braden, Dr. Renwick, W. J. Charlton, C. S. Tanner, C. Lunter, H. Kidd and J. Bickley.

A.Y.P.A. Entertains Milbrook.

Members of the A.Y.P.A. of twenty-one years of age and under were appointed as a committee for the open night which was arranged for Monday, April 18, and the "Red Line" put over a very jolly social which was a real success in every respect. About twenty-five members of the Millbrook A.Y.P.A., including the rector, Rev. W. Simpson, and our old friends, Miss Grandy, Mrs. Hilton and Mr. Needler, who have been closely associated with A.Y.P.A. inter-parochial activities in the local council ever since its organization in 1921. A large number of young people of the parish were present, also a few other local guests, friends of the members, and the Parish Hall was filled almost to its limit. Messrs. Fred. and Percy Marsden kindly contributed a musical number, and the remainder of the evening was spent in games, contests and a jolly little dance. The committee served refreshments, assisted by some of the older members of the society, and a very pleasant social hour was spent. Supper partners were found by matching pictures and this mixed up members and visitors very pleasantly.

Rev. W. J. Creighton welcomed the visitors and hoped that this would not be the last time that we would entertain Millbrook, and also welcomed the local visitors. Rev. W. Simpson thanked Mr. Creighton and the Lakefield branch for their hospitality and hoped that in the not far distant future there might be a return visit. He also, in a humorous vein, said that while watching the ladies during the game of "Wink" he was strongly reminded of the motto of the Canadian Mounted Police. This raised a laugh as the illustration was very apt.

The attendance was between sixty and seventy, and the happy faces of the young people was sufficient indication of the success.

Mrs. Balkwell at the piano furnished music and Mr. and Mrs. Milford Hampton brought over their radio, which was a great asset also, so there was music in the air in the vicinity of the old Parish Hall.

Knox Guild Entertains Choir.

On Friday evening last the members of the Ladies' Guild of Knox United Church were hostesses to the members of the choir and the cast of the very successful play, "The Chintz Cottage Mystery," put on by the young people of the church. The ladies had provided a very fine program of games and contests and the evening was much enjoyed by everyone. Refreshments were served and the ladies were heartily thanked for their entertainment. The social was held in the school-room of the church.

Among the Clever

The Prince of Wales was once talking to King Edward about Roosevelt, who was at that time President of the United States.

"Mr. Roosevelt is a very good man, isn't he?" he queried.

"President Roosevelt is a very clever man," replied King Edward.

For a time the Prince did not speak, but went on turning the leaves of the album through which he was looking, and which contained the President's portrait. The next day he said to the King, "I have changed Mr. Roosevelt's portrait from the Album of Rulers to the album where the clever men are!"—Montreal Star.

Missed 6-Inch Putt Starts $21,000 Suit

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., April 20.—R. Neiswander to-day sought damages of $21,608.50 from Ernest Blumenthal, because of a mis-used 6-inch putt.

Neiswander, druggist, of Prague, Okla, alleged Bluementhal, also of Prague, became angry when he missed the putt in a match at Prague in July, 1930, swung his club over his shoulder and struck Neiswander in the right eye, causing loss of the eye.

The suit was filed here because Blumenthal now is in a local hospital recovering from an appendix operation.

TIMES CHANGED.

The Montreal Stock Exchange and the Montreal Curb Market will open an hour earlier in the morning and close an hour earlier in the afternoon. Montreal will be on daylight saving time the following week, the exchanges will return to the 10 a.m. opening and 3 p.m.

DOME SHOWS GAIN TO-DAY

Issue Advances Upon News of 20 Cent Dividend Bonus on First Quarter.

OTHER GOLDS UP.

TORONTO, April 29.—(C.P.) — While general price trend remained irregular a few issues developed strength on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market in the forenoon to-day.

Dome, on combined support of the 20-cent dividend bonus declaration and good first quarter earnings, came ahead again from the opening, standing up another 45 at $10.25 when taken. Wright-Hargreaves firmed a couple to $2.38 but Teck Hughes was off 4 at $3.81.

Among cheaper golds, Moss gained a couple, Howey a cent and Bagamac and Big Missouri a fraction. Moffatt-Hall moved a little lower.

Noranda and International Nickel were inactive but steady. Treadwell Yukon, at $2.25, was somewhat below recent sales. Eldorado rallied 6 to $1.14 in relatively light turnover.

Trading Is Dull On Montreal Mart

MONTREAL, April 20. —(CP)— Price trends were uncertain on the Montreal Stock Exchange this morning. The list opened with a show of firmness and then scattered fractional losses appeared among the leaders. Trading was dull all morning.

Brazilian was up ⅛ at 9½. Nickel lost ⅛ at 6½, Canadian Pacific was down ¼ at 14¼ and Cement common eased ⅜ to 4. B. C. Power came out at 19, off ½ from yesterday's close. Bell Telephone gained ½ at 88½ and Atlantic Sugar was up ½ at 20½. Smelters picked up ¾ to 89¾.

Other issues were stationary.

POLICE SEEK TO HALT INFLUX OF U.S. JOBLESS

OTTAWA, April 20.—(C. P.)—Immigration and Customs officials of the Dominion Government with members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are closely co-operating to prevent the unemployed of the United States from entering Canada, it was learned today.

Provisions of the immigration and labor acts will be applied in a strict manner to job seekers who attempt illegal entry into Canada. Some months ago an order-in-council, especially dealing with contract labor, as passed. These provisions, which will likewise be rigidly enforced, are aimed to prevent the entry of people who come to this country under a contract of employment or to negotiate for employment.

RUMOR DENIED.

MONTREAL, April 20 (C.P.).—A report that Canada Power and Paper Corporation would be taken over by Ernest Rossiter and his associates was denied to-day by Mr. Rossiter, president of the St. Lawrence Corporation, and prominent for many years in pulp and paper circles.

EXTRA BONUS VOTED

TORONTO, April 20. — (CP) — Benefit of the discount at which foreign exchanges are selling in relation to the U. S. Dollar was shown stockholders of Dome Mines, Ltd., when a bonus of 20 cents a share payable July 20 to shareholders of record June 30 was voted in addition to the regular quarterly dividend.

CONSUMERS' GAS WEAK SPOT ON TORONTO EXCHANGE TRADE

B. C. Power, Canadian Pacific and Bell Telephone Also Show Declines.

FOOD UNCHANGED.

TORONTO, April 20 (C.P.). — Stocks sold irregularly lower on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Trading volume fell off, and most price changes were confined to a narrow range.

Consumers' Gas was a weak spot, dropping 2½ points. Other utilities that sold off included B.C. Power, Canadian Pacific and Bell Telephone. The last-mentioned issue dropped more than a point.

Pressed Metals and Steel of Canada had fractional losses in the industrial section, and Goodyear Tire Common lost two points. Page Hersey was firmer, up half a point.

Foods and oils were unchanged.

In the mining section, Nickel held unchanged, and Smelters gained about half a point.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 20 (C.P.). — The stock market was an indecisive two-sided affair to-day, with firmness of the rails balancing heaviness of industrials. The closing tone was steady, with a mixture of small gains and losses. Transfers approximated a million shares.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 20 (C.P.)—High priced stocks broke to new lows on decline continued on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Bell Telephone made a new record low of 87, Consumers' Gas broke 2½ points on odd-lot transactions to 145, Goodyear Time Common sold at a new low of 56 and Canada Cement Preferred came out 5 points under its previous sale price, making a record low at 46.

While the market was weak, turnover was on the same light scale as Tuesday. Most of the lower priced leaders were off only fractions. Oils as a group were very dull but firm, B.A. Oil and Imperial closing unchanged, while International Petroleum rose above 10 to show a net gain of approximately ½ point.

TORONTO, April 20 (C.P.)—Following an irregularly higher forenoon, prices turned easier on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange in the afternoon to-day, closing changes showing a majority of small recessions from last night's finals.

Dome retained 20 of its previous lead at $10, but Hollinger, Wright-Hargreaves and Teck-Hughes were down 5 apiece, an odd lot of the last-named stock selling at a new low for the year. Among cheaper golds Buffalo, Ventures and Big Missouri recorded small gains, but Howey and Bidgood were easy.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, April 20 (C.P.). — Prime commercial paper, 3½-3¾ per cent. Foreign exchange steady. Demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain, 3.76⅝; France, 3.94½; Italy, 5.14; Germany, 23.74. Canadian dollars at 10 per cent. discount.

S. SAYWELL IS WOOLER SPEAKER

Plymouth Group Sponsors of Young People's League Banquet.

WOOLER, Apr. 20 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Willing Workers' class sponsored a social evening in honor of their husbands in the United Church parlors. Twelve tables of crokinole were in action and a real lively progressive game was played. The winners were Mrs. John Goodfellow, receiving the award of a silver jewel case and W. Montgomery an ash tray.

Mrs. J. W. Lawson conducted a spelling match. Mrs. Bert Vansicklin leader accompanied by an opponent leader William Montgomery. Mrs. J. J. Way being honored by not being spelled down.

The young people have been running an automobile contest for three months or more and finally Miss Marguerite Davey and her Plymouth car won the race by many more miles than the other three leaders and their cars.

On Tuesday evening the losing group gave a banquet to the winners. The lantern slides showed the community songs on the screen and were sung most heartily. The toastmaster Harry Ormis gave an eloquent opening address and Howard Richards proposed the toast to the honored guests. Mis Davey and her group. Mr. Richards was very humorous in his remarks of the "Plymouth" mileage.

Miss Davey expressed her appreciation of the support of her group in her reply.

Rev. A. Poulter treated each member of this group to a candy whistle and they did whistle.

Hazel Thompson in a very efficient manner proposed a toast to the church and Rev. A. Poulter responded, showing how the church needs the young people to carry on.

Gerald Kemp proposed a toast to King and Country and his strong appeal for loyalty, was much appreciated in response. "God Save the King" was sung most heartily.

Hazel Thompson then introduced the speaker of the evening S. Saywell, of Oshawa, president of the young people's work of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

one of the girls and the remainder of the children were in a separate room. They are between the ages of five and twelve years."

Little Furniture Saved

Mr. Caban related how he had closed the doors shutting off the back portion of the house and of how he had made a hurried exit through the front door with his wife and children. The fire had such a hold that it was possible only to salvage a few chairs, a sofa and trunk and one or two other small items.

Out of work for the past sixteen months, Mr. Caban's entire income is from a small army pension. He served overseas with the 8th Battalion Winnipeg Rifles. He has left a cow and a few hens which are housed in a shed at the rear of the lot.

Mr. Caban and his neighbours paid tribute to the work of the City Fire Department which responded to the alarm with one truck. "It was due to their good work" he claimed, "that neighbouring property was not destroyed." The Fire Department remained at the scene of the fire until after five o'clock this morning.

Mr. Levasseur the landlord of the property stated, "this is the last thing I have". He cast a grim look at the smouldering pile. Like his tenant he has been unemployed for several months and has only recently obtained work.

JOHN AIRD JR. REQUESTED O'BRIEN TO HAVE HYDRO TAKE CARE OF HIM

entirely through Mr. Kerry. He had met Sir John Aird once and John Aird Jr. and the latter's partner R. W. Millard, a couple of times.

He had never met J. H. Black, well-known Toronto Conservative reported in yesterday's evidence as having been consulted by some of Mr. Kerry's associates when they were trying to dispose of their option on the properties.

The witness was asked about a letter received by him under date of February 22, 1928, from Mr. Kerry in which it was said Mr. Aird's negotiations with the Hydro Commission were progressing nicely and that Mr. O'Brien should remember to say, in case anyone should enquire, that he (O'Brien) was dealing with Aird, the letter adding "there is some political mystery about this."

"What was the mystery?" asked Mr. Tilley. The witness could not say what interpretation he had put on this. At that time Mr. Aird was trying to get a power contract from the Hydro and the proposal was that Kerry and his associates would develop the Madawaska power themselves.

Proceeding Mr. O'Brien said John Aird, Jr., had tried to get a separate price on each of the properties, but his company refused, preferring to sell the entire holdings in one deal. About that time the O'Brien concern had enquiries about the properties from other parties.

Gaby Was Not Favorable.

Reading from the O'Brien file, Mr. Tilley asked about a letter of J. A. O'Brien in June, 1928, from Mr. Kerry in which it was said that F. A. Gaby, chief engineer of the Hydro, wanted the Madawaska properties expropriated and developed by the Hydro Commission. The letter also mentioned that Peter White and J. H. Black were "working on the projosition."

Replying to this letter, Mr. O'Brien had written: "I do not think Mr. Gaby will be a stumbling block very long." Explaining this the witness said he thought Mr. Gaby was not in possession of all the facts about the properties and when fully informed would probably change his mind.

Another letter from Mr. O'Brien to Mr. Aird said the writer was pleased to hear that a member of the Hydro Commission had promised to do all he could "to secure a contract from us." The writer was also pleased to hear that Mr. Gaby now seemed more favorably inclined.

On August 22, 1928, John Aird Jr. wrote the O'Brien firm both he and his father, Sir John Aird, had seen the chairman, C. A. Magrath, chairman of the commission and the negotiations were getting along well. The letter also mentioned that Mr. Maguire, a member of the commission was "exceptionally favorable to our proposition and is doing everything possible" to hurry the negotiations along.

Mr. Aird wrote also that Mr. Black was to see the premier and the intention was to get all "our political and Hydro friends" active with a view to getting the negotiations "railroaded through" as soon as possible. The witness could not say that the term "railroaded through" had any particular significance. They were merely trying to get the proposition through.

A later letter from Mr. Aird reported that Mr. Black had seen the premier and that the premier was favorable to the Aird proposition. Another Aird letter said Peter White was now active "in the game" and more progress should be made.

The witness testified that after the $2,000,000 Kerry-Gundy option expired, the price of the properties was raised to $2,500,000. This was the price he had quoted to John Aird, Jr., and others, including R. O. Sweezey.

Prior to the occasion of meeting Sweezey he did not know Mr. Sweezey was interested in the Beauharnois proposition. Sweezey had casually mentioned the fact when he came to enquire about the Madawaska properties. He had heard nothing from Mr. Sweezey about the activities of John Aird, Jr.

Mr. Kerry, writing to O'Brien on September 21, 1928, said: "Everybody is sitting quiet and P.W. is pressing headquarters." The witness said this meant Peter White was active in the negotiations.

Under date of October 26 1928, Mr. Aird wrote to O'Brien asking him to be patient over the delay and to remember "we are dealing with politics to a certain extent." He had just spent a half-hour with the chairman, Mr. Magrath, the Aird letter said, and the outlook for the success of the negotiations were most optimistic. The witness's comment on this was that "politics" in this letter referred to the policy of the commission regarding power development.

Mr. Tilley questioned the witness regarding an appointment he had with Sir John Aird in Ottawa on December 8, 1928. Mr. O'Brien could recall nothing that was said at this interview except that Sir John asked him to be patient, that his son and his associates were doing all they could to hurry the negotiations along.

In a letter to J. A. O'Brien on Jan. 31, 1929, John Aird Jr., wrote in part: "I was in touch yesterday with Mr. Mcgrath, chairman of the Hydro commission and he has told me of the converzation which he has had with you in Montreal. My understanding from him was that you were going to be away for about three weeks, at the end of which time you would get in touch with me before going to the commission.

"It is unfortunate that this matter has taken this turn, especially for me. I do not think it makes any difference to you as it certainly is my opinion that the Hydro are willing to purchase your property. My understanding from Mr. Magrath, according to conversation with him, is that you will enter into direct negotiations with the Hydro commission at once, and that after a price has been set between you and they, that you will ask the Hydro to take care of me before negotiations are complete and which they are willing to do.

"You are as familiar with the present political situation and the outlook for a long time as we are. Mr. Magrath has received our proposals in an entirely different spirit from that which would have been entertained by his predecessor of perhaps by some of the other Ontario Hydro personnel.

"There have been rumors that Mr. Magrath wished to retire. I feel that the present willingness on the part of the commission to entertain a reasonable proposition for the purchase of the property is only evidence of Mr. Magrath's willingness to play fair with us. Insofar as you are concerned you will be getting cash from the province of Ontario and will liquidate an asset which may be even more uncertain of the change in government policy regarding Hydro Commission or in Hydro personnel takes place.

Provincial as well as Dominion representation, and he believed it would work in a public-spirited way quite free from any political interference or bias.

In discussing the question of using the radio for revenue advertising, Mr. Beatty said, in part:

"It is undeniable, in my opinion, that the benefits of radio in education, culture, development of music and artistic talent and in various forms of entertainment, are unique, and there is no suggestion that any of them should be withdrawn or jeopardized by any national policy which your committee may recommend.

The conflict of opinion arises as to the place that commerce should be allowed to have in radio, and in the utilization of radio.

Crux of Whole Case

"To me, that seems to be the crux of the whole situation, and if that question were removed from your consideration of the problem, its solution would be easier. It has occurred to me that if the advantages of this great invention are as we conceive them to be, it would not be fair or proper to deny the benefits of them to the commerce of this country and to commercial institutions. The divergence of view seems to rest upon a fundamental difference in the conception of radio itself, and those who take an extreme view that the practical advantages of radio should be restricted to education and culture, are, I think, unmindful of the fact that modern industry must keep in step with scientific achievements and should not be deprived of the opportunity of utilizing these achievements in its own development.

Per capital consumption of "bakers bread" in Canada rose to 94.4 pounds in 1930 as compared to 85.0 pounds in 1929.

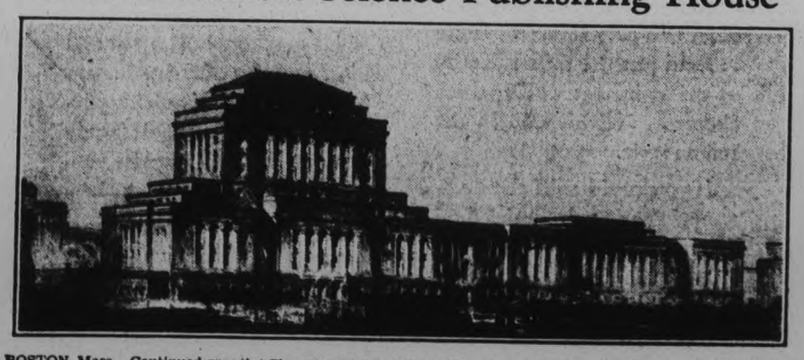
New Christian Science Publishing House



BOSTON, Mass.—Continued growth of the activities of The Christian Science Publishing Society has necessitated expanded facilities. To meet this condition The Christian Science Board of Directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, will erect, as soon as plans and arrangements are completed, a new Publishing House.

Here provision will be made for the needs of The Christian Science Monitor, The Christian Science Journal, The Christian Science Sentinel and all other literature published by the Society.

The new building, which will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, will occupy approximately 58,000 square feet of ground bounded by Massachusetts Avenue, Norway, Falmouth and Clearway Streets, Back Bay. Operations are to be hastened in accord with the public and private building program which Mayor James M. Curley of Boston has been urging in conjunction with President Hoover's recommendations for relief of unemployment.

The structure will have a varying height. The Massachusetts Avenue end of the building, which will be used for offices, will be nine stories in height, while that part which is opposite The Mother Church edifice will be three and four stories in height and in scale with this edifice.

The publishing building will be related in architectural style to The Mother Church, and its design has been influenced by the fact that in the future it probably will become one of a group of buildings which will surround and form a fitting architectural setting for the Church. It will be an all-stone building of the Italian Renaissance type, the lower story to be of granite and the upper stories of limestone.

Special attention will be given to the installation of modern heating and ventilating devices. The central plant will be housed in a building adapted to it, with an ornamental tower inclosing the stack, the tower to be of brick and stone conforming with the beauty and symmetry of the main building.

The building now occupied by The Christian Science Publishing Society, completed in 1908, will be used for the administration offices of The Mother Church.

The architect is Chester Lindsay Churchill, and with him is associated Lockwood-Greene Engineers, Inc., of Boston, which will have charge of the plant layout.

DEACONESSES ARE INTRODUCED TO CAPACITY FILLED CHURCH

the blue bands in their hair, and representing the Young Women, the Mission Bands and the C. G. I. T. groups, were companioned by about fifty of the youthful boys of the Burning Bush order, singing a number of lovely choruses to organ accompaniments, played by M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O. The children were supervised by Miss M. Rannie and Miss M. Ross.

A small group gave "Jesus Loves Me" in Chinese, much to the pleasure of their listeners.

Five Deaconesses.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was the presence of five deaconesses, who were introduced to the audience by Miss Winnifred Ferguson, of Toronto, principal of the Deaconess' Training Home.

This quintette of youthful, fresh-faced girls, speaking briefly to their hearers, with the light of exalted self-sacrifice on their brows, brought to mind the many difficulties which will cross their paths as they got out to self-appointed missionary tasks. Dangers, as well as opportunities for service, may await them, as one considers the far-off fields to which at least four will go; two to India, one to Manchuria and one to Formosa.

They were delightfully simple and unaffected as they stood up to address their hearers and ask for their prayers.

Miss Bessie McMurchy, formerly of Orillia, who, like her companions, has been training for some time for her future career, was a trained nurse, gold medallist of her year in the Montreal General Hospital, and head girl at the Deaconess' Home. She said that, as a small girl, she had listened to a missionary from India, and decided to go there some day. Now she is getting her wish, and will labor at Jodat.

Miss Julia Maystrowick, of Canadian birth and Ukrainian parentage, who has been receiving technical school training for the past five years, is now fully equipped to work among her own people, and will commence among the Ukrainians of the Toronto Presbyterial.

Miss Iris Errey, a trained nurse, who graduated in 1928 from the Buffalo City Hospital, and has also had training in the Toronto Bible College, goes to Manchuria for missionary service.

Miss Mary McVey, a university student, an experienced school teacher, and also proficient in music, comes from New Brunswick, and is going to Formosa to teach in the High School there.

Miss Eleanor McKechnie was the third trained nurse of the group, hailing from Tisdalek, Saskatchewan, a graduate of the Winnipeg General Hospital, and going to the Gwalior Mission in India.

The young ladies were companioned by Miss Jean Cowan, of Barrie, with headquarters in Toronto, girls' work secretary, who spoke briefly.

A very attentive congregation listened to the finely-voiced Scripture message and prayer, based on "Willingness," given by Mrs. John Williams, of Toronto, secretary of Young Women's Auxiliaries, also to the music by a septette of men from the choir.

Miss Pelton's Address.

Last night's session, which saw a large congregation and over two hundred delegates in attendance, was presided over by the provincial president, Mrs. W. A. McLennan, of Toronto.

It was featured by the splendid address given by Miss Pelton, who drew first for her listeners a picture of the soul of the individual man alone in the garden with its Creator, stripped of all sham and pretence, and forced to answer honestly the question of Christ to Simon-Peter, "Lovest thou Me?"

"There were two implications in that question: 'Lovest thou Me?' and 'Herd My Sheep.' For the only acceptable service to Christ is a service founded upon love. Christ might have said: 'If you truly love Me, prove it and serve.'

"The very germ of our human relationships in love is to find its origin in od, and to make the pattern of our love for Christ manifest in our love for one another.

"But love should not be merely a matter of emotionalism nor of sentimentalism, like that of Peter when he boasted, 'Though I die for Thee, still will I not deny Thee.' St. Paul, in those words which might so easily have been uttered by St. John, but were in reality the words of St. Paul, suggests that love is always patient and kind.

"He suggests also that it means humility. It seems that humility is not a natural characteristic of youth, but comes rather with knowledge and experience. Perhaps one reason that youth so often goes off on the road of scepticism and doubt and arrogance for the things it was taught to revere in childhood, is because there is no spirit of humility in youth—that spirit that draws one back into oneself and draws one nearer to God. Pride and conceit draw a cloud over the face.

Pitfalls of Thought.

"Then St Paul suggests purity and righteousness. Oh, young people, when a shady thought plays across your mind and you try to scramble back to God and banish it from your thoughts, you may find it difficult, because a thought of that type causes God to turn away His face.

"Then there is the never-ceasing problem of life—that struggle to make a decision between right and wrong, or, in Christian people, between the better and best, between the lesser and the least. Try and develop in your mind those qualities that will make it easy for you to make such decisions.

"St. Paul said that love endures. It is an easy thing to be loyal to those things which do not make too large a demand upon our energies, but, according to Sa. Paul, the real loyalty comes in being true to our image of God through the vicissitudes of life.

"It is the privilege of young people at this time to move this world out of its present chaotic state of difficulty. Youth helped in the war. Will not youth answer now? But there is one thing that the mind of youth is bound to discover the mind of God in this business of living to-day and in the years to come. The youth of China and the youth of Russia are pressing on in the quest. Will not the Christian youth of the day do likewise?"

Miss Pelton finished with a reference to the great love, not for gain to himself, not even for the securing of a loved one, but rather for the good of someone whom his love cared for, manifested by Sidney Carton in Dickens' "Take of Two Cities."

Yesterday afternoon, greetings from Synod were voiced by the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, representing the moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston.

Mrs. D. Ewart, of Cobourg, president of Peterborough Presbyterial, welcomed the delegates, and went on to speak very kindly of the ladies of St. Paul's Church and the manner in which they welcomed strangers and new arrivals to their church. She said that Peterborough Presbyterial's ability to meet their allocation this year was due in large measure to the efforts put forth by the members of the W.M.S. of St. Paul's Church.

A message was received from the honorary president of the organization, Mrs. M. B. McQuesten, of Hamilton, regretting her inability to be present.

A very beautiful Scripture message and prayer, based on the theme, "Divine Love," was given by the second vice-president, Mrs. J. A. Milne, of Toronto.

The giving of Presbyterial reports was finished yesterday afternoon, as follows: Mrs. A. Hannah, of Toronto, for Toronto Presbyterial; Mrs. J. Burkholder, of Morrisburg, for Brockville; Miss Irene Middaugh, of Dundalk, for Orangeville; Mrs. H. Triplett, of Sault Ste. Marie, for Algoma; Miss Jessie Morrison, of Vankleek Hill, for Glengarry, and Mrs. John L. Holmes, of Stratford, for Stratford Presbyterial.

The president's address, outlined in yesterday's issue, was the feature of yesterday afternoon's session, which concluded with a very beautiful vocal solo by Miss Olive Cullen, and a prayer service led by Mrs. J. H. McCabe, of Stratford, president of Stratford Presbyterial.

Mrs. M. Mason, Halifax, praises BABY'S OWN TABLETS.

"Baby's Own Tablets have indeed been a friend to me," writes Mrs. Mason. "When the children are over-tired and restless I give them their dose of Baby's Own Tablets at night, and in the morning I can see that a wonderful change has taken place—they are happy, contented and soothed children, and a pleasure to cope with."

Mrs. F. Kathleen Sager, 152 Dynevor Road, Toronto, says: "I have found it wise to give Baby's Own Tablets whenever 'Sonny' has a slight cold or whenever he is inclined to be cross."

Give your child BABY'S OWN TABLETS for teething troubles, colds, simple fevers, colic, upset stomach, constipation, sleeplessness, and whenever he is cross, restless and fretful. Children take them eagerly — like candy. And they are absolutely SAFE—see the certificate in each 25-cent package. Over 1,250,000 packages sold in 1931.

Weddings

ELLIS—WATSON

CORDOVA MINES, April 20. — (Examiner Correspondence). — A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Watson on Thursday, April 14th, when their youngest daughter, Lottie Minetta was united in marriage to Mr. Elmer Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis of Belmont, Rev. S. A. Kempt officiating.

The ceremony was performed under a bower of evergreens, erected in the drawing room. The youthful bride, who was given away by her father, looked very winsome in a gown of orange rust flat crepe, with shoes and hose to match. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. A. Youmans, a sister of the bride, was gowned in honey beige flat crepe, with matching shoes and hose. Mr. John A. Youmans supported the groom. After a short honeymoon trip, the happy couple will take up residence on the farm of Mr. Walter Steenburgh in Belmont.

In the test hole the drill went down to 155 feet before a suitable flow was encountered.

DARROW CALLS

as the only direct account of the killing.

Dr. Orbison termed Massie's ailment as "delirium with ambulatory automatism," which he reduced to plain "mental derangement" when Darrow asked him for a simplified definition. The twelve men in the jury box exhibited signs of interest.

"Massie told me," said the alienist, "that in the moment Kahahawai uttered the words, 'We done it,' he didn't know what happened. I asked him what he did with the gun and other things and he said he didn't know."

Barry S. Ulrich, assistant prosecutor, sought an admission that Orbison's opinion was based on the assumption that Massie's story was true.

"I would still believe he was insane whether I believed him or not," replied the witness.

No Fit Of Anger.

The alienist expressed the belief that a fit of anger has not caused Massie to kill Kahahawai, "because in this case the man's whole idea was to get a confession, and it was unlikely he would kill the person from whom he expected to get this confession unless his reason was unbalanced."

"Do you think," Ulrich asked, "this defendant is subject to only one killing?"

"I don't know about that. These days it depends a lot upon locality. One killing in Chicago is retail."

Previously, however, Dr. Orbison had said he didn't believe the same thing would happen to Massie again.

Obituary

MRS. FRED RICHARDSON.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, April 20. — On Monday morning their entered into rest at her home on the Cobourg Road, Hastings, Fannie West, beloved wife of Fred Richardson, after an illness of a few weeks.

Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves a family of four daughters and three sons to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and loving mother. They are Mrs. Fred Morrow (Thelma), of Percy Township; also Luella, Helen, and an infant baby girl of almost three weeks; Elmer, Harold and Howard, all at home. Mr. William West of the village, also Mr. James West, of Alnwick Township, are brothers.

MRS. F. G. HUBBLE

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20.—The funeral of the late Jessie C. Menzies, beloved wife of G. F. Hubble, was held from the family residence, Rear street, Campbellford with interment being made in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The Rev. R. C. Tait conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Sharp. The pall bearers were: Dr. H. O. Richardson, R. C. Ramsden, Wm. Bland, J. Johnson, Edward Montgomery and Manson McConnell. Flower bearers were Mayor J. M. Bygott, George Hardy, A. T. Linton, J. O'Sullivan, Charles Calvert and Bert Bibby.

The late Mrs. Hubble died on Friday, aged 67 years and 6 months. Born in Bancroft, she has resided in this district for many years and is well known and respected among her many neighbors and friends. She was a member of the United Church.

Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. A. C. Hardy of Campbellford; two sisters, Mrs. Jas. Campbell and Mrs. J. Martin; and one brother Mr. James Menzies of Percy township.

MRS. JOHN R. MILES

LAKEFIELD, April 20 (Examiner Correspondent). — Frances Rachael Ellen Crowe, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frances Crowe and wife of John R. Miles, passed away at her Queen street residence yesterday, in her 71st year.

Mrs. Miles had been in poor health for some time, yet her death was not expected and her passing has come as a great shock to her relatives and wide circle of friends. She was born and spent the early part of her life in Dummer township, moving to Saskatchewan in 1910, where she lived for sixteen years. During the past five years she had resided at Lakefield.

She leaves her husband; two sons, Harl at home and Howard of Lakefield; two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Hall of Regina and Mrs. A. E. Couch of Claydon, Saskatchewan; also eight grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Goselin of Regina. Her brother, William, died two months ago at Dummer Township.

Mrs. Miles was a member of an old Dummer family and was well-known and esteemed throughout the district.

The funeral is to be held at 2 p.m. Thursday from the family residence, Queen street, with the Rev. W. A. Archer, B.A., of Regent Street United Church officiating. Interment at Warsaw cemetery.

NATHAN PAYNE.

— LAKEFIELD, April 20 (Examiner Correspondencet). — Nathan Payne, one of the oldest members of Lakefield Curling Club and a popular figure among the young people of the village, died suddenly yesterday at the age of 77 years.

Born at Dummer Township, Mr Payne was the youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Payne. He had lived in Dummer for the greater part of his life, moving to Lakefield eleven years ago.

Always a man of energy and activity, Mr. Payne was an enthusiastic curler and a member for many years of the Payne-Hamblin Hunt Club, which hunted annually in the Parry Sound district.

As recently as a week ago last night Mr. Payne was at the curlers' banquet, when he appeared to be in his usual good health. Taken ill on Thursday last he succumbed to a heart attack yesterday.

Surviving him are his wife and one daughter, Mrs. D. H. McMillen, and five sons, Norman and Rufus of Dummer, and Hilliard and Ralph of Pointe Anne, and Carman at home, also a sister, Mrs. S. S. Spence of Lakefield.

Funeral services will be held on Friday at 2 p.m. from Regent Street United Church, of which the deceased was an active member and worker. The Rev. W. R. Archer, B.A., will officiate.

JAMES METCALFE

NORWOOD, April 20. (Examiner Correspondence). The death occurred at his residence in Asphodel on the Hastings Road on Monday, April 18 of James Metcalfe in his 86th year.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Thursday, April 21 at 3 o'clock with interment at Norwood cemetery.

WHITE INSTALLS NEW MEAT PLANT

Complete Meat Refrigeration Plant Installed in Porter S. White Store.

A complete meat retfirgerator plant has recently been installed at the Charlotte street store of the Porter S. White Company to provide for the new meat department which has just been added.

Besides a large meat box, there is a completely refrigerator ice counter where fresh or cooked meats may be displayed to the shoppers' gaze, while at the same time being entirely protected from flies or dust and kept in a sweet and wholesome condition.

In addition also to the new meat department in charge of Vernon Fisher, accommodation has also been made in the store for a new fruit and biscuit section.

While business is being carried on as usual, the store is at present undergoing complete re-decoration both inside and outside.

Portland cement is produced in Canada from domestic raw materials in 12 plants in Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia, daily capacity reaching approximately 37,000 barrels.

Dairy Notes

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20.—(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)—Work on the land has been delayed considerably this spring owing to the extreme cold weather lasting so long. About the first sign of farm activity was noticed in this district on Monday when Mr. Geo. Ingram of Seymour, had two teams out ploughing.

A young dairyman in Rawdon township, who early last year contracted undulent fever from his herd, is still in a weakened condition.

Quite a number of factories in this section of the country are preparing to begin operations early next week. One veteran maker of the district, Albert Maybee, has decided for this year to take a season off.

Smaller supplies of cheese on hand and improved condition of the pound sterling should bring about a healthiness in the condition of the cheese export trade this season.

On account of bad road conditions last week the scheduled meetings of the cheese factory patrons had to be called off. The date of the Campbellford meeting will be announced later. Mr. Fred W. Barnum is the director of the association for the Campbellford district.

Leafs Beat Pests 6-4, Move Into Fourth Place

SMITH HURLS HIS 2ND WIN FOR TORONTO

Two Runs in 7th Inning Supply Margin of Victory for Leafs.

HEAVY SLUGGING.

Bisons Cop Six Straight Victories—Bears Lose to Red Wings.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 20.—Helped out by fast and perfect fielding and with his mates hitting behind him in the pinches, Arthur Smith conquered the Skeeters yesterday by 6 to 4, and the Leafs moved nearer to the first division. The Columbia graduate restricted the residents to seven hits, four of these being assembled in the fourth. In the third, fifth, and sixth, Lobert's pupils acquired their other safeties. Columbia Art finished strongly, not one of the last ten men who faced him being able to qualify as a base-runner.

Three Jersey City tallies resulted from Clyde Barnhart's homer, and the final domestic score came from a pass to Outen. Fallenstein's sacrifice and Hunnefield's double-barreled welt out Hughes' way. Smith fanned only one Skeeter and his outfielders had just one chance up to the seventh. Marvin Owen inaugurated a double play in the sixth that pulled Smith out of his last tough spot and after that he was invincible.

The Leafs, for the second day, made Commander Lobert lift his pioneer pitcher. That individual was Ed Fallenstein, who was dericked in the seventh just after Tom Hughes had hit Toronto into the lead. Larry Irvin's legacy was two on with two out. On the first serve of the letft-hander, Ray Fritz singled Owen home and scoring for the day ended.

Leafs Hit Ball Hard.

Half of Toronto's ten hits were for extra distance, Fallenstein's yielding three doubles and two triples. Marvin Owen had one of each variety.

The shortstops' three-bagger opened the scoring in the first inning. It brought Walker in, "Hub" having forced Sax, who had worked Fallenstein for transportation. Dollack followed with a single and Smith had a two-run margin to work on.

Owen doubled and Fritz tripled in the fourth and Smith's lead was lengthened to three runs. It vanished quickly. One gone in the home half, Hunnefield and Clancy made hits and Barnhart smote a homer.

The Pests went to the front in the fifth. Toronto responding in the sixth with the run that tied things up. It was erected on Hughes' two-bagger that Joe Moore almost caught, Fritz's sacrifice and McHenry's out, short to first.

In the seventh the Leafs foreclosed on the ball game, Fallenstein starting more trouble for himself by franking Sax. Ollie galloped to third when Walker drilled a single to right but when "Hub" tried to beat his way to second Outen and Hunnefield turned him back. Owen received Fallenstein's sixth gift, and, with Dollack up, Lobert and Hunnefield debated about calling on the bull pen for fresh pitching material. Frank did nothing for the scoring cause, but Hughes did. He shot a hit to centre and Sax sped home. Irvin relieved Fallenstein and what Fritz a turn-around hitter, did to Larry's first pitch has been described. McHenry fanned and the scoring stopped.

Bisons Cop 6th Straight

Ray Schalk's Buffalo club may not figure seriously in the International League pennant chase, but those clouting athletes fo his are those clouting athletes of his are through sheer power.

Buffalo gained undisputed possession of the lead yesterday when Schalk's men outslugged the heavy-batting Reading outfit, 14-10, for their sixth victory in a row. The Bisons have not been defeated since the first game of the season.

Buffalo collected 18 hits, seven for extra bases, in their latest triumph and behind that terrific attack Roy Bergeron pitched and won his second complete game. In seven innings the Bisons have averaged nine runs and 13 hits a game. Their opponents, however, have averaged nearly six runs.

The Bisons' drive to the top was aided by the defeat of the Newark Bears by the champion Rochester Redwings, 6—3. Wetherell held the Bears' batsmen to six hits while Rochester was banging out nine off three Newark pitchers. George Fisher hit a home run, double and single and drove in three runs.

The Montreal Royals also got excellent pitching from Clarence Fisher, and turned back Baltimore 8-2. Fisher gave up only seven hits, one a home run by Heinie Sand for the Orioless' 14th homer in seven games. The Royals bunched hits off Harry Gumbert for four runs in the third and fourth innings, were stopped for three innings by Harry Smythe, but broke loose to score four more tallies in the ninth off the third Baltimore hurler, Cascarella. Thomas got four hits for the Royals and Shiver and Buck contributed homers.

Golf Star From Japan

Canada with her Sandy Somervilles is not the only young nation to make merited impression in the international golfing world. Japan is another, Bobby Jones regards the young Nippon golfer, "Tommy Miyamoto, as having the makings of a really great player." Tommy's swing, Bobby observes, would do credit to the top rank pros of the occident. This was Jones' comment after an informal "four ball" with Billie Burke, "Wild Bill" Melhorn, Tommy and himself participating. It is hoped that the Jap may compete in the forthcoming tournaments on this continent, particularly in the Canadian Open, to be staged at Ottawa, July 7-9. Last year's memorable championship play at Mississauga, Toronto, brought forward an increased host of foreign golfers (the memory of the putting of Percy Alliss and the superlative exhibition of Walter Hagen lingers still) and this year the invaders will be probably greater.

LAKEFIELD PLANS SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Three-Mile Limit Residence Rule is Put Into Effect.

LAKEFIELD, April 20 (Examiner Correspondence).—A meeting of the Lakefield Amateur Athletic Association called for Monday evening to organize a softball league for local games for the summer months appeared for a while like Hamlet with Prince of Denmark left out, as the officers of the L.A.A.A were conspicuous by their absence. However Mr. Kyle, the treasurer appeared and on motion of the meeting was appointed secretary pro tem and councillor J. R. Hill was appointed chairman of the meeting. There was a very good attendance of players and three teams were definitely entered, by Central Garage (manager F. A. Payne); I.O.O.F., (manager John E. Charlton); Lucky Strikes, (manager Carson Webster). It is understood that the Firemen have a team it is probable the Legion will have a team, a married men's team and a mercantile team were also talked of but were not definitely decided on.

On motion of Frank Payne and Kenneth Junkin, a three mile limit was set for drawing players. Three miles will prevent teams from drafting players from Peterborough, Warsaw, Selwyn, Buckhorn, Bridgenorth or Young's Point for the local league. It was decided to play two games a week on the school grounds.

Mr. Kyle reported a cheque from the Badminton Club to the L.A.A.A. which will clean up last year's indebtedness, leaving now a deficit of $100 for the past hockey season. On motion of J. E. Charlton and E. Briant a vote of thanks was given to the Badminton club.

It was suggested that the softball season open during the week of May 9th and that a schedule meeting be held at 8 p.m. on April 29th (Friday) to make final arrangements. This will close the entries for teams. It was suggested that this meeting consist of the L.A.A.A. executive, softball committee; managers of teams and one or two members of each who would be accorded voting privileges.

On motion of Victor Lancaster and Frank Payne an entrance fee of $1 per team be charged and that the home team get the gate and would be responsible for the balls on the night of the game.

The committee appointed on softball at the first meeting was E. Briant (convenor), T. Chaplin, F. Payne, N. Kyle, V. Lancaster, J. E. Charlton.

When James H. Collis, aged 48, was buried recently in Hasland, England, churchyard, it was the third time in 11 days that the grave had been opened, his wife succumbing first and his daughter four days after her.

TIGERS IN TIE WITH SENATORS FOR LEAD OF AMERICAN LEAGUE

Gehringer Leads Detroit Club to 8-0 Victory Over St. Louis Browns.

GIANTS LOSE IN 13TH.

(By Gayle Talbot, A. P. Sports Writer)

After two lean years, in which he experimented right and left and practically rebuilt from the ground up, Manager Bucky Harris appears at last to have hit on a pretty slick combination at Detroit.

Tied with Washington for the leadership of the American League after winning five of their first seven starts at home, the Tigers easily qualify as the sensation of the early going. It is doubtful even Harris expects them to stay at the top but, even so, the former "boy manager" can report progress.

So far the Tigers have enjoyed the finest pitching in either league from Earl Whitehill, Vic Sorrell, George Uhle and Whitlow Wyatt, and their hitting has been both hard and timely. One of their two defeats last week was charged to Sorrell, and on a day when he allowed the St. Louis Browns only three hits.

Rightfielder Roy Johnson has supplied the big batting punch so far with 14 hits in 32 trips for an average of .438, but the club has been hitting right down the line. Charlie Gehringer, whose bat has been a potent factor in almost every game, drove three runs across with a double and triple yesterday as the Tigers made it three out of four from the Browns, 8-0. Whitehill, turning in his second victory, kept six hits well spaced.

Senators Continue Streak

The Washington Senators continued their heavy cannonading to lick the Athletics, 7-4, and square the series at Shibe Park. Rube Walberg yielded 14 hits in eight innings, including a home run and two singles by Joe Cronin.

The Yanks and Red Sox divided their Patriot's Day double-header at Boston, the Sox scoring their initial victory of the year in the morning tilt, 6-5, and the Yanks unlimbering their long-range artillery to take the second encounter, 6-3. Tony Lazzeri replaced the rookie, Jack Saltzgauer at second base for the Yankees in the afternoon bout and drove across four runs with a homerun and a double.

Hudlin Aids Indians Win

Willis Hudlin hurled Cleveland to a 4-2 win over the White Sox, allowing only five singles, while his mates jumped on Sad Sam Jones for all their runs in the last three frames.

Wally Berger's triple with two on in the thirteenth inning enabled the Boston Braves to nose out the Giants, 8-7, and shove the McGrawmen further into the National League cellar. Bill Terry, Giant first sacker, sent the game into extra innings when he connected with one of Ed Brandt's shoots for a homerun with two on in the last of the ninth. In all, Terry drove in six of the Giants' runs.

With Hack Wilson on the bench, nursing a leg injury, the Brooklyn Dodgers caught a 10-2 beating from the Phillies. Ray Benge pitched steady ball all the way, allowing only five hits, but was robbed of a shutout by Glenn Wright's homerun in the sixth. Waite Hoyt made his second start for the Dodgers and again was knocked from the hill.

Only the two games were scheduled in the National UNION JACKS BEATEN.

TORONTO, April 20. — (By the Canadian Press.)—Winnipeg Toilers, senior cage champions of Manitoba to-day stand a step nearer the Western Canada basketball title. In the first game of a two-of-three series to decide which club will enter the Canadian finals against the pick of the east, Toilers triumphed 33-30 over Raymond Union Jacks, rangy six-footers from Alberta. They now need but a single victory in the remaining two games to earn a place in the finals.

ROTARY HOCKEY TEAM HONORED

Athletic Committee of Rotary Club Hosts at Annual Event.

RECEIVE PICTURES.

The Athletic Committee of the Rotary Club entertained the Junior City League hockey champions, the Rotarians, at a banquet in the Empress last night. Twenty guests sat down to a fine dinner, presided over by Chris Graham, who introduced the speakers, after first extending the congratulations of the Club to the winning team.

Manager Ches Mowry thanked him and the Club for their support and confidence in him and his boys. He praised his players for their clean playing, pointing out that they had gone through the schedule without a loss. Hy Wood, president of the league, then offered his congratulations to the players and regretted the fact that the poor ice conditions had interfered considerably with the schedule. He hoped to be connected with the City League again. Fred Roy, on behalf of the Rotary Club, praised the clean sportsmanship of the team, remarking that while it was quite a thing to win the championship, the Club was more interested in how the boys played. He gave much of the credit for the team's fine showing to the manager.

Fine, large group pictures of the team were presented to each player by James Juby on behalf of the Rotary Club, and the Tully Trophy turned over to the captain, Roy Tranter, who thanked the Club for his team, assuring them that the boys felt it an honor to represent this organization. He also thanked Manager Mowry for his work with them.

COGNAWAGA CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET IN THE CHURCH HALL

Tribute Paid to Members of Hockey, Basegall Teams, Orchestra and Cast of Play.

MOTION PICTURES SHOWN.

The "Blue and White" was much in evidence Monday night upon the occasion of the annual banquet of the Cognawagas Athletic Club of St. James' United Church, when their colours were prominently displayed, both in the tasteful room decorations and on the beautifully arranged tables.

Nearly one hundred and twenty-five of the members and their guests enjoyed the delightful repast prepared and served by the mothers of the "Cog" boys. Bright spring flowers added their share to the attractiveness of the tables.

Seated at the guest-table and presiding as chairman, was William McLaren, teacher of the Cognawaga Sunday School class. The club orchestra, with Harry Northrop, pianist, provided splendid music and led in the community singing, into which all entered heartily.

A sincere welcome was tendered to the guests and members at this tenth annual gathering, by the president, William Prest, who also expressed his appreciation to the ball and hockey teams, the play cast, the press, and all others who had contributed to the success of the club's activities.

In response to the toast to the King, proposed by Mr. McLaren, all joined in singing the National Anthem.

The chairman, also, proposed the toast to the Church and Sunday School which was responded to on behalf of the church, by Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse, who spoke of the far-reaching effects of the Church and its institutions and of our individual responsibility as Church members. In replying on behalf of the Sunday School, A. E. Prest, the superintendent, spoke of the Sunday School as a place of training for entering church work, and emphasizing its great value in this respect.

Rev. C. D. Daniels, of Mark Street United Church, was present as a guest and briefly addressed the assembly, assuring the boys of his continued interest in their efforts.

Tribute Paid

Votes of thanks were tendered, first, to the ball team by Frank Kunst, which was replied to by A. Davis, manager of the 1931 ball team; D. Davis, league president, and Jack McCarney, umpire. Percy Vannest expressed appreciation for the efforts of the hockey team, to which Fred Cripps responded. To the cast of the play and to the orchestra, E. McKinstry voiced the thanks of the "Cog" members. On behalf of the cast, K. Sloan replied and C. Searles on behalf of the orchestra.

Special thanks were also tendered by A. Rooke to the lady waiters, the social committee under J. Fields, those taking part in the program, including the orchestra and Fred Cripps and to the press. J. Fields, who had been in charge of arrangements for this successful affair, made a brief acknowledgement.

A pleasing feature on the program was the presentation of beautiful silver-cased casseroles as wedding gifts to Mr. and Mrs. P. Vannest and to Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson. In a brief address to the newly-married couples, Mr. McLaren offered the felicitations of the club members, while the presentation was made by A. Rooke. Both Mr. Vannest and Mr. Wilson thanked their fellow-workers for their gifts and for the spirit which prompted them.

"To see themselves as others see them" was the rare privilege of the Cogs and their friends, when, through the courtesy of F. Roy, moving pictures of some of their activities were shown by F. Cripps, at the conclusion of their splendid program. These included films of ball team, the hockey team, the annual outing at Presqu'ile Point and of the play recently staged. Extremely interesting, also were the scenes from the Loch Lomond district and from busy London. Lastly the audience were transported to the valley of the Nile, where the tombs of the Pharoahs were seen, followed by some beautiful views of Jerusalem and the Holy Land.

The singing of "O Canada" concluded this unusually successful annual gathering.

To Defend Title

Writing from the South, Robert Harlow says that Tommy Armour, British open champion, will sail for Europe on May 24 to defend his title over the Princes' links at Sandwich, starting June 6. He will be formidable for his golf this winter has been a sensation, and he has had the advantage of playing for four months over some of the finest links land in America, at Boca Raton.

PRIMEAU'S EVEN PLAY-OFF SERIES

Riley and Hickey Beaten 30-27 in Second Game for Senior Cage Title.

In the "Y" seniors second play-off game last night, Primeau's evened the series by nosing out Riley & Hickey's cage squad 30 to 27, after the latter team had won the first contest. The deciding fixture will be played Monday night at the "Y". There was little difference again shown between these well-matched outfits last night, it being either side's game until the last whistle.

At half-time the count was 21-17 for the winners, and they were outscored 10 to 9 in the last chapter. Routley was their main sniper with sixteen points, followed by McKeagan, Ward and Armstrong with four apiece, and Chesler with a lone basket. For the losers, Kitchen had six points, Levine, Mott and Swartz five apiece, while McLeod and Stanger each snared three. The teams.

Riley & Hickey: Levine, Mott, Swartz, Kitchen, McLeod, Stanger and Sagar.

Primeau's: McKeagan, Routly, Chesler, Ward, Smith, Taylor and Armstrong.

BASKETBALL AND BOXING

CASUAL COMMENT

Three good Toronto fighters are here this evening to take part in the Pioneer A.C. boxing show at the Legion Hall, eight bouts making up the card. Jerry Coughlin has his boys in the pink and it should provide another good evening for followers of the jab-and-hook game. Billy Hughes, provincial champ, meets Tony Minicola in the feather scrap headlining the program.

• • • • • • •

Fred DeCarlo, who won a bunch of friends at his last showing, gets the acid test to-night when he takes on Ed Delhaney, a smart mittser. The other Toronto pug is Mel Allen and he faces Ned Minicola. This is sure to be a battle, as both boys like to fight and neither one is any sap in the roped-in enclosure. Allen has quite a rep around Toronto, but Ned figures a rep is only good till you meet a better man.

• • • • • • •

The all-local bouts sound pretty fair. The Belland-Jordan one opens the show, followed by Fred Lustich and Dave Peters. Then it's "Dutch" McIlmoyle against "Hap" O'Toole, with Earl Harrington meeting Ned Vitarelli. Tommy Heffernan fights a newcomer in Jack Minicola, but then there are several scrappers on this line-up who are more or less new to local fans. The show is billed to start at 8.30.

• • • • • • •

Quite a bunch of ball players are expected to workout at the "Y" this evening from seven to eight, under the eye of Manager Art Primeau. The warm sun of yesterday brought balls and gloves out in various parts of the city, but it's better to take it easy and watch out for kinks in the arm at this time of year. It's okay to take gloves to the "Y" and toss the ball around indoors for a few weeks yet.

• • • • • • •

The E.P.L. baseball meeting at Duffus is set for eight bells, and a good turnout is looked for as there is a flock of business to get cleared up if the league is to operate successfully this summer. Four local teams will probably make up the circuit, but this is just our guess.

• • • • • • •

We're looking for the men and for the girl softballers to get together soon, no later than next week, to reorganize for the year. Several meetings are generally required before everything is lined up, and this year we expect several new applicants in each loop. Last years entries will naturally have first choice.

• • • • • • •

Rotarians, City Hockey League champions, had a fine spread thrown for them by the Rotary Club Athletic Committee in the Empress last night, and were presented with the Tully Trophy and large group pictures of the team. As Manager Ches Mowry said, the boys this winter had sweet revenge over the same service club team that put them out in baseball last summer. The hockey loop this past winter was under the best possible direction for development of sportsmanship.

• • • • • • •

Some of the boxing fans have been taking cracks at referees recently about one thing and another. All we have to say is: Refereeing is a tough job, and the arbiter is on the spot as soon as his work starts. We agree heartily with Lou Marsh's recent remark: "Anyway, I'm glad I'm not refereeing hockey games now, with eggs at two dozen for fifteen cents!"

• • • • • • •

Soccer players are out these nights warming up at King Edward Park, generally watched by a bunch of spectators. Many of the latter, though, get out there also trying to get the odd kick at the ball. The park is being fixed up for the season, holes filled up, and the ground levelled off in preparation for the first contest on May 7.

• • • • • • •

Last night at the "Y," Primeau's evened the basketball play-offs by trimming Riley & Hickey's, 30 to 27. It had previously been announced that the latter team won the cage title, but the captains of both outfits then decided to make it a two out of three series, with the final game being next Monday night. Bruins beat Canadians, 26-18, in an intermediate basketball play-off game

PITCHER SEWELL SECURED BY LEAFS

Former Vanderbilt University Star Will Report on Thursday.

TORONTO, April 20.—Heeding the call of Manager Daly for more pitching strength, Vice-President James Dunn of the Toronto club has obtained Pitcher Truett Banks Sewell from the Detroit Tigers. Sewell is farmed out to the Leafs subject to recall. He is one of two pitchers who are expected to bolster the Leafs' hurling corps, and he will report to the team at Jersey City to-morrow.

No definite word has been received from Detroit as yet concerning the probable departure of Dale Alexander and Heinie Schuble to join the Leafs. Although President Navin is said to favor their joining the Toronto team immediately, Manager Bucky Harris inclined to retain them until such time as he is fully satisfied that their departure will not hurt the Tigers. Harris has benched Richardson and given Billy Rhiel the third-base assignment, and in the event that Rhiel fails to deliver he may try out Schuble at the position. Harris is carrying a surplus of infielders at present, and it is only a question of time before he will be forced to part with one or two, and the Leafs should benefit.

HITLER HONORED

MARKTNEUKIRCHEN, Germany, April 20 (A.P.)—In honor of the 43rd birthday of Adolf Hitler, National-Socialist leader, this centre of the German musical instrument industry flew his flag on the city hall to-day, unveiled his picture, and conferred honorary citizenship upon him.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Crossley-Bartel Lead Bike Grind

Montreal, April 20 (C.P.)—With nearly 1,000 miles of the long grind behind them, Al Crossley and Frank Bartell, of Boston, were leading the field in the six-day bicycle race here at 8 a.m. to-day. During the night they had been penalized one lap for riding dangerously high, but they quickly lapped the field to make this up and in the early morning hours sprinted into the lead. Their point total was 133. One lap behind were W. "Torchy" Peden, of Victoria, and Jules Audy of Montreal, the team favored to win the race.

Horace Horan of New York, was injured in a spill, but he and his partner, Reggie McNamara, also of New York, were still pedalling away in fourth place early to-day.

Two Conservatives Seeking Same Seat

(By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Writer)

LONDON, April 20.—The by-election in St. Marylebone, London, where polling takes place April 28, presents the spectacle of a fight between two Conservatives and no other candidates.

Capt. Alec Cunningham-Reir, choice of the local Conservative party, and Sir Basil Blackett, the chairman of Imperial and International Communications, Ltd., candidate of the Central Conservative party, were nominated to-day.

The Conservative Central Office, whose championship of Sir Basil's candidature precipitated the rupture with the local caucus, is holding aloof from the campaign. Sir Basil's supporters have formed a new organization and 25 members of the House of Commons, including L. C. Amery, former Dominions' Secretary, and Sir Reginald Horne, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, are to speak on Sir Basil's behalf, during the campaign.

Haligonian Leads In Schooner Race

HAVANA, April 20. (A.P.) Nearly four days after the start at St. Petersburg, Fla., a fleet of nine yachts headed toward Havana and the finish line of the third annual St. Petersburg to Havana race to-day.

There was no direct word this morning that any of the fleet was within striking distance of the finish. Last reports, received from the coast guard cutter, Tuscarora, said the fleet, led by the Schooner Haligonian, designed by T. J. Rowe Halifax, had nosed past Hortugas, off the tip of Florida, into the Gulf Stream.

Spain Will Not Take Part In The Olympics

BARCELONA, April 20. (A.P.)—The Spanish Athletic Association announced to-day that its affiliated athletes would not participate in the Olympic games at Los Angeles because they were not prepared.

The Spanish Olympic committee has funds available for adequate training, the federation said, and knew the Olympic plans two years ago but in spite of this nothing was done and only two athletes are now in training, for which reason, it would be impossible to participate.

VILLAGE IS BUILT TO HOUSE ATHLETES

Five Hundred and Fifty Dwellings Made in Less Than Three Weeks.

LOS ANGELES, April 20. (C.P.)—Like the ghost towns of the old gold rush days in California, there has grown in the Baldwin Hills near here a cluster of 550 houses in less than three weeks.

It is the Olympic village, where some 2,000 of the world's picked athletes will live for a few weeks this summer.

The last of the houses was erected to-day. In a short time workmen will build a 700-foot administration building and several large kitchens and dining rooms in which food to the tastes of healthy manhood from 50 nations will be served.

From early July until the middle of August, this town will bustle with activity. Then, almost overnight, it will be torn down to leave barren again the plot of more than 300 acres which once was a part of the lucky Baldwin estate.

The portable nature of the buildings, with whole sides and ends prepared in advance, made speedy construction possible. Each will house four athletes.

Of the nations planning to send contestants here, Japan thus far heads the list with 223. Sweden announced yesterday she would enter 83 stars.

HUGHES-MINICOLA IN RETURN BATTLE

Paired in Torid Scrap in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, Last Week.

Frank ("Red") Gallagher, who is bringing Billy Hughes, Ed. Delaney and Mel Allen down from Toronto this evening for their bouts at the Legion Hall, is one of Canada's great Canadian ring veterans. He won the pro 125 pound Ontario championship in 1913, the Canadian lightweight title three years later and the provincial 135-pound championship in 1917. His fights as a pro with Scotty Linsener, in defence of the title, still stand-out in the ring history of the country. Lately, "Red" has been training the Classic Club boxers, and he has some of the best in Ontario.

The main scrap to-night between Billy Hughes and Tony Minicola should be outstanding. It took the Ontario champ three torrid rounds to nose out a decision over Tony a week ago, and the latter mittser feels he can reverse it here. Both the Delhaney-DeCarlo bout and the classy Mel Allen-Ned Minicola battle promise plenty of hard fighting. The prelims consist of: Jerry Belland vs. "Irish" Jordan III in the curtain-raiser; Fred Lustich against Dave Peters; "Dutch" McIlmoyle versus "Hap" O'Toole; Earl Harrington and ed Vitarelli, and Tommy Heffernan fighting Jack Minicola.

Eight bouts in all, five all-local with Alpha Club and Foster A.C. scrappers figuring in several of them, indicate a pile of action. The referee's and judge's names have not yet been announced, but efforts are being made to get the best. With the boys in good condition, and the show starting at 8.30, fans are promised a good evening's mitt entertainment.

Clogheen Is First Epsom Downs Track

EPSOM DOWNS, April 20 (C.P. Cable).—Mrs. C. Jones' four-year-old Clogheen, carrying 102 pounds, and ridden by Clifford Richards, this afternoon won the City and suburban, great Spring handicap, by four lengths from H. Eve's four-year-old Venturer, ridden by Jockey Ray and carrying 114 pounds. Only a head back of Venturer in third place came T. Davidson's four-year-old Wildson, ridden by Burns and carrying 108 pounds.

Clogheen, bay cold by Tetratema out of Lavercock, started at odds of 20 to 1, Venturer at 11 to 2, and Wildson at 25 to 1.

Sixteen horses raced over the mile and a quarter course in the renewal of the Epsom fetaure, first run in 1851.

Gate Receipts Drop In American League

NEW YORK, April 20. (CP) A revival of interest at Cincinnati, and the great drawing-power of the revamped Brooklyn Dodgers have contrived to keep National League attendance close to normal this season despite frigid weather and slim pocketbooks, but the American League, whatever the case, has suffered serious losses.

The National has averaged about 12,560 spectators per game so far this campaign compared with 13,400 over an approximately similar period last year. The corresponding average in 1930 was 12,830.

The American League, on the other hand, has averaged only 9549 fans per game compared with about 20,000 last year and 12,500 in 1930.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

THE VAGABONDS
(By Thornton W. Burgess)

The vagabond has naught of care;
He has no duties anywhere.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Up the long hall that led from the bottom of the Smiling Pool to Jerry Muskrat's snug bedroom, just under the sod in the bank, rose the water. It crept up and up and up and didn't stop. Every few minutes Jerry went to look at it and each time it was a little bit higher. At last it began to trickle into the bedroom. Jerry waited no longer. He awoke Mrs. Jerry.

"What's the matter?" she demanded crossly, for she was still sleepy.

"It is time for us to be going," replied Jerry.

"Going where?" demanded Mrs. Jerry. Then she added peevishly, "I'm not going anywhere."

"Yes, you are," retorted Jerry.

"Who says I am?" demanded Mrs. Jerry, now very much awake.

"I do," replied Jerry. "I say you are going somewhere. I hope you are going with me, but whether you do or not you are going somewhere, and the sooner we start the better."

Mrs. Jerry opened her mouth to say that she had no intention of going anywhere but back to sleep when she felt the water creeping around her feet. She didn't have to be told what that meant. There was nothing to argue about now. If that water continued to rise, and there was no reason to think that it would not, they couldn't stay in their other house now under water in the Smiling Pool. So, instead of saying what she had intended to, she meekly said: "All right. I'm ready to start. Where do we go and how?"

"We'll go to the hibher land beyond the Green Meadows," replied Jerry. "We'll follow the Laughing Brook up in the Green Forest. Then when the water begins to fall we can come down the Laughing Brook to the Smiling Pool. We'll get out of here by just digging this air hole big enough for us to get through. That will be better than swimming down through the hall into the Smiling Pool, where the water is so swift that it might take us far from where we want to go."

Jerry set to work and in a few minutes he poked his head out under the little pile of sticks that hid the hole from those who might pass that way. Jerry crawled out and Mrs. Jerry followed. Once out on the Green Meadows they sat for a few minutes staring at the swift, angry water that now swept through the usually quiet, gentle Smiling Pool. Already the water was over the father bank, so that there was no longer any pool at all. The water was running level with the top of the bank on their side, and in places was beginning to trickle out through the grass.

Run in cut here

So they started off, Jerry in the lead and Mrs. Jerry close behind

"If we stay here," said Jerry, "we'll soon have to be swimming. Then when we want to rest we will have to find something to climb out on and perhaps find ourselves being carried away. I've been all through that. I'm going up in the Green Forest. If you don't want to come you may stay here, but I advise you to ge to high land."

"Oh, I'm coming," replied Mrs. Jerry. "You needn't think you can leave me behind."

So they started off, Jerry in the lead and Mrs. Jerry close behind. They followed along beside the Laughing Brook. It wasn't laughing now. No indeed! It was roaring angrily. There were places where the water was far over the banks, and they had to go around or swim. Sometimes they did one and sometimes the other. The alder swamp was filled with water and here they swam, for the current was not swift save in the middle. They were homeless and they did not know where the next meal was coming from. They were just a pair of vagabonds with nothing they could call their own. Yet, somehow, they were happy. It was fun not to know where they were going or what would happen next. And the feel of spring was in the air!

LIBERAL VOTERS HOLD BALANCE IN WAKEFIELD

WAKEFIELD, Yorkshire, April 19. — (C. P. Cable) — Liberal voters numbering 4,000 appear to hold the balance in the Wakefield by-election where polling takes place on Thursday.

The contest is a straight fight between Alfred Ernest Greaves, retired solicitor and vice president of the local Conservative Association, and Arthur Greenwood, who was minister of health and one of the most prominent members, in the Labor cabinet that fell last August.

Dr. Halewander, inventor of the three-phase current motor, has died at Freiburg, Germany, aged 72.

What To-Day Means To You

"ARIES"

If April 20th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., from 4 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., and from 9:45 p.m. to 11 p.m. The danger periods are from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8:20 p.m.

Astrological influences on April 20th will be vigorous, and you will be electrified into the desire for action instead of letting things drift. It will be a good time to bring up troublesome questions and for the settlement of differences. Favorable for those in educational or publicity work.

The child born on this April 20th will be a thinker and student and will be more fond of reading than games. It will be high-strung and will be easily upset by inharmonious conditions or an unkind word. It will be rather a solitary little figure, as it will stand rather mentally aloof from most of its playmates.

If of the masculine gender and born on April 20th, you have a vigorous, zealous and boyish nature. You are both simple-minded and intelligent and possess the ordinary civic virtues of honesty and sobriety. You are not overly ambitious and are content so long as you can maintain the standard of living to which you are used. Money appeals to you mostly because of the pleasure it affords you to give others. You might like to "show off," your family, but personally never pretend to anything more than what you are. You are a demon for work while you are at it, but no job will ever make you its slave, and you shut the door upon your office worries when you leave it.

The April 20th women are ultra maternal and generally find some poor chick over whom to cluck. You take your responsibilities more seriously than your April 20th brothers and allow your worries to depress you. You are the most loyal of friends, although some people may resent your possessive attitude. You like others to look up to and lean upon you, and prefer as friends those whom you can patronize. You are charming and agreeable as long as you have your own way: as soon as thwarted, however, you become hard and hostile. You are sympathetic toward those whom you love and approve, but are indifferent and intolerant to others.

Both painters are Montreal residents.

MARMORA LODGE HAS GALA NIGHT

D. D. G. M. of Prince Edward District, Rt. Wor. Bro. J. Maidens is Guest of Honor.

MARMORA, April 20 (Examiner Correspondence) — Marmora A.F. and A.M., No. 222 received Right Worshipful Bro. J. Maidens on Monday evening in his official capacity as D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward District.

The occasion was marked with an unusually large attendance of visiting brethren and was graced with the presence of four P.D.D.M.'s of Prince Edward, namely Right Wor. Bros. J. W. Barlaw and H. J. Clarke of Belleville, Right Wor. Bro. G. West of Madoc and Right Wor. Bro. T. E. Laycock of Marmora.

During the lodge session inspiring addresses were given by the D.D. G.M. and Right Wor. Bro. H. J. Clarke. The fourth degree was put on in excellent style and at its conclusion Wor. Bro. D. L. Curtis, W.M. of Marmora Lodge efficiently discharged the duties of toastmaster.

Following community singing for which Wor. Bro. A. O. Yates presided at the piano the King and Craft was submitted. Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard in a well worded speech proposed "Grand Lodge." In his response Right Wor. Bro. J. Maidens choicely discoursed on "The ideal temple." The toast to "Our Country" received justice in being proposed by Wor. Bro. H. W. Sabine and in the response by Wor. Bro. Rev. W. P. Woodger of Napanee. That to "Visiting brethren" was well handled by Right Wor. Bro. T. E. Laycock to which a representative number of visiting brethren replied. The Junior Warden's toast was submitted by Bro. W. J. Pack. Between the toasts, pleasing numbers were given by the Lodge quartette, Wor. Bros. J. F. Baker, W. L. Rigg, W. A. Sanderson and Bro. G. Woodhouse. Wor. Bro. Baker also gave a couple of songs.

THE flavour of Quaker Corn Flakes is too delicate to entrust to an ordinary carton. So we pack them in our sealed container inside the sealed carton, then wax wrap and seal the wrapper. Triple-sealed . . . wax-wrapped. All the freshness, crispness and flavour are preserved for you.

Subtle and intriguing, because ingredients in this flavour are the highest quality ever put into a corn flake. Special malt, pure CANE sugar, and salt of crystal purity.

Won't you try Quaker Corn Flakes? We have made this wonderful flavour just to suit your taste.

Enjoyable Concert Is Held At May's

An enjoyable concert was held recently in Mays' school with a splendid attendance. Robert Orr and his little Corn Poppers orchestra was much enjoyed. Mrs. Nyle Todd sang, accompanied by Mrs. Glover. A ukelele solo was rendered by Miss L. Thompson, while little Joanne Mickel and Betty Deline sang a pretty flowker song. Spanish guitar music was given by Messrs. Elliott and Leal who have been heard on various occasions over radio station CFCA, Toronto. Homer Lundy and Roy Leonard provided a comic skit.

Mr. Stacey, who acted as chairman for the evening, arranged details of the luck prize drawing which was won by Mr. Roberts. The draw was made by little Mabel Watkins.

HEENAN TO HEAD RALLY.

BROCKVILLE. — It is announced here that Hon. Peter Heenan, ex-Minister of Labor in King's Cabinet, will act as chairman at a meeting here on May 6. M. F. Hepburn, Ontario Liberal Leader and other leading Liberals will speak.

YEAR OF PROGRESS SHOWN IN PRESBYTERIAL REPORTS

Morning Session of Provincial W.M.S. Taken Up With Reports.

484 LIFE MEMBERSHIPS.

Discussion of Provincial reports featured this morning's session of the 18th annual meeting of the Ontario Provincial Society W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, convening in St. Paul's church for three days this week, with over two hundred delegates in attendance.

The following reports were presented: Press, by Mrs . D. Mason McLennan of Toronto; Literature, by Miss Blanche Armstrong of Hamilton; Lantern Slides, by Mrs. A. W. Talbot of Toronto; Glad Tidings, by Mrs. J. R. Hill of Ottawa; Deputation, by Mrs. R. G. Hammill of Toronto; Supply, by Mrs. Ellen Anderson of Toronto; Library, by Mrs. W. W. Carter of Toronto; Students, by Mrs. J. A. Milne of Toronto; Welcome and Welfare, by Mrs. J. H. Eaton of Orillia; General Interests, by Mrs. F. R. Redditt of Goderich; Home Helpers, by Mrs. T. E. Langford of Simcoe. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. J. McCullough of Toronto, presented reports prepared by Mrs. W. W. Bryden of Toronto, on Exchange, and by Mrs. J. M. Empey of Mitchell, on Life Membership, in the absence of the two ladies.

Press Report

Mrs. McLennan reported courteous and helpful co-operation from the press, in arranging publicity for the meetings of the society and reporting their proceedings. Miss Blanche Armstrong said that growing interest was manifested in the Literature section, with total sales during the year of $1,717.16, an increase of $193.48 over the previous year.

Mrs. Bryden, for Exchange, regarded the decrease in the number of papers sent out this year (150 as compared with last year's total of 290), as indicative of a greater use of the Study Book and a gratifying increase in the number of papers being prepared by the members themselves.

Lantern slides were shown 137 times, as reported by Mrs. Talbot. Mrs. Hill, for Glad Tidings, reported 16,579 subscriptions, a decrease from the total of 1930, but an increase over that of 1929. Huron Presbyterial headed the list with regard to increased subscriptions with Ottawa and Brockville next in order, and Lindsay, North Bay, Saugeen and Temiskaming also on the honour roll.

Increase In Interest

Mrs. R. G. Hammill, for Deputation, reported an increase in the number of requests for speaks' speakers, with a total of 315 during the year.

Mrs. Anderson, for Supply, reported receipts of $139.75 for the year and expenditures of $129.17. The value of supplies sent from Presbyterial, $32,589.93, in the following ratio: Barrie Presbyterial, $1,600.70; Brockville, $557.66; Bruce and Owen Sound, $676.92; Chatham, $907.00; Glengarry, $482.70; Guelph, $978.60; Hamilton, $1,550.01; Huron, $158.85; Kingston, $472.30; Lanark and Renfrew, $314.75; Lindsay, $1,013.22; London, $2,439.05; Maitland, $265.00; North Bay, $102.67; Orangeville, $459.65; Ottawa, $502.90; Paris, $654.01; Peterborough, $488.95; Sarnia, $636.34; Saugeen, $248.43; Stratford, $844.00; Temiskaming, $45.57; Toronto, $7,189.55.

For Library, Mrs. Carter reported activities of different Presbyterials in encouragement in good reading. Peterborough's contribution to this work included sending 140 books to Lakefield and $2.50 towards the purchase of a book-case, also 22 books and a magazine monthly sent to Huntingdon School, as well as 950 pounds of magazines to camps. Sincere letters of appreciation were recorded from missionaries, "hungry for reading", lonely settlers, hospitals and camps.

In Life Membership, Mrs. Empey reported 18 honorary certificates, 484 Life Members, 40 in Memoriam subscriptions, 284 Junior Members, 88 blue seals, 42 silver seals, 34 gold seals and 20 Fifth payment. Individuals and organizations presenting certificates and seal had enriched the treasury by the sum of $17,240.00. In the presentation of honorary certificates, Peterborough Presbyterial led, with four presented.

In the first annual report of the recently-appointed Student secretary, Mrs. Milne, 13 Presbyterials were named as having secretaries of this type. The work among Presbyterian students in Kingston Presbyterian was recorded as showing less encouragement than in the previous year.

Mrs. Eaton, for Welcome and Welfare, reported "at no time in the history of our church has so much welfare work been done as in 1931," as coming from the Stratford Presbyterial, representing the keynote of the various sections. Names sent in from all sources totalled 2,449, as compared with 3,936 last year; 11,225 visits against last year's total of 12,077; 818 letters written, and 1,254 connected with some part of the church life through efforts of the Welcome and Welfare department.

Mrs. Redditt, for General Interests, reported increase in memberships and ways of interesting more women, with encouraging replies from various Presbyterials.

Home Helpers

Mrs. T. E. Langford of Simcoe, reported a total of 6,104 Home Helpers, contributing $8,379.15, an average giving of $1.34 per member. 1,804 Home Helpers subscribe to Glad Tiding, an increase of 199 over last year. Two hundred and thirty-two Home Helpers became active members. The amount of the Thankoffering was $1,184.05.

Toronto heads the list in Presbyterial givings, with $1,737.57 to their credit. Hamilton comes second with givings of $1,304.48; Barrie third giving $722.93, and London fourth, giving $507.61.

"Peterborough Presbyterial," went on the report, "stands out alone this year as the only Presbyterial which made any advance in membership and givings. Congratulations, Peterborough!"

In Auxiliary givings, Collingwood headed the list, with $347.60.

This morning's session, presided over by the president, Mrs. W. A. McLennan of Toronto, opened with a praise service, "Divine Longsuffering," led by Mrs. J. A. Milne of Toronto, and closed with prayer for "Our Overseas Work," offered by Mrs. Fred Gallie of Camlachie, president of the Sarnia Presbyterial.

To-night, the principal address will be given by the Rev. Stuart Parker, D.D., of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto.

Miss Laura Pelton, Field Secretary of the Council Executive, will also speak to-night, and devotions will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Barr.

To-morrow afternoon sees the close of the three-day conference. The report of the Nominating committee and the election and installation of officers will be presented in the afternoon and the closing message will be voiced by Mrs. D. L. McKerroll of Toronto.

J. F. STRICKLAND GUEST SPEAKER

Women's Liberal Conservative Association Holds April Meeting.

The April meeting of the Women's Liberal Conservative Association was held in the Paragon Hall yesterday afternoon with the "M" group in charge. The secretary, Mrs. J. Cridland, gave a fine report of last month's activities. A report of the Relief committee was submitted by Mrs. J. Mills. Mrs. Patton and Mrs. G. Helson. It was decided to purchase more woollen yarn and give it out to those desiring to knit and keep the finished articles over for distribution next year.

Mrs. L. M. Brooks delighted the audience with two solo numbers, "The Little Green Balcony" and "A Bowl of Roses."

The speaker of the afternoon was J. F. Strickland, M.P.P., who received a warm ovation. He briefly outlined thfe policy of the government at Ottawa and referred briefly to the better feeling generally, a feeling of hope and optimism, speaking of the many who were looking forward to the Imperial Conference as a means of establishing better conditions throughout the British Empire. He spoke of the new taxes and showed how they were placed on articles purchased by people most able to pay a tax.

Two very pleasing vocal duet numbers were rendered by Mrs. W. H. Hepburn and Mrs. Clayton Telford, who sang "Juanita" and "Colorado Moon." Mrs. W. A. Greenslade acted as accompanist for the afternoon. Miss Gwen Parnell, reader, gave a very pleasing number, "Ceptin' Me," responding to an encore.

Mrs. F. Miller, one of the members of the group in charge, gave an outline of the policy of the new Minister of Finance, Hon. Edgar R. Rhodes by which he hoped to add $55,000,000 to national revenue and produce a $4,300,000 surplus in the 1933 budget. In closing his speech on national finances he sounded a strong note of buoyant confidence for the future by desiring to record his first conviction, "that we are not far removed from events which will herald the dawn of better days."

It was decided to cancel the May meeting and hold the next meeting on the third Monday in October.

A hearty vote of thanks to those taking part in the program was voiced by Mrs. J. Mills and seconded by Mrs. C. Wright.

The meeting closed by singing the National Anthem.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 75

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

With skilful fingers, Luvini untied the knots of the bonds that held Jane Clayton's wrists and ankles. The instant she felt the last thong that tied her fall away, she sprang for the entrance of the hut. Luvini seizing a weapon, pursued her.

The black had no intention of allowing this woman, who should be worth much in gold to him, to escape. He recaptured her without difficulty....Meanwhile, against the rear palisade Usula had put burning torches to the brush pile at several different places. Fires grew bright and spread rapidly.

The fires became a roaring conflagration. Soon the palisade crumbled, then the huts, until in a short time the village was a blazing inferno. Out through the one safe egress swarmed the blacks. Upon either side of the gateway the Waziri stood, but saw nothing of their mistress.

At last Usula gave her up. "She was never there," he concluded. But after questioning one of the west coast blacks, he learned for the first time how Luvini had captured Jane Clayton, bound her hand and foot and placed her in his hut. A great fear was in Usula's eyes.

ANNUAL BALE IS PUT ON DISPLAY

Interesting Event Takes Place in St. John's Parish House.

A very interesting event took place on Tuesday afternoon in St. John's Parish House, when the annual bale, work of the Afternoon Branch of the W.A., was put on display, prior to being packed and shipped away to the Indian school in the Far West.

Mrs. James Rigden is Dorcas convenor, and a great credit is due to her and her band of sewers for the splendid bale on show. It comprises: two complete outfits of clothing for two Indian girls, being educated in the Anglican missionary schools at Le Pas, together with quilts and other bed clothing necessary.

A large number of ladies attended the display and a sale of home cooking—to augment the Dorcas funds for the next bale, was carried on, with Mrs. Budd and Mrs. Graham in charge.

Tea was served, and the table looked charming with its sparkling silver and lovely embroidered cloth, with a large bowl of daffodils in the centre. Mrs. A. W. Turner, past president, poured tea, while the guests were received by Mrs. H. A. Morrow, president, and tea-room assistants were: Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Groombridge and Mrs. Knight; arrangements being in the hands of Mrs. D. Eldred, convenor of refreshments.

Obituary

MARY VERNA CONROY

Mary Verna Conroy of 547 Armour Road, age 19 years, passed away early Tuesday morning.

The late Miss Conroy was educated in Peterborough. She was a daughter of Mr. James Conroy and the late Mrs. Conroy, who predeceased her twelve years ago.

Miss Conroy, who was of a bright and cheery disposition, endeared herself to a host of friends in Peterborough, Oshawa and Toronto.

The funeral will leave the family residence, 547 Armour Road, at 8.40 on Thursday morning, and proceed to the Church of the Immaculate Conception where the funeral Mass will be sung, after which interment will be made in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Boys' Sunday Service Outstanding Success

It was a real boys' service at Mark Street Church last Sunday evening, when the church was packed with the largest crowd that has ever yet filled it, as the service was led by John Hunter, Premier of the Older Boys' Parliament, assisted by members of his cabinet. The special speakers for the occasion were Wilbur Howard, editor of The New Citizen, the parliamentary newspaper, an African boy being educated here, but who will return as a missionary to his own people, and at the present time is member for a Toronto riding. He spoke very fittingly on the challenge that Jesus brought to the world and especially for those who have accepted his cause. The other speaker was Peterborough's own premier, who gave a most inspirational address on the challenge to youth to-day as they go out to live life, in striving to live pure, speak true, right wrong, and follow Jesus.

The music under the direction of Mrs. Greenslade was very appropriate, consisting of a boys' choir, which sang, "A Volunteer for Jesus" as only a group of boys can sing such an anthem. The minister gave a vocal solo, using as his number the Tuxis Boys' Hymn, "Follow the Gleam." A stringed trio consisting of Messrs. Northrop, Gatfield and Thorkey, added very much to the musical part of the program; Mr. S. Northrop giving a violin solo number very appreciatingly. Mr. Henry Shepheard, Prateor of the Mark Street Tuxis group, led the service, while Mr. Earlstone Doe of Woodville, M.O.B.P., read the Scripture lesson. The church choir led in the evening vespers and various prayer responsises.

COOKING CLASS IS BIG SUCCESS

Conducted By Mrs. Barrett Through Canadan General Electric Company.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Mrs. Barrett, of Toronto, director of the cooking class being sponsored by the Canadian General Electric Company, became an immediate success when she was introduced yesterday afternoon in her improvised kitchen at Grant & Thorpe's store, 418 George Street. The ladies in attendance were personally invited guests, and every available seat was taken before the opening hour, when the first interesting lesson began. A feature that impressed the class was the absence of any fuss or flurry that might easily be expected on "moving day." Mrs. Barrett wore an immaculate uniform, and it was quite natural to watch for a speck from the egg-whites or some other ingredient but the vigilance was unrewarded, for Mrs. Barrett finished the lesson as spotless as she commenced it. Her kitchen is fully equipped with the latest cooking aids. She has a General Electric Hot-Point range, in which her baking is done in order to demonstrate its practical value for general purpose cooking. In addition there is a beautiful Kelvinator, a kitchen cabinet (loaned by McBride & Franks) and all the little accessories that make the kitchen an easy place to work in. Standard measuring cups and spoons are used for all recipes, with level measurement in all cases.

Mrs. Barrett demonstrated in her initial lesson the value of electrically cooked food. It saves time, food value, and is more economical than any other process. The chief object of the class, Mrs. Barrett explained, is to introduce the Hot-Point range with all these splendid features, and the finished product of to-day's demonstration, both in appearance and in taste, was given as "proof of the pudding," for Mrs. Barrett is not one of your theoretical cooks—she gives this proof by carrying out her recipes before your eyes, and then letting you taste the result.. The lamb chops, done to a turn, were luscious morsels, and the new little butter scotch curls and baking powder biscuits looked good enough to eat. In the making of these the canton covered rolling pin and baking board appealed to the eye, as well as being an improvement in the art of pastry making.

Cooking in Canapar paper will be demonstrated on Wednesday afternoon. This as described, is something of a miracle. Imagine wrapping up onions, carrots, potatoes, and meat into separate packages, and cooking in one receptacle without any odors penetrating the neighboring parcel. The best part is that these Canapar wrappers may be used indefinitely, may be washed with soap and water, and may eventually become dishcloths. As the lessons continue each day, including Saturday, Mrs. Barrett will explain every important feature of the Hot-Point range. With its automatic clock all worry is eliminated. During the first lesson, peach ice-cream, fruit nuts delicious were also demonstrated, and will be drawn by some lucky member of the class to-day. Five drawings will take place each day, which adds zest to the cookery lessons.

Mrs. Barrett used Swansdown and Quaker flours for her experiments, Royal Baking Powder, and Carnation Milk. She also advocates canned fruit now when the stock of home fruit is becoming depleted. Every woman present will never be satisfied until she is the happy possessor of a General Electric Hot-Point range.

ALL MAY COME FREELY AND SEEK FORGIVENESS

Harold P. Barker at Gospel Hall last night spoke on "The Unpardonable Sin" to a most delightful audience.

"In Old Testament times blasphemy had no forgiveness, but when the Lord Jesus came, He said all sins could be forgiven. What a wide sweep grace takes. The law said kill; grace says forgive."

Mr. Barker said no one could lay his sins on Jesus because God had done that at Calvary and sin has been judged. All may come freely to Jesus and by simple faith receive forgiveness full and free and eternal security through the mighty love of God. Mr. Barker pleaded with all to accept God's gift and then live a life of service, free from sin.

He was demonstrating a drive for a friend. In an unusually "hefty" swing his leg was twisted with sufficient violence to warrant hospital attention.

SHOT IS FATAL TO STOREKEEPER

Burglars Flee, Leaving Sick Wife of Aged Victim to Get Aid.

MOUNTIES ON JOB.

TETAGOUCHE, N.B., April 21 (C.P.). — Brutal murder disturbed the peace of this Gloucester County village last night, when George Smith, storekeeper, aged 85, was fatally shot by one of two robbers. Posses, including the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, were scouring the countryside today in search of the assailants.

The crime had an additional tragic result in the condition of Smith's aged wife, who had been confined to bed by illness for several weeks and was imprisoned in the building for a brief period before getting outside and summoning assistance. Co-operation of the North Shore residents in maintaining a lookout for any suspicious characters was requested by the R.C.M.P.

MOTHER AND SON DIE IN FLAMES AS HOME BURNS

Two Other Lads Spread Alarm After Leaping Through Window.

FATHER'S EFFORTS VAIN.

Boys Say Fire Followed Blast —Believe Mother Poured Oil in Stove.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 21 (C.P.). —Mrs. Pearl Craig, 28, and her youngest son, Harold, aged 6, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the family home in Sandwich West Township this morning.

Robert Craig, the husband and father, was scorched in a frantic effort he made to rescue the two from the building. Two sons, Johnny, 1, and Howard, 8, escaped from the building by breaking a window and climbing out. They gave the alarm to the father who was doing chores in the barn.

The cause of the fire is not definitely known, but according to the two boys, it followed an explosion, and it is believed Mrs. Craig endeavored to brighten up a coal fire in the cook stove by using kerosene.

Sandwich fire department was called to the scene to cool off the debris so that search could be made for the bodies, which were recovered some three hours after the fatality.

Fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to remove any of the contents of the house, although neighbors gathered quickly to assist in battling the flames.

Give Evidence at Hydro Probe

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in England and former Premier of Ontario shown in No. 1, and Peter White, K.C., in No. 2, as they appeared before Osgoode Hall on their way to the Hydro probe. Both gave evidence to-day before Mr. Justice Orde.

PROVINCIAL W.M.S. CLOSED YEAR WITH SURPLUS REPORT REVEALS

Provincial Head

MRS. W. A. McLENNAN

of Toronto, president of the Presbyterial W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church in Canada who has presided at the annual sessions being held in St. Paul's Church this week and who was elected as president this afternoon.

Presbyterials Contributed $131,427.79 During Past Year.

WANT $145,000 IN 1932.

A very interesting address on "Our Opportunity in the Home Land", by Mrs. D. T. L. McKerroll of Toronto, a member of the Council executive, and the presentation of major Provincial Reports, featured yesterday afternoon's session of the convention of the Ontario Provincial of the W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Two hundred and thirty-four delegates are registered.

The meeting, presided over by the president, Mrs. W. A. McLennan of Toronto, opened with a Scriptural and prayer service led by Mrs. J. A. Hilts of Toronto. A prayer dedicating the year's service was offered later by Mrs. J. Inkster of Toronto, president of the Toronto Presbyterial.

A pretty vocal duett was sung by Miss Helen Veitch and Miss Mignon Mayneord, with organ accompaniment by M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O.

Sitting in attentive interest on the platform with the ladies was the small page of the convention, Horace Steer, who took his duties so seriously that he passed the collection plate to the high officials seated beside him, much to the amusement of the audience.

The reports, which were adopted on motion of Mrs. H. R. Duff of Kingston, seconded by Miss E. L. Mowat of Kingston, opened with the report of the treasurer, Mrs. Chas. H. Thorburn of Ottawa, and of the Finance secretary, Miss S. E.

80 Radio Licenses Issued During Week

During the past week eighty radio licenses have been issued through the General Post Office here, according to Postmaster Charles Lacheur. In addition, several licenses have also been issued through the sub-postmaster V. Sullivan of East City and through the various radio dealers throughout the city.

Although the price of the license has been doubled to $2.00, the size of it has decreased to about half its previous proportions; nevertheless it permits of the operation of a radio receiving set from April 1st, 1932, to March 31, 1933, inclusive.

After the period of grace expires on June 1st, all persons operating radios without a license are subject to a call from a government inspector, and with subsequent prosecution. It is stated that the government intends to make a rigid check-up in this regard during the present fiscal year.

8-Hour Proposal Fails to Land Hubby

CHICAGO, April 21 (C.P.) — Young George Denby — there's a real man of determination for you.

Miss Elsie Anderson, 24, and attractive, took him for an eight-hour taxi ride last night to get him alone and propose, as she later told the Court.

Moonlight and all feminine wiles made an ideal setting for a leap year romance.

But for eight hours George said "No!"

Elsie's mother had to pay the taxicab bill, and had the couple hailed before Judge Allegretti.

"You may call it love," he told Elsie, "but I call it madness. Go over and have them take a look at your head at the Psychopathic Hospital."

SEEKS $25,000 IN DAMAGE SUIT

Reaboro Farmer and Owen Sound Teacher Face Damage Action.

MAN WAS KILLED.

A suit for $25,000 damages has been entered against Irene L. Ross, teacher of Owen Sound, and R. H. Reid, farmer of Reaboro, by Martha Moore, widow of Howard Moore, of Midway, Pa., who was killed in a motor accident at Reaboro on the evening of August 24, 1931.

Miss Ross was the driver of the motor car which collided with the motorcycle on which Moore and his companion, G. Griffith, of Cross Creek, Pa., were riding. The two Americans were tourists.

Reid is a defendant in the action, because Miss Ross stated that as she approached the motorcycle a young son of Reid was driving some cattle across the road. She said that she swerved to avoid the cattle which had walked in front of her car and crashed into the motorcycle.

Moore was killed instantly. He is survived by his wife, who is entering the suit, and five children. He was the proprietor of a dairy.

The action has been entered in the Supreme Court at Lindsay. McLaughlin, Fulton and Company, barristers of Lindsay, are acting for Mrs. Moore; Gordon and Elliott will appear for Reid; and Pheland and Richardson of Toronto are solicitors for Miss Ross. No date for its hearing has yet been fixed.

Al Capone is Best-Known American In Great Britain, English Vicar Says

LANCASTER, Pa., April 21 (C.P.). — Canon William Thompson Elliott, Vicar of Leeds, considers Al Capone the best-known American in England.

En route to the Rotary International Convention at Chicago, the clergyman stopped at the Lancaster Club's luncheon yesterday and to'd its members "the distortion of news received from the United States constitutes a real Point in relations between England and the United States.

"A man like Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, for instance, writes a thoroughly fine book and gets two inches in the London papers for a review.

"But alongside of it is this much (holding his arm at full length) about Capone, or the Lindbergh kidnapping case or some other phase of racheteering."

NOTED AVIATRIX, FLYING FRIEND HELD IN PRISON

Miami Police Investigate Shooting of Pilot at Couples' Home.

MAY NOT LIVE.

Mrs. Keith-Miller Claims Affair is Suicide Attempt.

MIAMI, April 21. (C.P.)—Haden Clarke, 31, aviation pilot and free lance writer, died to-day from a bullet would he received shortly before dawn at the house where he was living with Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British flyer, and Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller Australian aviatrix.

Mrs. Keith-Miller and Lancaster were held by county authorities for investigation. Each expressed belief Clarke attempted to take his own life. Similar belief was expressed by his mother, Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, instructor in journalism at the University of Miami.

In a statement to police, Mrs. Keith-Miller said she was awakened shortly before daylight by Lancaster, who told her Clarke had shot himself.

She said she went with Lancaster to the place where Clarke's body lay and saw a pistol under the body.

"I pulled it out about an inch by the barrel" she said.

Flier's Story

Lancaster, formerly a British flyer, said he had been talking to Clarke previously on the porch where they slept.

"We talked for about an hour of home troubles and several other things" he said. "We were in a cheerful mood and laughing.

He said he was awakened by a report sometime later, and heard Clarke "making a funny noise."

"I turned on the light. His face was covered with blood and he was lying on his side."

Lancaster said he ran to the room of Mrs. Keith-Miller, to whom he referred as "Chubby" and called her to get up.

Later he phoned for a physician and a lawyer, he said.

Clarke, whose mother lives here, was taken to a hospital. Attendants said he could not live.

Mrs. Keith-Miller gained public notice a year and a half ago when she started a flight from Havana to Miami, but made a forced landing on Andros Island in the Bahamas. She was located after several days' search.

Prior to that she and Lancaster made several important flights.

Seeking Finger Prints.

J. B. Roland, investigator for the State Attorney's office, said he had sent the pistol to the bureau of identification for finger print examination.

Left Note to Mother

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, mother of the injured man, said police showed her a typewritten note, addressed to Mrs. Keith-Miller which said:

"Cannot stand economic pressure. Will you please help sustain my mother in her deep grief."

She said she could not be sure that the signature was that of her son, but expressed the opinion he had shot himself. Police said they had no knowledge of a note written by Clarke.

His mother said he had been a

GASOLINE PRICE IS UP ONE CENT

Increase is General Throughout Ontario, Quebec and Prairies.

SECOND ADVANCE.

Gasoline at filling stations in Peterborough and district was being sold at one cent more per gallon to-day than yesterday. Not only in this district but throughout Ontario, Quebec and the Prairie Provinces, did the one cent increase in all gasoline prices take effect to-day. This is the second cent advance in prices within the past two weeks, the other being caused by the increased Provincial tax on gasoline.

The jump to-day was declared by oil company officials to be due to soaring prices of crude oil and also by adverse exchange rates. This was the explanation contained in an announcement issued yesterday by the Imperial Oil Company Limited, which appeared to speak for all companies engaged in retail gasoline distribution.

$125,000 Payment Is Introduced By Mr. Justice Orde

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Former Premier of Ontario, Declares He Knows Nothing About the $125,000 Payment to John Aird, Jr.

PURCHASE OF POWER FROM THE BEAUHARNOIS HANDLED ENTIRELY BY HYDRO COMMISSION

Repeats Statement Made Before Senate Committee in Regard to Statement Made By Senator Haydon and Gives Absolute Denial of Holding Up Contract.

TORONTO, April 21.—(CP)—The reported payment of $125,000 to John Aird Jr., by the Beauharnois Power Corporation was introduced unexpectedly into the Hydro enquiry proceedings today when former Premier G. Howard Ferguson, was on the stand. The matter was raised by Mr. Justice Orde, the commissioner himself. Mr. Ferguson was being examined about the Madawaska deal, in connection with which Mr. Aird was paid $50,000 by the Hydro Commission, one of the three matters under enquiry.

Asked if he knew about the reported $125,000 payment Mr. Ferguson replied: "Nothing whatever, not even as street gossip until I saw it in the press reports of the Commons committee enquiry.

"Did you have anything to do with the contract which was entered into purchase power from the Beauharnois?" asked His Lordship.

"That matter was handled by the Hydro Power Commission entirely," replied the ex-premier. "Our government of course had to confer with the Quebec government on the question of exporting power." Mr. Ferguson added that because of Quebec's well known policy not to export power this matter was the subject of a conference at Montreal, where the difficulty was adjusted.

"One must take notice of press reports," continued His Lordship "and therefore I would like to ask you about a statement that Senator Haydon was reported to have made that you were holding up the Beauharnois Power contract with the Hydro pending the payment of a sum of money to certain persons."

"I can only repeat what I said before the Senate committee," replied Mr. Ferguson. "No such conversation took place between Mr. Sweezey (then President of Beauharnois) and myself, and I had no knowledge whatever of any $125,000 payment or any other sum."

Proceeding Mr. Ferguson said he had never met R. O. Sweezey except twice. On the first occasion he had discussed with him the possibility that the Ontario commission might find it necessary in the near future to go outside the province for power and the second occasion, was the Montreal conference which was attended by Mr .Sweezey as well as by representatives of the two governments. The power export issue was the only matter taken up at this conference, said Mr. Ferguson.

Objects to $125,000 Question

Arthur G. Slaght, K.C., Independent counsel, objected to the $125,000 matter being taken up in this unexpected manner. His understanding was that the $50,000 payment would be dealt with first.

Mr. Justice Orde said something about Mr. Ferguson possibly not being able to give evidence later but

GUST OF WRATH CLOSES DEFENSE IN MURDER CASE

Mrs. Massie Climaxes Story by Ripping Up Prosecution Document.

COURT APPLAUDS.

Darrow "Pretty Well Satisfied" Prepares Summary for Jury.

(By William H. Ewing)

HONOLULU, April 21 (A.P.) — Having been turned momentarily into a spectacle of wrath by the witness stand outburst of Mrs. Thalia Massie, the trial of four persons accused of lynching Joseph Kahahawaai reached the beginning of its epilogue to-day.

The white spark of fury which flashed first from the witness and then in turn from judge and prosecutor yesterday not only signalized the end of Mrs. Massie's tear-drenched story, but also marked the finish of defence testimony designed to clear her husband and three other persons of a second degree murder charge.

A paper, supposedly containing a written admission by Mrs. Massie of a rift between herself and her husband, provided the fuel for the mental conflagration.

Under cross examination Mrs. Massie had admitted having taken a psychopathic examination at the University of Hawaii last summer, a few months before she was attacked by five men, of whom Kahahawai allegedly was one.

Cause of the Trouble

Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley handed Mrs. Massie a paper, presumably containing her answers in the examination. The prosecutor asked if it was in her handwriting.

"This is a confidential paper between a physician and his patient. Where did you get it?" Mrs. Massie demanded, stiffening in her seat and turning her blazing eyes on Kelley.

"I am asking questions, not answering them" said Kelley.

"I refuse to say whether I wrote it!" Mrs. Massie stormed and tore the paper to bits. A wave of applause came from the audience.

His voice shaking with anger, Judge Charles S. Davis lectured the spectators for the demonstration. As Mrs. Massie left the stand the prosecutor arose and said:

"Thank you, Mrs. Massie. At last you've shown yourself in your true colors."

Kelley's demeanor reflected his wrath. Before Mrs. Massie left the chair he asked:

"Are you sure that man is a doctor?"

"Yes. Positive."

JOBLESS PARADE

OSHAWA—A parade, featured by banner bearing legends such as "We want bread and butter on our table, not promises." "No deportation of any citizen," and "We won't stand for a city food store,' was staged by hundreds of unemployed here today.

Prior to the parade, a deputation waited upon Thomas Hawkes, mayor, voicing vigorous protest against the city council to establish a relief store which will supply food and other supplies to needy families.

WORST STORM FOR 20 YEARS HITS ALBERTA

Telegraph Lines Go Down — Drifts Block Highways Four Feet Deep.

SWEEPING EAST.

Blizzard Strikes Suddenly After Warm Spell—Fear for Range Cattle.

CALGARY, April 21. — Spreading out over the whole province with its biting snow and wind of cyclonic proportions, Alberta's worst blizzard in 20 years cut loose yesterday and maintained its fury in only slightly diminished proportions today. Driving out of the northwest sections, where heavy snowfall and rain occurred, the storm lashed through the brush country of the foothills and in an eastwardly direction toward Saskatchewan where dust storms prevailed the previous 24 hours.

Telephone and telegraph poles were snapped at several points and wires scattered on the ground. Drifts of snow piled three and four feet high on highways drove traffic and cattle to cover. Fear prevailed for hundreds of heads of livestock that were turned loose on the open range after several days of bright sunny weather. Throughout the whole southwestern and southern sections where ranching is predominant the storm spread, rain and sleet.

'Phone Lines Down

Telephone communication was broken by loss of about 50 poles around Irricana and Strathmore, while Canadian National Telegraph lines were broken by poles breaking around Rochford. The Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company lost poles in northern parts of the province as well as in the Gleichen district in the southeast.

Traffic, both auto and street car, was brought to a halt in Calgary before midnight and through snow plows and sweepers of the street railway were kept working the whole night to re-establish service This morning automobiles were stranded at many points in this city.

Big Motor Parade Is Being Planned

The automobile dealers at a meeting on Tuesday completed final arrangements for a monster motor parade of 1932 models passenger automobiles and trucks to be held on Saturday afternoon, April 30, at 2.30 o'clock, starting from Confederation Square.

All the dealers will co-operate in making this a most successful event. The week following there will be a motor show in each of the individual sales rooms where citizens of the city and district may see the very latest in cars of every description, and it is a well known fact that never since the invention of the automombile has there been such improvements, conveniences and values in cars as are to be found this year.

WORK FOR CARPENTERS AROUND THE HOMES

Spring work around the home opens up many suggestions for improvements which collectively would afford considerable employment.

The front and rear lawn, even the garden invite the decorative effect of the lattice fence that is built as a background for a border of flowers. It may be only a strip across part of the property.

Perhaps it is a pergola, a garden seat or other graceful adornment that adds beauty and enhances the intimate domestic atmosphere of an outdoor spot which the family will use through the long days and evenings of summer.

These fences and other garden details can be built in many attractive designs and at small cost. Any carpenter will be glad to tell you how many 2 x 4 inch posts, how much 1 x 6 inch base boards and 1 x 2 inch and 1 x 4 inch strips will be needed for such a job.

And it should make a few days work. That will be your contribution of employment. An honest, helpful job for some man.

If you have wanted a pergola or garden seat, let some carpenter build it now. Plant roses to climb over it, and if you don't know roses, ask some one who does.

How about flower boxes for the verandah and windows?

Perhaps the verandah posts are shaky or the floor needs new planking.

The citizen who starts work of this kind may encourage his neighbour to do likewise. And it will all help in the community effort to "give-a-man-a-job."

WINDSOR BOYS JUMP OFF RAFT DROWN IN RIVER

Lad Sinks in Trying for Shore as Swift Waters Loom Up.

PAL GOES TO AID.

Three Companions Manoeuvre Logs to Safety But Help is Too Late.

WINDSOR, April 21.—Two Windsor schoolboys were drowned at 7 o'clock last night while playing on a raft in the Detroit River, opposite Cadwell's gravel dock at the foot of Church Street. Three other boys on the same raft survived the tragedy by paddling their frail craft to the shore.

The body of one of the victims, Jack Reverley, 9 years old, of the Alvin Apartments, West Chatham Street, was recovered at 9 o'clock by police twenty feet from the place where he had drowned in thirty-five feet of water. The body of the other boy, James Brignall, 11, of 423 Albert Street, has not been found.

The survivors, Theodore McGinnis, 11, of 315 Windsor Avenue, and his companion, Gale Hastings, 9, of 732 Assumption Street, told police that Jack drowned trying to save his playmate, "Jimmie."

Lad Became Scared.

"Our raft was drifting out into the river," said Theodore. "Jimmie got scared, and he dived off, trying to swim to shore, although I don't believe he could swim. Jack then reached out his hand to Jimmie trying to pull him back on the raft, when he slipped, and both sank together.

"We had all we could do to paddle the raft to shore, and didn't think how serious it was until we got our raft on shore."

The boys then notified a citizen near the dock, and he called police. Immediately after getting the call, Sergeant Bert Hawksworth and a squad from the Windsor Police Department organized a dragging crew and started searching for the bodies.

YOUNG MOSLEM FOILS MARRIAGE OF HIS FATHER

Threatens to Cut Off Priest's Beard if He Performs Ceremony.

BRIDE, ENGLISHWOMAN.

Had Divorced Irish Policeman, Renounced Faith to Wed Islam Leader.

BOMBAY, April 21.—(AP)— The marriage of Shaukart Ali, 60 year old Mohammedan leader and Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan, divorced wife of an Irish police officer, was stopped at the last minute under dramatic circumstances today when Shaukart's son, Zahid Ahmed, threatened to cut off the priest's beard with a knife.

Shaukart Ali and his beautiful intended bride, who is a 25-year-old Englishwoman, were preparing to go to the altar when the Mohammedan priest refused to perform the ceremony, alleging that it was not in conformity with Islamic law.

Hardly had this episode occurred when Shaukart's son appeared with a knife and made his threat to cut off the priest's beard if he performed the ceremony. This would have been the greatest insult possible to any Mohammedan.

Trouble Over Divorce

Mrs. Ryan had renounced Christianity and embraced Islam in order to marry Shaukart, but Mohammedan clergy raised difficulties in connection with her divorce.

The whole Mohammedan community was thrown into consternation by today's events, but Shaukart, who is the best known Moslem leader in India, insisted he would marry the girl even if the authorities forced him to leave India.

"I will live in a foreign land," but I won't renounce my love for the girl," declared the colossus-like Shaukart who weighs over 300 pounds, while his intended English bride laid her head on his shoulder.

URGES CONTROL BE CENTRALIZED FOR C.P. AND C.N.

Hackett Sees Saving of $80,000,000 Yearly if Plan Adopted.

SUGGESTS SPECIAL TAX.

Senate Continues Study of Plan for Dominion Control of Radium.

OTTAWA, April 21 (C.P.)—Centralized control of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways as a temporary solution to "the problem surpassing all others in perplexity and peril." was urged in the House of Commons yesterday by John Hackett, Cons., Stanstead. Elimination of waste and duplication, possible only under pooled control, would save the two roads about $80,000,000 a year.

Canada's two transcontinental roads must remain separate entities, said Mr. Hackett. But as a temporary and conservatory measure, until a permanent solution to the railway problem was evolved, a central board of control should operate the two system as one. Duplicating freight and passenger services might be eliminated, overhead charges reduced and a general saving of 25 per cent on operating costs made.

C. N. Stamp Tax

As an object lesson to Canadians and to impress upon them the vast sums of money that must be raised every year for the Government-operated system, Mr. Hackett suggested a special "Canadian National Stamp Tax". It would be payable on every retail purchase except food and might be set at one-half of one per cent. The financial doom of Canada was conceded, he said, if the practice continued of adding millions of dollars to the national debt each year.

While the House proceeded with the budget debate, the senate continued with Senator A. D. McRae's proposal for Dominion control of radium production and distribution. Senator F. L. Schaffner suggested the establishment of cancer clinics with both Dominion and Provincial Governments cooperating. This would combine government control of radium and a system of expert treatment of cancer.

The Dominion may be trusted to safeguard Canadian rights in connection with the St. Lawrence waterways development, said Hon. Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine, speaking in the budget debate. A tendency existed in some quarters, he said, to turn the scheme into a political football and "strange voices and strange arguments are heard, particularly in Quebec."

Always on Guard

"The government," proceeded the marine minister, "never will relax its vigilence over the safeguarding of Canadian rights and interests. No matter whether those interests may be found in Quebec, Ontario, Montreal or the head of the lakes."

Percy C. Davies, who was elected as a Conservative in the Athabaska, Alta., by election, was introduced to the house by Premier R. B. Bennett and Hon. Hugh Guthrie Minister of Justice. He took his seat as the youngest member of the house.

Others taking part in the budget debate were Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Lib., St. James and G. G. Coote, U.F.A., MacLeod.

COUNTY ROADS IN FAIR SHAPE

Small Amount of Labor and Expense Will Condition Roads.

GRADERS ARE BUSY.

County Road Superintendent A. E. Chambers who has recently undertaken an inspection of most of the roads under his jurisdiction, states that generally speaking the county roads are in a satisfactory condition and a small amount of labour and expense will put them all in excellent condition.

Sections of the Buckhorn road, were found by the superintendent to be in poor shape but he has since completed gravelling and grading where needed and the road is now in comparatively good condition.

At the present time grading and resurfacing is also being undertaken out on the flat road in Otonabee Township, while over the entire county roads system graders are now working daily.

TILLEY FILES LOST LETTERS OWNED BY AIRD

Documents Amplify White's Testimony Given on Madawaska Deal.

O'BRIEN TESTIFIES.

Reviews Early Negotiations to Secure Contract From Hydro.

TORONTO, April 21 (C.P.). — Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canada's High Commissioner to London, and former Premier of Ontario, will be on the witness stand to-day to give evidence before the Orde Commission pertaining to the payment of $50,000 to John Aird, Jr., by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission.

Out of the "garbage" came the missing Aird file yesterday to feature the closing minutes of Mr. Justice Orde's second day of Royal Commission inquiry into the Hydro-Madawaska matter, and to illustrate, to some extent, the sworn story of Peter White, K.C., the active "P.W." of the Kerry letters, as to how and when he became allied with the Aird-Millard interests in their attempted promotion of a Madawaska development with subsequent sale of power to the Hydro Commission.

Re-appearance of this file from the ash can, where its owner said it had been dumped, was quietly effected, and caused little tongue-wagging in comparison with the buzz of wonder and speculation that course throughout the Province when word flashed from the opening-day proceedings of the original Middleton inquiry that they were "hopelessly lost."

Produced By Mr. Tilley

Announcement of their recovery was issued by W. N. Tilley, K.C., Commission Counsel, with the assurance that more would be heard about them later. Neither G. M. Huycke, counsel to John Aird Jr., who turned them over to Mr. Tilley "some time ago, a few hours after they came into my possession," nor Mr. Tilley would discuss the situation following adjournment of the sitting.

"I want to announce," declared Mr. Tilley, "that I intend to submit this file of papers. They were known more familiarly as the 'Aird file,' and it might be advisable to refer to them that way from now on."

Letter Entered as Evidence

Everywhere the inquiring press pricked up its ears, but there was no comment as to the significance of the recovered documents until a point in the examination of Mr White was reached where Commission Counsel proposed to enter from

EXCHANGE PROBE NEARS CLIMAX

Largest of Short Sellers Summoned—Names to be Revealed.

RECORDS TO BE EXPOSED.

WASHINGTON, April 21. (C.P.) Built up to a swift climax by the sudden summoning of a score of brokers, the U.S. Senate's stock market investigation re-opened today in an atmosphere charged with expectancy, and with the prospect that names of many big short sellers would be published at last.

Richard Whitney, president of the Exchange, was recalled once more to testify but interest centred on the prominent New York and Chicago brokers subpoenaed before the committee with the books and records of their short accounts. They were to testify after him.

Committee agents had separated from the list of 24,000 short sales submitted by Whitney, 350 of the larger short accounts, involving 2,500 shares or more. From this list of big traders, they selected the names of the brokers who were subpoenaed yesterday in a sudden raid on Wall Street.

Only 350 Called

Though the entire list of short traders has been withheld, William A. Gray, committee counsel, said the 350 names would be made public to-day, if Chairman Norbeck consented. The list is a full record of short accounts on the books of the exchange members at the close of business April 8. It gives the names of the brokers and the clients, for whom the accounts are maintained.

Among the brokers subpoenaed were: White, Weld and Co.; Hornblower and Weeks; Faroll Bros., Thomson and McKinnon; L. Kaiser and Co. Stein, Alstrin and Co.; W E Hutton and Co.; H. Content and Co., Ettinger and Brand, and Laird, Bissell and Meeds.

Harry Content, of H. Content and Co., who has been active in the market for years and whose name has been connected with big market operations, was personally subpoenaed, with the books of his firm. The other subpoenaees were issued against the firms and their records.

EUROPEAN TRIO MEET STIMSON

Sir George Perley Backs Simon's Plan for Qualitative Disarmament.

AID WORLD CONFIDENCE.

GENEVA, April 21. —(AP)— The heads of the governments of the three great European powers, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, Premier Andre Tardieu of France, and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, met with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson today in a private conference at Mr. Stimson's villa a mile outside Geneva.

Secretary of State Stimson called for Mr. MacDonald at the latter's hotel shortly after he and Premier Tardieu arrived on the train from Paris.

Immediately after the British and French premier arrived a bustle of preparation began for the conferences of the officials of the four powers.

In the meantime the disarmament conference resumed its debate on the resolution for "qualitative" disarmament presented yesterday by Sir John Simon, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

Sir George Perley, head of the Canadian delegation, supported the Simon resolution warmly, declaring that the abolition of offensive weapons would increase confidence throughout the world, which would be the best guarantee of peace.

BEST GRADE MILK FOR CHEESE MAKING IS NECESSARY STATES GOVERNMENT DAIRY DIRECTOR

Cheesemakers Hold Association Meeting at Campbellford on Wednesday.

G. H. BARR IS SPEAKER.

Cleanliness in Cans and Tanks Aso Stressed—Different Flavors.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — "We have been trained all wrong. The patrons have got it into their heads that any kind of milk is good enough for the cheese factory, and only the city trade demands the best," declared George H. Barr, Director of Dairying in the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, speaking yesterday at the organization meeting of the Campbellford Cheesemakers' Association. Mr. Barr put up a strong plea for the strictest cleanliness in the handling of milk and the proper cleaning of milk utensils and urged the installation of steaming systems at the cheese factories.

"There was one thing that should be kept in mind," the speaker said, "and that was to profit by last year's mistakes. And one of these has been unnecessary losses in the cheese business. He estimated roughly that 18 million pounds more butter had been made in 1931 over the previous year, this milk having been diverted from the cheese industry. This meant a loss of two cents on the pound to the producer, which approximately meant a loss in cash of $208 000. In Ontario last year 76,436,800 pounds of butter over the previous year had been made, about 1-3 of which had been second grade. Every pound of milk of this had meant a loss to the producer of about two and a half cents or approximately $551,520. And we make finer cheese than butter in Ontario," he declared.

And in the cheese trade Mr. Barr stated that last year there had been 44,302 boxes of second grade cheese which meant a loss to the producer of about $44 302, figuring at a cent a pound between grades.

Lost Through Carelessness.

"We lost this in the Province through carelessness and indifference, yet we talk of hard times," said the speaker. One of the causes of this loss was a cheese defect known as "not clean flavor," and this, he stated, was nothing more than dirt. This defect had been noted in graders' reports last year 1,080 times, which showed the seriousness of the situation. Slightly rancid flavors had been mentioned 793 times in reports for the same season.

For the past 30 years Mr. Barr stated that he had urged the need of a bacterioligist to look over the cheese situation in the Province, and last year Donald Shutt had been given the post. "And one thing he got," said the speaker, "he found that he could select milk at the stands and tell if the right or wrong bugs were in it." The result had been that he could tell that the wrong milk came from dirty and rusty cans. And 2,500 of these cans had been examined. The process of elimination had been tried through the steaming system, and this had proved satisfactory.

It had revealed, however, that many cans are not properly made or the seams sealed up. "Mr. Shutt has proven to us that when the cans are in good shape we get good cheese," he said. Out of 8 factories with 100 per cent. making, 77 per cent. of the milk had been first grade, while out of another batch of 22 factories with pickouts only 15 per cent. had registered first grades. "It shows that the patrons of this country have some responsibility in the making of first grade cheese," Mr. Barr stated. "It is up to us all to clean the can situation up and to have the cans properly soldered and kept clean and eliminate rancid flavors," he said.

Fruity flavors, Mr. Barr stated, were due to decayed whey, and urged that the makers, at the first sign of this, should clean out all their pipes, tanks and ejectors. The matter of acidity was a maker's defect, and was caused by the taking in of over-ripe milk and the using of too much starter. This should be cleaned up at once, he declared.

Refuse To Take Milk.

It was up to the makers to refuse to take in the wrong kind of milk, the speaker said. Mechanical defects would have to be cut out, for this was not the fault of the patron. The first thing the maker must do was to be careful of rancid flavors and then to be more careful in the method of making cheese. This year he said the Department was going to score the work on special cards and to get a certificate in 1933; a maker would not only have to get 93 per cent. first grades but would have to register a score on the card of 93. In the case of a second-class certificate the same system would apply, only with an 88 per cent. mark. And then, the man who keeps himself and his factory clean this year would get credit for it, no matter what condition the building was in. It had to be clean.

Speaking on the position of the patrons, Mr. Barr said that a new regulation would soon be in force that any patron who had unclean milking machines, utensils or an unsanitary farm, will be warned by the inspector to alter it, 30 days being allowed for this. In default a letter will be written him from the Minister, warning him that no milk will be allowed to leave the farm until the condition is improved to the satisfaction of the inspector.

Trade Competition.

The greatest competitor Canadian cheese had on the Old Country market was the New Zealand trade, Mr. Barr said, and at the present time Canadian cheese interests could not afford to step back with the New Zealand trade gradually creeping up to us. The objective this year, he said, was 97 per cent. first grades.

The president, W. V. Drewry, of Warkworth, spoke of the need for a closer co-operation between the makers and patrons, pointing out that much had been accomplished last year through the factory meetings, and saying that this season more meetings than last would be held at factories. Prospects for the cheese industry this year he thought to be good.

J. A. Murray, group instructor, stressed the need of the proper sterilization of all utensils, and urged that steaming systems, as a means of elimination of bad flavors, be installed at all factories. Although the Campbellford group was down last year on percentage it had stood sixth in average score, which he thought to be a very creditable showing.

TILLEY FILES

the file as evidence a letter written by Mr. White to John Aird Jr., from Petawawa, and where Mr. White ejaculated:

"Perhaps that's the mystery letter."

Mr. Tilley dryly observed that from its appearance—the manner in which it had been tagged—it seemed to have been "singled out for some special recognition"—possibly photostatic purposes.

"I don't know," smiled Mr. White from the witness-box, "whether that is the one for which I was invited to pay money."

Offers To Sell Reported.

In view of widely-circulated claims that newspapers and individuals have been approached, over a period of the last six weeks by unknown persons, with offers to sell purported copies of the missing documents, the press's heart beat a bit faster at P. W.'s admission, but nothing further came of the incident.

Testifying emphatically that his sole mission in approaching Premier Ferguson for Aird-Millard had been to get the Government's authority for expropriation and flooding activities on the Madawaska in the event of their completing a contract with Hydro, and that Mr. Ferguson had told him that any question of a contract had to be taken up with the Hydro Commission, and the Hydro Commission only. Mr. White finished a day of lengthy evidence that was begun and given over almost entirely to J. Ambrose O'Brien, head of the O'Brien interests which ultimately sold the Madawaska power sites to Hydro for $1,800,000.

Information Brought Out

Out of the O'Brien story—a story part testimony and part reading of letters that had passed between him and John Aird Jr. over the course of their dealings—came the following information:

1. That Sir John Aird went to Ottawa to see him and plead patience at a time when the O'Brien interests were losing patience with the seeming failure of young Aird to make any headway in his dickering with Hydro.

2. That C. Alfred Maguire, now Vice-Chairman of the Hydro Comcission, was "exceptionally in favor of" the Aird-Millard project and "doing everything possible to hurry matters up."

3. That the understanding of the O'Brien interests with Hydro was that Hydro was "to take care of John Aird Jr." in the event of Hydro's purchase of the Madawaska propertes," and that such an understanding had obtained "all the way through."

GUST OF WRATH

left the stand and sat by her husband and her mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, another of the accused. With Massie's arms around her she sobbed:

"They are trying to say I don't love you. Everybody knows I love you!"

Tells Of Attack

Under the gentle questioning of Clarence Darrow, chief of defence counsel, Mrs. Massie had testified to many details of the attack and subsequent events bearing on the asserted insanity of Massie at the time he faced Kahahawai with drawn pistol and supposedly heard the native admit taking part in the attack.

Mrs. Massie had acknowledged hearing rumors about herself and husband after a jury had disagreed as to the guilt of the five men she had accused. She said she had heard reports that a naval officer was her attacker; that Massie was getting a divorce, and that it was Massie instead of Kahahawai who had broken her jaw.

With Mrs. Massie's story ending the defense's case, the prosecution's rebuttal was in order today. Kelley announced Dr. Paul Bowers, Los Angeles alienist, would arrive during the day to testify for the prosecution regarding the insanity plea in Massie's behalf. He declined to say when Dr. Bowers would take the stand, but expressed the belief the trial would end tomorrow.

"We are through," Darrow said last night with respect to the defense's side of the case.

"I'm pretty well satisfied," he added with a tired smile. Already the defense has begun preparing its summary to the jury.

Afternoon Tea Is Delightful Event

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The afternoon tea sponsored by the Willing Workers of Christ Church, Campbellford, and held on Tuesday afternoon at the Clifton Tea Rooms, proved a great success. A large number attended to spend a social hour, partake of delightful refreshments, and be entertained by a delightful program. A goodly sum was realized from the proceeds.

The guests were received by Mrs. Fred Linton, president of the organization, and Mrs. C. W. Smith, hostess. The program included: Recitation by Miss Lilian Hay, with piano accompaniment; vocal solo, Master Helen McDonald; reading, Master Donald Lloyd; vocal solo, Miss H. Bonnycastle; violin and piano duet, Paul and Frank O'Sullivan; Miss G. Maynard accompanied the artists.

Loussiemouth, Scotland, has rented its Town Hall, used during the week as a motion-picture theatre, to the United Freed Church for services every Sunday.

FINE SOCIAL GIVEN BY MISSION CIRCLE

St. Andrew's Organization at Campbellford Presents Delightful Program.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A very successful entertainment was staged on Tuesday evening in the hall of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church by the Young Ladies' Mission Circle. The hall was filled to capacity and heartily applauded the fine program that was given. The Rev. J. C. Robinson was the chairman for the evening.

The program included: "O Canada," the audience; instrumental, violin and piano, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Booth; vocal solo, Albert Gifford; recitation, J. D. McEachern; vocal solo, Elmer Jordan; "Aunt Het," Mrs. Roy McGee; vocal duet, Miss Hazel Atkinson and John Storie; recitation, Miss Lillian Hay; vocal solo, Mrs. F. DeCarrol; instrumental, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Booth.

The accompanists for the evening were Mrs. C. J. Windrim, Mrs. C. J. Robinson and Mrs. John Storie. Refreshments were served by the girls of the Mission Circle.

LAWS IS GIVEN 6 MONTHS TERM

Sentenced in Campbellford Court for Abduction of 15 Year Od Girl.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — Pleading not guilty to a charge of unlawfully taking from her legal guardians, a 15-year-old girl without their consent, Jack Laws, 25, of Campbellford appeared before Magistrate G. A. Payne in Campbellford Police Court yesterday afternoon and was sentenced to a term of six months in Cobourg goal. The charge was laid under Section 315 of the Criminal Code, Col. F. G. Boggs, K.C., Crown Attorney, handling the prosecution. N. Alex MacColl represented the defendant. The case was heard in camera on the order of the magistrate.

The warrant for the arrest of Laws was issued by Chief G. C. Bromley of Campbellford on complaint of the girl's parents when it was found she was missing. Laws was located by Toronto police in that city and brought to Campbellford for trial, coming before Magistrate Payne on April 16, when the case was adjourned until yesterday, bail being set at $3,200. The date for the act was set as April 11, Laws being apprehended by Toronto police on April 14.

WALTER HUMPHRIES OF ASPHODEL SUFFERS $10000 PROPERTY LOSS

Residence and Outbuildings Destroyed by Fire in Early Hours This Morning.

Several Fires in District.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WESTWOOD, April 21. — Walter Humphries of Asphodel township suffered $10,000 loss from fire shortly after midnight this morning when his house, and adjoining woodshed and garage was totally destroyed. It is believed that the blaze started in the summer kitchen where the family had been boiling sap during the day. The occupants escaped from the residence uninjured but the furnishings including personal clothing was lost. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

GARAGE DESTROYED

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21.— A grass fire which got out of control destroyed the garage of Ernest Collard of Campbellford and a sedan car which was housed in it late yesterday afternoon. The loss is estimated at over $600. The fire was first noticed by Mr. Collard who was in his house, which is situated on the hill side. The local fire brigade immediately responded to the alarm and augmented by a number of citizens made every effort to extinguish the blaze but failed. They were unable to move the car from the garage, the brakes locking.

PROPERTY DAMAGE

(Examiner Correspondence)

HASTINGS, April 21.—Much excitement was caused in the village on Tuesday evening when it was learned that Ralph McConnell's home was on fire.

The house rented by Mr. McConnell formerly belong to Mrs. Fred Hubbs for years. Mrs. Hubbs vacated it last spring before her departure to Toronto to reside.

Although badly damaged on the east side, and roof, the rest of the house was saved besides all the furniture which was removed. The villagers and fire brigade gave assistance as soon as the alarm was given.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

COBOURG, April 21.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morton, Burnham Road, was destroyed by fire early yesterday, the occupants and their six children escaping in their nightclothes a few moments before the roof fell in. The damage is estimated at $8,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire was discovered by the eldest daughter, Muriel, who heard a noise in the kitchen and aroused her father. Virtually nothing was saved. The Cobourg firemen were quickly on the spot, but could do nothing to save the house. They did succeed in keeping the flames from reaching the big barns near the residence. The house was of brick and had been built fifty-six years ago.

A COMMUNITY GARDEN.

The city of Stratford is planning a comprehensive community relief garden scheme that sounds decidedly promising and that might well be investigated by other Ontario municipalities.

The project includes the cultivating of a large tract of land and planting it in potatoes, which in the fall will be bagged and distributed later for relief purposes.

The work in this community garden will be done by men who are receiving relief from the municipal authorities, so that the plan would not only ensure a large supply of potatoes for distribution next winter, but what is more important, would provide relief recipients with an opportunity to earn the assistance they are given.

Many men who have been compelled by circumstances beyond their control to seek aid would undoubtedly like to feel that they are doing some useful work in return for the relief secured, and the community garden plan would undoubtedly be welcomed by them.

A NEW RELIEF PLAN.

There will be considerable interest in the reaction shown to the announcement that highway camps between North Bay and Pembroke are to remain open as a straight relief proposition, the man now employed there being given the chance to remain on the job for their board and $5 a month wages.

Those who do not accept will, of course, be allowed to leave, and it remains to be seen whether the new offer will succeed in inducing a worth-while proportion of the men to remain in camp.

If the choice is between a job under comfortable living and working conditions and good meals and drifting round the country like so many men are doing at present, it may be that many of the workers will decide that it would be wisdom to remain at work even at a nominal wage.

More probably, however, the majority will prefer to take a chance on securing employment elsewhere than to do highway construction work for their board and $5 a month.

It is entirely up to the men themselves.

Obviously the Government could not continue the arrangements under which the camps have been operated all winter, but it has decided to give the workers this option, and it will be interesting to note what comes of it.

MUNICIPAL INDEBTEDNESS.

Most interesting information showing the financial indebtedness of Canadian municipalities is supplied in the annual bulletin of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics dealing with the bonded indebtedness of urban and rural municipalities.

The figures are for 1930 and show a total of 4,207 municipalities throughout the Dominion, the bulletin pointing out that municipal governments possess borrowing powers which are more or less under the restriction of their respective provincial governments.

Like other governing bodies, says the report, they have used their powers in this connection somewhat freely, and owing to the economic stress of the present day, the statistics will be of interest.

One table in the report is especially worthy of note as it shows comparatively the increase in indebtedness from 1919 to 1930.

Similar to the case of the Federal and Provincial Governments, there has been a popular demand in the later years for improvements of public services, such as highways and other public works, and educational, charitable and social institutions, all of which involved heavy expenditures.

The figures show this, and also show that wages and the cost of materials following the war period were greatly increased, and as municipal revenue would not meet the charges of these new and improved services, debenture issues were generously resorted to.

As a result the total bonded indebtedness of Canadian municipalities increased from $701,118,230 in 1919 to $1,209,645,181 in 1930, while the indebtedness of Ontario municipalities jumped during the same period from $243,226,877 to $485,280,182.

A DISTURBING RECORD.

The monthly accident statistics issued by the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways do not furnish any reason for thinking that Ontario motorists are developing a safety consciousness.

As a matter of fact the figures are discouraging.

The latest report, covering March, shows a total of 513 accidents during that month, an increase of 35 per cent. over the same month a year ago.

And March of this year was the stormiest and coldest of the winter, with motor traffic correspondingly lessened, and a falling off instead of a substantial increase might well have been expected.

A record of 29 people killed, 383 injured and property damage of $62,931, done in a month in which motoring was materially lessened because of weather conditions, is something that should give thoughtful persons some concern.

Pedestrians as usual suffered heavily—in fact, collisions with pedestrians comprised 28.1 per cent. of all accidents reported during the month and resulted in 48.3 per cent. of the fatalities.

As has been the case all winter, the majority of accidents occurred in cities and towns, and urban street intersections comprised the location of a large proportion of these mishaps.

Of the 14 pedestrians killed during the month seven were children and four were over 65 years of age; in other words, the victims were largely those too young or too old to be alert and active enough to save themselves from the motor menace.

Drivers with a sense of their responsibilities should realize the significance of these figures.

A comparison of the total accidents for the first three months of 1932 as compared with the same period last year also offers food for thought.

The first quarter of this year saw 1,703 accidents, as against 1,253 in January, February and March of 1931, while there were 90 people killed and 1,361 injured, as against 77 killed and 971 injured in the corresponding period of last year.

An increase of 36 per cent. in serious accidents, 14 per cent. in fatalities and 25 per cent. in the number of persons injured is certainly nothing about which to boast.

ON TAXING THE OTHER FELLOW.

It is with taxation, apparently, as with economy. Most of us favor it—for the other fellow. The average citizen, reasonably patriotic, and knowing that taxes are inevitable, has an extraordinary capacity for persuading himself that the best tax is some tax that taxes somebody else. There is the position of the farmers. Farmers, judging by the income tax returns, don't pay much of the income tax. Yet year after year we have the Canadian Council of Agriculture resolving that the income tax is the thing. And so, from a different angle, with the business man. This gentleman, who pays the income tax, is certain that it is fundamentally unsound; and we have Chambers of Commerce prolific in resolutions expounding upon its unsoundness. They want a good, efficient and "fair-to-everybody" tax that "won't hurt business," which means, of course, that it won't hurt some business man.

Then there's the class which wants to tax fortunes. Our Miss MacPhail, for example. Miss MacPhail, like most of the rest of us, has no fortune of her own. But the mere fact that this would deprive her of the satisfaction of saving the State (according to her belief) doesn't deter her at all. She would simply go after the other fellow's fortune.

* * * *

The Journal, quite frankly, likes Miss MacPhail. Frank, courageous, pointed, she is one of the best speakers in Parliament. But we wonder whether Miss MacPhail has really given much thought to this proposition of seizing fortunes. "Soak the Rich" is, we know, a grand soap-box slogan. But its great trouble, as a policy, is that one good soak can put your rich man and his fortune so completely out as to make a return engagement impossible.

In other words, if a Government once started confiscating fortunes, there would soon be no more fortunes to confiscate. The blessed things don't grow. Obviously, therefore, this plan of seizing fortunes and of "soaking the rich" would hardly work. It might be fine for one year, or for two, when the Government would have a grand spree with somebody else's money, but when all the fortunes had been spent, and all the rich had been soaked out of the ring, we should be in for a bad headache.

* * * *

There is something else. It is that great fortunes, even when inherited, are not always a bad thing. Let us take, for example, the Rockefeller fortune. Miss MacPhail, being a humanitarian and a student, knows about the Rockefeller Foundation. She knows what it is doing for education, in endowing universities, in striving for industrial and international peace, in fighting disease, in spreading social science, in scientific research. Knowing these things—and the Rockefeller Foundation is one of the great institutions of the world—is Miss MacPhail sure that it would have been better had the Government of the United States seized this fortune and used it up years ago building breakwaters in Maine and post offices at Pohunk, Illinois? And as with the Rockefeller Foundation, so with the Carnegie Foundation, so with the Duke fortune, the Eastman fortune, and so on and so forth.

Finally, and even granting that some curb should be placed on large fortunes, does Miss MacPhail think that this is the time to adjust the matter? When a patient is suffering from pneumonia a doctor does not put him on the operating table with an idea of curing some chronic ailment, any more than he risks a feeble patient in such a heroic adventure.

Take the case of Great Britain. Mr. MacDonald, who was a radical and a Socialist long before Miss MacPhail became a Progressive, threw all his hopes for the radical treatment of his patient overboard when he discovered that the Government was too enfeebled to withstand the shock of the major operations it had been his life-long hope to achieve.

Canada, like Britain, is not in a position just at present to experiment with too many economic cure-alls. It is always easy to show—on paper—how some scheme might bring Utopia, particularly if the scheme is going to be paid for by somebody else. We are all of us, more or less, for the "somebody else" business. Particularly when it involves paying. Yet most of us may as well make up our minds that modern civilization is more complex than that, and that we can't be a part and parcel of a nation, sharing its advantages and whatever of help and protection it affords, with somebody else assessed for our dues.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

GOOD MEASURE.

At an Irish fishing hotel the visitors were in the habit of weighing their daily catches on a pair of scales provided by the management. Toward the end of the season, a baby was born in the hotel. The fishermen insisted on weighing the new arrival on the only scales available — those used for the salmon. The new-born infant weighed 17½ pounds!

AN EASY QUESTION.

The teacher was trying to impress upon her pupils the importance of doing right at all times, and to bring out the answer "bad habits" she inquired: "What is it we find so easy to get into and so hard to get out of?"

Veteran Association Is Formed In Tweed

TWEED, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—A good attendance of War Veterans featured the meeting held in the Township Hall on Friday evening for the purpose of forming a branch of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association in this district.

Dr. M. G. Dales was elected as chairman of the meeting. Captain Gilman delivered a splendid address giving special attention to the working of the Pensions Act, on which subject he is well versed.

The meeting was concluded by a vote of thanks being extended to Capt. Gilman, M. C. by Dr. M. G. Dales, chairman, which was received with great applause by all present and the wish was extended that Capt Gilman would visit them again in the near future.

The election of officers was unanimous and as follows: Hon. President, W. E. Tummon, M.P.; president, Dr. M. G. Dales; vice-president, T. N. Beatty; secretary-treasurer, Samuel Hampson; executive committee, H. Crosbie, Walter Leal, Levi Courneyea, Alfred Davis, F. J. Stokes.

M. Jean Borotra, the French lawn tennis player, and also director of a gasoline manufacturing company in France, has just joined the board of a British company operating along the same lines.

Janetville Women's Missionary Society Holds April Meeting.

LIFFORD LINE, Apr. 21 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Women's Missionary Society in connection with Janetville United Church met on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in the church.

A program committee for the next three months was chosen consisting of Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Thomas Stinson and Mrs. N. W. McGill.

An important item of business was the selection of delegates to represent the society at the convention at Beaverton. The three ladies nominated were the president Mrs. Blatherwick, Mrs. Samuel Stinson and Mrs. N. W. McGill.

The Mission Band leaders, Mrs. Thomas Stinson, gave her report, stating members had joined and that the children showed unusual enthusiasm regarding the work of the Band.

Mrs. James Howe, treasurer of the society, presented her financial statement for the first three months of the year and was found very satisfactory to the members.

Mrs. Marshall took charge of the program for the meeting. A very impressive reading was given by Mrs. William Sanderson.

Mrs. James Howe sang in her usual sweet voice the solo "An Evening Prayer." An appreciated reading "The Mustard Seed" was given by Mrs. Sam Stinson.

The meeting was concluded by the singing of a favorite hymn followed by prayer by Rev. W. C. Smith, pastor of the church, who takes a keen interest in the activities of the Women's Missionary Society.

CORDOVA MINES

A jolly time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Watson on Friday evening last when a number of young people and neighbors gathered there to honor the newly wedded pair, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ellis (nee Lottie Watson) who were married on Thursday last. Over 50 were present and a delightful evening was spent in dancing and games.

Just before midnight the happy pair were placed in a bower of evergreens and presented with the parcels which had been brought by the guests. The groom opened the packages and handed the contents to the bride who read the cards attached and displayed the gifts, while she graciously thanked the donor. After all the presents had been duly admired the groom thanked those present on behalf of himself and his bride, and a sumptuous lunch was served.

JUSTICE WANTED

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The Peterborough Examiner on April 12 published the names of two local youths being held by the United States Immigration officials for illegal entry into their country on March 26.

The names of these two boys were Fred Hamilton, aged 21 and Alvin Stoneburg, aged 15. The Stoneburg lad was on remand here for theft of a ham on January 7. I will say, that knowing this youth from a small child, I will tell you how it was that this young boy got into trouble.

When he was a young lad going to King George School his parents tried to bring him up right by making him come home at the proper time from school and not be coming in after nine o'clock for his supper. His father went to the principal of the school to ask him if he would see that he came home as soon as school was out and the principal told him he had enough to attend to without bothering with the boys. So his parents thought the only thing to correct him with would be the strap, the same as any teacher would use. But when the father corrected this child some of the near neighbors were obliging enough to send word to Mr. Edgar that Mr. Stoneburg was pounding the boy most desperately and he came down to see the parents about it. They told him if he wished he could examine the child and see if there were any marks on him.

After that young Stoneburg thought he could stay out with other boys as long as he liked in the evening. And another thing: this lad has not had the chance some of the rest of the boys have had for he has been sick a number of times and is not as strong as other boys for their age; therefore is not as able to hold his own with them as he should be. He got into company with other boys who deliberately made and in fact, beat and pounded him into doing thieving which got him into trouble.

On March 24, young Stoneburg went down street shortly after dinner and returned in about 15 minutes in company with Fred Hamilton, to change his footwear. Mr. Stoneburg went out to talk to Fred Hamilton to find out what they were going to do and Fred said, "We are going to Toronto with Tom McDonald on the truck to get a load" and they were going to help load the truck and come back on it during Saturday. The father asked where they would stay and Fred said never mind that they would go to the Red Cross room and stay there two or three days and come back better dressed than what they were. "We can get lots of clothes up there but we can't get them here."

These two youths have not come home yet.

If some of the citizens of Peterborough would be a little more thoughtful our city would be a better place to live in. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this valuable space in your paper, I remain.

Yours for Honesty and Fair Play.

BRITAIN READY TO AID EMPIRE BROADCASTING

LONDON, Apr. 21 (C.P. Cable)—The British Government will take any opportunity of supporting practical suggestions that might be made for facilitating further co-operation between the empire broadcasting, J. H. The minister added the government considered it unnecessary to place empire broadcasting on the agenda of the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa in July, or to include a broadcasting expert in the United Kingdom's delegation.

MINERAL CLAIMS IN BIG DEMAND IN EARLY DAYS

Early History of Marmora and Lake Townships Reveals Much Activity.

SOME EARLY TAXES

MARMORA, April 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—Further perusal of the oldest minute book of Marmora and Lake Township Council recalls other interesting facts concerning the history of the village and township.

As has been previously mentioned, the old Town Hall was erected in 1856, the council having for many years previously assembled at James Seagriff's Tavern. Who the first caretaker of the hall was, is uncertain. The first to be mentioned as caretaker was a Mrs. Bonar. On February 27, 1864, the Reeve, Hugh Jones, gave an order on the treasurer in payment of her services.

At the next meeting, Timothy P. Simmons was granted the use of the rooms over the Town Hall upon the express condition that he keep the hall clean, orderly and properly warmed, but on July 9, Nathaniel Weese, one of the best remembered village shoemakers of that time was granted the use of the rooms.

In 1865 Mrs. Kitty Jenkinson did the cleaning of the hall, which duties were taken over by Mrs. Betsy Hayes in 1868.

In May, 1861, taxes of the Marmora Iron Company were fixed at 2s. 6d an acre while those of the Gilmour Company were fixed at 5 shillings an acre. At a court of revision held on April 23, 1864, the motion was carried "that the lands of the Marmora Iron Company patented in 1863 be assessed at fifty cents per acre." In Confederation year, the Reeve was James Hamilton and the Councillors were Solomon Johns, Hugh Jones, George Wiggins and Adam Airhart, all men destined to serve in public offices of the community for a large number of years. Also the following served the township that year—William Phillips, clerk; Julian Bissonnette, License Inspector and Phillip Brenton, Tax Collector.

At the May meeting in 1867, David Bentley was granted a license to keep a house of entertainment in the house that he occupied upon payment of ten dollars.

Trees were in those days, landmarks to a greater extent than now as the following motion passed at the same meeting shows. The motion was "that the sum of forty dollars be expended on the road known as the Deer River road and the same is to be expended from the old tree to the pine at the bottom of the hill."

Following the meeting of the council held January 9, 1869, the clerk, William Phillips, applied to John Beatty, secretary to the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway and Mining Company, on behalf of the Municipal Corporation, for a deed for the lot on which the Town Hall was built. In that same year, a Peterborough resident, Henry Calcutt, unsuccessfully sought to purchase Marmora's fire engine. Also that year, the council gave its approbation to the application of William Caldwell and others for the right to build a quartz mill upon the road allowance between lot 9 in the 8th concession and lot 9 in the 9th concession.

The following month, the council granted D. B. Johns and Lucius Munroe mineral rights of the allowance for road between lot 8 in the 8th concession and lot 8 in the 9th concession. At a special meeting held in November 20, 1869, the sum of ten dollars was granted for the purchase of prize books for a Township competitive examination of Common Schools to be held in the Town Hall, Marmora.

At a meeting held on January 15, 1870, the "Reeve was authorized to give notice of a public meeting calling the ratepayers of the united Townships of Marmora and Lake together for the purpose of considering the propriety of granting a bonus to aid in building a railway from Madoc to Peterborough through Marmora village or any other point westward and that it be inserted for two weeks in the Weekly Intelligencer (Belleville) and that there be 24 copies of the notice printed for posting up in the township." Doubtless many of the older residents will recall having attended this meeting.

REV. W. L. WRIGHT RECEIVES HONOR

Presentation Made By Congregation of Hungerford United Church.

TWEED, Apr. 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—The congregation of Holy Trinity Church, Hungerford gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Dowdall to bid farewell to their esteemed rector, Rev. W. L. Wright. After a social hour was spent, Mrs. Young read the address and Mrs. Dowdall made the presentation of a purse.

The rector in a few well chosen words expressed his thanks for the gifts, and his regret in leaving. He said, that he would always look forward to vacation time when he could have the privilege of calling on his Tweed and Hungerford friends.

The evening was brought to a close by a dainty lunch.

Musical Romance

A splendid crowd greeted "Musical Romance," in the auditorium under the auspices of the Women's Association of Tweed United Church. The ladies of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville furnished the entire entertainment, and it was the most unique heard in Tweed for some time. Most splendid musical affects were produced from pots and pans and other kitchen utensils and the audience were very much amazed at the results.

Mrs. J. G. Galloway, who was business manager and stage director, was delighted with the success of the program.

C.N.R. Earnings

The gross revenues of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending April 14, 1932, were $2,788,424, as compared with $3,436,130, for the corresponding period in 1931, a decrease of $647,706.

Mrs. Matilda Hiller, aged 72, who is a grandmother, and Arthur Wilkinson, 74, both of Crewe, England, who were married recently, first met in a cemetery.

City Merchants Plan To Aid Big Campaign

Great enthusiasm, which promises to put the proposed "Clean-up; Paint - up; Give - a - Man-a-Job" Campaign over the top, is being shown by the committee in charge of arrangements, and who met again last evening to discuss various proposals in the Chamber of Commerce Council Room.

Sponsored by the Retail Merchants' Section of the Chamber of which W. H. Freel is chairman, the campaign is to open for one week on April 30. Plans have been completed which are calculated to get the entire populace of the city in a state of enthusiasm, the result of which will be not only to effect a clean-up of the city, but also to provided much-needed work for the unemployed

Although General Issues Are Fairly Firm on Montreal Curb.

CEMENT STOCKS WEAK.

MONTREAL, April 21 (C.P.) — Leading stocks sold slightly lower in quiet trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange this morning. Losses were small, however, and outside of the leaders, the list was fairly firm.

Cement issues showed some weakness. The Common sold most of the morning at a new low mark of 37⅛, but recovered at noon to 4 unchanged. The Preferred stock dropped 2 points to 46. Canadian Pacific Railway shares sold off ½ at 14. Nickel firmed ¼ at 6⅝. Brazilian was down ⅛ at 9½. Canadian Car Preferred sold off ½ at 12, and Steel of Canada was down ¼ at 15¾.

B.C. Power, Canadian Car Common, Quebec Power and a few others held at previous closing levels.

Market Closing On All Exchanges

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, April 21 (C.P.).— The Stock Market pushed quietly along a broad front in the latter part of to-day's trading, apparently in response to lowering credit rates, and possibly helped by short covering on publication of names of short sellers. Gains of 1 to more than 4 points were numerous at the close, but the turnover was only a little over a million shares.

STANDARD EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, April 21 (C.P.). — Trend was difficult to discern on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange market to-day, prices fluctuating aimlessly to a mixed and slightly easier close. Turnover was unusually dull and featureless, with a large part of the list unchanged on end.

International Nickel and Noranda were firm throughout, the former closing up 25 and the latter up 40. Waite-Ackerman showed another recession at 27 and Sherritt-Gordon dipped a fraction. Eldorado was a couple lower at $1.12. Oils were inactive.

Among the golds Teck-Hughes and Hollinger lost 5 apiece. Treadwell Yukon turned over at $2, off 25, but Lake Shore and Dome managed to close somewhat above last night.

Ventures was under some selling pressure in the afternoon and finished down 4 at a new low for the bear market. Kirkland, Hudson Bay, and McLeod River made small gains, but Buffalo, Chibougamau, and Moffatt Hall were easy.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 21. —(CP)— A late rally saved todays session on Toronto Stock Exchange market from being wholly uneventful. Up until this advance in the last hour, the market had been as placid as a mill pond. Stocks came out practically unchanged from last night and moved within an eighth range, the narrowest possible. The fact that sellers refused to yield their stocks except at their own price was in itself a favorable indication and it resulted in buyers finally acceding. The rally thus initiated was not of long duration, but when purchasing orders were cleaned up, the new level of prices held.

Bell Telephone, which had been flirting with its old low during the morning, closed more than 2 points higher at 90. Brazilian Traction advanced to nearly 10, C.P.R. had a better tone at 14½, Nickel rose to 6 7-8 where it was nearly ⅛ point above last night, Ford of Canada, Walkers and the oils advanced fractionally. Good buying was evident in the latter group towards the close. Page-Hersey Tubes recovered a couple of points to 43. Standard Steel was firm.

DESCRIBES SIMON'S PLAN FIRST CONCRETE SCHEME

GENEVA, April 21. — (C. P. Cable.)— "After three months of talking this is the first concrete proposal which has emerged from the disarmament conference,' declared Sir George Perley, head of the Canadian delegation, when he warmly supported the British proposal for "qualitative reduction in armaments" before the general commission of the world disarmament conference to-day.

The British proposal supported by the United States and others but opposed by France, marked a definite progress towards limitation and reduction of armaments, Sir George said. It embodied the important principle that by increasing the ability of a State to defend itself against attack the conference would be assisting that State to decrease its armaments.

GOLDS DEVELOP SOFT TENDENCY

Trading at Lowest Ebb in Some Time on Standard Exchange.

LACK FEATURES.

TORONTO, April 21. — (CP) — Prices fluctuated aimlessly within a narrow range of the Standard Stock and Mining exchangemarket in the forenoon today. Trading was at the lowest rate in some time and lacked features.

Golds developed an easier tendency around mid-day, Teck-Hughes dropping 10 to a new low of $3.70 and Wright-Hargreaves 5 to $2.25.

International Nickel turned over at $6.70, a 20-cent gain over last night's final, but Noranda was conspicuous by its absence. Eldorado eased a cent to $1.13 in a few sales.

Among cheaper stocks Buffalo, Moss, Ventures, Bagamac and Central Patricia lost a fraction to a cent apiece. In the oil section Petrol was somewhat lower at 15.

Planes May Replace Famous Andean Road

LOS ANDES, Chili, April 21 (A.P.)—Airplanes may replace the famous trans-Andean Railway, service on which was abandoned yesterday.

Los Andes was still unable to-day to comprehend that the railway two miles high, which gave most of the people their livelihood, had stopped running.

All available automobiles capable of standing the high road trip over the mountain tops to Mendoza, Argentina, were requisitioned to-day for a stage line, but the cars can operate only under ideal weather conditions.

All planes were loaded to capacity and tentative preparations were made for adding planes if the railroad does not resume operations.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Engineer Passes On Speeding Train

LONDON, Ont., April 21 (C. P.). — While his sixty-mile an hour International Limited passenger train sped along between Kerwood and Strathroy on the Sarnia to London non-stop lap, Engineer Alexander Bond of Sarnia, died of heart failure today.

The fast train was halted by Fireman S. Falconer of Sarnia, a qualified engineer, and although a doctor was called to the train at Strathroy, the engineer had expired, and after the body was removed, Fireman Falconer brought the train into London 50 minutes late.

NICKEL SHOWS FIRMER TREND

Stocks Follow Irregular Course During This Morning's Session at Toronto.

OILS HOLD STEADY.

TOROINTO, April 21.—(C.P.) — Stocks followed an irregular course on the Toronto stock exchange today. Volume was well down, and most price changes were narrow.

Consolidated Smelters had the widest movement, dropping 2 points to 36½. Nickel, however, was firmer.

In the industrial section, Ford steadied after an early decline, but Canadian Dredge sold off a point. Utilities were dull. Bell improved while C.P.R. eased.

Oils were firm. Imperial and International Pete improved and the others held at previous levels. Foods and most distillery stocks were unchanged.

Trustees Appointed For Brokerage Firm

WINDSOR, April 21. (CP) — Trusts and Guarantee Company was chosen as trustee for the firm of King, Boug and Stodgel at a meeting of creditors to-day. The brokerage concern made a voluntary petition in bankruptcy on April 14.

John Mothersill and C. F. Stevenson of Windsor and R. B. Gripman of Detroit were chosen as inspectors. About 150 of the 400 creditors were present at the meeting.

At the time of the petition for bankruptcy the assests of the firm were placed at $136,023 and liabilities at $133,557. An auditor's report filed to-day places the total assets at $156,436 and liabilities at $116,144.

Suspect 3 Tramps Burned In Barn Fire

CHATHAM, April 21 (C.P.). — A thorough search has been started of the ruins of an old barn on the property of J. Cornhill & Sons, brick manufacturers near this city, to ascertain whether or not any tramps were burned to death in the fire that destroyed it earlier in the day. Statements of two tramps who were seen running away from the building as the flames were noticed, indicate that possibly four men may have perished in the flames. The two tramps while beating a hasty retreat from the scene of the blaze, told a workman in the brick yards that there were [illegible] three or four other fellows in the barn.

GUILTY OF CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.

TORONTO.—Ernest F. Hope, appearing before Justice Nicol Jeffrey and a jury in the York Spring Assizes, to-day was found guilty of criminal negligence, but freed of manslaughter. Hope struck and almost instantly killed Mrs. Kathleen Cercelli, 22, on Jan. 18 last.

He was remanded till April 22 for sentence and allowed bail.

MONEY RATES DOWN

NEW YORK, April 21. (C.P.)— Money rates appear to be coming down, the world over. To-day leading dealers in New York cut the rates on bankers acceptances ⅛ of 1 percent. This reduction covers 30 to 90 day maturities, making the rate 1⅛ percent bid.

$125,000 PAYMENT TO JOHN AIRD IS INTRODUCED BY JUSTICE ORDE

added that (if the Commissioner) really thought it necessary he would press Mr. Ferguson to return.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., Commissioner's counsel said he was not yet ready to go thoroughly into the $125,000 payment. He was waiting for certain documents.

"If Mr. Ferguson wants to get away why have we not been hearing him through the last two days instead of hearing witnesses who were available any time," asked Mr. Slaght. "That does not help the situation now," replied His Lordship, while Mr. Ferguson interjected that if he was really required for further examination he could possibly adjust his plans.

In examining Mr. Ferguson about the $50,000 payment to Aird, Mr. Slaght asked the ex-Premier for his comment on a passage in one of the Aird letters that Chairman C. A. Magrath of the Hydro would possibly look at the proposed Madawaska deal from a "political viewpoint." Mr. Ferguson replied that he knew Mr. Magrath well, long before he came to the Hydro Board, and it was at his (Mr. Ferguson's) invitation that Mr. Magrath joined the board. Mr. Ferguson added: "I consider him a very capable man, and I was proud of his record with the Hydro. No one could influence him against his own sound judgment."

When the hearing was adjourned for the noon recess Mr. Slaght was questioning the former Premier about the explanation given by the present chairman of the Commission, Mr. Cook, of the $50,000 paid to Aird, which, Mr. Slaght said, was that Mr. Aird had certain surveys and rights to sell to Hydro. Mr. Ferguson, in reply, said he presumed that if Mr. Aird had any rights to sell they were worth paying for.

The former Premier, replying to Mr. Slaght, said he knew about the $50,000 payment by the Hydro to Aird. An order-in-council was passed authorizing the payment as the Hydro Board lacked other authority to pay it. The order-in-council was passed on the recommendation of Mr. Magrath.

Adds To Evidence.

In beginning Mr. White said he would like to add something to a matter referred to yesterday. He had testified that C. A. Magrath, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, after several interviews, had finally told him the Commission would not consider the letting of a power contract. The witness desired to add that Mr. Magrath had at the same time said the Commission might, however, consider an outright purchase of the O'Brien properties.

W. N. Tilley, K.C., counsel for the commissioner, also explained a matter raised yesterday. Arthur Slaght, K.C., independent counsel, had asked for a statement from Mr. Tilley as to whether the accounts rendered to the O'Brien firm by the lawyers who closed the deal, contained any reference to the $50,000 to be paid to John Aird, Jr. Mr. Tilley announced this morning he had gone through the records and had found no reference to the Aird fee.

Mr. White explained a reference to Heber Smith in one of his letters. He had written: "I am glad to know Mr. Heber Smith is active." The witness said, John Aird, Jr., had, on an earlier date, mentioned that Heber Smith was a close friend of C. A. Maguire, a member of the Hydro Commission.

A letter to Mr. White from John Aird, Jr., said Mr. Maguire had seen Sir John Aird and had intimated that the Hydro Board would shortly need the Madawaska power and that it was only a question of cost.

Mr. Tilley recalled one of Mr. Aird's letters, in which the statement was made that Peter White was engineering the negotiations and that all others should remain quiet for the time being. The witness could not agree that he was the prime mover in the matter. The witness added he had seen Mr. Magrath and asked him to have the Hydro engineers hurry their report on the O'Brien properties, and he thought it quite possible he had, about this time, seen Premier Ferguson also and asked him to do something to hurry along the Hydro end of the negotiations.

Dropped Out of Negotiations

Mr. White said he had dropped out of the negotiations after Mr. Magrath told him the Commission would not give Aird and his associatets a power contract. He had, however, reported to Aird that the Commission might be inclined toward an outright purchase of the property.

Replying to Mr. Tilley, the witness said he had never rendered a bill to Aird for his services. The question of a fee had not been discussed particularly, but it was his understanding that if Aird was successful in his development plans he (the witness) would be generously dealt with.

"Do you know what Heber Smith was to get out of it for trying to influence Maguire, a member of the Commission?" asked Mr. Slaught. Witness said he knew nothing about that.

Nothing Political

Mr. White was firm in declaring there was nothing political in any part he had played in the negotiations.

"Then what was the reason for your visits to the Premier," asked Mr. Slaght.

He thought that as a personal favor the Premier might ask the Hydro officials to hurry along the reports on the properties, the witness replied.

The witness was asked by Mr. Slaght about the question of a fee. He repeated he had not billed Mr. Aird for his services, partly through carelessness and partly because the scheme failed. I got a rude jolt when I learned from the press that Mr. Aird received $50,000 from the Hydro," added the witness.

"Aird was acting as a vendor, trying to sell something to Hydro, and was not in any sense an agent of the Hydro Commission; is that not so?" asked Mr. Slaght.

Mr. White considered that was asking for a legal opinion, and the Commissioner objected to the question. Other questioning along the same line was stopped by His Lordship, who said he did not like the tone of some of Mr. Slaght's interrogations.

Mr. Slaght replied he was not personally unfriendly to Mr. White and that His Lordship had "merely misinterpreted the tone."

Mr. Slaght added: "I have a duty to perform here and I propose to perform that duty subject of course to Your Lordship's rulings."

Ferguson Is Called

Former Premier Howard G. Ferguson was then called. Questioned by Mr. Tilley Mr. Ferguson said he was Premier of Ontario at the time of the Madawaska purchase by the Hydro and the government had authorized the execution of the contract by the Hydro board. That was the usual practice.

"When did you first become aware of the proposed Madawaska deal?" asked counsel.

"I had no knowledge of the negotiations with Hydro until the early part of 1929. The information came to him he said in the form of a report from the Hydro board.

Extracts were read from the Aird letters, particularly those mentioning possible political influence at Queen's Park to help along the negotiations.

"Nonsense," commented Mr. Ferguson. "There could be no possible political alliance. Senator O'Brien is a Liberal and so is Aird, and I am not," added the Premier. Another letter of Mr Aird's saying the Beck policy for power development was likely to prevail, notwithstanding the attitude of the chairman of the Commission and Premier Ferguson. Commenting on this the witness said:

"There has never been but one policy with respect to the Hydro. The policy has been that we should own and develop the power resources in Ontario. There was never any idea of crushing private interests who might have legitimate investment and were entitled to fair treatment."

RIOT AGITATOR LANDS IN JAIL

Forkin Wanted for Part in Estevan Affair Held in Grand Forks.

ILLEGAL ENTRY INTO U.S.

GRAND FORKS, N.D., April 21. —Last of the alleged agitators wanted in connection with the riot of striking miners in which three were killed at Estevan, Sask., last September, Martin J. Forkin is in jail here awaiting a hearing on a charge of illegally entering the United States. Should illegal entry be proven, he would probably be deported to Canada, in which case he would be arrested by Canadian officers at the border.

In default of a $50 bond Forkin is held in county jail here. Before being taken to Fargo for his appearance in Federal Court, he has asked for legal advice.

Ten Found Guilty

Last month, twenty persons were tried at Estevan on various charges arising out of the fatal riot. Of these ten were found guilty of rioting, and four of unlawful assembly. The jury disagreed in the cases of three, two were acquitted and the charge against one was dropped by the Crown.

For six months Forkin has eluded police who have been searching for him since he disappeared together with Mrs. Annie Buller of Toronto and Sam Scarlett of Saskatoon immediately after the riot. Mrs. Buller and Scarlett were later taken into custody and were among those found guilty at the recent trials.

Sentences meted out ranged from one year in jail down to fine of $50.

Lack of insulation often makes roofs leak. The heat filtering through the uninsulated roof causes the snow to melt. The melted snow runs to the gutter, which, being cold, causes it to freeze again. The gutter then becomes blocked, the snow backs up under the shingles and water drips into your rooms.

Rev. Stuart Parker, D.D., Addresses Provincial W.M.S.

PROVINCIAL W.M.S. CLOSED YEAR WITH SURPLUS REPORT REVEALS

Orr of Stratford. Both were presented by Mrs. Thorburn.

The organization opened the year with a balance on hand of $284.18 and closed it with a balance of $50.20. The amount received from Presbyterials was $131,427.79, with $130,000 forwarded to the General treasurer and expenses of $1,912.18, the major item of which was the sum of $1,467.18 incurred as expenses of annual and board meetings.

The amounts received from Presbyterials were as follows: Algoma, $433.45; Barrie, $7,737.89; Brockville, $2,850.10; Bruce and Owen Sound, $3,492.70; Chatham, $4,945.87; Glengarry, $5,453.44; Guelph, $7,445.86; Hamilton, $14,450.00; Huron, $3,430.89; Kingston, $2,826.43; Lanark and Renfrew, $3,600.00; Lindsay, $3,311.31; London, $7,170.32; Maitland, $4,567.50; North Bay, $468.36; Ottawa, $4,700.00; Orangeville, $1,304.27; Paris, $4,300.00; Peterborough, $5,302.00; Sarnia, $4,171.92; Saugeen, $1,854.04; Stratford, $6,205.00; Temiskaming, $400.25; Toronto $31,006.19.

Miss Orr's report mentioned this year's allocation as the same as that of last year, $145,000, and asked the women to try and measure up to the challenge, even though this year saw a falling behind.

Mrs. George J. Vanston of Toronto reported for the Mission Bands. There are 354 Bands, an increase of 11, with 9,150 members—an increase of 1,161—and total givings of $9,074.33.

Reporting for Girls' Organizations, Mrs. William Ekins of Hespeler recorded a note of optimism, opportunity and progress throughout her department.

There are 167 C.G.I.T. and three other 'teen-age organizations, making a total of 170, an increase of 23. The membership includes 2,311, an increase of 96. A decrease of contributions is revealed, since $738.02 means a falling off of $219.91. Supplies sent to the Presbyterial were valued at $373.68, an increase of $42.93.

Mrs. John Williams of Toronto reported for Young Women's Auxiliaries, showing remittances from this source of $13,062.47, with gifts sent to the Supply department, valued at $3,100.32. There are 151 organizations, with a membership of 33,208, a gain of 3327, and 22 new organizations were added during the year.

The Corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. J. McCullough of Toronto, showed a loss of 7 Auxiliaries, and 4 Presbyterials exceeding their allocation; Peterborough, North Bay, Huron and Temiskaming. There are 350 Senior Auxiliaries in the Ontario Provincial; with 19 Associate societies, an increase of 3; membership, 14,223, decrease of 380; contributions $107,577.84, a decrease of $5,920.98.

The report of the Recording Secretary, Mrs. W. H. Mitchell of Toronto, was taken as read, and was a brief resume of the year's activities in general form.

Opportunity for Service

A very interesting address given by Mrs. D. T. L. McKerroll of Toronto dealt with "Our Opportunity in the Home Land", and outlined for her hearers some of the reasons for gratitude and extended effort on the part of members of the W.M.S.

Mrs. McKerroll congratulated the ladies on their "marvellous reports—so bright and interesting".

She went on to answer her questions: "Have we a message and a mission as a W.M.S. and a church?" by referring to some of the activities carried on by the Women's Missionary Society.

Jesus always worked first through the individual, declared the speaker. Later, He worked through groups.

Mrs. McKerroll spoke of the work done among the Indians of Canada; of the two wonderful W.M.S. schools, one at Birtle, Manitoba, the other, the "Cecelia Jeffrey" School, at Kenora, Ontario. The Birtle school, she said, where 50 Indians came with tents to camp during the opening ceremonies, has already a full enrolment of 130 children.

Work among the Chinese was mentioned. In Canada, there are 55,000 Chinese, among whom the spectre of want has appeared for the first time during recent periods.

Then there is the work of the Welcome and Welfare Department among the lonely and the newcomers; the work of the Deaconesses (and here the speaker mentioned Mrs. Kovacs (Kovacs is Hungarian for Smith) and her labours in the Niagara Peninsula; the work in the outpost hospitals (where one man with both hands and feet frozen crawled for two miles to get relief); the encouragement of students in the W.M.S. Residence Schools.

Speaking of the way in which the women help to relieve the burden of the church's budget, Mrs. McKerroll gave some items of their expenditures, as follows: $500 to the church at The Pas; $250 to send a newly-ordained man to New Ontario; $750 to the church at Peace River; $732 to the church at Cranberry Portage; $252 to complete the church parlors at Grand Prairie; $1415 to build the church at Gonor; $1,000 to the work in Poland; $1,300 given to help pay ministers' salaries with the great masses outside the in the West, so that their churches might be maintained; $1,500 to build a church at Selkirk, at the request of the Winnipeg Presbyterial.

Earlier in the week, the president, Mrs. McLennan, had stated that a fine would be levied on anyone who used the word "depression." Several of the speakers skirted the matter with difficulty, and Mrs. McKerroll did not refer to that "bad word," as she called it, in saying that the section at McLeod, on the rim of the burnt out area, had met their allocation, in the face of a fifty million dollar loss on this year's crop by the farmers of Southern Saskatchewan.

"If every active member in this Presbyterial would give 2 cents a week, it would mean nearly $25,000 in the year", asserted the speaker, alluding to the work carried on by the deaconesses.

"Give these girls the sinews of war. They are giving their lives, and there is still need of a University graduate for Formosa and another for British Guiana."

Evening Session.

"Christianity has built the best into our Western civilization and we have no more right to keep it to ourselves than we would have a right to corner the world's food supplies," stated the Rev. Stuart Parker, D.D., pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Toronto when stressing the need which existed for the church's rigid adherence to a virile and progressive missionary policy.

Dr. Parker occupied the pulpit of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here last evening at the invitation of the Ontario Provincial Society W. M. S., now in convention in this city. He was formally introduced to the large assembly of delegates and others, by President Mrs. W. A. McLennan, and was accompanied on the platform by Miss Laura K. Pelton, Field Secretary of the W. M. S. and by the Rev. A. T. Barr, Ph.D.

Miss Pelton also delivered a stirring and inspiring message, while the Scripture lesson was read by Dr. Barr, who also voiced a hearty welcome to the gathering and expressed pleasure at the success which has so far attended the eighteenth annual meeting of the Society.

The choir was in attendance, under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., and a solo was sung by Mrs. Frank Ellis of Woodstock, and formerly of this city.

Dr. Parker's address constituted a masterly analysis of the missionary situation, and provided an adequate answer to those who display apathy or antagonism towards missionary work. In addition the address offered a stirring challenge for a more zealous perusal by the church of her missionary efforts.

Church Insular and Narrow.

The speaker charged that "the whole Christian church, once Catholic, is now insular and narrow and prone to pay heed to its own domestic affairs and close its eyes to the needs existing outside its own small circle."

If at any time the whole of Christendom was to get together for a conference, the preacher contended, there would be two main topics for discussion. The first would be the problem of dealing with the great masses outside the church who had heard the Gospel message and had not heeded it; and the second problem would be to deal with the still greater masses who had never heard the Gospel.

Dr. Parker dwelt upon the hard task any person was called upon to assume in attempting to envisage the non-Christian world. Mentioning China, India, Japan, and Africa and many other places, he remarked there were millions of people to whom Christ was not even a name. The situation was staggering in its immensity.

"What has the church been doing, you will say with the money that we and our forebears have contributed to the church? What has the church been doing with her resources? Seeing all the money and making no progress? No!" was his emphatic reply to his own question; "the church has made remarkable progress in spreading the Gospel, particularly is that so of the last century," he said.

He continued to speak of the fact that it took the early church three hundred years to Christianize the Mediterranean countries, but he was not unmindful that in so doing those early Christians had accomplished as much if not more than the church of the present day was doing, when the situation was regarded in relation to the facilities which are at the disposal of the world to-day for travel and rapid inter-communication, and which had made the world much smaller than it used to be.

St. Paul and the Radio.

He contemplated what a St. Paul could accomplish in the world today with the radio, seeing what had been accomplished by that Apostle without such wonders of modern science.

"Why has not our increase of missionary work been proportionately greater in relation to the greater facilities at our command?" he asked.

Touching upon but a few of the reasons he said, "The spreading of Christianity is not merely a matter of going out and preaching." He enumerated the difficulties encountered in the foreign mission fields against the ancient religions, such as Mohammedanism, Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Shintoism, etc. "Everyone of these religions," he said, "represents man's striving after a god even before Christ was born. Such religions die hard, but my experience is that they do die where the Gospel has anything like a chance in the field against them."

Stating another reason why missionary work was not making such progress as it might, the preacher dealt with the question of apathy and indifference to the spreading of the Gospel on the part of "the people at home." "It is at home that the foreign missions fail. The Gospel has not let the missionaries down; it is the people at home that have let the Gospel down," he exclaimed.

Quasi-Christians.

He also deal in a very forcible manner with another important aspect of the problem, namely the attitude of many so-called Christians, and he was referring to the people within the church as well as those without who by their lives and mode of living set anything but a good example to others and who in many cases, particularly in heathen lands, actually led the heathen to believe that the Gospel was a failure.

"If we cannot live up to the Christian teaching, in the eyes of the heathen it is because the Gospel is a failure and not to them because of our own shortcomings and failure to live up to the Gospel," he said. "If I was a Chinese heathen I would be inclined to look across to the United States of America and wonder how they can call themselves a Christian nation with all their banditry and crime."

Claiming that missionary work was a great privilege, he said; "Christianity has built the best in our Western civilization, and we have no more right to keep it to ourselves than we have to corner the world's food supply." He also emphasized, "the church that believes the Gospel is God's message has got to go out and preach it and spread it throughout the world."

Miss Pelton.

In her address, the theme of which was "A Call to Prayer," Miss Pelton said if we were to learn to pray as Christ prayed we had to crush racial prejudice and race consciousness. She claimed that missionary activities were tending to transcend these things and were paving the way for a world that nationally and racially would be unified spiritually.

"Missionary enterprise functions for that specific purpose," she exclaimed, "for it alone speaks of the love of Christ."

"In our conception of prayer," she said at a later juncture, "how can we pray, 'Thy Kingdom come,' and not support missions? The aim of the missionary is that the whole world may see Christ." That the speaker claimed, was a challenge to the church and to the missionary societies. She continued to speak of the need of increased membership in the W.M.S.

Touching upon the topic of the present world troubles, Miss Pelton, vouchsafed the opinion that "man's imperfect relationship to God was one of the causes of the present distress." She spoke of the need for a closer contact with God and the working of His will.

Obituary

MRS. EMMA ILIFFE

CAMPBELLFORD, April 21 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent). — The remains of the late Mrs. T. Iliffe were laid to rest yesterday afternoon after the last rite of the church had been conducted by the Rev. T. H. Floyd in Christ Church, Campbellford. Interment was made in Christ Church Cemetery. The pall-bearers were: Harry Cubitt, T. Dutton, W. Watering, W. Sutton, J. Ellis, and H. Romaine.

The late Mrs. Iliffe died at her Campbellford home on April 17 after a very long illness. She was in her 61st year. Born in Leicester, England, on September 26, 1872, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stone, she came to Canada 23 years ago and has for many years past resided in Campbellford. Her husband pre-deceased her some years ago.

Surviving are one son, E. T. Iliffe of Campbellford; and two daughters, Hilda (Mrs. Blakley) of Campbellford and Lizzie of Napanee.

WOMEN THIEVES BUSY

Dress Well and Use Fine Cars for Shoplifting in London

London.—Women shoplifters, expensively dressed and driven from place to place in luxurious motor cars, are giving the London and suburban police endless trouble. A conviction obtained at Middlesex sessions may, it is hoped, check the depredations.

"A dangerous shoplifter and a member of a very large gang," was the description given by a police witness to a twenty-four-year-old married woman who was found guilty with another woman of stealing women's underwear and other clothes from a shop in West Ealing. She was sentenced to four months' hard labor.

MUSIC FESTIVAL AWARDS GIVEN TO THE WINNERS

Grand Concert in Trinity Church Brings Festival to Close.

REPEAT TEST NUMBERS.

Encouragement of youth might be regarded as the keynote of this year's Musical Festival, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, when a review of the youthful musicians who made up so much of the personnel of the Festival passed before the eyes and into the ears of the audience at Trinity United Church last night, listening to the choral and solo music of the successful competitors, playing and singing their test pieces for their appreciative listeners.

All of the contestants were not present, but the majority appeared and created much enthusiasm with their repetition of test numbers.

The Peterborough Regimental Band, led by Lt. W. H. Peryer, kindly appeared in their bright scarlet uniforms to play a rousing opening march and, although they had no part in the competitions, also played the test piece, "The Wanderer" overture. They were applauded loudly.

To the choir of Queen Mary School, winners in their section, the shield presented by the Major Bennett Chapter I.O.D.E. was given by the regent, Miss Frances Jennings, while the second prize shield, presented by the Canadian Department Stores, was given to the King Edward School choir by L. J. Pettit, the indefatigable chairman of the committee, to whose untiring efforts much of the success of the Festival was due. The choir from Queen Mary School sang the test piece, led by Miss Jessie MacNaughton, with Miss Marion Rannie at the piano.

Miss Louise Smith, a youthful clarinet player from Gananoque, was presented with her first prize gold medal by Dr. J. J. Craig, who made the presentation of all the medals.

Dr. Craig, who was responsible in a large measure for the inception of the Kiwanis Club's Musical Festivals, spoke of the educational value of music, and the way in which the qualities of concentration, self-reliance, perseverance and discipline may be gleaned from its practice. He spoke of the splendid work done by Mr. Pettit in connection with the Festival, and suggested that in future contests provision be made for the encouragement of composition in music.

St. John's Choir, Class C, led by F. G. Mann, L.Mus., sang their test piece and were presented by Mr. Pettit with the first prize-winning shield, given by the Dominion Stores.

Victor Coleman, accompanied by Mr. Mann, delighted his listeners with the clarity of his sweet treble tones, in the solo, "In Faith I Shall Arise," and received his gold medal. The second and third winners in this class were Robert Haigh of Toronto and Gerald Perks.

To St. John's Boys' Choir, Mr. Pettit presented the A. H. Stratton Shield for first place, this being the third time that these boys, led by F. G. Mann, have won this award. In 1928 and 1930 both previous years of Kiwanis Musical Festivals, they captured it.

Dr. F. C. Neal's Shield for Class B choirs, won first by St. Paul's Church, then by St. John's, went again last night to St. John's, and was presented by Mr. Pettit.

First and second prize-winning medals were presented to Miss Grace Johnston of South Monaghan and Eric Quilter, in the open piano class; Miss Johnston playing the test piece.

R. M. Glover's two prize-winning shields, also the shield given by the Capitol Theatre, were presented by Miss Cathleen McCarthy. Mr. Glover's shields were presented for Mixed Quartettes, both being won by St. John's Church members. The first was won in 1928 by a quartette from St. Paul's Church: Mrs. Bruce Munro, Miss Jessie Pattison, John Anderson and George East. This year's winners were Eric Quilter, Stewart Roberts, Victor Coleman and Roy Pitchford.

This year's second prize winners were Mrs. L. Groombridge, Miss R. Quartermaine, J. Branson and Arthur Bacon. The Capitol Theatre shield went to the Male Quartette from St. John's, with members in J. Trotter, Eric Quilter, Stewart Roberts and J. Branson.

Gold medal winners who played and sang their test pieces and received their awards were Alex. Carlisle, first in open violin, (Jack Skitch second); Stanley Willis, first in tenor solos; Phyllis Starr, first in soprano solos for girls under seventeen years of age; Leslie Dyer, first in baritone section; Gordon Joycelyn of Stratford, who came first in piano class for sixteen years and under, and who received so much applause that he was compelled to respond with an encore, also beautifully played; Mrs. W. Barrick, first in mezzo-soprano class; Russell Orser of Gananoque, gold medal winner in trombone playing; Miss Ruby Quartermaine, first in contralto singing.

In the classes for violin, twelve years and under, Jimmy Lillico received the second award, with Lawrence Small of Stratford first, while in the same instrument, thirteen to sixteen years, with Bailey Bird of Stratford first, Jack McKone took second prize.

In the piano class for sixteen years and under, Clairmont Morgan of Ida Township of Springville took second prize with a total of 80 points, thus winning the Women's Music Club scholarship of $25, which was presented to him by Miss Mabel Clarry, as the contestant winning the highest points, living in Peterborough and being sixteen years of age or under.

Little Merrill Smith, a small girl musician, received the third award in the piano class for children under sixteen, and also took third bronze medal in the piano class for children of twelve and under.

C. G. E. Shield

In presenting the Canadian General Electric Company's shield to the prize-winners, the Conservatory of Music String Quartette, with players in Bob and Jack Borland, Alex Carlisle and Jimmy Lillico, A. B. Gates remarked that the C.G.E. stood next to the municipality and the churches as a factor for the development of the youth of Peterborough.

Mrs. L. Groombridge received the silver medal for Lyric Soprano. The choir of Trinity United Church, led by Miss Clarry, sang their fine number, the test piece, and received the first prize shield in Class A, presented by Judge Wearing, from the Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe. This shield was won in 1928 by St. Paul's Church choir, and in 1930 by All Saints' choir.

The second prize shield, also presented by Judge Wearing, now of London, and won in 1928 by Trinity Church choir, was accepted by J. S. Chandler, choirmaster of All Saints' Church, which tied for second place with St. John's. Mr. Chandler acknowledged the generosity of St. John's in their insistence on All Saints receiving the trophy, and promised to "take care of our half and look after your half also."

Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe spoke briefly but eloquently, alluding to the efforts of the club to raise music to a fine and high level, and speaking in appreciation of the endeavors of those who take part in such contests. Mr. Sutcliffe quoted Charles Lamb, who said: "Sentimentally, I am hisposed to harmony, but organically, I am unable to carry a tune," as descriptive of the attitude of many who still were working in encouragement of others' efforts.

Mrs. Pettit spoke of the strong committee which had assisted him in arrangements for the Festival, and thanked them one and all, "especially the co-operation and advice of several, including Miss Clarry and Mr. Mann."

H. J. Boyle, president of the Kiwanis Club, who acted as chairman last evening, expressed thanks to all who had assisted in any way; to the donors of shields and medals, to the Women's Music Club for the scholarship presented, to the Hall Store for displaying prizes, to the pastor and board of Trinity Church, and especially to the chairman, L. J. Pettit, "who has made an immense contribution to this Festival. For many months, Mr. Pettit has been busy preparing the syllabus and seeing that all was in order for this event."

Mr. Boyle also referred to the desire of the Kiwanis Club to give pre-eminence to the human and spiritual, rather than the material, value of life, also to the interest which the club takes in the advancement of music.

DANCER THROWN BY HORSE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

This trio of fair women are in the news for three separate and distinct reasons. Lina Basquette (1), dancer and film actress, was seriously injured at Los Angeles when she was thrown by her horse during the filming of a motion picture. Miss Basquette's foot caught in a stirrup when her horse stumbled and she was dragged 50 feet. Physicians said she probably suffered internal injuries. Helen Twelvetrees (2), actress, announced that she is expecting a visit from the stork. Mademoiselle Jeanne Vical (3), international foils individual champion in 1928, and Southern California and Pacific Coast champion in 1929, is training at St. Louis in hopes of entering the French Olympic fencing team in Los Angeles in August. She expects to leave for Europe soon to complete her training in France.

NORMAL LIFE SPAN IN BRITAIN IS ABOUT 56

Women Beat Men and Ireland Leads in Very Old People

London. — Some interesting statements are made in Sir Humphrey Rolleston's new book, "Medical Aspects of Old Age."

Women reach greater ages than men.

Of people over 99 there are nearly three women to every man.

Ireland, with its simpler, slower-moving life, produces centenarians far more readily than England, and the French appear to be more long-lived than the Germans. Less food, maybe.

Are you curious to know how long you are likely to live? Then figure the average age of your parents and grandparents, and you may have it.

In England and Wales the normal expectation of life is 55 years for men and about three years longer for women.

While more people now gain old age there is no proof that the span of human life is being extended toward 100 years.

What sort of men are the long-lived? They are usually spare, seldom fat. And it is not always the robust who can eat anything (and do) who live longest.

WOMAN DROWNS CHILDREN THEN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 21 (C.P.).—Mrs. Tita Butts, 39, wife of Carl Butts, who lives south-west of here, early to-day drowned three of her four children in a cistern and then attempted to take her own life.

The dead are Betty Jane 4, Ross 7, and May 9.

Mrs. Butts was found by her husband and son Jack, 19, in the cistern and was rescued. Her condition was said to be serious. Authorities said she was apparently mentally deranged.

"Tight buttoned"

Have You, The "Can't Afford It" Habit ?

THE use of that phrase does not suggest the inability to buy so much as the desire to practice rigid economy . . . to save . . . to deny yourself needed and necessary commodities.

But Man, oh Man, and you, too, Madam, how better and more effectively can you practice economy and thrift than to buy when prices are at their lowest ebb in years? How more certainly can you insure economy than to replace worn or out-of-date furniture than when new is selling for one-third of what it sold for 15 years ago? Or to stock up on food products when they are 40% less than at any time since the war? Or clothing when $53 to-day will buy you what you paid $100 for in 1912?

What you really cannot afford to do is not buy because you cannot afford to miss to-day's low levels . . . prices that are an actual boon to reduced incomes . . . to the practice of sensible, far-sighted economy.

JOYCE WETHERED ON BRITISH GOLF TEAM

Noted Player Expected to Emerge From Retirement for International Game

OUR SURE CHOICES

These Are Miss Wethered, Enid Wilson, Wanda Morgan, Molly Gourlay

London. — Joyce Wethered's inclusion in the twelve players nominated for the women's international match against the United States, at Wentworth on May 21, indicates that probably she has decided to emerge from her self-imposed retirement from international golf.

The British team has been nominated as follows:

Miss Elsie Corlett, England; Miss Diana Fishwick, England; Mrs. P. Garon, England; Miss Molly Gourlay, England; Miss J. McCulloch, Scotland; Miss Wanda Morgan, England; Miss D. Park, Scotland; Miss D. Pim, Ireland; Miss B. Pyman, Wales; Mrs. Watson, Scotland; Miss Joyce Wethered, England; Miss Enid Wilson, England.

A British women's team could scarcely be deemed representative without Miss Wethered, whose presence may conceivably make all the difference in the fortunes of the match.

With Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare officially placed No. 1 in the American team there is every likelihood of a third meeting with Miss Wethered, who was successful on the two previous occasions.

Miss Helen Hicks, the new American champion, is No. 2 in the team, and in this position there is a probability of a return match with Miss Enid Wilson, the British champion. When they met at Buffalo last autumn Miss Hicks won.

There are four almost certain choices—Miss Wethered, Miss Wilson, Miss Morgan and Miss Gourlay —leaving eight players for the two vacant places. Miss Fishwick is doubtful, though experts say she should be given a place if only because of her match-winning temperament. Miss Fishwick is the most elusive of opponents, because she refuses to take things too seriously.

Mrs. Percy Garon, as was seen in the match against France, makes an ideal partner for Miss Wethered in the foursomes. Miss Elsie Corlett, many times Lancashire champion, is a solid player and a determined fighter; while Miss Jean McCulloch, the Scottish champion, is a dependable all-around golfer.

A better provisional selection could not have been made, and from it a strong enough team should be chosen to win the match against the United States.

AMERICAN BUYS SIX IRISH RACE HORSES

Large Deal Concluded in Liverpool by John Hay Whitney

Liverpool, Eng.—The largest deal in steeplechase horses in years has just been concluded by Mr. John Hay Whitney, the young American millionaire, who seems determined to win the Grand National, in which he has already been second with Easter Hero and third with Sir Lindsay.

After his Dusty Foot, deputising for the injured Sir Lindsay, had been eliminated from the race, Mr. Whitney arranged with Mr. C. A. Rogers, County Dublin owner-trainer, to buy the six best young horses in his stable.

Mr. Whitney had been in Ireland looking at likely horses, and he concluded the deal at Liverpool. All are young, unproven horses, and one of them at least, Double Cross, a full brother to the Irish Grand National winner, Impudent Barney, is thought to be exceptionally promising.

Mr. Whitney is competing with the four women who try to buy all the best steeplechasers that come into the market—Miss Dorothy Paget, Mrs. Hollins, Lady Lindsay and Lady Helen McCalmont.

Mrs. Martha Davies, aged 82, won first prize in a solo contest at the Ffoesyffin Eisteddfod at Cardigan, Wales.

Damp, Spring Days Bring on Catarrh

APT TO GET INTO EARS CAUSING DEAFNESS, OR TO REACH THE LUNGS.

You can Stop Catarrh in any stage by breathing Fumes of Cattarhozone, and here is Proof.

An interesting case is reported from Colon, that of Mr. J. Rodriquez, who writes: "Systematic catarrh about ruined my health. I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food. All my friends said that Catarrh was eating me up.

"Every organ of my body seemed affected. My doctor advised 'Catarrhozone' and I inhaled it ten minutes every hour, and was rewarded by a wonderful improvement.

In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

There is no remedy so certain as Catarrhozone. Large package lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. All reliable dealers

MRS. McLENNAN IS RE-ELECTED HEAD OF W. M. S.

Annual Convention of Presbyterian Provincial Brought to Close.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Many of Old Officers Are Returned to Office for Another Year.

"The Presbyterian Church is a dignified church, but it deals with principles rather than with little rules and prejudices," said Mrs. Charles H. Thorburn of Ottawa, conducting a Question Box this morning at the convention of the Presbyterian Provincial W.M.S., in its final day here.

The question had to do with a query whether W. M. S. members should dance and play cards. Mrs. Thorburn said that changing conditions of life made it impossible to answer in any way save in the above quoted words. "Why, next year they might ask us the same thing about smoking. And you notice it doesn't say anything about horse-racing.

"Entertainments should be dignified and educative and they should include nothing that would smirch the name of the Women's Missionary Society."

Other questions included queries as to whether W.M.S. funds should be used for flowers for the sick. Mrs. Thorburn said this was the work of the Ladies' Aid Society, and also thought that the same source might deal with another question: as to whether an Auxiliary should give assistance to a local small church in need of it. She answered "No," quite emphatically, and referred the matter to the attention of the Ladies' Aid, saying, "They that are strong should bear the burdens of them that are weak."

"How should the W.M.S. members educate the men of the church in their work?" was another question.

"Well," said Mrs. Thorburn, whose emphatic and witty utterances evidently amused her listeners immensely, "That must be done individually. But don't got to two or three meetings a week and then go home and sigh about them as if the cares of the world were on your shoulders."

To make annual meetings successful, the speaker advocated the scrapping of pre-conceived ideas and inclusion of any items that might make them more attractive.

Morning Session.

This morning's session, with the president, Mrs. W. A. McLennan, of Toronto, in the chair, opened with devotional services led by Mrs. J. A. Hilts of Toronto.

Reports of committees were given. The Registration committee reported 267 names registered from the city and outside, and 168 delegates present.

A book was presented to the little page, Horace Steer, , who through his constant attendance and apparent interest in the proceedings, has doubtless imbibed much knowledge regarding W.M.S. matters within the past few days.

In memory of her mother, the recording secretary, Mrs. W. H. Mitchell of Toronto, presented to the Ontario Provincial the large blue banner inscribed with the name and motto and Burning Bush of the organization, which hangs in St. Paul's over the presidential chair, and which was purchased by the donor.

Mrs. Chas. H. Thorburn of Ottawa, was appointed delegate to the enlarged meeting of the Council executive to be held in Toronto in May.

Stratford was decided on as the meeting place next year.

Mrs. Ellen Anderson of Toronto, supply secretary, spoke with deep appreciation of the generous response of the women of the church to the appeal sent out by Mrs. Horne of Regina for assistance to the people of the stricken areas of the West.

Resolutions of thanks were voinced to the Session and men of St. Paul's church and to all who had assisted in any way to make the convention a success.

Prayer for "Our National Work," by Mrs. B. D. Armstrong of Durham, president of Saugeen Presbyterial, concluded the morning session.

New Officers

This afternoon's meeting opened with prayer "For guidance of the Holy Spirit" by Mrs. S. C. Macdonald of New Liskeard, president of the Temiskaming Presbyterial, and proceeded to the report of the Nominating Committee, presented by the secretary, Mrs. R. McWhinney of Dungannon in Maitland Presbyterial.

Election and installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. D. T. L. McKerroll of Toronto, who also voiced a very beautifully-worded closing message, for a convention that has run as smoothly as clockwork, with everything on schedule, animated by the sacrificial spirit of women who "pray, work and give to missions" and who appear to be up on their toes in every aspect of the work. Excellent arrangements made by the ladies of St. Paul's Church contributed largely to the success of one of the most interesting conventions of this type ever held here.

Re-election of last year's officials was the case in nearly every instance, with only a few changes in position.

Mrs. John Williams of Toronto, who has been secretary for Young Women's and Junior Auxiliaries, becomes corresponding secretary in place of Mrs. W. J. McCullough of Toronto, who is added to the list of members without portfolio. Mrs. Williams' position is taken by Mrs. K. B. Schroeder of Toronto.

The offices of Literature and Exchange secretary have now been combined, with the former Literaturesecretary, Miss Blanche Armstrong of Hamilton, assuming both positions.

The list of officers is as follows:

The officers for the year, the majority of whom were re-elected, will be as follows: Mrs. M. B. McQuesten of Hamilton, honorary president; Mrs. W. A. McLennan of Toronto, president; Mrs. J. A. Hilts of Toronto, 1st vice president; Mrs. J. A. Milne of Toronto 2nd vice president; Mrs. J. A. Locheed of Hamilton, 3rd vice president; Miss E. Lillian Mowat of Kingston, 4th vice president; Mrs. W. H. Mitchell of Toronto, recording secretary; Mrs. John Williams of Toronto, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. G. Hammill of Toronto, deputation secretary; Mrs. Charles H. Thorburn of Ottawa, treasurer; Miss S. E. Orr, of Stratford, finance secretary; Mrs. W. W. Carter of Toronto, library secretary; Miss Blanche Armstrong of Hamilton, literature and exchange secretary; Mrs. G. A. Perry of Dalhousie Station, Quebec, (in Glengary Presbyterial); life membership secretary; Mrs. George J. Vanstone of Toronto, mission band secretary; Mrs. J. A. Milne of Toronto, student secretary; Mrs. A. W. Talbot of Toronto, lantern slides secretary; Mrs. J. R. Hill of Ottawa, "Glad Tidings" secretary; Mrs. W. Ekins of Hespeler, girls' organization secretary; Mrs. Ellen Anderson of Toronto, supply secretary; Mrs. T. E. Langford of Simcoe, home helpers' secretary; Mrs. K. B. Schroeder of Toronto, Young Women's and Junior Auxiliaries' secretary; Mrs. J. H. Eaton of Orillia, welcome and welfare secretary; Mrs. D. Mason McLennan of Toronto, press secretary; Mrs. F. R. Redditt of Goderich, general interests secretary.

Members without portfolio are Mrs. J. R. Sanderson of Toronto, Mrs. V. A. Smith of Toronto, Mrs. W. J. McCullough of Toronto, Mrs. Peter Reith of Tara, Mrs. H. W. Morgan of Peterborough and Mrs. J. Dickson of Dutton.

The re-elected president, Mrs. McLennan, on behalf of herself and the Board members, thanked all who had co-operated with her during the past year, and went on to remark on the "deep appreciation of your loyal support" to her fellow executives.

She spoke also of the spirit of intense enthusiasm which had animated the proceedings of the convention, and referred with regret to the retirement of several officers: Mrs. W. W. Bryden of Toronto, former exchange secretary; Mrs. J. M. Empey of Mitchell, former life membership secretary; Mrs. F. H. Larkin of Toronto, former member without portfolio; 'Our Beloved' Mrs. John Stewart of Appleton, also former member without portfolio.

Mrs. W. J. McCullough of Toronto, who is retiring from the office of corresponding secretary to become a member without portfolio, was presented with a lovely bouquet of flowers and an eloquently-worded address by Mrs. J. A. Locheed of Hamilton.

Boiled Shirt Bandits Hold Up Club; Broker Who Wanted to Cash Cheque

NEW YORK, April 21 (C.P.). — Now it's the boiled shirt bandit. Three youths wearing faultless evening clothes entered the Brook, millionaires' club on Park Avenue, late last night, whisked guns from beneath their swallowtails and appropriated $1,500 from the desk.

While they were doing it William Walter Phelps, of Old Westbury, a broker and member of the club, entered. Overlooking the guns, he walked to the desk.

"Could you cash a small cheque," he asked. "I've only two 100 bills, and I want to pay a taxi bill."

"Just fork over the $200, we'll take care of the bill," said the bandits. Mr. Phelps did.

The robbers locked Mr. Phelps and three employees in an elevator, paid off the taxi chauffeur, and sauntered away.

Defence Minister

Lt.-Col. D. M. Sutherland, Minister of National Defence, will be the guest speaker at the dinner in connection with the annual convention of the Canadian Army Service Corps Association, in Toronto on May 9.

WOULD RECHECK RAILROAD SALE

U. S. Senator Believes Purchase Price of Aroostook Line Set Too Low.

BOUGHT BY C.P.R.

WASHINGTON, April 21 (C.P.). —Former Senator Arthur R. Gould, of Maine, to-day asked the U.S. Interstate Commerce Commission to reopen the question of the sale of the Aroostook Valley Railroad to the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Gould and his family own control of the Aroostook Valley which runs through a rich potato growing section of Maine.

An agreement was made with the Canadian Pacific, which owns 400 shares of the road, for that company to purchase an additional 2,000 shares. Arbitrators were appointed to fix a proper price, but the Canadian Pacific felt the figure they set was too high, and appealed to the Commission, which lowered the figure. The Commission authorized the Canadian Pacific to acquire the line at the lower price, but this does not make a sale mandatory.

Gould in his petition asserted that in his opinion the Canadian Pacific had "acted unfaisly toward your petitioner and in violation of its contractual obligations to him and is attempting to make use of the Commission to avoid its contractural obligations."

He added that in view of what he called "the inconsistent attitude taken by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company before the Commission" the case should be reopened for further study as to whether the reduction of purchase price was an error.

URGES MINERS TO ACCEPT CUT

Union Secretary Claims Little Aid Can Be Expected if Strike Starts.

TREASURY LOW.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S., April 21 (C.P.)—Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, and personal representative of president John L. Lewis, to-day intimated that if the miners of Nova Scotia declared a strike in protest against wage reductions they could expect little money from the international treasury.

Speaking at a special convention of the United Mine Workers of district 26, Mr. Kennedy said the international would stand by the Nova Scotia miners, the same as it was standing by striking miners in the United States. But there was only $500,000 in the treasury and already there were 100,000 miners on strike in the United States, so the men could figure out how much financial assistance would be available.

He, therefore, stated the international executive was supporting the executive of district 26 in advising the men to accept wage reductions as set forth in the Duncan report: 10 per cent. for day workers and 12.5 per cent. for contract workers.

Seeking Agreement To Develop Power

PORTLAND, Me., April 21 (C.P.). —Two Maine men, who are seeking an agreement with the Newfoundland Government for the development of a pulp and paper mill and a Hydro-Electric plant in Bay St. George, remained non-commital as to their plans to-day.

"There is much more to the project that will come out later," Edgar Irish, Hartford, Me., lumberman, said when asked about the report that a bill to ratify the agreement had been presented to the Newfoundland House of Assembly.

"Many millions of dollars are involved," he added, through the support of men from New York City and other persons.

NO DAMAGE DONE IN SMALL FIRES

Dry Weather Conditions Have Started Annual Crop of Grass Fires.

Dry weather conditions of the past few days have started the annual crop of grass fires. The City Fire Department was called out to its first grass fire of the season in the vicinity of 111 Sophia street shortly before 10 o'clock last evening.

Yesterday afternoon another run was also made to the city incinerator where a quantity of rubbish had become ignited. No damage was caused in either instance.

The Fire Chief wishes to renew a warning that citizens are required, under the provisions of the Fire Prevention by-law to obtain permission of the Fire Department before burning leaves or rubbish.

BLAST WRECKS STORE IN FALLS

Storekeeper Rescues Family Trapped in Apartment at Rear.

BOMB SUSPECTED.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 21 (C.P.).—An explosion wrecked a one-storey store and apartment building four blocks from police headquarters here early to-day, causing property loss estimated at $7,100. Police and firemen were unable to determine the cause of the blast, but hinted it may have been caused by a bomb. An investigation is under way.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wellsby and their three children, Earl 9, Norma 5, and Gloria 7 months, were trapped in an apartment in the rear of the building when flames ate their way through from the grocery store in the front of the building where the explosion occurred. Wellsby saved his family, assisted by police. No one was injured.

PROBE NEAR END ON BEAUHARNOIS

Report of Enquiry Into Conduct of Three Senators Expected Friday or Monday.

LENGTHY DOCUMENT.

OTTAWA, April 21 (C.P.). — The Beauharnois Senate Committee report occupies the political spotlight. All eyes are turning from the House of Commons to the Senate as interest is directed on the outcome of the inquiry into the conduct of Senators W. L. McDougald, Andrew Haydon, and Donat Raymond.

Prospects are that the report will be tabled in the Upper Chamber to-morrow or Monday. Findings of the committee will be contained in the report submitted to the Senate, without recommendations of what action should be taken. The document will be lengthy, but a considerable part of the report will contain excerpts from the 1930 House of Commons Committee report.

Immediately on tabling of the committee's findings the customary motion for consideration and adoption, requiring two days' notice, will be given.

Final details of the report were under consideration at a meeting of the Senate Committee this morning. Another sitting will be held this afternoon.

ARTICLES OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER

Annual sunflowers of the cucumber leaved type are fine annuals. They will surprise you if you don't know them. Try a packet.

Sprinkle seed of hardy annuals in the garden where you want them.

Start snapdragon seed in a cool room. They grow best in cool quarters in their earliest stages. You can scatter seed outside now and get strong early plants.

Try some of the new early spinach with big leaves and less ambition to seed than older types.

Plant a row of mustard for greens.

Banana and acorn squash are easily grown at home and yield freely.

Try some vegetable marrows this year. Pick them small.

Get parsnips in the ground early. The longer the season the bigger the parsnip.

You can have petunias blooming size by warm weather by starting seed now.

Get a box or pot of head lettuce seed started. Maybe you can raise prize lettuce heads if you try again.

Try a new vegetable this year. You can't improve the garden without a few experiments.

Start annuals in pots and boxes for early bloom. Getting them going now will give you bloom in late June.

Sow grass seed and sprinkle fertilizer in thin spots.

Spray currant bushes as soon as the leaves start unfolding with a nicotine spray. It is a great nursery for plant lice. You can check the garden crop by checking it on the currants.

If you grow home cabbage, try the Savoy. It is the finest quality and least often seen in the market.

Pink and lavender mourning brides are favorite bouquet material. Order seed.

Draw a garden plan if you haven't already done so. The first start is an accurate measurement of the garden.

You need tape lines, stakes, plant labels for garden operations. Get them in and have them handy.

A wheel hoe will make gardening easy.

Oil up and sharpen the lawn mower. Spring is in the offing.

Study early, late, and mid-season vegetables in your planting plans for succession.

Don't be afraid to dig deeply. The deeper the soil is turned the better plants will grow.

Plant a supply of annual vines to cover ugly fences and to shade sunny porches. All the morning glories are excellent and fast growers.

Plant a few hills of pole beans for extra heavy yield.

Plant night scented stock for fragrance in odd corners. It has no beauty, but is unexcelled for its spicy odor.

Get in seed orders now.

Start Sweet Peas Early for Sure Bloom

Get an Early Start With Sweet Peas

Dry seasons such as have been experienced for two years previous to 1931 were grievous discouragements to growers of sweet peas. There is no reason to believe drought years will continue and therefore no reason to believe that as good sweet peas as ever were grown this year. The sweet pea must have cool, moist soil for its roots and fairly cool weather for the development of vine and blossom. It is not a plant for hot weather months and it does not survive drought and dry atmosphere even with copious soaking of the roots any too well. Early flowering Spencer varieties should be planted in the states which have late spring.

Being a cool weather plant, there is only one way to grow the sweet pea. That is in the cool time of the year—spring, to bring the climax of bloom in early summer before hot weather seriously sets in. Each vine needs room to develop and two inches apart is the minimum. If each vine is given ample root and top room it will produce double, even quadruple the amount of bloom of the crowded vine and of finer quality.

Sweet peas can be transplanted readily. The safest method is to start them in pots, boxes or frames and move them as early as possible to permanent quarters. Paper seed boxes arranged so that each plant may be moved with a minimum of root disturbance are excellent for the purpose as are also paper pots.

The soil for sweet peas should be deeply dug and well enriched and should also be well drained. The plants should be set in depressions, say about six inches deep, that may be filled in as the vine mounts upward so that the roots may have a cool growing medium as the temperature increases with the season.

Give the vines support as soon as first tendrils are formed.

Sweet peas are usually grown for cutting. There is no finer material. They are also of the greatest value for garden decoration. A fine method is to grow them as pillars in the garden, in circles three to five feet in diameter and to a single color. As soon as their blooming period is over the vines can be pulled up. Shirley poppy seed can be scattered over the space vacated by the sweet peas and in a few weeks another display of bloom will result.

The sweet pea has been developed into a remarkable series of colors and types. In ordering seed, select those varieties catalogued for garden use. Do not try to grow greenhouse types in the garden.

Busy Planting Days Ahead

Make haste, for there are busy days ahead. The sun is shining a bit warmer and is staying with us a little longer each day. Almost before you know it you will find yourself busy putting your garden in shape.

The lure of the outdoors will claim you completely and, as you work the soft soil, delighting in the smell and feel of the newly turned earth, you will find little time for planning. Do your planning at once. Decide what you want to do with your garden and grounds this year and then, when it comes time to don your work clothes, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that every effort brings you closer to completion of a carefully thought-out garden.

Planning makes the successful garden as truly as planning makes for the successfully built house.

ST. PIERRE TODIE MAY 6

MONTREAL—Execution on the gallows at the common jail of Sherbrooke, Que., on Friday, May 6 faced Albert St. Pierre yesterday. The Hereford farmer yesterday heard his appeal for a new trial rejected by five judges in the court of appeals. Yesterday his counsel sought to make an application for a stay of execution pending possible appeal to the supreme court of Canada. This too was rejected.

FLOWER SEEDS FOR PRAIRIES

Horticultural Council Asks Donations to Send Into Drought-Stricken Areas.

MORE BEAUTIFUL CANADA

The sub-committee on ornamental horticulture of the Canadian Horticultural Council is conducting an intensive campaign for "A More Beautiful Canada." The general intension and purpose of this campaign is to encourage the beautification of Canadian homes and their surroundings and public property wherever opportunity offers.

Recently it has come to the attention of the committee that there are many farmers in Saskatchewan living in the area which suffered severely from drought last year who would be glad to beautify their home surroundings, but are not in a financial position to purchase even the required flower seeds. It is suggested, therefore, that a tremendously valuable service could be rendered by horticulturists in the Eastern Provinces, and others interested, if they would contribute flower seeds for free distribution in Saskatchewan.

An appeal is, therefore, made to all who are able to do so to cooperate in helping those who are unable to help themselves. All flower seeds or money to purchase flower seeds should be sent immediately to Mr. C. B. Daniel, Saskatchewan Relief Commission, Regina Trading Company Building, Regina, Saskatchewan, with whom arrangements have been made for their proper care and distribution.

MARKET FOR HAY REMAINS ACTIVE

Export Movement During Year Been Very Low—Only Best Grades Wanted.

OTTAWA, April 20.—The domestic hay market remains ordinarily active throughout Canada. Hay is moving as required by stockyards, construction and lumber companies and retail dealers. There is a substantial movement also to the drought areas of the Prairie Provinces. Large supplies, however of hay of good marketable quality remain throughout Canada. The export movement has been very low this season so that the supplies of commercial hay have not been reduced to the low levels of other years.

Prospects for exporting during the balance of this season are not considered bright, owing to trade barriers of one sort or another which make it uneconomical to export. Only the best grades are in demand for domestic selling, and prices being paid growers remain at a low level. The estimated percentages of hay still in growers' hands in principal production districts, current prices being paid for it at Toronto are as follows:

Timothy No. 2, $12; Timothy No. 3, $10 to $11; Timothy Mixed Hay, $10 to $12; Hay, no grade, $5 to $9; Hay, rejected, $6 to $7; Alfalfa, 1st cut, $7 to $8; Alfalfa, 2nd cut, $12 to $12.50; Oat straw, $6.50 to $7; Wheat straw, $7 to $7.50; Rye straw, $7.50 to $9.

Cavan

Mrs. R. M. Howden and Mr. W. Howden motored to Peterborough on Saturday.

Some of the local farmers sold hogs this week, when the price paid was $3.85. This is the lowest price paid yet in this locality.

There are a few cases of measles reported in the locality.

The fall wheat appears to have wintered well and if warm weather is not too long delayed, will come out all right.

Cavan Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mr. D. J. Hunter, Cavanville on Thursday afternoon, April 21st. There will be an exchange of seeds, slips and bulbs.

The W. A. of St. John's church, Ida, held their April meeting at the home of Miss Elva Elliott, on Wednesday afternoon, April 13. It was a sewing meeting, making the garments for the annual missionary sale. The May meeting will be held in the Parish Hall, and there will be a sale, each member donating something for the sale, and buying something offered for sale.

Crows' nests stopped up a chimney in the home of Mrs. Mary Davies, Neath, Wales, and caused carbon monoxide fumes from a stove to kill Mrs. Davies and her grandson.

Applying Plant Food on Lawns

Run the Back of the Rake Over the Grass to Knock Plant Food Off the Grass.

Once a lawn is established, few changes can be made without starting all over again. For this reason one should use great care in preparing the seedbed, selecting proper seed and supplying the right plant food.

Soils should be friable, which means fine and crumbly. This insures good drainage and permits deep rooting. In levelling the seedbed, have a gentle slope away from the house. This provides drainage and gives a more impressive appearance. Always buy good seed—it is by far the most economical. Your land, labor and plant food will be wasted if expended on poor seed.

One of the most essential things in making the new lawns, and one often neglected, is the proper feeding of the grass. Fine grasses do not thrive on poor soil. To produce a velvety smooth lawn, a thick turf and a hardy growth, grass like all other plants, must be properly fed. Modern methods have reduced this task to a science.

After the seedbed is prepared apply a complete commercial plant food at the rate of four pounds per 100 square foot. To get best results use a plant food spreader. Work the plant food lightly into the soil with a rake—then seed and roll. Be sure to keep the seedbed moist until the grass is well established. If plant food is not used at seeding, wait until the grass is about two or three inches high. Then make a light application of plant food—about two pounds per 100 square feet—and run the back of the rake over the grass to knock the plant food off the grass, and wet down thoroughly. Repeat light feedings every six to eight weeks during the summer and fall seasons.

Manure is Harmful to Lawns

Manuring the lawn in the fall as a means of protecting it from winter injury is an old-fashioned idea that is fast being discarded. It is now known that a mulch is of no value as a protection.

Where large lumps of manure have been spread, it may actually cause harm by smothering out the grass beneath the lumps. While it is true that manure contains some plant food, its content is very low and its results are doubtful, since most of its plant food content is leached out and is lost in the water which runs off the frozen soils.

Turf authorities agree that the use of manure brings in large quantities of noxious weed seed. Some of these seeds may germinate and start growth the first year, while others may not germinate for many years. Weed infestation following application of manure, therefore, is not a one-year evil but may become prevalent whenever bare spots appear in the lawn or the grass becomes thin.

In addition to these disadvantages there is always the danger of disease infection from tetanus (lockjaw) and gas gangrene. Medical scientists know that manure, especially horse manure, harbors the spores of these diseases and certainly the lawn—the chief playground of children—should not be "seeded" with these dreaded organisms.

Winter damage to lawns is not caused by freezing, but by poor drainage and the heaving action of frost. Both are easily corrected. Do not allow low spots in a lawn where water stands. Early in the spring a lawn should be rolled with a light roller to compact turf which has been lifted by frost heaving, and place the roots again in contact with the soil before they have dried out.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, April 21. — Butter prices seemed to strike steady levels yesterday, and trade, according to brokers, was fair. Business was conducted on a basis about equal with Tuesday for most lots, but Western butter was sold on spot slightly easier than previously. The general prices for the market were 19½c for No. 1 creamery solids, and 18½c for No. 2, which were steady with the low of the spread asked on Tuesday.

Cream.

Cream prices were unchanged from the previous range, country shippers being quoted 21c for special, 20c for No. 1, and 17c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

Trade in new cheese was fair, and prices were about steady at 10¼c to 10½c for new large, 10½c to 10¾c for twins, and 10¾c to 12c for triplets. Retailers were offered new makes at 12c for large, 12¼c for twins, 12½c for triplets, and 14½c for stiltons.

Eggs.

Receipts of eggs were not exceptionally heavy for the season of the year, but buyers were not very interested, and prices were barely steady. Storing activity was small, and prices for storage-packed supplies held to the previous declines. Ordinary packed graded eggs were quoted at 15c to 15½c for extras, 13½c to 14c for firsts, and 12c to 13c for seconds, while storage packed eggs were offered at 17c for extras and 15c for firsts. Country shippers were quoted 14c for extras, 12c for firsts, and 10c to 11c for seconds, delivery, ungraded, cases returned. Retailers were offered supplies at 20c for extras in cartons, 18c for extras loose, 16c for firsts loose, and 14c to 15c for seconds loose.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 21. — Grain prices lurched heavily yesterday, influenced by liquidating sales of May holdings, both in wheat and corn.

Wheat fell almost 2c a bushel, and corn outdid low price records as far back as 1899. A contributing cause of weakness was word from a leading crop authority that it would probably take a fortnight yet to determine whether the March freeze and the recent drought had resulted in severe damage or not.

Wheat closed unsettled at about the day's bottom, 1⅞ to 1¾c lower than Tuesday's finish; corn, ⅝c to 1⅛c down; oats, ⅝c to ⅞c off; and provisions unchanged to 5c up.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 21. — Laggard action of overseas wheat purchasers and the urge to take profits sent wheat prices into a fractional decline in the Grain Pit yesterday. Values at the close were ¼c to ⅝c lower for the day.

May finished ⅜c lower at 63c; July ⅝c to ¾c lower at 65c, while October eased ⅝c to close at 67½c.

Opening practically unchanged from the previous close trade throughout the morning session was extremely light. A flurry of selling around mid-session by the traders anxious to take or fix caused a slight dip in prices, which was added to near the close, when low levels were reached.

Slight improvement was noted in the demand for cash wheat and coarse grains, but prices in these commodities showed little change. Trading was light.

CLIMBING VINES ADD CHARM

Five Favorites — Morning Glory, Nasturtium, Scarlet Runner, Cardinal Climber, Moon Flower.

START SEED IN BOXES

Flowering vines, of which there are many kinds and varieties, can be used with very desirable effects about the home. Uninviting spectacles such as backyard poultry houses, sheds, clothes line posts and fences may be made very attractive by the use of some of the flowering annual vines which are grown quickly from seed. The Morning Glory, the Nasturtium and the Scarlet Runner blooms are familiar to everyone, but to these may be added the Cardinal Climber, the Moon Flower, the Cobea Scandens and the Canary vines, all of which produce beautiful flowers and very attractive foliage.

30 Feet In Season

Some of these plants, particularly the Cobea Scandens and Canary vines, if grown in good soil and in a sunny position will extend their vines from twenty to thirty feet in a season. All of the annual flowering vines will require supports to which to cling as they grow.

Unless one uses a hotbed or coldframe in the planting of Nasturtium or Scarlet Runner seeds, the planting should be delayed until the ground commences to warm up. Most of the other vines may be started from seed planted in the open soil as early as the ground is workable. If one has favorable conditions, however, it is well to start the plants in boxes or pots in a sunny window. By doing this one can have plants ready to set out by the third week in May, thus securing a long season of effective decoration.

The Gardener —His Corner

Indoor Gardening.

Plants started from seed sown in shallow boxes on the window sill or in the hot beds will require some attention. Just as soon as the second set of leaves has developed there should be a little thinning, so that individuals will have about half an inch each way. Be careful not to water excessively and on fine days open the window a little. Later on when the plants have reached about two inches in height it will be well to transplant to more commodious quarters and to harden still more by raising the window or putting the boxes outside. With the hot beds the usual procedure is to replant in shallow boxes and place in a cold frame, which is simply a glass covered frame without any heating manure. In this the plants are gradually hardened by exposure until the time comes for putting them in permanent quarters after all danger of frost is over. It is not too late to start any flowers or vegetables which will transplant, either in a sunny window or a hot bed. In those sections of Canada where the season is short, petunias, asters, tomatoes, cabbage and such things really should be started inside if one is to be sure of results.

Flowers Are Improved.

In recent years there has been a great deal of improvement in flowers. Some of the old common things not much appreciated in the old gardens have been glorified and brought right up to the modern standard of large, delicate blooms of brilliant hue. There is now a magnificent single Aster which many people prefer to the older type while the new Petunias, Zinnias, Scabicsis, Calendulas, Marigolds, Cosmos and Pansies are almost like different flowers from the sort many people were familiar with years ago. One would be well advised to give some of these a trial as they offer a really wonderful range of color.

Paths and Materials.

A well planned path usually adds to the appearance of any garden. Curves are advisable, but unless there is an obvious reason such as a corner of a building or fence, one should be supplied by planting a tree or clump of shrubbery. A path curving under some covered trellis and leading up to a new vista of the lawn with the flowers behind, is very effective. Several materials can be used. Flat limestones laid irregularly are probably the best, though gravel, cinders, brick, or, if the traffic is not to be to heavy, a grass passageway between flower beds are also very good. In laying the other materials mentioned, particularly brick or stone, this should be done in such a way so that the surface will be flush with the top of the surrounding sod, so that the lawnmower will run over it. Sun dials, pools, garden seats, pergolas and arbours can be incorporated in the general lay-out.

When Vegetables Go In.

The first vegetables to go in are usually those grown for their leaves like Spinach, Cress, Mustard and Lettuce. One can sow the first of these just as soon as the ground is ready, and can continue sowing them at intervals of a week for about a month. This will give a much longer season and a succession of very necessary vitamines at a time when people are just getting over the effects of a long diet of starchy stored foods of insipid, imported southern stuff.

In all of these the new varieties listed in the seed catalogue represent a vast improvement over the old. There is a Spinach now that will be ready for the table weeks ahead of the old kinds, and also late varieties which will keep the table supplied with greens right into July before going to seed. With the first of these early leafy vegetables should go in the first sowing of peas. The best and largest crops of peas come from the early planted seed. This vegetable will stand considerable frost and snowfall after planting should not be viewed with alarm but as a good omen. The early varieties will begin to bear in forty-five days.

At this time too should be put in the first sowing of radish. A week or two later get in the second sowing of the leafy vegetables and more radish, the main sowing of peas, which should include at least one late, one medium and one early variety, so that the season is prolonged to its maximum, the first of the beets and carrots and half of the early potatoes. It is good business at this period to risk a row or two of corn and beans. If a late frost catches them it is a small loss any way. In the third planting group will come cabbages, cauliflower and potatoes which should not go out until danger from frost is past, and a little later when the soil really warms up plant melons, cucumbers and celery.

Outside of the really early things such as peas, spinach and lettuce, which make their growth during cold weather, there is little object in rushing the season and particularly in regard to those hot weather crops such as tomatoes, melons, cucumbers and the main planting of corn. Even if these do escape a light, late frost they will not start to grow until the soil and weather really warm up.

"Dirt Farm" Extraordinary

(Hon. F. C. Biggs' Glen Campbell Farms)

What is probably one of the most scientific and efficient "dirt farms" on the North American continent is situated a few miles from the city of Hamilton in south-western Ontario.

Its owner is proud to call it a "dirt farm," for although he has been a Cabinet Minister in the Ontario Government and is officially the Hon. F. C. Biggs, he is essentially a farmer whose life work is farming, and who counts his success in life not by his political achievements nor by the multiplicity of industrial directorates, but by the increased productivity of his land and the high quality of the cattle he breeds.

Associated with Mr. Biggs are his two sons, Dick and Stanley, and between the three of them they have made the 500 acres which they control one of the outstanding breeding centres of America. Their herd of 185 Ayrshires has a show and market record which would be hard to beat by any herd in the world.

But it is not only in the breeding of Ayrshires that the Glen Campbell farms are pre-eminent. In the realm of scientific soil culture they have pointed the way to a solution of many a farm problem, and today the farm is producing 50 per cent more than it was ten years ago. Mr. Biggs himself and his son Stanley who superintends the agricultural development of the farm, have made extensive studies of soil conditions, and on the farms they have carried out a whole series of highly successful experiments in the fertilization of permanent pasturage. By so doing they have been able actually to cut down the acreage needed while at the same time increasing the size of the herd.

Heavily Fertilized.

At the present time, 200 acres of the farm are pasture, and these are being constantly fertilized, as many as 1,500 loads of manure being used recently to revive old pastures. Another 35 acres are devoted to the corn crop, 100 acres are in hay, and the remainder in grain. The three-year rotation system is used, and all the most modern devices of soil chemistry are brought to bear on the problem of producing the maximum crop from every acre on the farm.

Every visitor to Glen Campbell must have been impressed with the beauty of the approach to the farms. But it is a beauty not of horticultural profusion, nor of display of wealth, for this is essentially a "dirt farm." The beauty was, rather, to be found in the essential neatness and well-keptness (to coin a word) of everything in sight. This is emphasized here both as a tribute to the owners of the farms and as a suggestion to all "dirt farmers" of the importance of this point in farm management. It presents a "show front" to the farm which, while perhaps not as important as the merchant's show window, certainly yields an appreciable return for whatever investment it necessitates. And be it said as one of the lessons of Glen Campbell Farms, that the investment is not so much one of money as one of work. Mr. Biggs operates his 500 acres and his large herd with not greater man-power per acre or per head than the average farmer.

The next point that strikes the visitor is the office. It is here that the system of the farm centres. Here records are kept, buying and selling planned, show circuits mapped out, a watchful eye kept on recent developments in order to keep the farm up-to-date in every respect. The office is not housed in a specially built building. It is in one of the wings of the large farmhouse, but it serves to separate the activities of the farm from the activities of the home, a principle of great importance to every farmer.

In His Office.

It was in the office that Mr. Biggs was found. He was busy, but he has always time to talk about the farm. It has been his life-work and he is justly proud of it. At times its success has led him far away from farming and breeding. For example, it led him into politics, as a former in a farmers' party representing farmers. He became a Cabinet Minister, but he gave up politics to return to the farm. It led him also into the dairying business in the city of Hamilton. For years he sold his milk to a dairy there. The dairy had two horses and two wagons when Mr. Biggs obtained an interest in its management and returns. A short time ago he released his interest, along with his co-owners, and the sum involved in the transaction was reported, it is said, in seven figures. Again he has returned to the farm. Not that he ever really left it for even during his excursions into the realms outside the purely lines of farming and breeding, he always retained active management of the Glen Campbell fortunes.

On the subject of the small farmer, Mr. Biggs believes, if the writer interprets him correctly, that he has before him a wide-open door to success if he will only apply to his farm the same rules of common sense which he applies in the commonest of his everyday actions. The lot of the small farmer, Mr. Biggs admits, is not an easy one in many respects, but it is far from being a hopeless one. What has been done at Glen Campbell can be done on any other farm with as good climatic and soil conditions, and there are thousands of such farms in Canada. The small farmer, he says, should insist on pure-bred cattle in his herd. They will make money for him, if he takes care of them. The small farmer, too, should study crop rotation, soil culture, market problems, scientific breeding, farm management, and in fact, every department of agricultural knowledge which applies to his farm.

But the farmer is not a scientist. In nine cases out of ten he is not even a student. How then shall he make himself efficient in these things? It is here that the second topic enters.

Aid Small Farmers.

Government agricultural bureaus and officials exist primarily, Mr. Biggs says, for the small farmer. They are at his disposal. It is up to him to make use of them. If the farmer has a problem he should get in touch with some competent government authority on that problem. That is his right. The most expert advice in the world is available to him if he will only seek it. There is, therefore, concludes Mr. Biggs, no excuse in the world for incompetency in farm management.

Whenever a problem arises which appears to be beyond the ken of those on the farm he does not hesitate to call in the scientists whom the government maintains at such institutions as the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Ont. An interesting example of this is the fine apple orchard close to Mr. Biggs' house. Ten years ago it was unproductive. The apples were of such poor quality that they were not worth picking. Mr. Biggs called in an expert from O.A.C. and carried out his recommendations. The fruit of the orchard improved rapidly year by year so that today it is all contracted for long in advance of picking.

SOME COW!

A neighbor of mine once bought a cow,
Say—she was a sight, I tell you now.
Her back stood up, and her knees knocked in,
While her tail bone looked like a coupling pin.

The amount of milk she gave for him
Would at no time fill a two-quart tin.
So I sez to him, sez I, one day,
"Why don't you send that cow away?"

Well, he wriggled and squirmed, then said to me,
"The papers I have for her you see.
Show that this cow's dam was from a sire
Whose grand-dam set the world afire.

"So don't you see," sez he to me,
"What a grand mistake her sale would be?
For her papers prove you must allow,
Her great, great grand-dam a real fine cow.

LIVESTOCK MEN MEET SATURDAY

Details of Spring Improvement Program to be Considered.

FIELD WORK SUSPENDED

A meeting of the Livestock Improvement Association of Peterborough County will be held in the office of J. B. Nelson, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Saturday, April 23, at 2 p.m.

The business includes a discussion on the report that has been done this Spring in the work of better bull placements, and also a consideration of plans for the rest of the season. It is generally known that William Knox, fieldman in connection with the Association's promotion efforts, is no longer at the disposal of the Association because of the necessity of official retrenchment of expense. This is a loss to the movement for improved stock, but it is hoped that the members of the Association will be able to put forth other means to maintain the progress of last year.

All the stockmen of the county are invited to attend the meeting.

GLACIER PRIEST HAS NEW THRILL

Climbs Katmai Volcano, First Time it Has Been Conquered in Winter.

CLOSE CALL ON ICE.

SEWARD, Alaska, Apr. 21 — A special despatch to the Seward gateway from Chignik on the Alaskan Peninsula related yesterday a new experience of Father Bernard Hubbard, the glacier priest.

The despatch said Father Hubbard, professor of geology at Santa Clara University, California, with two companions, successfully climbed Katmai volcano across from Kodiak Island, the first time it has been conquered in winter.

Father Hubbard's party was landed on Katmai beach March 24. Kenneth Chisholm and Jack Morton, students at the university, are his companions.

The trip almost ended in disaster because of the lateness in starting. The party was held up three weeks waiting for a dog team from the interior. The Katmai river ice broke suddenly and the explorers pulled their sled and supplies over moving ice blocks, floundering waist deep at times in the icy water while struggling back to Shelikoff strait.

Food Lost.

Most of the food was lost but all photographic and scientific data was saved. The boat which was supposed to call for them did not come. Two weeks later the crew of the motorship Polar Bear saw smoke signals of the marooned party on Katmai beach and rescued the men and dogs.

With no game in the desolate region around Katmai, the men were forced to eat dog meat and shell fish and were in a weakened condition from the unusual diet.

The party is now on the Polar Bear enroute to Unimak Island, eastern aleutians, where Father Hubbard plans to climb Mount Shishaldin, which has been in eruption this spring.

GUILD HOLDS FRIDAY SUPPER

Christ Church, Omemee, A. Y. P. A. Holds Annual Meeting —Officers Elected.

DISTRICT NEWS

OMEMEE, Apr. 21 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Women's Guild group 1 of Christ Church held a very successful supper Friday evening in the basement of the church.

Miss Susie Clark was convenor of the group and had as her helpers the following ladies, Mesdames Sawyer, Gowans, Robinson, James, Middleton, Deyell, Stinson, Jamieson, Miss Cornwall and Miss Laura Middleton.

A.Y.P.A. Meeting

The annual meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the basement of Christ Church Monday evening, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, William Stephenson; vice-president, Howard Bent; secretary, Patricia Hunt; treasurer, Irene Clemett; publicity, George Dickson; missionary convenor, Grace Bell; literary convenor, Audrey Weir; musical convenor, Phyllis Morton; social convenor, Maggie McQuade.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring president Horace Hill, who for the past three years has given his faithful services, by the Rev. Weir.

The newly elected president took charge of the rest of the meeting which closed with the benediction.

Association Meets

The Women's Association of Christ Church held a quilting in the church basement Thursday afternoon when two quilts were made ready for the bale.

At the conclusion, dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Adams and Miss Cornwall.

During the recent tour of Dr. Head, Bishop of Melbourne, through farming communities of Australia, many farmers constructed an altar and pulpit of logs in the fields specially for the service.

University Queen

Down at the University of South Carolina the students have chosen Miss Kathryn Martin of Anderson, South Carolina, as the Queen of the May Day ceremonies at the school. She is a senior.

OUR MAIL

DEAR ANNE: Here I am all alone this bright but chilly Sabbath morn, the family having gone out for dinner, except the Pater, who is busy at the barn.

I was just wondering if the weather man has forgotten all about the south wind as it is now some time since we have had a whiff of that soft and gentle breeze. This morning when I stepped out on the verandah on my way to the barn such a swirl of icy north wind greeted me, making me duck my head into my coat collar, but you know all about the way people huddle into their wraps on a cold morning, so I won't describe it—just leave it to your imagination—and to think of it being past the middle of April!

Last Sunday I responded to the call of the woods, and with the vision of Hepaticas in my mind I tramped about, stirring up the fallen leaves, and finally I was rewarded by finding one wee bud, just through the ground, with such a tiny bit of stem that I did not pluck it—just covered it up tenderly promising to be back to-day, but the lure is not on me, the wind is so bitter. It was lovely in the woods, though, and the little streamlet running through on its winding course sparkled and gurgled with delight where it fell over rocks and pebbles. The old dog, too, found his time delightfully occupied chasing chipmunks and barking up trees at saucy squirrels who went through their whole vocabulary of impudence at him.

How bravely the spring birds returned, and how gladly we welcomed them, even to that black marauder, Tommy Crow, and what a struggle for existence they all have had during the recent snowstorms. I did feel sorry to see the dear things sitting so dejectedly on the wire fence out opposite my window. I would go out and of course they would fly away, but by and by they would return to find a miracle — some one had scattered crumbs all about the door yard, and how quickly they availed themselves of the feast. It more than repaid to see the former attitude change to one of cheerfulness and hope revived. One pair has already decided to set up housekeeping under the veranda eaves in the nest the swallows had last year, although I have informed them that the swallows are soon due to return, and will expect to occupy the old place. I am afraid that a fight will ensue.

Your daily talk continues to be instructive and inspiring as per usual. I miss the helpful letters the neighbors used to write. I wish they would all start again.

I have been told Anne, that there is a place where they make one's old woollen blankets, socks, and sweaters over into fine blankets again, but have not been able to find where the place is. I wonder if you or any of the neighbors would kindly inform me. I have several such articles and would be glad if I could make such good use of them.

Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you that I have a beautiful jar of pussy willow branches—they are so springlike. I love them. As ever,

VIONNET.

I was beginning to wonder whether you were ill or not, Vionnet, when I had not heard from you for so long, and so you can guess just how pleased I was to receive your letter this morning. The weather man is giving us lovely weather now and I am sure the Hepaticas will soon be found in abundance. I am writing you today, Vionnet, telling you of a place where blankets, etc., can be made over, as it would be against the rules to print it in this column.

Sincerely,

ANNE WILCOX.

BEEF STEW.

(Contributed by Mrs. L. J. S.)

1½ lbs. of beef from the leg
4 potatoes cut in ½ inch slices
1 onion cut in slices
1 teaspoon of salt
½ cup turnip cut in dice
¼ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup of diced carrots
½ cup of flour
1 quart of water

Remove the fat and cut meat in pieces. Put aside tenderest pieces of meat; put the rest of the meat and bone in the cold water and soak for one hour. Then heat until it bubbles. Season the reserved meat and roll it in flour. Melt the fat in a frying pan, remove the scraps, brown the sliced onion and then the floured meat in the hot fat; add both to the stew and cook for two hours at a low temperature. Add the vegetables and flour which has been mixed with ½ cup of cold water and cook for one hour, or until the meat and vegetables are tender. Remove the bone, season and serve.

DUMPLINGS FOR STEW

1 cup of flour
2 teaspoons of baking powder
¼ teaspoon of salt

About 1-3 of a cup of milk or cold water.

Sift dry ingredients into a bowl. When the stew is cooked, quickly stir the milk or water into the flour, using just enough liquid to make a very soft dough. Drop by spoonfuls into the hot stew and have the meat arranged so that it will make a support for the dumplings. Cover closely and boil twelve to fifteen minutes.

FASHION SERVICE

To-day's fascinating pattern is a versatile one. It does for frocks in printed crepe silk and sheer woolens Also for the lovely summer cottons and figured or plain linens.

Now a marine blue crepe silk printed in navy inspired the first model. The pretty bow trim and belt were plain navy crepe.

Don't you think the puffed sleeves attractive?

And it's simplicity itself to fashion it.

Should cottons be your consideration for the moment, a wide-wale pique in yellow is fetching with brown pique trim.

Style No. 2778 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14 and 16 years.

Size 12 requires 2⅝ yards 35 or 39-inch material, with ⅝ yard 35-inch contrasting.

Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

GOOD DISHES FOR A BUFFET SUPPER

Coffee Macaroon Cream

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup water
1½ cups clear strong coffee
1-3 cup sugar
1-8 teaspoon salt
1 cup whipped cream
2-3 cups macaroon crumbs
Blanched almonds
Cherries.

Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Dissolve in hot coffee: Add sugar and salt and cool. When it begins to thicken, fold in whipped cream and macaroon crumbs. Pile in sherbet glasses and garnish with nuts and cherries. Chill before serving.

Scones

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter
1 egg yolk
1 cup milk
1 egg white.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in butter with knife. Add egg yolks, then milk gradually. Toss on floured board. Pat out to one-quarter inch thickness. Cut out with diamond shaped cutter. Brush tops with egg white beaten with one tablespoon water. Lay on a greased pan and bake in a 450-degree oven ten to fifteen minutes.

Jellied Pears

1 can pears
1 cup grenadine
½ cup pineapple juice
½ cup orange juice, and ¼ cup apricot juice
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons gelatine
½ cup water
Small jar green cherries.

Drain pears and chill fruit. Prepare grenadine and the fruit juices. Heat to boiling point; add gelatine softened in one-quarter cup water. Stir well until dissolved; cool. Put a green cherry in hollow of each pear, arrange upside down in the molds and pour over grenadine aspic. Chill in refrigerator. When set serve with whipped cream.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

INFECTED TEETH CAUSE MANY AILMENTS.

The fact that infected teeth and tonsils can cause a great many ailments is so well known that humorists do not now make fun of the medical profession by saying that when a doctor is in doubt about the cause of an ailment he blames it on the teeth.

Do you know that this knowledge that the teeth were the cause of many general diseases was not generally known thirty years ago? In fact, the state of medical and dental opinion before that time was that general diseases occurred first, and were really the cause of bad or infected teeth.

It was in 1900 that Dr. William Hunter, London, England, stated that in his experience as a physician from 1880-1900, he had his attention drawn to the importance of the teeth only from the point of view of mastication (chewing).

He then began to take a keen interest in the effect of dental disease and introduced the expression, "oral sepsis," or infection of the mouth. His observations and studies led him to the belief that many of the general diseases were due to mouth infection, and as he says "by a remarkable coincidence unknown to me at the time the chief disease and disorders which I found most frequently as being caused by dental diseases, were exactly the ones that were thought to occur before the infection of the teeth, and to be causing the bad or infected teeth.

He spoke of the various infections of the teeth and bone sockets as the starting point of many disorders of the body.

One of the points that is sometimes forgotten is that the infected teeth produce poisons in the body that do not produce any symptoms for months, even years. When the teeth are removed there is still considerable poison in various parts of the body. Sir William Wilcox has pointed out that general disturbances in the body occur from poisons in the teeth, which have been located in the intestine and these poisons are absorbed into the blood from the intestine, for in practically every case of this kind, examination of the wastes from the intestine showed a great many organisms similar to those found in the infected teeth. The ailments observed were stomach and intestinal derangements heart disease, nervous diseas s, eye complications, altered blood conditions, and rheumatic conditions.

With dentists, physicians, and surgeons all agreed that infected teeth can cause all these ailments it would seem like good health insurance to have a dental examination once or twice a year, and an X-ray examination of the teeth every two years.

GIRL GUIDES

Two Marmora Members Are Presented Second Class Badges.

MARMORA, Apr. 21 (Examiner Correspondence)—The First Marmora Company of Girl Guides held their weekly meeting in the White Hall on Monday evening with forty Guides being present. The meeting was opened with prayer by Capt. Mrs. Pearce. In course of the meeting, two girls were presented with their second class badges. Before the meeting closed, an invitation from the Havelock Guides to visit them on April 30 was announced to the pleasure of the company. The meeting closed with taps.

Will Return To The Stage

NEWS OF THE STAGE AND SCREEN

Here's good news for stage enthusiasts. Miss Olive Borden (1), who, in private life is Mrs. Theodore Stewart, wife of a New York investment broker, will return to the stage via vaudeville. Miss Borden took some time in choosing between home or a career, but eventually decided on the latter. Now she says she is tired of married life. And the screen also is in line for a welcome addition. Anna Sten (2), Russian film star, is now en route to America, where she will be given a chance to star at Hollywood. Her type of beauty has attracted attention in the continent movies centres.

Havelock

The Kilties' Band held an old-fashioned dance in the town hall here on Friday evening last, when besides the new dances all the old-timers were revived. The hall was packed to capacity, but owing to the small admission fee charged the boys did not derive any financial benefit, merely managing to clear expenses. However all were agreed that socially it was a very successful affair.

The prize for step dancing was awarded to Dave Vansickle, who, despite his advanced years, gave a splendid demonstration of the buck and wing, and many other steps. Mr. and Mrs. Will Copp were awarded the prizes for the Old-Fashioned dance.

Mrs. George Smith, her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Longmuir, and little daughter Berneice Longmuir, have returned home after spending the past month with friends and relatives at Hamilton, Windsor and Toronto. Mrs. Smith, while in Detroit, visited the annual flower show there, and called at Jack Miner's bird sanctuary at Kingsville on her return trip.

Miss Josephine Samson, nurse-in-training at Belleville, is spending a vacation at her home here.

Mr. Douglas Brennan, who has been in New York all winter, has returned home.

Messrs Harry, John and Carmen Watson of Havelock, Mrs. Fred Watson of Toronto, and Miss Nellie Watson of Bloomfield, P. E. county, were in Kingston last week, attending the funeral of their sister, Mrs. Murton Hyland of that city.

WARKWORTH

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Drewry have returned after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Archie Frost, Marmora.

The Young People's Society of St. Paul's United Church held their regular meeting in the Sunday School room Monday evening. A particularly interesting program on Pioneer Days in Canada followed by slides consisting of views of Canada from Halifax N.S. to Victoria, B.C.

Messrs. Harold Insley and William Barwell spent the week end in Hamilton.

Mr. W. J. Insley is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. H. Love, Hamilton.

MOTHER-IN-LAW

Nags Young Bride

Young Alice Robinson had been married seven months—at first all went well, then trouble started. Her husband's mother came in one night to supper and, in the innocent way mothers-in-law have, made a critical remark about the table cloth. Perhaps it wasn't just as white and gleaming as it might have been, but Alice had worked hard over that tablecloth just last washday and felt very hurt in consequence.

But Wise Mother Prevents Trouble

Next day Alice asked her own mother to come over and see her and tearfully explained her trouble. "I tried so hard to have everything looking nice—and then she said something about the cloth." Her mother looked at the tablecloth with a discerning eye. "Alice, my child, you may be trying hard, but I think I can tell you an easier way to get things clean. I'll tell you what I do.

"First, I use a good soap. I'd advise you to use the brand I always buy—Pearl White Naptha. You'll find it a good practical laundry soap and a lot more economical than most. Soap your clothes and put them to soak overnight in cold water. You will find that, as the water temperature rises to the heat of the room, more dirt is loosened than would be if the water were cooling. In the morning, rinse your clothes thoroughly in warm water and you'll never have any more troubles with your wash."

Thousands of women have now learned this valuable laundry secret. Get the Pearl habit yourself—Pearl means efficient work in less time and at less cost. That's something to remember these days. No. 3

Over 3000 cakes of Pearl Soap are used by Canadian housewives every hour

The guests were shown into the drawing room by Mrs. Percy Blade, where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, also Mr. and Mrs. J. Stenton (the latter a sister of Mr. Curtis), who were celebrating their silver wedding anniversary. Mrs. Curtis wore a dress of grey moire with black lace coat. Mrs. Stenton wore a blue flowered crepe. Mrs. Blade's dress was black lace with crystal ornaments. Dorothy Blade was in attendance at the door wearing a yellow crepe frock, with sash of two-tone ribbon. The rooms were banked with ferns and numerous gifts of flowers; one basket was composed of fifty yellow Johanna Hill roses, while another was of pink Briarcliff roses sent by Gold Lake Hunt Club. Mr. and Mrs. Stenton received a basket of twenty-five Talisman roses. The archway was decorated with a lattice-work of yellow, with numerous butterflies of yellow and silver, and a large golden bell in the centde. In the tea-room, which was decorated in yellow, the table was centered by the wedding cake, which was inscribed "1882-1932," the dates of their wedding day and golden wedding day. Festoons of yellow satin ribbon hung from the chandelier and were caught at the four corners with bows of the ribbon, a large yellow tulle bow was attached to the chandelier. Yellow roses in silver bud vases and yellow candles in silver candlesticks decorated the table. Mrs. Margaret Lough and Mrs. Albert Curtis poured tea during the afternoon, and Mrs. G. J. Bousfield and Mrs. Ed. Heap during the evening. Among those who served were Mrs. A. Long, Mrs. Helen Perrin, the Misses Maude and Muriel Curtis, Audrey Heap, Gwen Lough and Marian Downing. Miss Bertha Curtis ushered the guests into the tea-room. Gifts and messages of congratulation kept pouring in all day from a wide circle of friends. Telegrams were received from Leamington and Buffalo, N.Y. Over one hundred guests called during the day.

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

It is the desire of every good homemaker to avoid the disagreeable odor of cooking getting through a house, to keep all dishes and utensils free from any slightest lingering odor.

* * * * * * *

There are several simple ways of helping such efforts.

* * * * * * *

In connection with smells of cooking, it is well to distinguish between pleasant and appetizing odors which are a sort of culinary fragrance and the disagreeable odors.

* * * * * * *

The latter do not necessarily indicate poor food or quality, for many foods of full flavor and some more delicate kinds, have either strong odors while cooking, or permeating ones.

* * * * * * *

Among those with strong aromas, onions immediately come to mind—cauliflower and cabbage scarcely less, while lamb stew can be said to have a permeating odor. All these foods, while excellent and well liked, have odors which should be nullified.

* * * * * * *

Of the foods which have culinary fragrance in the process of cooking, roast chicken, broiled steak, bread and cakes in the oven, coffee and simmering pickles may be mentioned. The recollection of such odors tempts the palate, the actual aroma sharpens the appetite.

* * * * * * *

These are but a few of the pleasant smells which are by no means unwelcome, provided they are light, not heavy, more suggestive, than pronounced.

* * * * * * *

A few hints on quelling undesirable cooking odors are offered. Cook cabbage and cauliflower in open kettles. Plunge them in slightly salted boiling water which has very little cooking soda in it. Keep the kitchen door shut and windows open.

* * * * * * *

Cover onions tightly and simmer rather than boil rapidly. The water in which cauliflower and cabbage and also beans have been cooked should not be poured down the sink drain if it is possible to avoid it.

* * * * * * *

The odor will persist if this is done. Throw the water out doors.

* * * * * * *

Try putting a little mustard in the water in which dishes and utensils are washed which have been used in the cooking, preparation or serving of fish. Rinse the articles first in cold water, then wash in this light mustard tincture hot water.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

158

LOOK OUT FOR SQUALLS

Probably the most fruitful source of partnership disharmony at the Contract table is the non-fitting hand—the hand in which one player is very long and very strong in one suit and his partner is equally long and possibly equally strong in another.

The difficulties of such holdings are greatly accentuated when tremendous length and honor strength in either hand is combined with a void in the suit which forms the backbone of the partner's holding. In such cases someone has to yield. Too often the yielding comes so late that only the opponents benefit, but there is a reasonably safe rule to follow with such holdings and that rule is as follows:

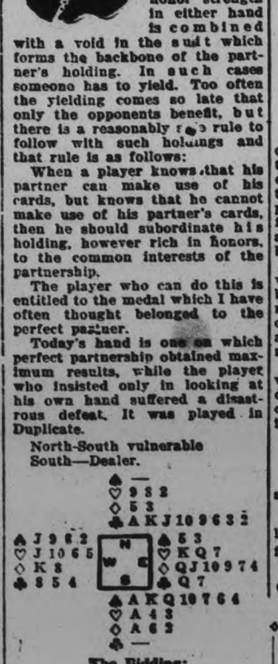
When a player knows that his partner can make use of his cards, but knows that he cannot make use of his partner's cards, then he should subordinate his holding, however rich in honors, to the common interests of the partnership.

The player who can do this is entitled to the medal which I have often thought belonged to the perfect partner.

Today's hand is one on which perfect partnership obtained maximum results, while the player who insisted only in looking at his own hand suffered a disastrous defeat. It was played in Duplicate.

North-South vulnerable

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
3♠	Pass	4♣(1)	Pass
4♠	Pass	6♣	Pass
6♠(2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

1—North knows that South holds a very strong spade suit with at least 5 certain tricks in that suit if spades are trump and in addition not less than 1-½ honor-tricks in hearts and diamonds. He could safely have bid even more clubs, but perhaps he knew his partner.

2—Utterly refusing to listen to his partner's message of great club strength and probably no strength outside. South should have known his hand could be valuable to his partner. He could not help knowing that his partner's hand was valueless to him if it contained no entry outside the club suit.

Played at spades, South not only lost a trump trick but 2 tricks in hearts and 2 tricks in diamonds as well, thus being thrown for a penalty loss of 700 points. The 100 points he scored for honors proved but slight amelioration of the hurts suffered by the partnership.

At another table the bidding was the same, except for the final bid of six spades. South was permitted to play the contract at six clubs, and as an added reward for accurate partnership bidding they made an extra trick.

Like the fairy tale which always has a happy ending, North did not even sacrifice the honor count as South's honor holding in clubs balanced his in spades.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question: Having two biddable suits, which should be bid first?

Answer: With suits of equal length bid the higher ranking first.

Heaven Has No Monopoly On Marriages, Ladies Told

TORONTO, April 21 (C.P.)—Effectiveness of any form of government is bound by capacity of the individuals who are its citizens, according to Miss Margaret E. Rich, executive secretary of the Family Welfare Association of America.

Miss Rich told the Toronto and York County Social Welfare conference Wednesday there must be few laggards if the government, whether Communist or democratic in form, was to succeed.

Heaven has no monopoly on marriages, Miss K. Gorrie of the Protestant Children's Homes told the conference. She told how a welfare worker enabled a wooer to choose between two women who had won his affections. This was held to refute the old saying: "Marriages are made in heaven."

INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENTS IN 1931 SHOW DECREASE MORLEY SAYS

52,894 Accidents Reported in Ontario During Past Year.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

TORONTO, April 21. —(CP)— R. B. Morley, general manager of the Ontario Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, today told the annual convention of that body there had been a substantial decrease in industrial lost time accidents and fatal accidents in Ontario.

The general manager, reading from his annual report, quoted figures compiled by the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board giving the total number of industrial accidents in the province in 1931 as 52,894, against 69,267 in 1930. Fatal accidents, he said, decreased from 520 in 1930 to 330 in 1931.

Contribution to the fund of the Workmen's Compensation Board were reduced during 1931 to $1.25 per $100 of payroll, from $1.40 the year before.

He attributed success of the Associations' accident prevention work to enthusiasm of the membership and increasing co-operation between executives of industries and the organization.

Harry Guilbert, director of the Bureau of Safety of the Pullman Company, of Chicago, described the working of a safety drive in his company which, he said, had resulted in, among other things, complete elimination of eyesight loss among employes for the past seven years.

Mr. Guilbert urged coordination between safety bureaus and compensation boards to reduce the number of compensation cases occurring in industries. Co-ordination of the departments in the Pullman Company, he said, had resulted in more thorough investigation of facts surrounding accidents, more prompt reporting of accidents, closer follow-up of investigations, attaching responsibility to supervising officers and a speeding up of compensation adjustments which created a better feeling between the management and employes.

Industrial accidents were laid at the door of management, in a paper read by Cyrus S. Ching, Director of Industrial and Public Relations of the United States Rubber Company, New York. "The best way of promoting safety practices which would become so much a habit that an accident would be considered disgraceful."

Don't Keep Your Dollars Where They Can't See Daylight . . .

THE DOLLAR down deep in the sock; imprisoned in the boodle bag or locked up in the strong box is surely blinded to to-day's bargain opportunities. Get them out; get them working; give them the chance to see the light of to-day's bargain opportunities.

At to-day's prices . . . the lowest in 15 years that dollar can work for you as it never has before . . . in clothing, furniture, food, furs, almost all things it can deliver from 40% to double what it purchased in years when you spent it freely. Now is the time to store commodities, not dollars.

The purchasing power of the dollar is to-day at its fullest . . . hold on to it and it will shrivel up as surely as to-day's bargains will fade and disappear with the return of higher prices. That return is very near at hand . . . so near that the procrastinator is sure to be caught napping.

NEISH APPEAL IS DISMISSED

Court of Appeal Upholds Judgment of Mr. Justice Kelly.

OVER SALE OF FARM.

Duncan Neish of Otonabee Township yesterday lost his appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Kelly in favor of the plaintiff Rendle Dickson for $4,182.46 and for the re-conveyance, upon payment of judgment of certain lands.

The appeal was heard before Chief Justice Mulock, Mr. Justice Riddell and Mr. Justice Grant. The appeal was argued and dismissed with costs.

R. R. Hall, K.C., and W. F. Huycke were counsel for appellant and J. A. O'Brien for the respondent Dickson.

In the original action which was heard before Mr. Justice Kelly in the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario at Peterborough in December last the plaintiff Rendle Dickson alleged that the contract for the purchase of certain lands had been obtained by fraud and misrepresentation. The trial judge found that plaintiff should be released from his contract.

In the appeal court appellant urged that there had been no misrepresentation; that plaintiff had relied upon his own judgment after inspection of the lands.

R. GORING IS GUEST SPEAKER

Addresses Men's Club of St. George's Church at Open Meeting.

ON "FAITH IN GOD."

R. Goring, proprietor of the Robt. Fair Co. was the guest speaker at an open meeting of the Men's club of St. George's church on Tuesday evening in the church basement. The speaker, who was introduced by D. Leether addressed the gathering on the subject "Faith In God". While he knew that a religious topic need not be chosen, yet owing to the numerous secular subjects dealt with which men had opportunities of hearing, he considered that there would always be room for and interest in matters pertaining to religion.

The Bible was the greatest book ever written. Great men of the world had borne their testimony to it. Running through the Bible like a golden thread was the message of faith in God. Abraham, Moses, Prophets and Israel were set forth as examples, men who were used of God because they had faith in Him.

Comparing religious life in nations today with their past the speaker referred especially to Scotland, U. S. A. and Russia. He did not think that the "Five year plan" or any other plan would succeed in Russia, as long as the nation denied God. Giving personal illustrations of strictly living religious people, the speaker pointed out that "Faith in God", rather than "fear of hell" should be the guiding motive in life.

The meeting was presided over by A. Cuff, who extended the thanks of the members to Mr. Goring for his very helpful talk.

THREE INJURED.

Boy 18 Arrested When Bolts Are Found to Have Been Taken From Switch.

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 21 (C. P.). — A passenger train on the Norfolk and Western Railroad was wrecked by an act of sabotage, 20 miles east of here early to-day, and two of its crew were killed.

Railroad investigators said the wreck was caused by the malicious removal of four bolts from a switch An 18-year-old boy was arrested for questioning.

The train, No. 4, bound form Cincinnati to Norfolk, Va., was travelling 65 miles an hour when it struck the switch. Two express cars and the locomotive overturned, and two coaches, one Pullman car, and a mail car were derailed but remained upright.

Engineer J. H. Myers and Fireman J. J. Kemp, both of Portsmouth, died in the wreckage. Two mail clerks and an express messenger were injured, but will recover.

Passengers Escape.

Passengers in the coaches and sleeping cars were shaken and bruised, but none of them reported serious injuries.

Railroad detectives said track inspectors found the bolts removed two days ago and had them replaced, and that another inspection found the track all right only a few hours before the wreck.

After the accident, however, the bolts, nuts, and cotter pins were found at the switch. The boy was discovered in a field nearby.

Questioned by trainmen, the youth, whose name was not given out, said he had been thrown off the train in the accident. He said he had been riding on the coal car, but the investigators considered him a suspect'

BRITISH PRESS IGNORES BORAH

Great Britain Still Intends to Pay All Her War Debts.

NO CHANGE OF POLICY.

LONDON, April 21. (C.P.)—The public so far has paid little attention to the part of Neville Chamberlain's budget statement in which he declared no provision had been made either for payment of war debts to the United States or receipt of reparations payment from Britain's debtors.

The chancellor made it clear these accounts were merely being held in suspense until the Lausanne reparations conference next June is completed, and that the decision to hold the accounts up implied no change in the government's policy, which roughly is to collect only so much in reparations and inter-governmental debts as will balance Great Britain's own payments to the United States.

Ignore's Senator's Speech

The British press virtually ignored the speech of Senator Borah in the United States senate Tuesday, when he declared cancellation would throw the entire debt burden on the United States taxpayer. With no suggestion anywhere here the debts would not be paid editors and the usual commentators saw no significance in Senator Borah's declaration.

The failure of the Chancellor of the Exchequer to provide for the war debt payments in the present budget brought an attack in the house yesterday from the Labor Opposition. Major C. R. Attlee, who was Postmaster-General in the former Labor government, said "there is already a reminder from the United States that there is not the slightest chance of getting any relief from that quarter therefore the Chancellor hasn't really met the budget situation in this respect at all."

FISHERMEN OPTIMISTIC

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. — Optimistic reports from the Grand Banks fishery, basis of livelihood in Newfoundland's southern coastal settlements, are reaching St. John's. The schooner Santos has arrived at Grand Bank with 300 quintals under her hatches, and the Paloma with 300. The Helen Forsey reported in with 700, and the Freda M. Hailed for 600.

Now—Coffee rushed fresh from the roasting ovens

The DATE on each tin is your Insurance against Staleness

Only SWIFT DELIVERY will guarantee true coffee freshness. So Chase & Sanborn's is rushed straight from roasting ovens to grocers by swift "fresh-food" delivery.

TO BE TRULY FRESH, and rich with flavor, coffee must actually be delivered fresh—packed the moment it comes from the roasting ovens, and rushed swiftly to you!

For we now know that coffee is a fresh food, in the same class with milk and butter . . . and that when it's kept too long after roasting, it spoils, just as other fresh foods do.

HERE'S THE REASON:

All coffee contains a delicate oil. In freshly roasted coffee this oil carries the flavor and aroma that make coffee so delicious. But, in a comparatively short time after roasting, this oil begins to turn rancid, just as butter does. It becomes seriously toxic. Naturally, it also affects the flavor and aroma of the coffee.

That is why Chase & Sanborn's superb coffee is rushed straight from roasting ovens to grocers, by the same Dominion-wide service that delivers fresh Fleischmann's Yeast. Every tin is stamped with the date the grocer receives it. None remains on his shelf longer than ten days. You can't buy a stale tin of this delicious coffee.

Chase & Sanborn's has been Canada's favorite for over 50 years. Buy a tin today. In ½ lb. and 1 lb. tins.

TO GUARANTEE FRESHNESS, EVERY TIN OF CHASE & SANBORN'S COFFEE IS DATED THE DAY YOUR GROCER RECEIVES IT.

TO-DAY IN STORY-LAND

THE BATTLE OF THE OWLS

ONE day Kapoi found the eggs there, and, taking them home, prepared to roast them for his supper.

Just as he was about to place them in the hot ashes an owl perched itself on the fence outside his house and called out:

"Kapoi, Kapoi, give me back my eggs!"

"No," replied Kapoi, "I want them for my supper."

"Kapoi," continued the owl, "do not be so heartless. Be merciful and give me back my seven eggs."

Kapoi was in reality a kind-hearted man, so he said, at length to the owl:

"Come in, then, and take them. I can not make you so unhappy."

The owl was grateful and lost no time in regaining possession of her precious seven eggs, but before it flew away it counseled Kapoi thusly:

"Build a temple on the hill near by and dedicate it to the god Manua and good fortune will be yours."

Kapoi followed the advice of the owl and built the temple in honor of Manua.

But when the King of the country heard that a temple had been built to Manua without his permission he was very angry.

It was against his laws, so he ordered that Kapoi should be put to death.

So Kapoi was seized, bound and led forth to execution.

A strange thing happened, however. It was noticed with great surprise that the whole sky was darkened by flocks of flying birds.

When the King's servants approached Kapoi to put the decree of death into execution they were checked by great numbers of owls flying down, pecking and clawing them, and effectually preventing them from harming Kapoi.

Then followed a tremendous battle between the owls and all the King's men. There were myriads of owls, for the owl whose eggs Kapoi had restored had collected every owl in the whole kingdom and marshalled them to fight for Kapoi.

In the end the owls were the victors. The King acknowledged defeat, set Kapoi at liberty, promised not to interfere with the temple he had built, and peace and amity reigned once more in the kingdom.

But ever since the owl has been held sacred in Honolulu.

NOON AT JUNGLE INN

THE OLD BRASS KEY

BE sure to wash the dishes, Mittie dear, and cooking utensils, and don't forget to scald the milk pans with soda water. Of course, put the kitchen in order and clean the pantries, if you have time." And mother's voice died away down the lane as the truck disappeared beneath the trees.

Mother and father had gone to town to shop.

Mittie would be alone with plenty of work—but only the cat for company and Aunt Matilda's chest—Mittie had always felt it was "Somebody." Aunt Matilda had left it to her—she was her namesake.

"Much good it does you locked tight," mother said. "Dear knows what is in it—all of her lifetime treasures, folks say. I never saw the old ty and I never saw the chest open. When she heard I had named my baby Matilda, she gave you the chest; then she died and we came here to live. It is mighty hard to scrub around the feet of it house-cleaning time and impossible to dust the top. A grown person's head would bump the ceiling and no child would undertake it. They say she brought the barn ladder twice a year and cleaned the top. Wonder what is in it. I never found the key." And there the matter ended.

Mittie did the work, ate her lunch, fed the cat and chickens and had time to spare. With the cat in her lap she sat in the kitchen rocker gazing at Aunt Matilda's chest in the hall. She wished she had something to show at the fair. There were entries for dolls: Best dressed doll, sewing considered, 50; finest dressed doll, materials considered, $10; quaintest old-fashioned doll, $25.

Twenty-five dollars would buy a school dress, with cloth Tam to match, like the picture in the catalog, and leave enough money for nice shoes!

Then Mittie thought of something!

"If Aunt Matilda was kind enough to give me the chest, the least I can do is to keep it clean as she did—even if it is locked," she said.

The barn ladder was too heavy, so she pushed the big kitchen table out in the hall. She managed to put the little kitchen table on top of this.

It was almost clean now. Then while wiping the cornice on the inside, her hand struck something hard! She drew it out! A brass key! She tried it—it did fit! the old doors swung open at last, showing heaps of linen—sheets pillow slips, soft blankets and beautiful quilts. She did not disturb these neat piles.

On the bottom shelf was a large box. She lifted and opened it. It held old-fashioned toys and play books—and wrapped in linen, yellow with age, was a wonderful doll! Her clothes were hand-made of hand-woven materials. She wore a cap of beautiful tatting, her kerchief and "collar" were trimmed with fine embroidery.

Mittie almost forgot to scrub carefully around the feet of the chest. Mother and father found her nursing the doll.

"You are sure of the prize, dear," mother said; "but your real prize is finding the key. The dear old lady meant her chest as a reward for neatness."

GRANDMA'S MEASURES

I watched my grandma make a cake.
No trouble did she seem to take;
And so I thought I'd bake one, too,
And begged her: "Teach me grandma, do!"

She said: "Of butter take a dash,
A mite of sugar, don't be rash,
And all the eggs that you can spare;
Then beat them in the cool fresh air.
Add other things just to your taste,
Be careful, dearie, do not waste."
I searched recipe books end to end,
But no assistance did they lend,
For dash and mite I could not find,
Such measures are in grandma's mind.

A Sad Experience

Little Miss Muffet
Thought she would rough it,
So down on the lea squatted she;
But she rose with a yell,
And ran homeward pell-mell,
For, alas, she'd been stung by a bee.

A squirrel rested after a race;
His paws lightly touched his wee face—
He gazed in the brook. Now do you suppose
That squirrel was vain, and powdered his nose?

Nature's Candy Shops

There are no counters and no doors
At nature's many candy stores,
The bees and birds will eat for hours
Among the many sweet, sweet flowers.
They buss their thanks and fly away,
There's never any thing to pay.

The Magic Fountain

There is another fairy tale,
And in that I pretend
That I'm the child who rides the fish
Of wishes without end.

This is the way it really is:
The children come to me
And tell me what they truly wish
In deepest secrecy.

I whisper to the fairies' ears,
And from his mouth so round
A magic fountain leaps in air
And falls with tinkling sound.

Then if one drop of silver spray
Falls on an upturned head,
That child will have his dearest wish
Before he goes to bed.

If they'd whisper to us, then our fishes,
The pieces they go
For they surely must know
Just where our dear shadows are hiding.

Five Knockouts Feature Pioneer Club Debut

HUGHES WINS TECHNICAL K. O. OVER TONY MINICOLA IN PREMIER BOUT OF CARD

While "Red" Minicola Loses Close Decision to Mel Allen of Toronto.

HEAVY SLUGGING.

Capacity Crowd Sees One of Best All Around Cards Here This Season.

The Pioneer Athletic Club made a slam-bang ring debut last night, staging one of the finest all-around boxing shows seen here in the past year. A capacity crowd at the Legion Hall alternately roared with approval and shouted with laughter as one exciting bout followed another, with plenty of real ring comedy thrown in. There were five knockouts, three technical, on the eight-bout card.

Billy Hughes won the main scrap, getting a technical kayo over Tony Minicola in the second. In the semi-final, Ned Minicola was outpointed by Mel Allen, while Delaney the other Toronto mittser, lost to Fred DeCarlo by a technical knockout in the fourth round. Wilf Jones refereed all bouts, with Henry Noakes and Alf. Chesher doing the judging.

Lively Curtain-raiser

"Young" Belland and "Irish" Jordan III, 80-pounders from the Pioneer and Foster clubs, lifted the curtain in a classy no-decision bout that pleased the fans. They tore into each other throwing mean swings to the jaw and mixing willingly and evenly for the most part.

Dave Peters, Pioneer A.C., won on a kayo over Fred Lustich, Foster Club, in a screamingly funny 135-pound melee. It went two rounds and had the fans holding their sides as gales of laughter swept the house. Both boys were green at boxing but deadly serious as they went for each other in ludicrous manner. They ploughed into each other in the first, Dave hopping around like a kangaroo and pumping both hands in like pistons while Fred hauled off and smashed him repeatedly but kept forgetting to close his hands. His loose trunks bothered him at times, particularly when Dave socked him every time he pulled them up. The spasm was about even, and they got a thunderous hand at the end.

Riot for Laughs

They went to work again in the second, each taking a turn at chasing the other and raining blows on the back as the fans fell out of their seats in hysterics. After they had stood up and wrapped mighty haymakers around each other's necks with misjudged punches, Fred got tired and took a four-count rest. Then it was slam-and-miss again for a space until Lustich got fed up on the whole proceedings and was knocked very cold by two light taps to the chest near the finish of the round. He was counted out and both were applauded to the rafters.

"Hap" O'Toole, Pioneer stable, won on a technical knockout over "Dutch" McIlmoyle, Foster's in the second stanza of their welter scrap. They started fast, swinging hard from the hip and standing up to slug toe-to-toe. "Dutch" staggered his opponent with a right swing to the beak, and later "Hap" went down for no-count from another. O'Toole came back strong to pound the other hard to the head and make the round even.

The second was fast again, but "Hap" was stronger and laced in some sweet lefts and rights to the button without getting a return. McIlmoyle was groggy and hit the floor from another hard exchange to the jaw, and his second jumped in to stop it. "Hap" getting the duke and both boys getting a hand.

Vitarelli Wins on Points

Ned Vitarelli, coming Pioneer boxer, won on points over Earl Harrington, Alpha stable, both going around 107 pounds. Ned took the first with his speed and aggressiveness, throwing plenty of punches to the head but doing little damage. Earl had a fair left but couldn't get going. The second was Ned's too, after a hard even exchange on the ropes. He piled up points with a rapier left to the mush and a few right crosses to the pantry, though Earl kept trying to land on his shifty opponent.

Harrington drove Ned to the ropes early in the third and ripped both hands home first up then down, and he followed him around the ring, but Vitarelli was too fast and shifty. The latter came back toward the end to outbox him. It was Earl's round, but Ned won the bout.

Jack Minicola, Pioneer 125-pounder, put Tommy Heffernan, 112, Foster fighter, to sleep after two furious minutes of battling in the first round. Jack was too strong for Tommy, but the latter had a big edge until the kayo. He smashed rights and lefts to the head to back the Italian up and switched over with hard jolts to the body. Jack came back strong with wicked drives to the body and Tommy was bleeding after a tough exchange. They mixed fast and as Jack stepped back, Heffernan collapsed and was counted out, the hard body blows apparently weakening him.

DeCarlo Gets K.O.

Fred DeCarlo, Pioneer 138, got a technical knockout over Ed Delhaney, 138 of Toronto, in the fourth round of the best scrap of the evening. Ed. took the first with much superior boxing, raining in hard jabs to head and jolting Fred with nasty right drives to the body. He was fast, shifty and a better infielder, but Fred kept trying to get in and rushed him once to the ropes, cracking him twice on the whiskers. The second session was about even as they slugged each other. Fred was aggressive and connected some dandies to the head, but Ed used neat straight lefts to off-balance him, following with right hooks to the body. The Toronto boy seemed to lose heart when his blows made no impression on Fred, and he had to clinch after being nearly knocked down at the end.

Both were spitting blood and pretty tired in the hectic third. Fred was somewhat stronger and kept boring in to land regularly with both mitts to the jaw but Ed could take it. He jabbed with the left right along but was weakening at the bell. It was Fred's round and an extra two-minute one was ordered to settle the draw. It was stopped two seconds before the bell when Ed's second jumped in to save him when Fred had him groggy and hanging on from a wicked two-fisted beating to the head, DeCarlo appearing much stronger and going right after him till the finish. The fans cheered both game battlers.

Minicola Takes Fall

Mel Allen, Toronto welter, got the duke over Ned Minicola, Pioneer scrapper, taking the last two rounds. Ned won the first by going after him and hooking him several times to the body as they clinched. Mel was fast and tricky, but neither did much damage. Allen went better in the middle go, with neat left raps to the head and an occasional uppercut. He opened a cut over Ned's left eye and kept picking away at it. He claimed a foul once from a low blow and time was taken out. They mixed hard and evenly at infighting near the close.

Ned caught him a couple hard rights to the chin early in the third but took some nasty jobs in return, as Mel outboxed him using his longer reach to advantage. He had blood pouring from Minicola's eye and he kept hooking and jabbing to the face. Ned was game and unhurt but couldn't reach him except at close-range fighting. Allen's hand was raised.

A Furious Battle

The final bout saw Billy Hughes, Ontario feather champion, win on a technical K.O. in the second round over Tony Minicola, Pioneer. They opened up fast with considerable infighting at which Billy had a decided edge, ripping a lightning right hand up and down too fast to hold. Tony was tough and shoved in a couple hard jabs to the face, but was trailing on points at the bell.

Tony started the second with two drives to the face, and the angered Hughes tore into him, flashing both hands up and down as Tony vainly tried to hold him. Billy put him down for eight seconds with wicked one-two to the jaw, and then for a seven-count from a crashing right uppercut to the chin. He crowded Tony into a corner and hammered him about the head with both hands and Minicola slid to the floor as his second jumped in to give Hughes the win, and wind up the evening's boxing.

While trying to launch a lifeboat to rescue a ship in distress, Patrick Flanagan, of St. Andrew's, Scotland, was run over by a boat carriage wheel and killed.

RUTH CONNECTS FOR 4TH HOMER

60,000 Fans Witness Athletics Go Down to 8-3 Defeat Before Yanks.

SENATORS WIN IN 9TH.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Back at the old home stand for the first time this spring, "Babe" Ruth leaped lightly from his sick bed yesterday afternoon, clouted the great Grove for his fourth home run of the campaign, and otherwise contributed to an artistic triumph by the Yankees over the Athletics for the benefit of 60,000 spectators—the greatest crowd that has witnessed a baseball game this season. The score was 8 to 3.

In handing the Mackmen their third successive defeat of the week the Yankees continued their rough treatment of the A's pitching aces. They combed "Lefty" Grove for six hits and four runs in six innings, then doubled their tally off George Earnshaw in two frames, Grove was charged with his first defeat of the season.

Lyn Lary set the pace for the Yankees by hitting one of Grove's fireballs into the right-field bleachers in the first inning and crossing the plate four times altogether.

Ruth's booming single against the right-field bleachers featured a seventh-inning rally that netted the Yankees three runs and clinched the game.

Meanwhile, "Lefy" Gomez registered his second conquest of the league champions with a flashy exhibition, although he weakened a bit in the last three frames. The slim Spanish southpaw yielded nine hits, but struck out nine Mackmen, including all the big hitters. He was tapped for a homer by Cochrane in the fourth, but pulled himself out of a big hole in the seventh, after filling the bases, and in the ninth fanned Cochrane for the final out with two on.

GRAY BLANKS WHITE SOX.

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—Sam Gray pitched his second shut-out game of the year against Chicago yesterday as the St. Louis Browns defeated the White Sox 5 to 0.

It was the opening home contest of the season for the Browns and their third victory, each having been a shut-out affair. Homers by Schulte and Melillo featured the Browns' scoring.

TIGERS WIN CLOSE ONE.

CLEVELAND, April 21.—George Uhle let down his former Cleveland mates with but five hits and gave the Detroit Tigers a 2 to 1 victory yesterday.

Clint Brown pitched good enough ball to win under ordinary circumstances, but an air-tight Detroit defense and inability of the Indians to connect when hits were needed cost him the game.

Three of Cleveland's five hits came in the second inning when Brown drove Vosnik across with a single. A pair of doubles by Johnston and Stone in the eighth gave the Tigers the victory.

SENATORS WIN IN NINTH.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—After Danny MacFayden and Bobby Burke had pitched gilt-edged ball through eight innings Boston scored a run in the ninth to break a deadlock, but Washington scored two in its turn to defeat the Red Sox yesterday, 4 to 3.

With two out, Judge singled, Bluege walked and Spencer's single put over the tying run. Then the young Washington pitcher hammered out a single for the winning run.

Robert Owen, 23, who until recently worked as a laborer in a quarry, won the bardic chair for the best ode given at the Blaenaufestiniog, Wales, Eisteddfod.

For the first time in history an omnibus recently entered the courtyard of the British Houses of Parliament when it went to pick up 30 M.P.'s for an inspection tour.

REDS DEFEAT CHICAGO CUBS OPENING GAME

Hornsby Crew Drops 7-2 Decision to Cincinnati at Windy City.

5TH LOSS FOR CARDS.

Giants Smother Phillies 14-5 in 17-hit Batting Rampage.

CHICAGO, April 21.—The Chicago Cubs failed to even get into gear yesterday, as the Cincinnati Reds turned on some of their newly acquired power for a 7 to 2 victory in the opening home game of the National League campaign.

Weak at bat and erratic at field, the Cubs never were in the battle after the third inning, when the Reds hammered Pat Malone for five runs, and drove him to cover. While the Reds were making merry with four Chicago pitchers, "Red" Lucas, ace of the Cincinnati staff, held his opposition to five hits, two of them by Stanley Hack, the expensive new Cub third baseman.

Thirty thousand fans came out to Wrigley field to take their first look at the organization that did so well on the road, and saw quantity rather than quality, for Rogers Hornsby was forced to call on 14 hands.

Pat Malone, who quelled the Reds in the opening series at Cincinnati, departed during the uprising, and Jackie May, Ed. Baecht and "Bud" Tinning divided what was left of the hurling.

TWO HOMERS FOR TERRY

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—With Bill Terry again in the lead, New York Giants went on a batting rampage yesterday, smothering the Phillies under 17 hits to win, 14 to 5. An opening-day crowd of about 12,000 saw the slaughter.

Terry hit two home runs for the second day in succession, and batted in five runs, to make it eleven in two games. Travis Jackson and Freddy Lindstrom also hit homers, and Lindy drove home five runs.

FIFTH LOSS FOR CARDS

PITTSBURG, April 21.—Another home-town boy made good yesterday, and the Pittsburg Pirates blanked the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 0, in the season's opener at Forbes Field.

A crowd of 16,000 saw Steve Swetonic hold the champions hitless until two were out in the eighth.

It was the fifth loss in a row for the Cardinals. Hallahan started for the champions, but made way for Lindsey in the fifth, and Dean took Lindsey's place in the eighth.

WINNING BIG PRIZE SPOILED HER LIFE

Woman in Constant Fear of Being Robbed

Manchester, Eng.—A bright and happy woman who, after winning £600 in a sweepstake, became a recluse was found dead in her barricaded shop in Salford, Manchester.

She was Mrs. Ellen Edmunson, aged 65. As she was not seen for a day or two police broke into her grocery shop and found her lying dead in the kitchen at the rear.

It is said that ever since she received the £600 prize she had an obsession that people wanted to steal it.

A few days ago she was attacked by influenza and a doctor ordered her to bed. So afraid was she of her money being stolen that she refused all offers of help from neighbors.

PITCHERS' WILDNESS HELPS SKEETERS BEAT LEAFS 11-2

Milligan and Cook Walk Eleven Batters in Jersey City Game.

KEYSTONES BREAK HERD.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., April 21.—No team can expect to win when its pitchers issue eleven passes, and the Leafs didn't win yesterday, as John Milligan and Earl Cook heard the call of the wild. The score was 11 to 2, and Toronto didn't break into the run column until the eleventh hour, Fritz crashing a four-bagger into the right field seats in the ninth, with Frank Do'jack on first. Ray's blow was the last of seven off Ed Pipgrass, younger brother of the Yankee Pipgrass.

Pipgrass had the control the Toronto lefthander and righthander didn't exhibit, being charged with only one base on balls. Ollie Sax got this at the start of the game. Showing how useful the complimentaries of the Leaf pitchers were, the Skeeters, in obtaining their first six runs, needed only three hits. The rest of the damage was supplied by the gifts, four stolen bases, a sacrifice and two errors.

Skeeters to Change Hands

Before the game started there was a well-defined rumor that this was to be the last day at West Side Park for the administration of Sam Colacurcio, one-time Jersey City bat boy, and after the game the rumor had assumed almost the semblance of a fact. The new owners, they say, are to be the Brooklyn Dodgers, as a corporation, Dave Driscoll, General Manager of the Dodgers; Frank Donnelly, former Business Manager of the Skeeters, and James Callaghan, a contractor of Newark. It is expected the sale of the club will be announced to-day. If this happens, it is quite likely that Hans Lobert will not be managing the team when it leaves on its first trip of the north.

If yesterday was the last game the Skeeters played, or will play, for Colacurcio, they made the Italian's farewell to the pastime impressive. The Pests backed up Pipgrass' smart pitching with errorless and fast support, stole half a dozen bases and hit in the pinches.

BIRDS OUTHIT ROYALS

BALTIMORE, April 21.—Smacking Claset, Pomorski and Beam for 11 hits, the Orioles defeated the Montreal Royals, 9 to 4, in the fourth game of the series yesterday. Jack Hopkins held the visitors to five hits, while Ralph Boyle led the Oriole attack with a triple, double and a pair of singles.

Packard, Sand and Boyle hit triples for the flock, while Ripple of the Royals punched out the only home run of the game. The Birds are leading in the series, three games to one.

BEARS OUTHIT WINGS

NEWARK, N.J., April 21.—Coming back with two big innings after Rochester had scored five time in the fourth, the Newark Bears yesterday decisively defeated the 1931 International League champions, 11 to 7.

The Bears pounded five pitchers for 15 hits, one a homer by George Selkirk with one on base in the first inning. After that wallop Selkirk was walked four times.

"Pinky" Shoffner started for Newark but was hoisted in the fourth and Byron Speece finished, giving only two hits.

END WINNING STREAK

READING, Pa., April 21.—Clarence Rowland switched his line-up yesterday afternoon and the Keys staged a rally in the ninth to win, 4 to 3, and check Buffalo's victory streak at six.

Charlie Willis, southpaw, was on the knoll for the Keys, and kept the eight hits he allowed well scattered. Joe Bartulis, University of Illinois Collegian, made his first start for the Bisons. Brewer relieved him in the ninth after he had walked Jay Partridge, sent in to pinch hit for Willis.

"Doc" Legett, Reading catcher, slammed out a homer with none on in the seventh.

WATER FAMINE IN THE HOME COUNTIES

Chalk Districts Suffering Most From Draught

London.—The dry period which has lasted for over three months has made the water supply in many parts of the home counties a matter of great anxiety.

In villages and on farms springs have run dry, well water is low, tanks are empty and ponds have dried up. Water has to be carried long distances and rationed out, but the drought has not yet seriously affected the crops.

The chalk districts are suffering most—the Chiltern Hills in Buckinghamshire, Kent, Surrey, Sussex, Wiltshire, Hampshire, Berkshire and Essex.

Lady Crittal Victim of Accident In Her Home

Lady Crittall, wife of Sir Valentine George Crittall, died at her home from injuries received in an explosion in the laundry at her home, Crockles, Wickham Bishops, Essex.

An inquest was held and a verdict of accidental death was recorded.

Dr. Robert Gordon said that Lady Crittall was suffering from extensive burns and shock when he saw her soon after the explosion. Her last words, he said, were: "It was silly of me."

It is thought Lady Crittall was cleaning fabric with some benzine solution, the vapor from which was exploded by a spark from the electrical equipment in the laundry.

BRITAIN REVIVES WHIP FOR BANDITS

Result of Marked Increase in Violent Crimes

London.—The alarming increase in crime in Great Britain in the last two years has brought a return of the lash.

Within two days five men who were sentenced to penal servitude, for from three to four years for robbery with violence received the additional sentence of twelve strokes with the "cat."

A few years ago the agitation to do away with the lash was making headway and the "cat" was rarely used. But the marked increase in crimes of violence and the advent of the motor car bandit has put the sentimentalists to rout.

ITALY WILL HAVE ENTRIES IN MOST OLYMPIC EVENTS

Will Send at Least 115 Athletes to Compete at Los Angeles.

OF HIGH CALIBRE

(By Maxwell Stiles)

LOS ANGELES, April 21 (Special to The Examiner)—One of the largest and strongest delegations of foreign athletes to be housed in these modern cottages overlooking the city of Los Angeles this summer will be that carrying Italy's colors into a majority of sports comprising the tenth Olympiad. At least 115 athletes and eight officials will come to this city, according to Joseph E. Pagliano, Italian Olympic attache in Los Angeles, and the Marquis Rolando Dalla Rosa, Italian consul here.

Pagliano and Marquis Della Rosa state that they have been advised by the Hon. Leandro Arpinati, president, and Prof. Cesare Grattarola, general secretary of the Italian Olympic committee, that Italy will compete in the following sports:—

Boxing, in which sport Italy tied with Argentina for unofficial team honors in 1928 at Amsterdam.

Fencing (men only) in which event Italy won the 1928 Olympic championship.

Cycling, in which Italy finished fifth in 1928.

Weight lighting. Italy having placed fourth in 1928.

Greco-Roman wrestling, unplaced in 1928.

Rowing, fourth in 1928 by taking first in the four-oared shells with coxswain; third in four-oarded shells without coswain; fourth in the two-oared shells without coxswain, and sixth in the eight-oarded shells.

Swimming for men and possible women, also, unplaced in 1928.

Track and field for men only (Mussolini frowns on track and field athletics for women) in which sport Italy scored only four points at Amsterdam, but should do much better here.

Gymnastics, sixth in 1928.

Modern pentathlon, fourth in 1928.

Shooting and fine arts.

Mussolini Interested

"Premier Mussolini is intensely interested in the games and Italy will send the most representative delegation it has ever entered in an Olympic celebration," said Pagliano.

Scanning the lists of Italian athletes in track and swimming, we find several individuals of high calibre. Costoli, with a 100 meters swim mark of 1.03, a 400 meter record of 4.56, and one of the best 1,500 meters marks made in 1931, 20.25.4 is very encouraging. In the 1,500 meters Costoli was more than a second under Buster Crabbe, American ace.

Facchinetti in the 200 meters breast stroke has done 2.58.4 and Omero has a mark of 1.184n the 100 meter back stroke. Miss Savi has done 100 meters in 1.17.14 and the 100 meters back stroke in 1.33.6.

Italy has three sprinters who have tied the Olympic 100 meters record of 10.6 seconds.

A 400 meters hurdle star whose 1929 time of 52.4 seconds was one full second under the Olympic record.

An 800 meter runner who has made better time than Ben Eastman.

A walker who holds the world's record for 25,000 meters—one-half the Olympic distance—and who is teamed with a winner of three Olympic walking titles over shorter distances.

A runner whose 10,000 meters time was the fourth best recorded in the world in 1931.

The sprinters are named Toetti, Salviato and Maregatti. The first two ran 100 meters in 10.6 seconds in 1930, while Maregatti did it last year. Maregatti ran a furlong in 21.6 seconds. Toetti in 21.8 seconds.

The hurdler is L. Pacelli, who placed sixth in the 400 meters at Amsterdam. Pacelli's record has been exceeded only by F. Morgan Taylor's world record of 52 seconds flat.

Tavernari, one of the best 800 meters men in Europe, ran this race in 1.52.2 in 1930, last year in 1.53.2.

Carlini, with a mark of 48.6 seconds for 400 meters, was outstanding in 1930, although Tavernari also made this time. Last year Carlini ran 49 seconds flat.

Among Best Walkers.

Armando Valente probably ranks as one of the two or three greatest walkers of the day. Whether he is the best will be decided in the 50,000 meters race at Los Angeles. Last year Valente lowered his own world record for 25,000 meters to 2.08.13.4 and ranks with Hank Cleman of Canada, T. W. Green of Great Britain and Haehnel of Germany as an Olympic favorite. Ugo Frigerio, Italy's great 3,000 and 10,000 meters Olympic champion of 1920 and 1924, is walking again and may appear in the longer route here.

Italy's crack distance runner, Lippie, last year ran 10,000 meters in 31.24.2 a mark exceeded during the 1931 season only by Sabala of Argentina with 31.19, Iso-Hollo of Finland with 30.51.4 and Paavo Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," with 31.19.2. Lippi ran 5,000 meters in 15.11.8.

Although a new Italian broad jumper named Maffei had no better than 23 ft. 9¾ ins. to his 1931 credit, no less an authority than Ferenc Hulesar of the Budapest Nemzeti Sport rates the young Italian Battalion as one of the real Olympic title contenders in Europe.

ORGANIZATION IS POSTPONED

Suggestion That E. P. L. Operate Independently Fails to Meet With Approval.

EXECUTIVES TO MEET.

That the East Peterborough Baseball League should drop out of the O.B.A.A. for one year and operate independently for the benefit of both the senior club and the intermediate teams, was suggested at the E.P.L. meeting in Duffus' last night. The suggestion did not meet with general approval by those present last night, and nothing was done about it for the time being.

The idea, it was explained, was to permit the senior club to draw the best intermediate players in the city at any time up to the 15th of July, which would not be possible if the E.P.L. remained affiliated with the Ontario body. As pointed out, this would also benefit the intermediate loop inasmuch as senior club players could be divided up among the East Peterborough League teams, making the latter league nearly as fast as a senior circuit, and giving fans better baseball.

However, representatives of the Cogs, C.G.E. and Crescents decided nothing much could be done toward re-organizing the E.P.L. until it was known what intermediate players would be wanted by the senior organization. Therefore, managers of these three teams will meet with officers and executive members of the Peterborough club within the next few days to come to arrangements on the matter. Then, early next week, another East Peterborough League meeting will be held and the loop organized on one basis or another for this summer.

C.G.E., Cogs and Crescents will be back in the intermediate league again with one other team, perhaps the Raybestos which dropped out last year to help start the seniors. No difficulty is anticipated in forming a well-balanced local league of four strong Intermediate "A" outfits. With some further discussion on plans for the summer, the meeting last night was adjourned.

CANADA FAVORS SEVEN-MAN GAME

Mann Cup Will Be Decided By New Box Lacrosse Rules.

GUELPH, April 21.—Playoffs for the Mann Cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior lacrosse championship, will be conducted this year with the new box variety of the game as the official form of play, according to an announcement made here yesterday by A. E. Lyon, of Rockwod, president of the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse association.

While it has been rumored for some time that box lacrosse would supplant the field variety as the mode of playing the Dominin titular series this fall, it was not until yesterday that votes received from various associations throughout Canada expressed approval of the change.

In reply to a mail vote taken on the question, President Lyon received answers from Ontario, Quebec, Alberta and Manitoba associations naming box lacrosse as their choice. British Columbia, Ottawa and Saskatchewan association remain to be heard from, and it is considered fairly certain they will also favor box lacrosse for the playoffs.

The C.A.L.A. head, announces that the Western Canada winners must be ready to come east by October 15 to meet the Eastern winners for the title in either Toronto or Montreal.

INDOOR PRACTISE

Another indoor practise of prospective senior ball players is called for tomorrow night at seven o'clock at the "Y", and every player interested in playing for the Petes this year is advised to be on hand.

CASUAL COMMENT

A bouquet to the Pioneer Athletic Club for their fine boxing show last night, giving a full house of ring fans one of the most entertaining evenings they've had. It was crammed with action, with flashes of nice boxing seen, and a whole cartload of comedy supplied by that side-splitting second bout. If that show wasn't worth the price charged, then we've never seen one that was!

• • • • • • •

The Lustich-Peters affair wasn't meant to be funny by the boxers (?) themselves. No sir, it's a gift, and they should by all means be rematched. Fans were still chuckling over it when the show was over, and they shouted with laughter through the two hysterical heats it lasted. The boys were green as a billiard-table when it came to boxing, and they went after each other like two muscle-bound roosters.

• • • • • • •

Peters did a peculiar hop as he slapped, punched and wound up to swing haymakers. He was very much in earnest as was Fred Lustich who kept forgetting to close his hands as he smacked the other with gusto. But he got all caught up on supplying the fun for others and trying to hold his pants up and guard his face at the same time, so he picked a soft spot in the daisies and jumped in without warning.

• • • • • • •

DeCarlo looked impressive in beating Delaney, the local lad being rugged and game. He let the other wear himself out punching him and then Fred did everything but kayo Delhaney with hard smashes to the jaw. He will come along all right and should learn to box as he has everything else, stamina, heart and wallop. Ned Vitarelli is another comer who will make a name for himself shortly.

• • • • • • •

The O'Toole-McIlmoyle battle was a real one, and so was the semi-final between Ned Minicola and Mel Allen, but the latter had a big advantage in reach and several pounds weight. Billy Hughes was too good on infighting for Tony Minicola, but the latter took plenty of wicked smacks gamely before the kayo. The whole show was so good that it is hard to pick oustanding bouts. George Graham returned to the wars last night and got a big hand from the crowd.

• • • • • • •

Art Hunter, Foster fighter who was to be in the Ontario finals, is not going up to Hamilton today because of a cold. The finals are on tonight and tomorrow with the best boxers from Eastern Ontario meeting the best of the Westerners. Incidentally, at last night's show here, five Italian boys were on the card, everyone putting up a real scrap. They're crowding the Irish fighters out of the picture locally, and getting a big following at all their bouts.

• • • • • • •

In the Inter-Alley Bowling League the other night, Duffus" took three points in Group 1 with the Knights getting the other. Again in Group 3, Duffus' bowlers took three points, with the "Y" grabbing the other marker. But it was different in Group 2, the Knights capturing all four points to smear the whitewash on the "Y" and Duffus' pin topplers.

• • • • • • •

There was a fair turnout for the first of the season at the "Y" last night with senior baseball prospects loosening up. They went through some drilling and later warmed up with ball and gloves. Several of last year's seniors were seen there as well as many of the best of the intermediate players. They'll have another workout shortly.

• • • • • • •

At the E.P.L. meeting last night, it was decided that nothing much could be done until it was known just what intermediate players were wanted this season by the senior club. So, the three E. P. L. managers will confer shortly with the officers and executive members of the Petes to get everything straightened out. Then they can go ahead early next week and re-organize.

• • • • • • •

C. G. E., Cogs and Crescents will all be back in the loop again, with one other local team, perhaps Raybestos, rounding it out. The suggestion that the East Peterborough League drop out of the O.B.A.A. for one year in order to give the seniors an unusually strong team, and help the four intermediate clubs at the same time, did not prove too popular with most of those present last night. However, more of this circuit later.

• • • • • • •

The softball leagues should call their first meetings before the end of the month, as it may take some little time getting properly re-organized. Several new teams are due to apply for franchises in both the Men's City League and the Girls' Loop, but last year's entries have first choice, naturally, if too many apply. The number of applicants to the proposed autumn Indoor League, which flopped in the making last year, shows how strong a grip softball has around here.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

LONDON WINS CAGE HONORS

Intermediate Basketball Team Beats Quebec C.N.R. on Round 69-38.

FOR DOMINION TITLE.

LONDON, April 21.—A 25-22 verdict gave London "Y" Aces the Canadian intermediate basketball championships by 69-38 on the round last night since they had handed the Quebec C.N.R.'s a 44-16 defeat Monday night in the first clash of the set. It is London's first Dominion basketball crown, though London junior teams in the war days, won three consecutive championships in the O.B.A. as it was then constituted and won permanent possession of the trophy of that time.

In to-night's game there was little to choose between the two squads and, had the Quebec players showed anything like last night's form in the first game, the results might have been different. Certainly they would have been less one-sided.

Heavy Checking

Heavy checking had the double effect of keeping the score down and the foul record up. It was not a rough game, exactly, but it was very energetic. At the start both teams had a pretty poor idea of the exact location of the basket and missed a lot of easy dogs and shots from the misdemenour mark. Later they settled down and had somewhat better luck.

Aces' forward line simply could not function as of yore. Although Logan, Noble and Manness between them notched up 32 points they missed sure things which should have gone for as many more.

Leading Marksmen

Logan with nine and Manness with an even dozen led the scorers. Alex McArthur and Cook, regular rearguardsmen, hung out the no admittance sign with good effect. Aces' sub line was used rather sparingly, especially in the early part of the game with the result that none of them broke into the scoring column.

Dave Walker, Irish centre man, scintillated for the visitors, notching up a total of nine points. Their scoring was more evenly distributed than that of the Aces and every man on the line-up, but two broke through for points. Mercer and Duggin, first string guards, succeeded in making things very unpleasant for the Aces' snipers.

Letourner-Lepage Lead At Montreal

MONTREAL, April 21 (C.P.).—Alfred Letourner, hard riding French cyclist, and his partner, Henri Lepage of Montreal, were leading the field by one lap at 8 a.m., in the six-day bicycle race here to-day. They lapped the field shortly after midnight and held their lead through a night of furious pedalling.

The ten teams were fighting hard as the race progressed through its fourth day. Every day has seen several changes in position, however, and the winners are not yet in sight. Of the four teams tied in second position, W. "Torchy" Peden, of Victoria, and Jules Audy of Montreal, were leading in point total with 294 points.

The night was marked by several jams, but there were no serious spills.

LONDOS-LEWIS SIGNED

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—Jim Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, announced last night he has agreed to meet Ed "Strangler" Lewis, also heavyweight title claimant, in a match for the "world championship". Date and place for the match have not been decided upon.

Sunday Hockey Tangle.

Much disturbed over the announcement that there was a strong probability of a Sunday Hockey Association being formed, C. S. W. Marcon and the Rev. C. Patterson wrote a joint letter, which appeared in the Hockey World, and suggested that the E.H.A. should declare their own attitude on the subject.

For my part I have heard nothing of any project for organized Sunday hockey, or of any Sunday club, as has been inferred applying for affiliation to a county association. Moreover, I do not think the recent formation of a Sunday Football Association has had the slightest influence on the mentality of hockey players.

The Hockey Association have adopted no official attitude on Sunday play, presumably because they consider that, in its present form, there is no harm in such healthy recreation than there is in Sunday golf and lawn tennis.

This is a different matter from making an official Sunday parade of the game, and I feel that Mr. Marcon and Mr. Patterson, whose principles call for respect and admiration, have become rather unduly alarmed.

They welcome Sunday afternoon exercise in private that does not involve Sunday work being inflicted on other people, or a nuisance to those who desire a Sabbath day rest. The primary purpose of a Sabbath, they add, is that some part of the day should be set aside for the worship of God, and they would encourage recreation of the body as well as of the soul.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A SLAP IN TIME

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

On self alone none may depend;
Disaster would on such attend.
—Old Mother Nature.

Every day we are dependent on others. We may not think we are, but we are. Even the most independent are far less independent than they think they are. It always has been so and it always will be so.

Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Jerry were just two vagabonds. Yes, sir, that is all they were, just two vagabonds. They had no home. They had no food supply. They had just then no special purpose in life beyond living from day to day. You see, they had been driven from two homes by the flood, and now they were just wandering in that part of the Green Forest through which the Laughing Brook was roaring angrily. Never had either of them been so far into the Green Forest, and they were enjoying the adventure. Never did they get very far from the water, for it is only when they are in or near water that they feel really safe.

The Laughing Brook tumbled and roared and leaped over rocks, and at times formed big pools. It was in the latter that Jerry and Mrs. Jerry could swim, for elsewhere the current was too swift and would have swept them away and perhaps even have drowned them. Mrs. Jerry was beginning to think they had gone far enough.

"What is the use of going further?" she asked. "It only means that we will have to return all this distance by and by and the farther we go the farther we will have to travel back. We have seen what it is like in the Green Forest, and, if you ask me, I don't think much of it. There are too many trees. And the Laughing Brook runs too fast."

"But that is because of the flood," replied Jerry.

"Perhaps," sniffed Mrs. Jerry, "but I've noticed that we haven't come to a single pool that isn't a new one made by the water rising over the banks, and you know very well that when the water goes down these pools will disappear. I'm going back. That is what I am going to do. I am not going another step further away."

Now, when Mrs. Jerry spoke in that tone Jerry knew that it was useless to argue. He knew that she had made up her mind, and trying to change it was a waste of time. But Jerry is nothing if not obstinate. He said nothing, but kept right on following the course of the Laughing Brook deeper into the Green Forest. It was as if something beyond was calling him. He knew that Mrs. Jerry probably was right. It did seem foolish to go on when later he would have to return. But the spirit of the explorer was in Jerry and he just had to go on.

So he parted company with Mrs. Jerry, who headed back down stream, and kept on. So it was late in the afternoon of the next day he came to the first dam of Paddy the Beaver. The water was pouring over it, making a waterfall, and when Jerry came in sight of it he didn't know what it was and didn't suspect there was a pond there. So when he had climbed up on the end of that dam and saw that pond he fairly squealed with delight. Here was a place after his own heart. Here he could swim all he pleased and here the water was deep enough to dive.

"Never in my life have I seen such a house!"

Right away he thought of Mrs. Jerry. "I guess if she could see this she would think it was worth having kept on for," thought he. "And up there is another pond. I wonder how it happens that there are two ponds 'way up here in the Green Forest. And there is a house over there in the water. My goodness, what a house! It is big enough for two or three families of Muskrats. Never in my life have I seen such a house. I thought I could build a good house, but I couldn't build one like that. I wonder if any one is living there now. I wonder"—

Just then there was a sharp sound that Jerry recognized, although never before had he heard it so loud. It was the sound made by a tail slaping the water. Jerry didn't hesitate a second. He didn't even stop to look around. He plunged into the water and swam under water as far as he could. When he put his head out for breath and looked back Old Man Coyote was sitting right where he had been sitting at the end of the dam a couple of minutes before. That slap on the water had been just in time.

What To-Day Means To You

"TAURUS"

If April 21st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 2:30 p.m. to 3:45 p.m., and from 10 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12:35 p.m., and from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Astrological influences on April 21st will tend to make you your second best self. Work will be done in a perfunctory fashion and time will be frittered away. A distinct shadow is thrown across the sunlight of your path; a thoughtless word or act will be the cause of making the world a tragedy to those who feel.

The child born on this April 21st will be dominated by its feelings and capable of an infinite variety of moods. It will be more interested in having its own way than in listening to reason. Its mind will be cluttered with dreams, few of which will ever take material shape.

Born on April 21st you have many of the solid and stolid characteristics of a Taurian-patience, conservatism and dependability. Yours will be no royal road to success, and your heights will only be reached by hammer and tong methods. The narrowness of the life of a specialist in some chosen line of endeavor would appeal to you, as you are not given to a multiple of interests, and detest any move which upsets your personal habits and customs.

A rural life would not be uncongenial to you, and in many respects you are a typical country man or woman with a real love of the things which Mother Nature has to offer. You should at least have a garden of your own or a week-end retreat away from brick and mortar. Creature comforts mean a great deal to you, much more than style or show. You are extremely hospitable and are an easy and generous host or hostess. You will never lead a lonely life, as the door to both your heart and home is always open to those who call themselves friends.

You are a marrying person and one who is capable of giving your heart for better or worse, and mean it. To the right sort of a mate, you are equal to being a comrade, lover and helpmate, the greatest blessing of their lives. You could not live without love and friendship.

HASTINGS.

On Friday evening the Ladies' Aid of Trinity United Church held their second crokinole party in the basement of the church. Nine tables were played. Miss Irene Oliver won the first prize for the highest score, while Lloyd Fleming and Miss Rhea Preston tied for second prize. After playing another game Lloyd Fleming captured the prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Greacen of Roseneath were in the village on Thursday.

Mrs. J. Doherty is visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. Cleary.

Mrs. J. Richardson is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Collins.

Miss Mary Torpey spent the week end with her parents.

Bailieboro

Miss V. Wallace of Oshawa is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Will Lang.

Mr. M. B. Perrin was a business visitor to Toronto on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Morrison will move into their new farm residence this week. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison and family have been residing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Falls since their home was destroyed by fire in January.

Miss Esther Lang left on Monday for Belleville where she will enter Belleville hospital to take a nurses training course. Miss Lang will be greatly missed from the community where she has been an active worker in community and church activities.

The Y.P.S. of the United Church are staging their play entitled, "The Red-Headed Stepchild" in the basement of the Anglican Church on Friday evening, April 22nd.

Messrs. Frank and Keith Barnard have purchased new cars recently.

Farmers throughout the district are engaged in pruning orchards and doing odd jobs getting in readiness for activities on the land.

Saturday and Sunday's high winds completely cleared the ice from Rice Lake as well as worked wonders in drying up the township roads.

The members of the local Athletic Association are holding a meeting in the hall on Monday evening to discuss the possibilities of a ball team for 1932. Rumors are now afloat that the Lake Shore League will reorganize and the executive will endeavor to have Port Hope, Orono, Bailieboro, an intermediate team from Cobourg and Bethany make up the league.

Warsaw

Mrs. Uriah Payne returned on Friday evening after spending the past ten days with Mrs. William Payne in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson, and family, who have spent the winter among relatives in and near Warsaw, plan to start on ther return trip to their home in Avonlea on Monday next.

Miss Ellen Douglas spent last week in Peterborough, and returned there on Monday morning.

The Presbyterian W.M.S., was held at the home of Mr. John Tucker on Monday afternoon, as some of the members wish to attend the Provincial W.M.S., to be held in Peterborough this week. There was a good attendance. Mrs. Richard Tedford was in the chair. Mrs. Munro and Mrs. Thomas Crowe were the circle of prayer. Only a short talk was given on the topic as the lady who had prepared it for Thursday, was unable to be present.

There were the Scripture lesson, singing and talk on mission matters. No business was transacted at the Aid meeting.

This was the quarterly social meeting, and lunch was served and an exceptionally pleasant social time was spent.

Some Babies owe it their lives!

THAT'S what grateful mothers often write us, praising Carnation Milk for baby feeding. Famous specialists recommend it because of its purity, uniformity and safety. Carnation is heat-treated forming finest, softest curds in the baby's stomach. And homogenization breaks up the coarse fat globules into easily assimilable ones. This makes Carnation super-smooth in cookery, too. Splendid when creaming coffee and for use with fruits and cereals. Economical because double-rich.

Before The Tide Turns

"Time and tide wait for no man."

Nor are the low prices of to-day and the turn of the tide toward higher prices going to wait for those who haven't the vision, courage and foresight to buy when prices are at the lowest ebb in 15 years.

And this changing of the tide as applied to prices is more than a mere simile . . . it's a certainty . . . price tides change as surely as ocean tides.

To-day's prices on food, clothing, furniture, furs, cars and other things are from 40% to 100% lower than they have been in years and lower than they will be before the turn of another season.

Don't be caught off your guard when it's so important that your savings be guarded.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION. NO. 76 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

"Where was the hut in which the white woman was prisoner?" demanded Usula as they entered the charred village. "Here," said one of the blacks, walking quickly a few paces beyond what had been the main gateway of the Arabs' late stronghold. Suddenly he halted and pointed at something which lay upon the ground. "There," he said, "is the white woman you seek."

Usula and the other Wasiri pressed forward. Rage and grief contended for mastery as they beheld lying before them, the charred remains of a human body. "It is she," said Usula, grief contorting his ebony face. The Wasiri had loved the mate of their big Bwana. "Perhaps it is not she," suggested one of the warriors. Hastily he knelt and searched for the rings Lady Greystoke always wore.

Usula shook his head despairingly. "It IS she. There is the stake to which she was tied. The rings mean nothing. Luvini would surely have taken them. There was time for everyone else to leave the village except she, who was bound and could not escape." The Wasiri reverently buried the ashes and marked with a little pile of stones the last resting place of she whom they believed had been the wife of Tarzan of the Apes.

Hunting together, feeding together, and sleeping together, Tarzan of the Apes and the golden lion slowly trod the savage jungle trail toward home. Unsuccessful in raiding the treasure vaults of Opar, the ape-man had the sack of diamonds which more than compensated him for the miscarriage of his plans. Now his object was to find and punish the whites who had drugged him.

EMPIRE BROADCASTING SYSTEM SUGGESTED BY SENATOR McRAE

Memorizes Testament

Mme] Messy Neumann, "merely for practice," memorized the Old Testament which she can now recite from beginning to end without a mistake. As a little relaxation, she is now starting to learn Shakespeare's plays by heart.

Believes Plan Under Imperial Radio Commission Help Cement Commonwealth.

SPLIT EXPENSES.

OTTAWA, April 21 (C.P.)—An Empire-wide broadcasting system to be operated by an Imperial Radio Commission was suggested to the House of Commons committee today by General A. D. McRae, member of the Canadian Senate. He expressed the belief that a scheme of an "All Red" radio system embracing the entire world, would meet the approval of every delegate who attends the forthcoming Imperial Conference here.

Senator McRae said he had been interested in an Empire broadcasting scheme for years.

During travels in far distant points of the Empire, Senator McRae said he had been struck by the number of Britishers who wondered why there was no radio system developed that would bring them news of home. He believed a 30-minute broadcast a day from London, carrying the news of the homeland would play a large part in holding the Empire together. Incidentally he would have each Dominion on the chain and each furnish a half hour news broadcast a day.

In addition, the witness urged that intra-Empire broadcasts of educational and entertainment programs be made a ruling principle.

Conference Topic

The strong propaganda value of radio was of so much importance that he thought the proposal of an all-Empire broadcast system was of sufficient importance to be discussed at the Imperial Conference.

General McRae suggested an Imperial Radio Commission with the chairman of the Dominion Radio Commission as Canada's member.

In discussing his Empire scheme, General McRae said in part:

"My only reason for appearing before you at this late date is the fear that one of the most important phases of our radio development is being overlooked. I refer to what might be called an all Red Imperial radio system. Only the British Empire is in a position to maintain a world service of this kind. In these days when we all hope for closer Empire relations no definite arrangement should be arrived at in Canada which does not have first regard for our Imperial requirements.

"A centrally directed radio system covering the Mother Country and the Dominions can be made to play a very important part in cementing the Empire, drawing closer the bonds that bind us together and giving effect to the decisions that come out of the Imperial Conference three months hence.

Improvements

It is apparent there are several ways of improving our present reception which should result in satisfactory service. There is every reason to expect that developments will insure a continuous service at no distant date. It is my humble opinion that the Empire should accept and make the best of the present facilities, lay the foundation for this "all red" Imperial radio system without further delay, and be prepared to avail itself of improvements as they occur. Why should the Empire continue to wait and let everyone else get their place in the air?

"The Imperial Radio Commission would be interested in the control of a dominion radio system only for the hours necessary each day for Empire news requirements. These, I estimate, would be four or five hours a day.

Each Donate Program

"London, being the headquarters of the Empire where travellers from all the Dominions foregather, the schedule from each Dominion should be regulated as to be available in London at regular hours. For instance, London to the Dominions, half an hour, repeating twice a day should give all the interesting news from Great Britain to her far-flung Dominions and Colonies and to the Britishers abroad. Thirty minutes once a day from each Dominion should be more than sufficient for the daily news.

"On this basis, Great Britain, the five Dominions and India would require 4 hours a day for a regular direct all-round- the-world Empire news service.

"The expense of this Imperial radio system should be apportioned between the Mother Country and the Dominions."

Obituary

MRS. ELIZABETH DAFOE.
The death occurred on Wednesday evening of Mrs. Elizabeth Dafoe of Downer's Corners, in her 87th year, and following a brief illness.

Mrs. Dafoe who was a native of Colbourne, Ontario, had resided in this district for the past nineteen years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. A. Torrence and Mrs. A. Lyman; also one son J. Homer Dafoe of Oakland California. She was a member of St. James' United Church.

The remains are resting at Bolleghem's Funeral Home until Friday at 4 p.m., when they will be taken to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lyman of Downer's Corners, from which place the funeral is to be held on Saturday at 1.30 p.m. The Rev. A. E. Moorhouse pastor of St. James' United Church, will officiate at the services. Interment at Norwood Cemetery.

JOHANNA McCARTHY.
The funeral of Johanna McCarthy, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital on Wednesday will take place on Friday, April 22 at 8.45 a.m., from her late home 292 Simcoe street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

Born in the township of Douro, Miss McCarthy had been a life long resident of this city. She had been an active member of the ladies' Sewing Society of St. Peter's Parish and also of the Catholic Women's League. Her kindly disposition was attracted to works of charity, especially in behalf of children and the orphans of St. Vincent's Orphanage, and will be tenderly remembered by her many old friends in this city.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

OPEN AIR SWIMMING STARTS

Three school age children unconsciously provoked an unusual share of attention last evening from home-going crowds passing over Hunter street bridge by their debut in scanty bathing costumes. Getting the swimming season away to an early start, the children gleefully splashed about in waist-high water which floods a portion of James Stevenson Park near the banks of the Otonabee River.

CLOSING MEETING
The Friday Night Supper Club will hold its closing meeting of the season to-morrow evening in the banquet rooms at the Y.M.C.A. The chairman of the club, C. A. Salmonson will address the members as has been his custom each year, and a new high attendance record is expected for this closing gathering.

Last week's attendance was close to eighty and the club executive is aiming at the hundred mark for to-morrow evening. A most attractive program has been planned, including a theatre party to the Capitol, made up of club members as guests of Mr. Salmonsen. The boys will also be accompanied to the show by their leaders and "Y" officials.

ARTICLES REQUIRED
Many homes are in need of articles that may be left over after spring-cleaning. We will gladly call for such things as baby carriages, rugs, stoves or mattresses.

A man out of work would be very glad to get odd jobs of any sort. Please telephone The Examiner for name.

CONTRACT ALMOST FINISHED.
In the hands of Duncan Brothers of this city, the interior and exterior painting contract for the Post Office is now almost fulfilled. Since the fine spell of weather set in painters have been busy applying paint to the outside of the building, the interior decoration having been already completed. It is seven years since the building was last painted.

Fred Roy To Attend Detroit Exposition

Fred L. Roy has been delegated by the Chamber of Commerce and Trent Waterway Association to attend the annual Detroit Sportsmen's and Outdoor Exposition from May 7 to 14 inclusive. He will leave here for the Michigan city on May 4, and will undertake to advertise the charms of this district to the prospective tourists attending the great show.

He will take with him 2,500 new booklets issued by the Trent Waterway-Iroquois Trail Association for distribution, besides two large oil paintings of Rice Lake and several illuminated transparencies of beauty spots in Central Ontario. The films "In the Wake of Champlain" made in this district last summer by the Provincial Government, and "Kelly's Cruise" will also be exhibited by Mr. Roy throughout the duration of the exposition. He also intends to take along several other films from his own library dealing in a graphic manner with the fishing resources of local waters.

Mr. Roy attended the Detroit Show last year. He is going again this year largely as a result of the missionary work undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce and with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and local merchants.

The Peterbrough exhibit will be shown in conjunction with the display of the Ontario Department of Highways in charge of K. A. Cockburn, secretary of the Department.

WOMAN STRUCK DOWN BY CAR DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

PROBABILITIES.
Moderate northeast winds; fair and warm today and Saturday.

The Peterborough Examiner

HOME EDITION

VOL. LXVIII., No. 95 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, CANADA, FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1932 — PRICE THREE CENTS

THREE LIBERAL SENATORS CHASTISED

TWO WOMEN ARE KNOCKED DOWN BY MOTOR CAR

Miss Adelaide Davidson Dies on Way to the Hospital.

DRIVER ARRESTED.

Mrs. Isabella Hall, Sister of Deceased, Suffers Minor Injuries.

Struck by a motor car while crossingGeorge street at the intersection of Simcoe street at 7.40 last evening, Miss Adelaide M. Davidson, aged 64, 453 Mark street, suffered fatal injuries. Her sister, Mrs. Isabella Hall, aged 77, 457 Mark street, who was walking with her, was also struck by the car but escaped with only minor injuries.

Miss Davidson suffered a fractured skull and she died while being removed to the hospital.

Driver Is Arrested

Victor Coombs, aged 18, of 261 Townsend Street, driver of the car which struck the two women, was held by police. He faced a charge of manslaughter before Police Magistrate Langley, and was remanded until next Friday on bail of $6,000.

Miss Davidson and her sister had alighted from the Ashburnham bus at the northwest corner of George and Simcoe streets. Leaving the sidewalk, they walked between two parked buses and were traversing the roadway. They were a little more than halfway across, about 50 feet north of the Simcoe street intersection, when struck.

Both failed to see the motor car driven north on George street by Coombs until it was but a few feet away, Mrs. Hall said. Miss Davidson was south of her companion and a little ahead. Struck first, she was knocked heavily down upon the pavement. Mrs. Hall was grazed by the side of the car being bruised by the impact about the head and legs.

Swerved Car To Right

Coombs told police that he endeavored to miss the two pedestrians by swerving his car. "I swerved first to the right, and then as the two women changed their position I swerved hard to the left," he declared.

Dr. T. G. Loudon attended the injured. Mrs. Hall was removed to her home, her injuries not being serious.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young investigated the accident last night and has ordered an inquest.

Member of Old Family.

Miss Davidson was a member of one of this district's oldest families, and was widely known and highly honored throughout the city. She was born in Smith Township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davidson, but the greater part of her life she had spent in the city, living for many years at her residence on Mark Street. She was a life-long member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hall, widow of the late J. Hall, and Mrs. Ann J. Brealey, of Ridgetown, Ontario, and one brother, Robert Davidson, of Antrim Street. No date for the funeral has yet been set, the return of her bother to the city being awaited.

When Coombs, a thin, undersized youth, appeared before the Magistrate to be indicted upon the charge of manslaughter, he did not plead or elect. G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for him, and immediately made application for bail, over the amount of which there was some discussion.

Crown Attorney V. J. McKlderry, K.C., suggested that two sureties of $2,000 each would be sufficient bail, but the Magistrate demurred.

"But the Crown Attorney knows the facts of the case," urged Mr.

"So do I," replied His Worship "I was on the scene a short time after the accident. This young man's family has no stake in the community, and we have to make irresponsible people understand."

"This case has not been tried yet," cautioned Mr. Gordon.

Coombs had three passengers in the car, his mother, another woman and another youth, police told The Examiner. The car had turned on to George Street off Charlotte Street, and had proceeded north.

Mrs. Hall is resting quietly. Dr W. A. Baker, who is attending her reported this afternoon. Her injuries are not serious, but the shock was severe.

Partners Wind Up Deal in 30 Minutes That 10 Lawyers Worked 13 Weeks On DETROIT, April 22.—Ten lawyers litigated for 13 weeks to effect a dissolution of the partnership of Jacob Shevitz and his uncle, Isaac August, principally because the partners hadn't kept books for ten years.

Then the partners settled it all to their own satisfaction in less than 30 minutes.

They wrote on 98 slips of paper the descriptions of the 98 properties they jointly owned, shuffled the deck and started dealing on a "one for you, one for me" basis.

That finished, they called in their lawyers.

"Everything's jake now," said Ike. "You're dismissed."

KIWANIS HEAR SPLENDID TALK APPLE GROWING

S. B. Hatheway, of Port Hope, is Speaker at Friday Club Luncheon.

REVIEWS POSSIBILITIES.

Offers Excellent Opportunity for Young Man Seeking Vocation.

Some of the present day problems of apple marketing were ably dealt with in a most informative and instructive address delivered today noon at the Empress Hoted by S. B. Hatheway, manager of Orchards of Ontario Company, Limited, Port Hope.

Speaking before the local Kiwanis Club, Mr. Hatheway who was accompanied by James Phillips also a noted apple grower of Port Hope, was introduced by Walter J. Oke. He was tendered a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of his address by President Harry J. Boyle on motion of Charles Saunders.

Reviewing the future possibility in the apple industry of Ontario, the speaker was optimistic. He claimed, "we are only on the fringe of production today", and further, "that the industry provides a wonderful opportunity to the energetic young man who is seeking a vocation".

Mr. Hatheway was born and raised in the apple growing section of the Annapolis Valley in Nova Scotia and has spent his entire life in the apple growing industry.

Speaking of the changes which have taken place in the industry since the year 1900 particularly in the apple growing section of Ontario from Oshawa to Picton, the speaker gave an outline of the scientific developments that have evolved in the combatting of insects and disease to which the apple crop is peculiarly subject. He dealt with the question in a manner which left no doubt in the minds of his

Course is Named Walker Cup Match

NEW YORK, April 22 (C.P.)—The 1932 Walker Cup golf match between teams representing Great Britain and the United States will be played at the Country Club, Brookline, Mass., the United States Golf Association announced to-day. Dates will be set later, probably for the first week in September.

BRITISH TARIFF TO BE DOUBLED

Duty on Foreign Goods of Almost Every Kind Jump to 20 Per Cent.

FEW LIMITED TO 15.

LONDON, April 22. (A.P.)—Beginning at midnight next Friday, the British tariff wall against foreign products goes up to twice its present height.

The import duties advisory committee recommended last night that the duty be raised from 10 to 20 percent on almost every kind of manufactured product imported into the country, effective at midnight, April 29.

On a limited number of articles the duty will be 15 percent, and for some articles in the luxury or semi-luxury classifications the rates will be 25 and 30 percent. On semi-finished steel goods the committee placed a duty of 33⅓ per cent. for three months, until it has had an opportunit to fix a more permanent schedule.

Cancel Old Rate

When the new rates go into effect the orders previously issued under the abnormal importations act, which imposed an ad valorem duty of 50 percent, on certain classes of goods, will be revoked. Most of the commodities affected will then take the 20 per cent. rate.

Included in the 20 percent category are most articles of pottery and glassware, cutlery, machinery and tools other than agricultural machinery and electical goods.

Others are textile manufactures except yarns, apparel, boots, shoes, saddlery, harness, paper and paper manufactures, rubber and rubber manufactures, wood and wood manufactures, certain canned goods, vegetables, metal furniture and numerus miscellaneous items.

15 Percent List

The 15 percent category includes agricultural machinery and tools, and a considerable range of building material, such as roofing, tiles, slates, and plate and sheet glass.

In the 25 percent category are fruit pulp, unexposed sensitized photographic paper, leather trunks and bags, sporting guns, ammunition, sports goods and games.

Duties of 30 per cent. are assessed against toilet preparations and requisites, artificial flowers, jewellery and the wares of goldsmiths and silversmiths.

DO NOT MEDDLE IN MANCHURIA LEAGUE WARNED

Soviet Russia Included in Blunt Speech by Jap War Minister.

Further Dictation Useless.

Points to Red Troop Movements as Serious—Trouble Fully Expected.

By Glenn Babb, C. P. Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, April 22. — A blunt warning to the League of Nations and Soviet Russia to keep hands off Manchuria was laid down today by General Sadao Araki, Japanese Minister of War.

The stocky little War Minister's warning, issued in a speech at Osaka before the Kokuhonsha Patriotic Society, nucleus of the country-wide Nationalist movement in Japan, was later informally endorsed in foreign office and in other government quarters.

Japan's mission, he said, was to make Manchuria a "paradise on earth, safe for everybody" and nothing the League or anybody else did could make her deviate from that course.

Declaring Japan would resist resolutely any attempt by the League to apply the Nine-Power Treaty, he then turned to Soviet Russia and called attention to what he said was a threatening situation in North Manchuria due to Russia's massing troops on the frontier and strengthening her air force in the Far East.

Serious Situation.

"We are unable to understand what these war-like preparations meant," he said. "The situation is becoming serious. Russia is concentrating four divisions in Sibera on the Manchuran border. We can only wait and see whether the storm breaks.

"The League of Nations or Soviet Russia may attempt to frustrate our efforts, since both object to our activities in that region. But they won't be permitted to turn us from our course. It is unnecessary for us to heed what they may say about us.

"A certain country is talking about applying the Nine-Power Treaty in Manchuria. Japan will resolutely oppose such an attempt."

In authoritative quarters it was indicated Japan's already badly-weakened ties with the League were Special Senate Committee Tables 42 Page Report Upon Part Played by McDougald, Andrew Haydon and Donat Raymond.

LIBERAL MEMBERS OF GROUP TO MOVE AMENDMENT, DEBATE LIKELY MONDAY—2 DAYS' NOTICE REQUIRED

Suggest Senators Should Not Places Selves in Position of Receiving Contributions as Being Interested in Enterprises Dependent on Favors to be Made by the Government.

OTTAWA, April 22.—(CP)—Senators Wilfrid Laurier McDougald and Andrew Haydon performed actions which were not fitting or consistent with their duties and standings as Senators of Canada, Senator Donat Raymond accepted very large sums of money by way of campaign fund contributions from a company which was "dependent vitally on government franchises or concessions."

These are outstanding conclusions contained in the majority report of the special Senate committee on Beauharnois, which was tabled in the Senate by Hon. Chas. E. Tanner, chairman of the committee, this afternoon.

Two days notice is required under the rules before concurrence in a report can be moved, save with the unanimous consent of the Senate. Consequently the report will probably not be debated by the Upper Chamber until Monday.

The Liberal members of the committee will move an amendment indicating their disagreement with certain of the findings in the majority report tabled to-day. The disagreement of the Liberal members on the committee and their declaration that the findings of the majority "are largely based on suspicion and against the corroborated evidence of the Senators named in the reference" has been recorded in the minutes of the committee.

COSGRAVE GROUP TO OPPOSE BILL

Fyle Amendment Asserting Move Jeopardizes Freedom of Irish People.

TEXT IS PUBLISHED.

DUBLIN, April 22 (C P.).—Leaders of former President Cosgrave's party served notice to-day of their opposition to the Fianna Fail Bill, abolishing the oath of allegiance to the Crown.

They fyled an amendment to the bill, asserting that it places in jeopardy the rights, liberties, economic privileges and freedom assured to the Irish people by the treaty of 1921. They stated also that when the bill comes up for second reading on Wednesday they will oppose it, pending negotiations and an agreement between the Free State and the British Government.

The text of the Government's bill was published to-day. It provides for removal of Article 17 from the constitution. This is the article which prescribes the oath of allegiance. The bill also calls for the repeal of a consequential amendment to Section 2 of the Irish Free State Act of 1922. Another clause provides that the Free State Parliament shall retain power, after a referendum, to amend the constitution but not, as at present, within the terms of the treaty.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS LOOM UP LARGE AT HYDRO PROBE

Ferguson Refuses Point Blank to Even Guess Name of Collector.

NOT HIS BUSINESS.

High Commissioner Concludes His Evidence Before Commissioner.

TORONTO, April 22.—(C. P.)—Point-blank refusal of G. Howard Ferguson, former Premier of Ontario, to "even hazard a guess" as to the identity of the collector of Conservative campaign funds in the general campaign of 1929 featured today's session of the Royal Commission enquiry into Hydro Electric Power Commission matters here.

Not His Business

If the $125,000 payment to John Aird, Jr., by the Beauharnois Corporation had been made to the Conservative party, which he denied, Mr. Ferguson declared he had not the faintest idea who would have received it. At the time, he stated, he was busy campaigning throughout the province. "I hadn't anything to do with the—what you might call the material things," he said, as the crowded room rocked with laughter. "My job was to reason with people — to step on the gas."

Every effort of A. G. Slaght, opposition counsel, to identify the man who, as admitted by Mr. Ferguson, would be entrusted with the job of collecting the campaign funds, failed. He admitted "elections were not won with prayers, naturally" in response to prompting by the counsel, but as for the person who actually obtained and spent the money, he had no idea. People had come to him after an election campaign and stated they had contributed to the party warchest, but he personally was unaware of the circumstances.

Mr. Ferguson concluded his evidence this morning, and left the courtroom to prepare for his return to London, Eng., where he is Canadian High Commissioner. Time after time, laughter broke out as he met every thrust of Mr. Slaght with the ease of a practiced debater.

Mr. Slaght resumed his efforts to find the Conservative campaign fund collector when J. H. Black, prominent local Conservative, was on the stand, but again he met with failure. Mr. Black declared he was not associated with any organization, and knew nothing whatever about Conservative campaign funds.

Numerous documents were placed as evidence to-day, including the government and Hydro Commission files on the Madawaska and Beauharnois negotiations. At one time, Mr. Slaght ran afoul of Mr. Justice J. F. Orde, Royal Commissioner, when he inferred Hon. J. R. Cooke, Hydro chairman, had signed the Beauharnois contract "as a member of the cabinet."

When His Lordship objected to the "member of the cabinet" reference counsel stated he would show the "Conservative party received $125,000."

Leave Cabinet Out of It

"Mr. Cooke was a member of the Hydro Commission, and you can leave the cabinet out of it," ruled His Lordship.

Before concluding his evidence, Mr. Ferguson said: "I would like to make this statement. I personally know nothing, nor had he ever heard anything, to the effect the Beauharnois Company or anyone in its organization has ever contributed anything to any Conservative organization. And anyway, if any Conservative association did want funds, they wouldn't start a Liberal around to collect."

"How do you know Aird is a Liberal?" interjected Mr. Slaght.

"Well, a purported Liberal — the Airds have always been considered Liberals," said the former Premier.

Reverting to the question of who would collect the campaign funds, Mr. Slaght declared he was very serious about the matter. "Then, you are going home to England without even giving us an idea as to who it might be, in this matter of public interest?" he asked Mr. Ferguson. "We could subpoena the person and perhaps find something."

"I can't do it," said the High Commissioner. "I wouldn't even hazard a guess."

When the enquiry resumed, Mr. Tilley said he thought the Madawaswka phase might continue some days A. G. Slaght, K.C., independent counsel, asked for the appearance of R. O. Sweezey, Lauren

HOUSE MOVES TO REMEDY LAW

Passes Bill in All Stages Allowing Board of Trade Head to Resume Seat.

WILL REPAY PENALTIES.

LONDON, April 22.—(C. P. Cable)—Machinery was set in motion in the House of Commons today to repair the weakness in the position of the President of the Board of Trade, which minister was discovered yesterday by Lord Hailsham, Minister for War, to have no statutory right to sit in the House of Commons.

Penalties incurred by Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade in the National government, and his predecessors in office amount to millions of pounds under the provisions of an act passed in the reign of Queen Anne, the War Minister announced in the House of Lords.

The House this afternoon promptly passed through all stages a bill entitled "President of the Board of Trade Act," which removes the incapacity of the holder of that office from being elected or sitting and voting as a member of the House of Commons. The bill further indemnifies all holders of the office since 1910 from any penalties incurred while acting irregularly under the provisions of the old act.

The House of Lords will pass the new bill through all stages on Monday, enabling Mr. Runciman to resume his seat in the commons without delay.

LIQUOR CONTROL BOARD HEAD RUMORED TO RETIRE ON MONDAY

Toronto Report States Drayton Will Sail Shortly for England.

PRICE, SIR HENRY MUM.

TORONTO, April 22. (C.P.)—Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, is expected to retire from that position Monday next, a Toronto paper says to-day.

"Sir Henry had for some time expressed his desire to relinquish this office" says the newspaper, "but has held on at the request of the Attorney-General. The information to-day is that Sir Henry will be leaving for England next week to visit his daughter and grandson.

"It is stated the duties of chief commissioner will be carried on by Stewart McClenaghan, one of the members.

The paper says it is assured Sir Henry's resignation has no reference whatever to the vacant position of Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, for which he has been mentioned.

Neither Sir Henry nor Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General would comment on the reported resignation.

EDGAR WALLACE ESTATE SHOWS LARGE DEFICIT

LONDON, April 22 (C.P.).— The estate of Edgar Wallace, one of England's most prolific writers, shows a deficit of £63,000, The Daily Mail said to-day, quoting an affidavit soon to be presented for probate. It shows debts of about £81,000 and assets of £18,000, and lists the personal estate at nothing.

The paper said the affidavit was subject to correction inasmuch as it was incomplete regarding the author's earnings in Hollywood prior to his death on February 10.

His widow said the debts were due to heavy racing losses, extravagant living, and excessive generosity.

Snow In Prairies Turns To Downpour

CALGARY, April 22. — (CP) — Southern Albertans today plodded through slush and deep wet snow as the weather man soaked the already dripping countryside in a rainstorm. The snow storm that had gripped Calgary and other parts of the south for 30 hours had departed to make way for the moisture drive.

Lethbridge area was receiving a real drenching as a 24-hour rain storm continued. Other parts of the foothills reported a mixture of rain and snow.

Motorists, soaked by the downpour, were digging their marooned cars out of snow drifts. Hundreds of autos were stalled by the snow fall yesterday.

DON'T HOLD BACK THAT PLUMBING JOB.

There are hundreds of hours' work for plumbers around the homes and shops and other buildings of this city if the owners would spend just as much as they can afford on the repairs that should be done now.

Leaky faucets and flushing tanks are tolerated too long in some places; and often a leaky pipe is ignored until the resulting expense for plastering, added to the plumbing, is very considerably more than the original cost if the work had been promptly undertaken.

The present high tide of the house-cleaning season will remind many women of the plans and hopes they have been considering for one improvement or another to the plumbing system in their homes. New laundry tubs to be set up; or perhaps it was the removal of a sink and substituting for it a combination tub and sink. Others have thought of the modern recess bath tubs, or pedestal basins, noiseless toilets. It would be easy to make a list of a large number of these jobs which could be actually begun to the advantage of householders and especially, in the present stringency, to the plumbers who are anxious to see the season show healthier signs of activity.

What about putting in that shower bath that has been talked of? In other homes the conversations have turned to the possibility of having automatically heated water, by either gas or electricity. The family that lets that kind of job right now is going to do their share of routing depression, for it affects the plumber and electrician or gas man.

Possibly there are sinks that for one reason or another would be better moved. It might be an economy in those situations to order these removals, although the present sinks may be satisfactorily working.

At any rate, the plumber should not be left out of this "give a man a job" campaign. They are affected practically as much as the other builders. Plumbing work that is done now will help the manufacturers and, indirectly, other workers who produce the plumbing supplies.

Any plumbing investment is a good one. It promotes sanitation and labor saving in the home. Every plumbing job that is started today counts more than ever as an effort to get us all back to the level of normal business.

Telephone your plumber while it is Spring and the house is upset with spring cleaning, or soon will be.

Plan Big Arbor Day At Kawartha Club

Citizens are generally invited to the Arbor Day ceremonies Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club grounds. Visitors will have an opportunity of observing the changes that have already been accomplished in grooming the old Webber farm for a splendid recreational centre.

Members of the club are planning to set out 12,000 trees, including maples, elms, walnuts, Norway spruce, and other varieties. This work, however, will not be completed for a week or ten days.

REAL TRADERS BEING SOUGHT BY U.S. SENATE

Watson Sure International Bankers Seeking to Smash Market.

IMPEDE RECOVERY.

Claims Ultimate Goal is Cancellation of War Debts—Whitney Dismissed.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (C.P.).—The U.S. Senate's Banking Committee opened up to-day on the score of brokers summoned in the Stock Exchange investigation, determined that the real traders back of the dummy names on the roll of short sales shall stand revealed.

A resolution that nothing should halt them was formed by the Senators when they dismissed from the witness stand Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange with a warning that he would be called back after more facts had been established.

"We haven't had frank answers from you, Mr. Whitney," Chairman Norbeck (R., S.D.) told him when the unsatisfactory examination ended.

Soon thereafter Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, who holds a place on the committee, told newspapermen he was firmly convinced that international bankers had been seeking to smash the market, hold up business recovery, so as to force cancellation of war debts.

"That's their game, and we hope to prove it," he stated with emphasis. This particular assertion followed disclosure by Whitney under questioning that his exchange firm had bought $9,200,000 of German reparation bonds, on an order from the syndicate selling them to the public, so as to maintain the price for a period of 18 or 20 days while the issue was being marketed. Despite suggestions by his questioners that this involved "double-crossing" the public and opening the door to fraud, Whitney maintained stoutly that the action was "customary" and was "done so the purchasers could have sold at the purchasing price."

17,000,000 REDS READY TO FIGHT

Reports of White Guard Activities in Far East Stir Trade Unions.

INVASION HINTED AT.

MOSCOW, April 22. — (A.P.)—The 17,000,000 members of the Soviet Trades Unions stood pledged to-day to spring to the defence of their country, if need be, as news dispatches from the Far East told of new charges that Russian "White Guards" were acting against the Soviets.

The ninth All-Union Congress of the Trades Unions made the pledge for its members last night and, sending greetings to the Red army and to Klementi E. Voroshiloff war and navy commissar, called for increased watchfulness, especially in the Far East, against threat menace of a Bourgeoise invasion.

It also obligated itself to extend military preparedness to the proletariat and the peasants, with a view to greatly enlarging the already comprehensive "patronage" of the Red army.

"The policy of the Soviets has been, is and always will be one of peace," the Congress declared. 'But we must be ready to defend our country against Imperialistic attacks."

FIND ALL-BRAN HAS TWICE THE USABLE IRON IN LIVER

Also Furnishes "Bulk" and Vitamin B to Overcome Common Constipation

Liver is known as a good source of iron for the blood. Now, new tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

But more important still, laboratory experiments show ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

This means Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a fine way to overcome constipation — with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture, forming a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, milder, more palatable.

How much better than risking pills and drugs — so often habit-forming. Just eat two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily for most types of constipation. It is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN W. LOVELL

Born in Montreal He Became Known as Speed King of Book Publishing Game.

NEW BOOK DAILY.

NEW YORK, April 22. — The speed king of the book publishing game, the man who fed the eager 80's a dime dose of culture daily, is dead.

John Wurtele Lovell, who could get a new Kipling yarn on the stalls almost as fast as an extra reached the newsboys' hands, died Monday at the age of eighty, but his death did not become known until last night.

If the literature that he turned out were placed end to end, somebody on Mars would be reading Ruskin. In his heydey, he estimated, he was publishing 7,000,000 volumes a year. Most of them at ten and twenty cents or so.

Born and educated in Montreal, he took a job as manager of his father's firm, John Lovell & Co., at Roses Point, N.Y., and then things started humming. Coming here in 1882 he formed the John Lovell Company.

Those were the days before all the present copyright regulations were thought of, and speed was the first essential. Lovell's men would get a Kipling story off an incoming vessel and dash for the book plant as though they were pony express riders with hot despatches.

Chuckled at Rivals

Then, while the presses ground, Mr. Lovell would chuckle at his rivals. His publication, in paper covers and 10 and 20-cent editions, of "Soldiers Three," "Plain Tales From the Hills," and "The Light That Failed" beat all competition by four days and cost him $2,500 in advance royalties to Mr. Kipling.

Ruskin, Dickens, Thackeray, Shakespeare and Carlyle streamed from his presses, making "Lovell's Library" familiar to millions at bargain prices. But if you wanted to pay fancy figures, Mr. Lovell was ready. He sold Ruskins at 10 cents and complete editions for $450.

Branching out, he formed other concerns which finally in 1889 were absorbed into the United States Book Company. But the panic of 1893 caught the United States Book Company, and thereafter Mr. Lovell took up real estate.

Mr. S. Holcombe of Havelock renewed acquaintances at Deloro on Wednesday.

The Men's Club of St. Paul's Church held a very delightful meeting at the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening. President C. H. Buskard took the chair for general business. It was decided to invite the ladies at the next regular meeting, which will be held on May 4. W. J. Cottrell, convenor of the program committee, then took over the meeting. R. A. Elliott, speaker of the evening, was called upon to give a talk on the Yukon. Mr. Elliott some years ago joined two surveying parties which traversed this territory. With the use of a lantern slide map thrown on the sheet, the speaker described places visited, features of the territory and modes of travel. Later an interesting series of lantern slides enabled Mr. Elliott to further illustrate his topic. In concluding, he recited "The Spell of the Yukon" by Robert Service. Next on the program was a number by a quartett, composed of Messrs. J. F. Baker, W. L. Pegg, W. A. Sanderson and A. V. Yates. The concluding item was a reading "The Devil is in the Pigs," by J. A. Rice. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed before the gathering, numbering forty, broke up.

FATAL SHOOTING BAFFLES POLICE

Official Admits Mrs. Keith-Miller Practically Cleared in Slaying of Fiance.

SUSPECT FLYING FRIEND.

MIAMI, April 23 (C.P.). — Mrs Jessie M. Keith-Miller, woman flyer, virtually has been exonerated in the strange fatal shooting of her fiancee, Haden Clarke, 31, but she faces further questioning in State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne's attempt to clear up the case.

Both Mrs. Keith-Miller and her flying partner, Captain W N. Lancaster, are in custody Hawthorne said he was convinced the woman was in no way connected with the actual shooting, but that he planned to question her and Lancaster further to try to determine if Clarke committed suicide or was slain.

"While many things would substantiate a theory of suicide," Hawthorne said, "there are a number of facts which, taken either separately or together, hinder the final acceptance of that theory."

Released from Jail.

Mrs. Keith-Miller was released from jail under guard last night to attend private funeral services for Clarke.

Hawthorne would not say that Lancaster, a British flyer who has taken part in several hazardous flying ventures with Mrs. Keith-Miller since 1927, had been cleared of all blame in the shooting.

Clarke was fatally wounded in his bed a few hours after he and Mrs. Keith-Miller told Lancaster of their plans to be married. The announcement was made, the flyers said, as the three visited in Mrs. Keith-Miller's home in an exclusive residential section here.

Mrs. Keith-Miller said she and Clarke fell in love as the two worked together on a story of her life. Lancaster hurried to Miami from St. Louis by plane after receiving letters from the affianced couple that they planned to marry.

Hawthorne said Mrs. Keith-Miller told him Lancaster was under contract to fly for persons planning possible smuggling of alien Chinese into the United States from Mexico, but that he saw little or no connection between this and the shooting of Clarke.

MONTREAL SAYS $500,000 OWING HER ON RELIEF

MONTREAL, April 22.—(C.P.)—More than $500,000 is owing to Montreal by the Provincial and Federal governments as the result of the tripartite agreement for unemployment relief made last fall, it is announced at the City Hall. The agreement was that the expenditure was to be borne by the city with repayment later by the collaborating governments.

Unemployment relief figures that will be placed before Premier R B. Bennett and Hon. W. A. Gordon Minister of Labor, by Alderman A A. Desroches and Leon Trepanier who will interview the Federal authorities to-morrow, were made public to-day. The total cost of direct relief for Montreal unemployed during the past two winters was placed at $2,0.1,000.

Platinum Strike in Pembroke Area Is Proving Magnet to Prospectors

PEMBROKE, Ont. April 22.—(CP)—Prospects of a mining rush to Fraser Township, 20 miles from here, held the interest of Pembroke today as news of a platinum strike was coupled with reports that prospects were preparing to swarm into the district.

Seeking to develop a feldspar deposit for a Beachburg Syndicate, John Roberts, mining engineer, is said to have made the platinum discovery some months ago, but withheld word of it until yesterday. He has staked between 20 and 25 claims and a second syndicate this week staked 18 claims in the area.

Believe Committee Will Recommend Expulsion of Two Liberal Senators.

CENSURE RAYMOND.

OTTAWA, April 22 (C.P.).—The political spotlight will be focused on the Senate to-day when the report if the Beauharnois Committee of the Upper House is tabled It was reported the majority report would contain adverse findings against Senators W. L McDougald, Andrew Haydon, and Donat Raymond.

Reports current on Parliament Hill to-day said an aftermath of the majority report of the committee, written by the Conservative members, might be the attempted expulsion from the Senate of Senators McDougald and Haydon and the censuring of Senator Raymond Debate on the report is expected to open on Monday and possibly will be of a belligerent nature. Beauharnois having been the spark to the political powder barrel for more than two years.

May Prorogue in Week.

The House of Commons yesterday spent a leisurely day debating the Rhodes Budget and then reviewing departmental estimates. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Government leader in the Senate, announced in the Upper House that the Commons might conclude business in a week's time. The attitude of the Opposition, however would be the determining factor.

TWELVE JAILED IN STUDENT RIOT

Worst Riot at Harvard in Years Occurs Amongst Undergraduates.

TEAR GAS USED.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 22. — (CP)—A riot of Harvard undergraduates characterized by police as one of the worst of recent years, was brought to a halt early today after eight students and four Cambridge residents had been arrested and two police officers injured.

Scores of students invaded the dormitories of Radcliffe College, a women's institution; an automobile was overturned, the Brattle Square station of the Cambridge police department was stormed as hundreds of undergraduates attempted to rescue comrades who had been taken into custody and bonfires were built in Harvard Square.

The disorder started in the yard when a group of freshmen, in search of the bell clapper stolen from Memorial Hall several days ago, shouted the Harvard war cry "Reinhart."

Freshmen were joined by upper classmen as the group started for the Lampoon building.

Constantly gaining in strength, the crowd rushed to Harvard Square where attempts were made to enter the University theater.

A call was sent in for police reserves, who pressed their way into the crowd that now numbered in the vicinity of 3,000.

Three tear gas bombs opened a wedge for police and several students were arrested.

"Blue" Roses!

SANTA ROSA, Cal., April 22. (CP).—It would take times like these to bring out a "blue" rose.

John Bull's, local floriculturist and hybridizer, who has been experimenting for years to produce a true blue rose, says he believes he has succeeded and will have the rose in bloom for the spring flower show here in May.

Bull's explained "blue" roses previously shown in Germany, actually have been purple or bluish-red rather than blue.

Lower Beer Prices For Saskatchewan

REGINA, April 22.—Following a meeting of brewery managers and representatives of breweries operating in Saskatchewan a reduction in beer prices will be announced by the Saskatchewan Liquor Commission next Monday. Amount of the reduction will not be known until the official announcement of the Commission.

Reductions will be in effect in the 123 beer stores throughout the province. Commencing on May 22 these stores will also stock and sell native wines, according to the list of "beer and wine" stores issued from the Liquor Board office this morning. Board officials state 73 beer stores have been closed during the past few months.

KINSMEN HONOR NEW GOVERNOR

Alex L. Elliott is Honored by His Home Club at Dinner.

CONVENTION REPORTS.

Brief reports were also tendered by each of the delegates from the local club concerning the district convention of Kinsmen Clubs which cluded at Ottawa on Saturday night last.

In the course of a brief address, during which he gave an account of his stewardship while in attendance at the convention, the district governor also outlined the need for a further expansion of club activity throughout the district during the next year. In stating that he is shortly to visit Kingston with a view of forming a branch of the organization in that city, he solicited the support of his fellow members of the Peterborough club.

Mention was also made during the evening of the fact that a new branch is also to be established in the near future at Dunnville, and effort was to be made to get the Montreal club re-organized.

The Governor pointed out that as the district officers are to be chosen from the membership of the local club, it was going to mean an increase of effort to every individual member of the club.

CONDITIONS IN THE WEST ARE ABLY DESCRIBED IN ADDRESS

Anglican Bishop of Saskatchewan, Rt. Rev. W. T. Hallam, D.D., Speaks at Campbellford.

IN CHRIST CHURCH.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—A living word picture of the condition of the dried-out areas of the West, the churches' problem of the new settlers and the splendid spirit of the people who are "tightening their belt and holding on" was told last evening by the Anglican Bishop of Saskatchewan, Rt. Rev. W. T. Hallam, D.D., speaking in Christ Church, Campbellford. The service was conducted by the rector, Rev. T. H. Floyd, the Rev. J. R. Battisby of Hastings assisting with the service.

One of the great difficulties of the church, His Lordship stated, was the complete crop failure of Southern Saskatchewan with part of Manitoba on the east and Alberta on the west, and extending north to Saskatoon. Last season in this area not even pig-weed sprouted before June.

The old picture of the West with its flowing fields of grain had gone, and in its place was a barren land. In some places seed had been blown out three times in the one season; other farmers had not reaped a crop for three years, very little moisture was evidenced, and to-day if there was not a more than average supply of rain before June, another crop failure was predicted. All through this area house after house was empty, people having left to go north in hope of another start near the forest belts.

Trek for North

In this trek north, many had gone without the necessary resources and the days of the covered wagon had been revived, with the settlers moving on anything that had wheels, from a panting old Ford to hayracks; the trek depicted a pathetic jumble. Many of these settlers had gone to the Meadow Lake area where water was to be had, and had used the slogan, "Meadow Lake or bust," which in some cases had proved true. A quarter of the province was on the move and left all behind rather than stay south and take government relief, the only other course open to them.

"What is the church going to do?" asked the Bishop, who pointed out that therein lays our problem, not only as Christians but as citizens. Services were being held in schools, barns, houses, railway waiting rooms and in one case the speaker told of holding a communion service in a pool room with the altar on the table and the congregation sitting around on the high chairs. And God was as surely there as in a church, his Lordship said, declaring that "after all, what matters is the spirit of the people." And the response of the people had been wonderful in the voluntary service they had rendered the church. In many places these people had built churches and had taken a pride in what they saw as a pillar of witness. These older people, the speaker said, had the memory of the church in Ontario or the Old Land to live on and help them, but their children only had what they saw.

The needs of these people were evident, but Dr. Hallam declared he had never heard grousing and only saw the spirit manifest to help one another.

Prepared To Hold On

Two weeks ago he was in a western town where eggs could not be sold, the week previous they sold for four cents a dozen and butter for ten cents a pound. "Yet all these people are prepared to tighten their belts and hold on, and the note of it all is courage," the speaker declared.

Speaking of the diocese of Saskatchewan, Bishop Hallam stated that there were 75 ministers, 33 summer students and 26 self-supporting parishes. And yet last year $9,000 had been raised for purposes outside the parishes and $3,400 had been sent to the East for the central fund. This money had been raised by a system of assessing the people. This scale was on personal expenditures; $500 netted a 5% assessment; $1200 a 10% assessment of over the $500 mark and $1,500, 15% over the $1,200 mark. With these facts he declared that he was not afraid to ask for the support and consideration of the east saying that it was the responsibility of the whole Canadian Church. If we want to have Canada Christian, we must help. Some of these people had had no service for 12 years. Others lived as far as 27 miles from any church and some walked as many as 12 miles to service.

Speaking of the splendid help that had already been given by the East to the West, Dr. Hallam declared that through the fine gifts of kind no one had gone cold last winter for fuel had been provided by the government. Married ministers in the west were getting a minimum of $1,200 a year, many of them providing their own transportation and the speaker declared he did not know how some of them were able to carry on. The money raised in the East for this work had gone to make up the stipends of many of these ministers and 389 of them had been helped. The total sum raised for this had been $37,000.

Feast Of Passover Celebrated In City

The feast of the Jewish Passover was ushered in for Peterborough Jewish families with the setting of the sun Thursday evening and marked by the colorful Seder service. Following services held in the synagogue, families gathered in their homes to read again the story of the deliverance of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage. Service in the synagogue was also held last night. While unleavened bread is a feature of the Feast of the Passover, many unique dishes have been prepared for the festival.

For many days Jewish housewives have been engaged in housecleaning; fresh curtains have been hung at the windows, and the Passover dishes brought from the cupboards for use during the feasting. Special cooking utensils are employed for the cooking meals during the Passover.

Another despatch said a "White Guard" mob, made up of former emoloyes of the Chinese Eastern Railway, surrounded the Soviet offices of the railroad April 18 tand 20 members of the mob entered the building.

The incident occurred, it said, after Manchurian authorities had assured Russian officials there would be no more such disturbances. Manchurian police did nothing to prevent the raid, it is said, and the Soviet consul protested, declaring also that Soviet citizens who wished to return to Russia were being denied exit visas.

Hon. Charles H. Cahan, Secretary of State, whose estimates were under review at the time, said stock frauds were punishable under the Criminal Code, the administration of which did not come under his department. "But," he added, "if a proper representation is made to me with respect to any frauds committed by any company which has obtained a charter under the Companies Act of Canada, provision is made for investigation." This course has been followed several times in the past two years, he said.

Robert Gardiner, leader of the United Farmers, asked if the Secretary of State would "take action" regarding the splitting by the Imperial Oil Company of its stock on a four-for-one basis, and all those other companies that have split their stock without putting any more capital into them?" George Coote, United Farmer member for MacLeod asked if the State Secretary had power to investigate the actions of the promotors of the Canada Pulp and Paper Company.

Mr. Cahan said he knew of no law, no reason, legal, moral or otherwise, why a company should not split its shares. "There are," he said, "laws which inflict heavy penalties upon those who water or otherwise deal fraudulently with stocks. "It is the same process of law...that sends to jail those who water milk." Canadian penitentiaries at the present time held many men who had run foul of this law.

More stringent laws were needed, said Mr. Gardiner and the same plea was uttered by E. J. Garland,

Throat Sore and Lost Voice

Mrs. A. McDONALD

Toronto, Ont.—"For about eight years I was subject to laryngitis. My throat would get very sore and I would lose my voice. I would have a spell of this kind a couple of times a year, especially in the winter when the weather was cold and disagreeable, and it would be a couple of months each time before I would get my voice back," said Mrs. A. McDonald of 28 McMurrich St. "I doctored and took medicine with little relief until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it has so completely relieved me of this trouble that I scarcely ever have a sore throat or suffer in that way."

Owner Of Orpington Road House Defends Action In Evicting Tenants From Home

Defending her action which resulted in the recent eviction of her tenants from property on Orpington Road, Mrs. Edith Cookman, of North Monaghan Township, related her side of the story to The Examiner to-day noon.

A widow of slender means and with three children of school age, Mrs. Cookman's entire income is derived from a small general store which she runs in partnership with another woman. She is also in receipt of a monthly stipend from the Mother's Allowance Board, and further augments her finances by such work as she can obtain scrubbing and cleaning in private homes in Peterborough.

The family which was evicted from her property and which is now in shelter in a small mission church in the neighborhood had tenanted the Orpington Road house since November last. Mrs. Cookman states she received the rent for November and December and also a portion of the rent for January. The remaining months were in arrears.

She claims that she had no desire to deal harshly with the family and had indeed shown them great consideration in the past. The situation had reached an acute stage, however, and Mrs. Cookman says she was called upon to pay $5.00 for the electric light bill and a further $1.40 for garbage collection.

The husband of the family, Mrs. Cookman claims, had been in receipt of aid from the Central Charity Relief Board all through the winter, and had also been assisted by the Township. Her statement in this regard is verified on good authority.

It is also learned from an official source that the husband of the evicted family was one of the six men who left work at the Township Relief Camp in Burleigh Township recently.

Commons Group Winds Up Broadcasting Evidence

Sixty Witnesses Been Heard Since Evidence Opened on March 8.

OTTAWA, April 21 (C.P.).—The future of Canadian broadcasting, so far as public submissions are concerned, rested to-day with the Parliamentary Broadcasting Committee which completed at noon the hearing of evidence started on March 8 last.

During that time the committee, composed of nine members of the House of Commons under the chairmanship of Dr. Raymond Morand (Cons., Essex East), heard some sixty witnesses in evidence which centred mainly about the question of public ownership as opposed to private enterprise. In addition the chairman and members of the commission received written submissions and appeals from thousands of individuals and organizations from all points in Canada. The committee will commence private sittings shortly to prepare a report which will be submitted to Parliament.

further strained by the recent resolution of the committee of 19 on the situation at Shanghai. The Foreign Office spokesman declined to reveal the nature of the Government's latest instructions to the delegation at Geneva, but it was understood M. The spokesman denied that a breaking-off of these conversations had been ordered.

The Government's determination to cease entirely to participate in the activities of the League whenever Article XV of the League Covenant is applied in Manchuria is already an open secret, although it has not been officially announced. Anti-league forces in Japan are now insisting that the same policy be applied to the attempts of the committee of 19 to direct the course of the negotiations at Shanghai.

A despatch to the Rengo News Agency from Harbin, Manchuria, said Japanese army officers arrested the Russian station master of the Chinese Eastern Railway at Imienpo on a charge that he obstructed Japanese troop movements, in co-operation with Chinese insurgents.

Russian authorities at Harbin demanded the station master's release, the despatch added.

A Japanese brigade, under Major General Mural, arrived at Imienpo late yesterday, it said, and part of it clashed to-day with Chinese insurgents near Wukimiho, west of Imienpo. The Japanese intended to launch an offensive against the rebels in that region, it said.

MASSIE TRIAL HALTS 2 DAYS

Prosecutor Imports Alienists to Combat Accused's Insanity Defence.

CLIMAX NEXT WEEK.

By William G. Ewing

HONOLULU, April 22. — (AP) — Seeking evidence to combat the insanity defence of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, the prosecution dug deeper into the field of medicine today while the accused U. S. navy officer and three others charged with lynching Joseph Kahahawai rested from the ordeal of their trial.

With court adjourned until tomorrow at the request of Prosecutor John C. Kelley, two alienists imported by him from California made observations upon which to base their testimony.

They are Dr. Joseph Catton of San Francisco, whose testimony recently helped to convict Winnie Ruth Judd of the murder of two women in Phoenix, and Dr. Paul Bowers of Los Angeles.

Both arrived yesterday. Dr. Bowers readily stated the object of his coming. Dr. Catton refused to comment.

Memories of the dramatic appearance on the witness stand of Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of the accused officer and victim of a criminal attack to which Kahahawai allegedly confessed just before he was fatally shot with a pistol in the hands of Massie, were commented upon by Clarence Darrow, aged chief of defence counsel.

Memorable Scene

"I never saw anything like it," Darrow said. "I've been in some pretty good court scenes, but nothing like that one. I was pretty limp when it was all over. I couldn't sleep when I went to bed that night."

Kelley, who had displayed some temper after Mrs. Massie angrily destroyed a paper he had handed her allegedly containing her admission of differences with her husband a few months before the attack, grinned at the remembrance of his actions.

The two-day delay obtained by the prosecution indicated the trial would not be finished before next week. Kelley previously said he would require one day to present his rebuttal. Then must come the closing arguments of counsel and Judge Charles S. Davis' instructions to the jury.

Massie and his co-defendants, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are charged with second degree murder, the penalty for which is from 20 years to life imprisonment.

LOUIS GREEN 432 GEORGE STREET

TRAVELLED IN 23 COUNTRIES

H. P. Barker Has Been For 37 Years a Missionary of the Gospel.

BORN IN ENGLAND.

Thirty-seven years a missionary of the Gospel during which time he has travelled in twenty-three different countries of the world mainly in Europe and America, H. P. Barker is this week conducting a series of meetings at the Gospel Hall in Peterborough.

A native of London, England Mr. Barker has lately been residing in Jamaica to which island he is to return shortly. He expects to leave this city on Saturday at the completion of his visit here with G. W. Mulligan of Water street north.

In pursuit of his missionary enterprises Mr. Barker has been coming and going between Europe and America for the past twenty-five years. He has travelled extensively all over Canada and the United States. Asked by The Examiner how he thought Canada compared with some of the other countries in which he had worked and visited, he replied, "I like Canada very much indeed. I am quite at home in this country, having travelled from east to west of it." He added that he was visiting Peterborough for the first time. He came here at the invitation of Mr. Mulligan whom he first became acquainted with at a missionary conference at Toronto last year.

His travels have also taken him as far east as Russia into which country he was barred from entry. While in Poland he stated he had opportunity to hear at first hand the experiences as told by Russian refugees. There were ten thousand refugees, he said, concentrated at one camp, and maintained at the cost of the Polish government.

"Any stories you have heard about Russia may be believed he said. Tales of atrocity have been rather underrated instead of overstated," he claimed. "Anyone in that country who disagrees with the government is considered an outcast and a traitor."

Describing conditions that exist in Jamaica, Mr. Barker explained that comparatively speaking trade conditions in that island were good. Jamaica owed her prosperity to the enormous growth of the banana trade, which had now become so extensive that it had in many cases resulted in closing of sugar plantations.

"The slogan in the laland is, Jamaica for the Jamaicans," he said in answer to a query as to what chances a young man would stand of getting profitable employment in the West Indies. He modified his statement by adding that there were several young Canadians employed on the banana plantations in the capacity of "bushers." It was their job to ride around on horseback and see that the native laborers did their work. In some cases it was necessary to prod the natives with a stick. "Believe me it is often necessary," he remarked laughingly, "for as soon as the "busher's" back is turned the native laborer is inclined to drop off to sleep.'

Make New Buildings Suit Lake District

MANCHESTER, Eng., April 22.—(C.P.)—A movement is under way to ensure that the beautiful Lake District shall not be spoiled by unsuitable buildings being erected in that part of England, the movement being sponsored by the Royal Institute of British Architects and the Society for the Preservation of Rural England, with the approval of the Ministry of Health.

Every authority of the Lake District recently received a copy of a pamphlet which announced the formation of architectural panels which offer voluntary help in the scrutiny of plans and designs submitted to local authorities for their approval. These panels were originated by the Royal Institute of British Architects and the Society for the Preservation of Rural England.

In introducing its appeal the Lake District Safeguarding Society remarks the district is most fortunate in the persistent use of local stone and local slates. The fells and lakes could not be spoiled, but the beauty of roads might easily be marred in the present day, when old styles of building seem expensive. Therefore it is necessary to encourage builders and owners as much as possible to put up buildings in harmony with their surroundings.

"New buildings" it says, "can be quite as attractive as old ones, thereby adding to the beauty of their surroundings, and in such districts as this it is felt that more consideration should be given to their appearance than is the case at present. Everyone will agree that local materials are the most appropriate and that the introduction of the characteristic features of our old buildings should be encouraged."

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING.

Although no election threatens in either the provincial or the federal field this year, the appearance in Peterborough to-night of two such well-known political figures as Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., and Hon. Ian Mackenzie, M.P., will undoubtedly prove a most interesting event to many citizens.

Mr. Hepburn, the new provincial leader of the Liberal party, is a colorful platform performer, with a ready turn of wit, a habit of using striking similes and a tendency to lash out at his political opponents in a manner that, at least among his supporters, arouses intense enthusiasm. The first local speech of the provincial chieftain, which will likely deal largely with Ontario issues, should prove an interesting effort.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, who has come rapidly to the front at Ottawa, where he is regarded as one of the present "aces" of the Liberal party, will discuss federal matters, and his address, judging by his speeches in the House, can be looked forward to as a distinctly worth-while exposition of current issues.

With a double attraction of such merit, the Canadian Legion Hall should be crowded to-night when Hon. Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Hepburn will address a Liberal mass meeting.

IS ONE CARETAKER ENOUGH?

The new rest station erected on the Market Square at the request of the City Council is shortly to be opened, and will be found to be one of the most modern and complete buildings of its kind in the Province.

Such a building will necessarily have to be kept immaculately clean and sanitary, and care will have to be taken that it is not made a loafing place, and there are many citizens who, hving read that a caretaker has been appointed at a salary of less than a dollar a day, have some misgivings as to whether the required service can be expected from such a small maintenance outlay.

To take adequate care of such a building would seem to necessitate the presence of both a male caretaker as well as a female attendant, and there is some surprise that the Council did not consider the advisability of appointing some unemployed ex-service man and his wife, in view of the amount of work to be done.

It may be that a single caretaker can prove himself adequate to the task of keeping the rest station always up to the mark, but the man that does so for less than a dollar a day will be entitled to be described as something in the nature of a miracle man.

An expenditure of such a small amount on the maintenance of a structure that cost some $11,000 or $12,000 must be a new low in municipal financing.

A BRITISH COLUMBIA EXPERIMENT.

Something new in the realm of politics has developed in British Columbia, the Government of which Province has consented to a non-partisan inquiry by a commission of five business men into the public finances of the Province.

A request for such a commission was made by a delegation representing Victoria and Vancouver business interests, and Premier Tolmie promptly agreed to the suggestion, naming a commission from a list submitted to him by the deputation.

The commission will be given a free hand to delve into all angles of the Province's financial situation, but the Government has not bound itself to accept in full or in part the recommendations that the commission may make.

The whole system of Government financing and cost accounting will be reviewed, and it is hoped that through the inquiry business interests will be able to assist a furtherance of Government retrenchment.

The experiment in British Columbia will be studied with some interest, it is fancied, by politicians throughout the Dominion; it is already regarded as a shrewd gesture designed to reduce criticism on the part of business men who, having been brought closely into touch with the complexities of provincial financing, are likely to be more sympathetic in future in their attitude toward the powers-that-be.

THE BRITISH WAY.

The feature of the British budget is not the fact that no taxation relief can be expected during the next year, but rather the story it told of a determined, courageous and successful struggle on the part of the British taxpayer to bring about a balanced budget.

The tribute paid by the Chancellor to "the magnificent response of the income taxpayers who showed a sense of duty and citizenship for which the British people could always be relied on in times of trouble," was not a bit overdrawn, for no finer spirit has ever been shown by any people than the willingness with which the Britishers have carried an almost overwhelming load of taxation.

This, too, is a British country, but it is not apparent that we have followed British traditions to the stage at which we cheerfully accept fresh tax levies as a necessary obligation of citizenship.

Most Canadians, on the contrary, look upon taxation as little short of highway robbery on the part of our Governments, and when it becomes burdensome we usually turn out the offending administration as a protest, regardless of the likelihood that the next regime may dig even deeper into our pockets.

Possibly, however, before the world gets back on its feet again Canadians may have been forced to adopt the British attitude toward taxation in spite of themselves.

THE SWEEPSTAKE BUSINESS.

According to Sr Herbert Samuel, Home Secretary, $47,500,000 were paid out by Britishers for tickets in the last five sweepstakes in connection with the Irish Free State Hospitals. A goodly portion of that came back to the country in the form of prizes, but there were still thirteen millions left in Old Ireland. He observed that the question was a difficult one, and would be investigated by a royal commission.

It was something of a surprise the other day when a private member's bill to legalize sweepstakes in Britain passed first reading in the House of Commons by a large majority. Previous attempts have been heavily downed. The fact that an average of nearly $10,000,000 goes out of the country every time the Irish Hospitals run a sweepstake, which is three times a year, making about $30,000,000, no doubt had something to do with that vote. British M.P.'s see that although sweepstakes are illegal in Great Britain, the law is helpless to prevent people getting tickets, and perhaps they feel it would be wiser to cut out the piety and let the people spend their money on worthy objects at home.

Centuries ago England had official sweepstakes. Several bridges and public buildings were erected by sweepstake money, but a wave of puritanism came over the country and sweepstakes were ended.

It would be interesting to know—but there is no means of doing so—how much Canadian money has gone, or will go, over to Dublin for the Irish Hospitals Sweepstake on the English Derby. A very large aggregate, no doubt, and the authorities cannot find a way to stop it.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE BROWN DERBY AGAIN.

Unless all signs fail this summer's Democratic convention in Chicago is going to be a repetition of that famous 1924 scene in Madison Square Garden when Smith and McAdoo clashed and deadlocked until the gathering became a shambles and the party all but split into factions.

This time the fight promises to be between Smith and Roosevelt. Once close personal friends and political comrades, these two leaders have become rival and political foes, and on Wednesday night Smith, speaking at the annual Jeffersonian dinner, declared open war. Smith, heretofore, has taken the position that as national leader of the party it was not his task to espouse or attack the aspirations of any candidate, but on Wednesday night he changed his position, said this:

"I have recently stated that while I would accept a nomination for the presidency if it were tendered me by the convention, until the convention assembled I would not be for or against any candidate.

"I announce to-night an exception to that statement.

"I will take off my coat and fight to the end against any candidate who persists in any demagogic appeal to the masses of the working people of this country to destroy themselves by setting class against class and rich against poor."

This broadside, which is bound to have tremendous repercussions, was directed at a radio address in which Roosevelt declared that Washington was working for the banks, the railways and the capitalistic classes in general while ignoring the needs of the poor.

But Smith would probably have made the attack in any event, and upon some other ground. He has unquestionably set his hand to stop Roosevelt, to prevent his securing the nomination of the party, no matter what the cost.

The first big engagement between the two men will come over New York's delegation to the convention. New York's delegation is largely controlled by Tammany, and Curry, the Tammany leader, has stated that New York's delegation will bide their time. This does not mean that Tammany is for Smith, against Roosevelt. Smith is an old Tammany man, but he has fought Tammany, and often worsted it, and is by no means one of its heroes. It was Tammany, indeed, which, taking quiet revenge against him, lost Smith New York in 1928.

If Smith could make peace with the Wigwam (Tammany) and capture New York's delegation, and if he could add to this Massachusetts and some other New England States, he would be in a position to block Roosevelt for a time, might secure a compromise candidate. If, on the other hand, Tammany decides that it had better be on the side of the big battalions, and take no change on losing patronage, thus throwing its weight on the side of Roosevelt, then Smith is lost. His support would dwindle to a faction.

But Smith is a crafty warrior, is immensely popular, is the most spectacular figure in his party. This, added to the fact that Raskob, who controls the party's war chest, is on his side, makes his enmity toward Roosevelt a potent thing, dangerous.

Canada, of course, is inerested in the outcome. This country cannot but be affected by the policies of United States parties and administrations; and with the Republicans facing a hard fight, the policies of a Democratic party and of a Democratic presidential candidate are of Canadian concern.

Smith, for example, came out on Wednesday night for a 20-year postponement of all war debts, which is certainly a most challenging policy. And he added that he would have the United States write off each year 2 per cent. of the gross value of American products bought by foreign countries.

Taken all in all, the coming year promises to yield tremendous events. Elections in Germany and France; elections in the United States; the Imperial Economic Conference; the issue of disarmament and of reparations and war debts to be resolved in some fashion—all these and a multiplicity of other issues and problems all pressing for solution certainly make these among the most stirring of all times.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Judging by the amount of correspondence those Madawaska negotiations must have been a good thing for the postal revenues.

"Canada has enough Government departments now, enough financial burdens, and enough beaucracy without going socialist on the radio question," remarks the Financial Post.

Perhaps the C.N.R. directors overlooked Sir Henry Thornton's income tax. They might have arranged to pay that for him, too.

It is complained that Governments are slow in paying their bills. It must be admitted, however, that they usually show no lack of speed in making their collections.

NO ROAD INSPECTOR

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—A short time ago the columns of your valuable paper showed the different salaries of our city employees.

Allow me to ask through your valuable column who is our city road inspector at $1,700 per year. All other names were given but his and many are at a loss, not knowing our city road inspector's name.

Thanking you, for this space and waiting to see our road inspector's name in your column.

Yours truly,
Le Mol.

(Ed.)—A mistake was made in the list given The Examiner. There is no such position in the city and in the estimates of the Board of Works this year no money was set aside for such an official.

BEST LOOKING FISH.

Customer: "I don't like the looks of that haddock."

Fish Dealer: "Lady, if it's looks you're after, why don't you buy a goldfish?"

STOPPED QUICKLY.

A very careful driver approached a railroad crossing. He stopped, looked and listened very carefully. All he heard was the car behind him hitting his gas tank.— Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

OBSERVANT.

Uncle was testing his small nephew's knowledge.

"Jack," he asked, "what does A B C spell?"

"Nothing," was the reply.

"What does L M N spell?" was Uncle's next question.

"Nothing," was Jack's answer.

Jack's smaller sister, who had been an interested listener, then spoke.

"It seems to me that there are lots of ways of spelling nothing," she said.—Children's Newspaper.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, April 22. — Country shippers were quoted lower prices for eggs yesterday by local buyers, as storing did not improve to any extent and Western supplies continued to be offered. The market was weak and brokers were forced to let storage packed eggs go at prices considerably lower than previously, and also make a substantial reduction in the price for ordinary packed, graded eggs. Prices to retailers were steady, but will be lower on Friday.

Country shippers were quoted 13c for extras, 11c for firsts and 9c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned. Brokers were quoting ordinary packed graded eggs at 14c to 15c for extras, 12c to 13c for firsts and 9c for seconds, with storage packed eggs at 15½c for extras and 13½c for firsts. Prices to retailers were 20c for extras in cartons, 18c for extras loose, 16c for firsts loose, and 14c for seconds loose.

Butter

Trade was slow on the butter market and prices were steady to easier at 19c to 19½c for No .1 creamery solids and 18c to 18½c for No. 2. Western butter was offered on spot at 19½c.

Cream

Cream was quoted at lower levels, a new range, being steady to easier. Local buyers offered 20c to 21c for special, 19c to 20c for No. 1, and 16c to 17c for No. 2 f.o.b. country points.

Cheese

Cheese was firmer at the top of the previous spread in prices. Brokers quoted new large at 10¼c, new twins at 10¾c and new triplets at 11c. Prices to retailers were steady at 12c for new large, 12¼c for twins, 12½c for triplets and 14½c for stiltons.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 22.—Butter, cheese and egg prices again slipped lower on the produce and dairy market here yesterday. Potato quotations held unchanged.

With prices seeking an export level demand slow and production increasing, No. 1 fresh and regraded butter, in carlots or less, sold at 17½c to 18c a pound, 1c to 1¼c below yesterday's closing quotations. Receipts were 918 boxes.

Graded Eggs

Ontario graded fresh eggs, in carlots or broken lots, were down, extras at 16c to 17c and firsts at 14c to 15c, being off 1c, while second at 12½c a dozen were ½c lower. Only small quantities of Prairie eggs are available. Quotations to retailers of fresh eggs, in cartons, lost 1c, specials being quoted at 23c to 24c, extras at 22c to 23c, firsts at 20c to 21c, and seconds at 18c to 19c a dozen. Receipts were 1,731 cases.

Current cheese declined ¼c at 10c to 10¼c a pound, while summer make held firm at 12c to 12½c a pound. It is expected that the first cheese export shipments will leave here this week for Europe. Receipts were 223 boxes.

Potatoes Are Steady

The potato market was steady, new No. 1 Floridas, per 150-lb. net, barrel, being quoted at $8.50 to $9, with No. 2 brand at $7. Quotations of old potatoes, in broken lots, per 80-lb. bag were 30c to 40c for Quebec Whites, and 40c to 45c for Quebec and New Brunswick Green Mountains. Carlot prices were 10c a bag cheaper than broken lot levels.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 22. — Reports that $100,000,000 of finance reconstruction funds would be diverted to facilitate wheat and cotton exports had a bullish effect on grain prices yesterday.

Another strengthening influence was an unofficial estimate that Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Oklahoma, and Colorado would produce only 169,000,000 bushels of wheat this season as against 444,000,000 in 1931, and 272,000,000 in a five-year average, 1924 to 1928. Talk prevailed also that liquidating sales of May holdings of grain were about over, and that the wheat market would respond more readily to crop damage news in the future.

Gains Are Small.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅜c to ¾c higher than Wednesday's finish; corn, ¾c off to ½ to ⅝ up; oats, ¼c to ½c advance; and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, April 22. — Reports that financial arrangements would be made with the United States Government to handle sales of Farm Board wheat, and a bullish unofficial summary of crop conditions in South-western States offset a lack of export trade, and grain prices closed fractionally higher here yesterday.

May closed ⅝c higher at 63⅜c; July ½c higher at 65½c; and October, ⅝c higher at 67⅜c to 67¼c.

Trade throughout was light. Unsettled weather prospects tended to make traders cautious. Broomhall states that demand for Canadian wheat continues active, but other exporting countries report less active buying.

Indifferent demand continues to feature the cash wheat and coarse grain sections of the market, with prices easing slightly in the former to unchanged for the latter.
